WATER BOARD CHANGES SEEN

Delay Action On Donation

A reformation of the DAMP Water Commission (Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine) may be in the air, and on that basis Arlington Heights has put off any new financial contributions to the group.

Trustee Eugene Schlickman reported to the village board Monday that William T. Mott, chairman of the water commission, had requested contribution of $1,000 from each member village.

He recommended that this contribution be considered as an alternate to a proposed independent study by the village on possibilities for future acquisition of a Lake Michigan water supply.

Des Plaines is now in the process of connecting to the Chicago municipal water supply to thwart possibility of a critical water shortage within the next two summers.

MOTT EXPLAINED in a letter to all village presidents that, keyed on Des Plaines' independent action, the commission is looking for new "charter" members with water needs similar to the three remaining villages. All have indicated they will have an adequate supply of water for about five years.

Trustee Bud Beachman raised the possibility at Monday's meeting that municipalities joining the commission as new charter members could contribute proportionate shares of the amount expended in the past for data and engineering studies which would benefit both old and new commission members.

This would put money in the water commission's account, now standing at $200, without requiring the $1,000 donation from old commission members, Beacham theorized.

THE MATTER of a donation was referred to the finance committee to await the outcome of proposals for new municipal membership in the commission on a pay-your-way basis.

Other communities which Mott has mentioned for possible membership are Wheeling, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village and Buffalo Grove.

Mott's letter to Village Pres. John G. Woods indicated the commission has decided, since water need is no longer considered immediate, to concentrate effort on securing data on water supply, alternate routes, current cost, and water table figures for member municipalities.

The commissioners reaffirmed their belief that "notwithstanding Des Plaines' decision, the ultimate water solution for the northwest area suburbs was a primary water supply provided by a water commission such as the DAMP Water Commission."

THE COMMISSION was near an agreement with Chicago for connection into the municipal system and Lake Michigan water when Des Plaines decided to make a similar connection outside commission auspices.

A previous plan, which still has village preference, was for a direct pipeline to Lake Michigan, constructed by the commission.

Candidates Tell Views

Grade School Board Vote Saturday

Four candidates are in the running to fill three vacant posts on the Arlington Heights District 25 school board in the April 11 board election.

At the same polling places, open from noon to 7 p. m., registered residents will also be able to vote for three open positions on the Arlington High School 214 board. (Interviews with these board candidates will be found on an inside page.)

CANDIDATES in the elementary district election are incumbent Charles O. Bennett, 111 S. Drury Lane; Robert Bukowski, 810 N. Dunton Ave.; Howard H. Sjogren, 1802 N. Walnut Ave., and Charles H. Raths, 1726 N. Patton Ave.

Bennett, Bukowski and Sjogren form the 1964 school caucus slate, opposed by Raths, running as an independent.

Here are the standard questions used in interviews with each candidate, and the replies of each, paraphrased and shortened to permit fair display.

1. How do you feel your profession or professional training will aid you, if at all, in school board matters?
2. Do you feel it is the place of the school board to question teaching methods and materials, or simply to follow the recommendations of the superintendent and watch finances?
3. Do you feel that enough, too much, or not enough money is being spent for education in the district?
4. Are facilities adequate, including the building program now in progress, or are there inadequacies within the established schools?
5. Do you feel that the district should continue its trend toward special education provisions and social services?
6. What inadequacies, if any, do you see in the present school setup?
7. Do you feel that the board is over-using or under-using its authority in any areas?
8. Have you attended any school board meetings?
9. Do you seek to change the board's method of operation?
10. Why are you running for the board?

Sees Growth Challenge

Charles O. Bennett, a member of the village's plan commission, calls his experience on that body "extremely valuable to the board." He said one of the major problems of the foreseeable future is going to be planning for the time at which school enrollment reaches its peak on the crest of village development.

In the area of teaching materials and methods, "You must set basic policy," he said. "I think you rely on your superintendent to come forward with suggestions, but whether or not you accept them is up to the board.

"WHETHER YOU are spending too much money is relative to the amount of money you've got to spend. We are working within our means, and we're doing a very good job.

CHARLES O. BENNETT

"As of next fall, if all goes well, we're in good shape facility-wise. This isn't going to last very long—at the most one school term.

"I don't know that special education is a trend," Bennett said. "We have to concern ourselves, but I don't think we should ever get to the point of being more concerned about the special case than the majority.

"The whole system was set up to provide education for the multitudes.

"I DON'T THINK there are many gross inadequacies in the system, but I wouldn't go to a board meeting if I didn't think that some of these things (inadequacies) might be taken care of.

"In times past, the board has transferred responsibilities to the administration that possibly are properly or were originally vested in the board as representatives of the community.

"We sometimes feel that we should be deciding an issue and we find that we are stepping on the administration's toes.

"I think I've made a contribution or two over the past three years," Bennett concluded in his reasons for seeking re-election. "It has been a very stimulating experience, and I think I can continue to contribute."

Finance Is Top Problem

"Probably at least 50 per cent of any problem in the school board can be reduced to financial terms," according to Robert H. Bukowski. He calls his work in analysis and study of financial problems an asset.

He also listed his background of four years as a village trustee as valuable in coming to the school board.

But on the board, Bukowski said, "Each member has the responsibility for familiarizing himself with the overall operation of the school system. He is responsible not to the superintendent but to the electorate.

"He is there to devote his energy to production of a facility which will give maximum educational opportunity to all. This includes responsibility to question or oppose editorial policy he feels is wrong."

ON FINANCES: "There is a point after which expenditure of money yields diminishing return. Pure money will not necessarily buy a good education. It is more a question of whether we are getting good value for the money we're spending. I think we are, but that doesn't mean we can't do better.

"In general school facilities giving effect to the recently approved building program do a good job of meeting the immediate needs to the best of the ability of available resources, but I don't think good education can be equated with facilities.

"I think it is important that the school district continue to adapt to the needs of the community," Bukowski answered on special education. "As long as we have a need that can be economically met, this is the proper function of the school system.

HE FOUND THAT, looking from the outside, "When it comes to criticizing inadequacies, I have none that I could indicate at this point. He has attended board meetings regularly since his selection as a candidate by the school caucus.

"There seems to be a pretty good balance that exists between the board and administration," Bukowski noted, "—one of mutual respect. I don't think I should set out to change actions on the board.

ROBERT H. BUKOWSKI

"I was asked to run by people whom I respect and admire. I have a deep interest in education that stems in part from four children either through or going through the elementary system. I am interested in the art of government in its various facets, and can arrange for the time to take part.

Education Costs Money

"I think my professional training certainly would aid me," said Howard J. Sjogren. "I was a classroom teacher, coach and administrator, although some time ago, in the Nebraska system."

Presently the assistant manager of an insurance group, he found similarity with board duties both in hiring employees and keeping expenses in line.

"There is a pretty fine line between legislative and administrative responsibility of the school board, but their job should certainly be more than just watching finances. It is necessary that they follow the recommendation of the superintendent, but only from an analytical standpoint.

"I CAN NEVER believe too much money is being spent for education. It may be a question as to how it is being spent, though I am not personally questioning the expenditures.

"I know of no present inadequacies in the educational system, but then I am very much a layman in Arlington Heights," Sjogren said. He also said the physical setup seems adequate.

"From an observational standpoint, the board seems to have been doing what they were elected to do. My running is not because I have any axes to grind.

HOWARD J. SJOGREN

"From what I know about this board's operation I would have no reason to seek changes," Sjogren said. "If it can be shown to me logically that what they have been doing has been working to their success, I will continue in that line.

"My running goes back to a strong belief in educating all, whether they be average, retarded, or gifted children. The system should bring out the best in all.

"The problem goes back to whether you are willing to devote time to do what needs to be done," he concluded.

Raps Apathy Of Citizens

The school board is a board of directors, according to Charles H. Raths, and the more it can draw on the background of members, the better it will be.

Raths, a registered professional structural engineer, feels his experience would be valuable in communicating with contractors and architects in the construction of schools.

"I do not believe it is the function of the school board to teach the children per se," he said. "The administration must oversee the daily operation of the schools and curriculum, and carry through the policies of the board.

"I DON'T THINK any member of the board is in a position to say 'this is the book.' We have to depend on the recommendations of teachers and administrators.

"We could always spend more money on education," Raths answered on the funds question. "It depends on what the citizens feel they can afford.

"I think the greatest challenge we as citizens and board members face is really adequate education for the gifted, handicapped and retarded. The more and higher quality each of us receive, the better citizens we will be today and tomorrow.

"One inadequacy of the educational system is the matter of public relations. We have to let the citizens really know what our goals and aims are. If we establish rapport with the people, we will find a lot more interest and a better climate for education."

RATHS SAID HE would have to be on the school board to answer whether the board is over-using or under-using its authority. He has been to two school board meetings within the past four months, but added he does not feel the average citizen should have to attend the meetings.

"I feel that if the citizens are going to have an interest in our educational programs they should also have an interest in voting in the elections," Raths said.

CHARLES H. RATHS

"If only three candidates run for three positions, I think the result is apathy. Citizens are not showing as much interest as they should.

"To the best of my knowledge, I know of no other engineers on the school board. The building program takes such a big chunk of our tax dollar, I think we should have one on the board as a watchdog over expenditures.

"I believe education is the most important thing that we as adults are facing, and would like to do all I can to further it."

Same Precincts for Both School Votes

Polling precincts for the April 11 school board vote in Arlington Heights will coincide with attendance boundaries for K-5 elementary schools, with polling places in those schools.

Both elementary and high school board balloting will be at the eight K-5 schools, with polls opening at noon and remaining open until 7 p.m.

Schools included are: Dryden, North, Ridge, Park, Dunton, Westgate, Wilson and Windsor.

TRUSTEE SCHLICKMAN receives plaque of commendation from Norval Stephens after presiding over his last village board meeting.

Schlickman Ends Trustee Career in Prexy's Chair

Trustee Eugene F. Schlickman took the president's seat for his last village board meeting in Arlington Heights Monday, with the best wishes of Village Pres. John G. Woods.

Woods, called out of town on business and forced to miss a meeting for the first time in his term of office, left a letter for the board recommending that Schlickman be appointed president pro-tem.

The senior trustee had announced his coming resignation by letter two weeks ago.

By unanimous vote, board members put him in the president's chair, and a typically long agenda shrank away with a speed seldom seen.

His actions, somewhat more abrupt and ordered than Woods', were caught up by the remainder of the board in brief discussion, few asides, and time limits to appearances before the board.

As Schlickman closed the meeting, he brought up the matter of his own resignation, made effective on the return of the village president by a unanimous, but "regretful" vote.

TRUSTEE NORVAL Stephens then read a framed resolution of commendation stating in part, that "because of Eugene F. Schlickman, Arlington Heights has become a better place in which to live."

In tendering his resignation, Schlickman read a statement to the board (see separate story this page), noting that his period of five years on the board had served as an education and training. "I would not trade it for my four years of college," he said.

After all official presentations, he was invited to a testimonial dinner by the board members, but Trustee Bud Beacham told him, "We have not yet been able to settle on a day."

The board also approved mailing of all village minutes and agendas to the retiring trustee for a year without charge.

Schlickmann expressed his appreciation and commented, "I'll keep up."

Reviews His 5-Year Record

The following is a prepared text of remarks made by Trustee Eugene F. Schlickmann to the village board Monday upon his resignation:

"Five years ago I came onto this Board reputedly as the youngest Trustee to be elected up until then. Tonight I leave as the senior member.

"This period has served as an education and training for me. I would not trade it for my four years of college.

"I have had the pleasure of associating with some of the finest people it shall ever be my privilege knowing.

"During the past five years I served in three village halls, under three village presidents, with 12 village trustees, two village clerks and innumerable Paddock reporters. And throughout this time—I maintained—or was sustained—by one and the same wife. God bless her.

"WHAT DID I contribute? What did I accomplish?

"1. A ceiling on the working cash fund.

"2. A properly financed municipal building.

"3. A citizens committee to promote the approval of the municipal building.

"4. Written committee reports and the re-establishment of standing committees.

"5. A stop sign policy.

"6. An increase in trustees' salaries for future generations.

"7. Boundary line discussions with neighboring communities.

"8. A reasonable Oakton Street.

"9. The solidification of the village manager's position—believe it or not.

"10. The upgrading of apartment standards.

"11. The initial suggestion for adoption of the budget before the beginning of the fiscal year.

"12. The success of the Caucus in three elections.

"13. A reputation for integrity and dedication to public service, for which I am most grateful.

"I REMEMBER well — and shall never forget—the memory of Ed Carlisle, the bells of a nearby church, delinquent water bills, Stan Ptak's garden, hotel fires (a trustee's life can be dangerous), and how on occasion I would wonder how a majority of the Board could be so wrong.

"I have had the opportunity of seeing this village grow to a size larger than many state capitols. I have witnessed the functioning of the best administered and operating municipal departments in the whole metropolitan area. For example, our police and fire forces are superb. Public works has no peer. I thank each and every village employe.

"Major contributions to the planned and orderly development of the Village were enacted during the five years I have been on the Board. Of course, they were inevitable—but due to Ed Carlisle, Harold Carlson, our village attorneys and many others, these necessary controls and facilities came sooner and perhaps sounder.

"THE PRINCIPAL disappointment I have is that as of this evening, we do not have a recodification of village ordinances. It is long overdue, and everyday without it causes less efficient and less effective village administration. This matter should become an issue and a challenge.

"I leave with no regrets. I leave the Board with Arlington Heights a better village—thanks to each of you and your predecessors."

'Music Man' Coming For Two-Night Stand

"The Music Man" is coming to town — to the Arlington High School boys' gym, April 17 and 18, with its famous "Seventy-Six Trombones" number and all the other songs that have made this one of the best-loved of all American musical comedies.

Ray Schmeiser will be starred in this melodic tunefest recalling small-town life of the early 1900's, that was written — all of it, book, lyrics, and music — by Meredith Willson. Ray will be singing, dancing and acting the role of "Prof." Harold Hili, the disarming swindler who spellbinds gullible townsfolk into starting a brass band, sells them instruments and uniforms and plans to skip town without teaching anybody how to play.

The musical's plot tells how this plan misfires in River City, Iowa, because the con man falls in love with a stand-offish librarian and can't bring himself to leave.

Dawn Nebel will play the role of Marian the librarian, and sing two of the show's most famous song-hits, "Good Night My Someone" and "My White Knight."

OTHERS IN the large cast, directed by Dave Lindeman, include Tom Ralph as Marian's lisping kid brother who sings the celebrated "Gary, Indiana"; Claudia Hansen as her mother; Steve Carns as the mayor of the town; and Dan Baughman, Jim Walton, Ed Federle and Ken Petrucci, who form the show's quartet, rendering ditties in barbershop style that have become almost as famous as the "Seventy-Six since "The Music Man" became a hit in late 1957.

The show's music will be under the direction of Boyd White and Fritz Schmoyer. It's exuberant dances are being choreographed by Diane Jaques and Rae Sander, and settings of a small town in President Taft's time are being designed by Jim Walker of the Arlington High School art department.

Park Pools to Use Photo-Ident Passes

This summer residents of the Arlington Heights Park District will be using photo-identification cards as admission passes to the swimming pools.

The Arlington Heights Park Board recently approved use of the cards to replace tags previously required for swimming pools.

The system has been used by a number of other park districts in the area and has proved to be a superior method of admission and control over many other different systems that have been tried, according to Bill Appleby, superintendent of recreation.

A number of reasons were stated as to why the change is being made—primarily to solve the problem of residents obtaining more passes than persons in their family, and in turn passing them on to non-resident friends and even other residents plus summer guests.

This action on the part of residents plus the falsifying of name and address by non-residents has caused overcrowding of the pools and recreation activities, Appleby said.

ANOTHER PROBLEM that Photo I. D. will eliminate is that of having to sew pool tags on the swimming suits. Swimmers will now be able to use as many different suits as they wish without taking their pass off of one suit and sewing it on another, he said.

A third point that was noted is that the picture I. D. gives a person a source of positive identification which very few people, especially children, possess.

The park district has set April 27 as the proposed date to start registration for summer activities and swimming pool passes.

Next week additional information on registration procedures will be given.

Stonegate Home Group's History Goes Back to '29

Another in a series of articles on the aims and activities of member organizations of the Arlington Heights Community Council.

Back in the late '20's a builder, H. Roy Berry, planned a housing development in Arlington Heights which would resemble in appearance an English village.

Christened Stonegate, this development was begun in 1928, and by the end of the next year 26 homes had been completed and occupied. The present Windsor Drive was dedicated as Tri-States Boulevard and was the planned route of an interstate highway.

With only 26 homes in the entire area, neighbors were as much as two or three blocks apart. Boundaries of the area, then as now, were Dryden on the west, Kensington on the north, Gibbons on the east and Northwest highway on the south.

As a means of regular social contact among the relatively few residents of this large area, the Stonegate Civic Association was organized in 1929.

For several years this group was relatively inactive; then in 1937 a problem of weeds arose and the group was reorganized to raise money for weed mowing during the summer months.

OFFICIAL meeting place of the association was the first building constructed in Stonegate. Situated at the intersection of Wilshire and Northwest Highway, this was known as the Stonegate Tavern.

Final reactivation of the Stonegate association occurred in 1953 when residents picked up the thread of the earlier reorganization and adopted a new set of bylaws.

Main objective of the Stonegate Civic Association is to maintain the character of its area. First test of this came in the 1950's when the first bi-level house was constructed in Stonegate. Prior to this only two-story homes could be built. The association filed a suit against the home and won; the money derived from the suit was donated to the Northwest Community Hospital.

Another successful battle was the prevention of the removal of a cement plant from the northwest side of the city to the abandoned village sewage site across the Northwest Highway from Stonegate. In this battle, numerous associations and individuals in adjoining, affected areas lent their support.

AMONG THE current projects of the Stonegate Civic Association are:

Annual sponsorship of a Cub Scout troop.

A unique Christmas party in which Santa Claus receives — not gives — gifts from Stonegate children for distribution to less fortunate children.

A Fourth of July ice cream social and street dance.

A pre-Lenten dinner dance.

A winter bridge tournament, from September to May, climaxed with a dinner dance and awarding of prizes.

Sponsorship of an entrant in the "Tip-Top Teen" contest.

Regular membership meetings are held three or four times a year with programs aimed at information on civic problems and projects, as well as general information for homeowners.

Membership is restricted to residents of the Stonegate area.

Quartets Join In Celebration

The Arlingtones, local chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., is joining the 30,000 members of SPEBSQSA in celebrating Harmony Week, the 26th anniversary of the organization of the society.

The Illinois District Convention and International Preliminary Quartet Contest was held at Joliet on April 3-4-5. The top three quartets will represent Illinois at the International Convention to be held at San Antonio in June. The fourth place quartet was named as an alternate if any of the three could not make it.

Two of the 19 competing quartets were from the ranks of the Arlingtones. The Roustabouts quartet includes Jack Musich, Jack Schuler, Dan Krebsbach and Gene Loughrin, all of Arlington Heights.

THE OTHER Arlingtones quartet competing was The Foursome, made up of Dick Reed, Skokie; Len Klaproth, Wheeling; Vern Dohe, Bensenville, and Bob Keck, Mount Prospect. The Foursome placed fifth in the contest, only one point out of fourth place.

Stan Myers of Arlington Heights and Milt Decker of Cary attended the House of Delegates meeting while Fred Tullar of Mount Prospect and Nolan Nelson of Hoffman Estates attended the PROBE (Public Relations Officers and Bulletin Editors) meeting at Joliet.

The Arlingtones and their quartets sang April 3, at the Annual Night of Harmony sponsored by the Mayfair Lions Club of Chicago.

The chorus and quartets have been selected to star at the annual Kenosha Chapter show being held at Kenosha, Wisconsin on April 11.

Kenosha is the home of Harmony Hall, International Headquarters of SPEBSQSA Inc. The chapter members have been invited to tour Harmony Hall and meet the international officers prior to the show.

Annual College Night Set for District 214

The annual Spring College Night for High School District 214 will be held at Forest View High School on Wednesday evening, April 15. This program will be for all of the juniors and their parents from Arlington, Forest View, and Prospect High Schools.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and last until 9:30 p.m. During the evening, juniors and their parents may visit with representatives of at least three different schools of their choice.

Approximately 150 colleges and universities, secretarial schools, schools of nursing, technical schools, and trade schools will be represented at College Night.

District 214 counselors in charge of College Night are Miss Leotta Hampton and David Lindemann at Arlington High School; Miss Mary Christie and Jack Emery at Prospect High School; and Mrs. Virginia Kercheval and Floyd Hillman at Forest View High School.

THIS WEEK juniors were given a list of the schools which will be present on College Night. This list will give them a chance to discuss with their parents the schools whose representatives they would like to see.

Parents will be given room and time schedules when they arrive at the school that night.

L. S. Jenness, principal of Forest View, suggests that those planning to attend should arrive early to avoid excessive traffic near the school. He also said that ample parking will be available and that parking attendants will assist in the handling of traffic.

Entrance to the school can be from either Golf or Algonquin roads.

This will be the only college night program presented this year.

Mrs. Adeline Bartell, a judge of election in Precinct 29 of Wheeling Township, which votes at Fairview School in Mount Prospect, this week reminded voters to bring their plastic registration cards with them on primary election day.

Mrs. Bartell said voters without the cards will have to vote by affidavit. She said also that the cards will be placed in a machine to check the registration.

IF A RED LIGHT blinks, the voter will be allowed to vote only by affidavit and if the green light blinks the voter will be allowed to vote.

She said "Please tell all the voters to remember their cards."

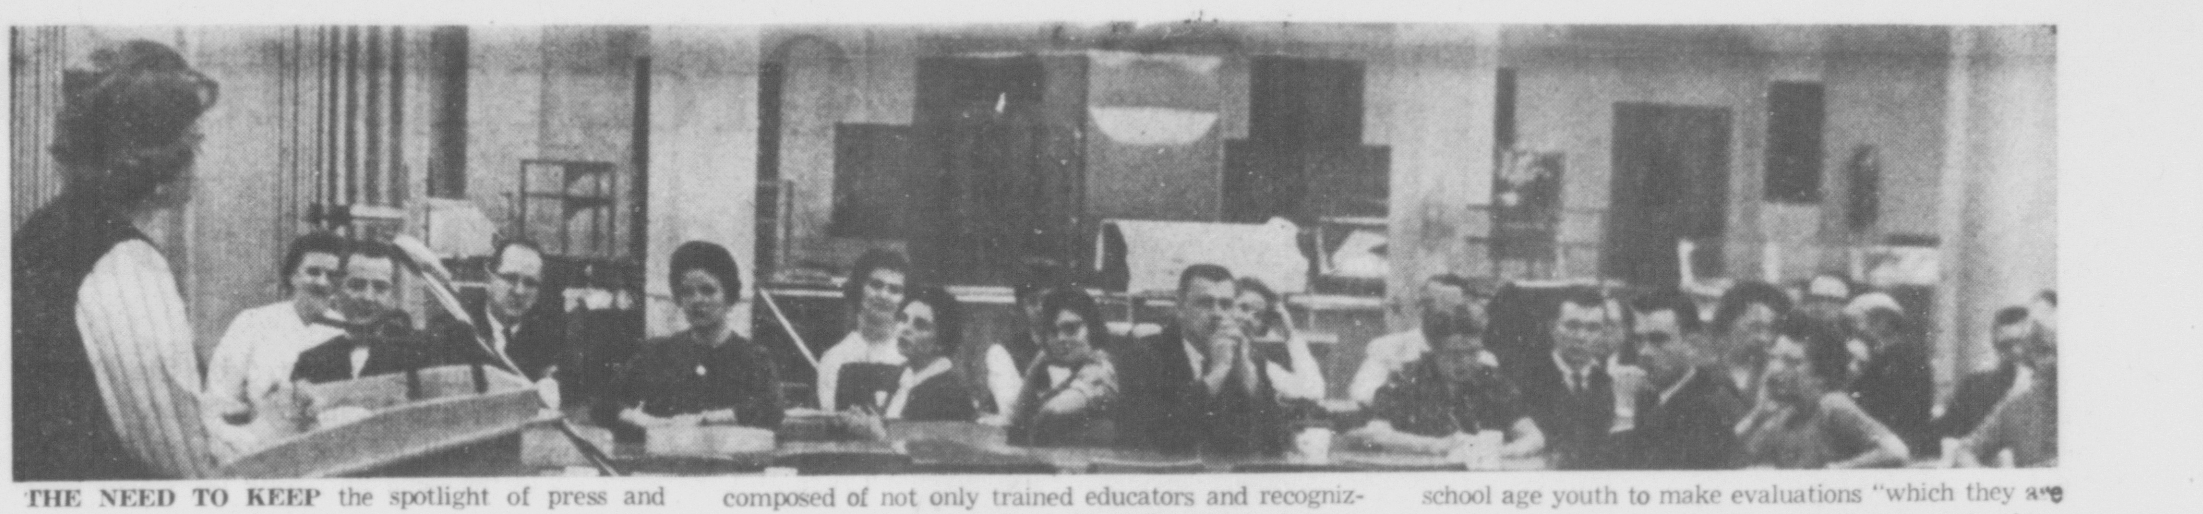
OPEN MONDAY AND THURSDAY EVENINGS



THE NEED TO KEEP the spotlight of press and teacher-public concern on the work of a state committee developing new social studies curricula guidelines was stressed by Paddock Publications Education Editor Helene Bristol to faculty members of Arlington High School this week. The state social studies committee, working under the state superintendent, includes a special subcommittee on comparative international political systems. The subcommittee is composed of not only trained educators and recognized authorities on such political systems but far-rightest civilian "experts" such as Illinois Sen. Paul Broyles, famed for his red "witch hunt" at the University of Chicago and sponsor of the state legislation which requires loyalty oaths of teachers and other public employees. Painting a slanted all "black and white" picture to students rather than allowing high-school age youth to make evaluations "which they are far more capable of making than most non-teachers believe," Mrs. Bristol urged the teachers to carefully watch the work of the committee, to make sure that the final result was not loyalty oaths for students to prove their acceptance of the rightist indoctrination but realistic suggestions for the betterment of the general study of social science. Airmen Chorus To Sing

The United States Army Air Defense Command Choral Group will present a limited-audience concert at 8 p.m. Friday, April 10, in the Arlington High School little theatre.

Primary mission of the 35-man group, operating out of ARADCOM headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., is entertaining personnel at far-flung Nike guided missile installations.

The chorus is being sponsored in its visit to Arlington Heights by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. Though the group makes no charge for its appearance, incidental expenses involved in the one-night stand are being handled by a group of 10 area residents who are participants in Operation Understanding with the Air Defense Command.

Approximately 300 tickets to fill the high school little theatre have been distributed to Arlington Heights residents and merchants.

The chorus, under direction of Sp. 4 Lawrence J. Parker, was lined up through the 45th Artillery Brigade, headquartered at the Nike site on Central Road in the southern portion of the village.

Candidates Speak To Township Demos

More than 300 men and women attended the April 1 joint meeting of the Men's and Women's Regular Democratic Organizations of Wheeling Township in honor of several Cook County party candidates.

James Stavros, Democratic committeeman, welcomed Joseph J. McDonough, clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County and Democratic candidate for that office; Bernard Peskin, state representative of the 6th District of Illinois; Vincent DePaul Garrity, vice president of the Cook County Sanitary District, and Valentine Janicki, both candidates for sanitary district trustee.

McDonough outlined the effect and the benefits of court reform under the unified Circuit Court of Cook County which he has experienced since he was appointed Circuit Court clerk by Chief Judge John Boyle.

HE NOTED that the responsibilities of the Wheeling Township branches of the court in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect are expected to be expanded under the administration of Judges Harold Sullivan and Herbert Stoffels. He explained that the clerk's offices in these two courts have been reorganized and expanded to give effective and prompt services to township residents.

Rep. Peskin spoke on the coming state conventions to select the at-large candidates for state representative and urged all Democrats to vote in the primary for the Democratic slate and to give Gov. Kerner and the Cook County candidates a large turnout on April 14.

Garrity introduced Janicki and called for the largest Democratic primary vote in Wheeling Township history. He commended Stavros' formation of a Young Democrats Organization and stated that volunteer groups such as this not only provided campaign help but future candidates.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Do you think it is in good taste for a receptionist to smoke at her desk?

A. This does not give a good impression of the company she is representing. A receptionist should look pleasant, act and talk pleasantly, and it's difficult to do these things while puffing away on a cigarette. She should reserve smoking for her rest periods while she is away from her desk.

Many Firms Give Parade Donations

The Arlington Heights Post 981, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has expressed its thanks to nearly 80 business and civic organizations in the village which have contributed to the "Memorial Day Fund" to finance the traditional parade May 30.

The parade has been financed primarily in past years by the VFW post, but members have indicated that the source of funds normally tapped was no longer available.

A village-wide campaign for contributions was kicked off with a donation from Post 891, and resulted in 78 group or commercial contributions.

Donation jars have been placed in stores and offices throughout the village as well.

Make Racial Visits

Area families will participate in the National Home Visit Day Sunday, April 19, sponsored by cooperating agencies working for interracial understanding.

The program, endorsed and supported by the Chicago Conference on Religion and Race, grew out of previous experiments by Friendship House of Chicago. It was planned by the United Church Women of Greater Chicago, United Temple Sisterhoods and Archdiocesian Council of Catholic Women.

It has been endorsed by the executive board of the Northwest Suburban Council on Human Relations as "an excellent means to establish communications with those of other races and religions. All who are able are urged to take part."

The purpose of the visits is to bring people of good will together in a social setting to discuss the things that unite and the things that divide them.

COUPLES OR families who wish to be hosts or guests to those of another race or creed give their names to a local chairman, and the names are paired with those obtained by cooperating agencies.

Some of the local participating families in the last Home Visit in November were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tierney, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Leighton, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wolfinger and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, all of Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. William Kvininen, Mr. and Mrs. William Newcomb, Mr. and Mrs. William Pohlinger, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shaler and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wheelock, all of Mount Prospect.

Anyone interested in participating in the program who does not have contact through his own church's social action department, may contact Mrs. Charles Baker, 19 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, CL 3-6567. Deadline is Sunday, April 12.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

The holiday spirit carried over into the events of last week due, in many cases, to the fact that Terrace school children were enjoying their spring recess.

Le Roy and Velma Leister and children, Marsha, Eddie, Delores and Sharon, 1440 N. Yale, returned Saturday from an eight-day tour of the east. Highlights included a tour of Gettysburg, sightseeing in Washington D.C., exploring the wonders of New York City and visiting Niagara Falls. They also visited friends in Philadelphia and New York City.

Going to Florida for their spring vacation were Ray and Vaneta Kellogg and children, Whitney and Jean, 1341 N. Wilke, who left for St. Petersburg on March 26 and returned home Saturday. They stayed with Ray's mother, Mrs. R. C. Kellogg in Gulfport, just outside St. Petersburg, and also visited Ray's uncle, Richard Gray, and Vaneta's aunt and uncle, the Earl Hepkers. A tour of the Ringling home at Sarasota was one of the high points of their vacation.

HEADING west for their vacation were Virgil and Helen Marienau and children, Danny, Leonard and Timothy, 1334 N. Illinois. They went to Kearney, Neb., to visit Virgil's parents, the John Marienaus, and they also saw Virgil's four brothers and their families while in Nebraska. Saturday they returned home from the six-day vacation to brave the cold weather after enjoying the 80 degree temperatures in Kearney.

Saginaw, Mich., was the destination of Bill and Kay Platte and sons, Paul and Jimmy, 1318 N. Race, when they left home March 26. They spent Easter weekend with Kay's parents, the Martin Nuermingers. Bill returned home on Easter and Kay and the boys stayed the rest of the week with her parents, returning home by train on Friday. Kay also enjoyed visiting with her sister, Mrs. Earl Dunker of Freeland, near Saginaw.

Dick and Shelba Le Fort and daughter, Michelle, 1246 N. Yale, visited Shelba's parents, the Stanley Halleys, near Cameron, Ill., over the holidays. They left here March 27 and returned last Sunday. They also visited Dick's mother, Mrs. Birdie Le Fort in Monmouth. Since the Le Forts were former Galesburg residents, they also visited former acquaintances while on vacation.

A three-day visit in Des Moines was enjoyed by Jack and Elma Harmon and son, Bruce, 1430 N. Race, over Easter. They visited Elma's parents, the Fred Winettas.

A Monday visitor of Elma Harmon was Mrs. Ruth Seals of Centerville, Iowa.

TAYLORVILLE was the vacation spot of Jack and Helen Martin and children, Lori, Douglas and Beth, 1337 N. Chicago, over the Easter holiday. They visited Jack's grandparents, the Harmon Allisons. On Easter, there was a reunion of Jack's family. Twenty-three relatives attended.

Darrel and Francine Elder and son, Darin, 1334 N. Chicago, spent three days in Sullivan, visiting Darrell's parents, the Delmar Elders. Sunday Francine's parents, the P.F. Pools of Worth, visited the Elders.

Joining them was the grandmother, Mrs. Lemma Schick of Evanston. First stop was New Salem and a tour of the Lincoln lore. Vicksburg, Miss. and the Civil War battlegrounds, Natchez and a tour of the ante-bellum homes were next. George Pisors of E. Clarendon ended his Easter vacation visit with the family on Sunday, returning to classes at Milwaukee School of Engineering. Sister Marie, a student at St. Joseph Convent in Milwaukee, ended her five-day visit earlier in the week.

Spring vacationing from classes at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, Miss Janine Carlson of E. Clarendon celebrated her birthday with a family dinner party Friday evening. Joining them for the occasion at O'Hare's Seven Continents was her sister, Marilyn, just returning from a week's trip to Washington, D.C., with a group of Arlington students.

The Bill Smits family of N. Douglas spent Easter weekend with the grandparents, the senior William Smits in Green Bay.

MR. AND Mrs. Mel Kasen and daughter, Ann, of N. Haddow Court were guests of the Harry Ericksons in Sister Bay, Wis. for two days last week.

Mrs. Otto Shaw and the children, Nancy and Neil, of N. Belmont visited the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tornow of Northbrook, during school vacation last week. The family was saddened earlier in the month by the death of the grandfather, Mr. Otto Cschau.

Eight-year-old Craig Warman of N. State Road celebrated his birthday Saturday afternoon with his brothers and 16 neighborhood classmates and friends as guests at a cookout party in Deer Grove.

Also celebrating a birthday Saturday was 5-year-old Bobby Andres of N. Hickory. Games and the circus theme delighted Nancy Radcliffe, Valerie Averill, Bernadette Zaborowski, Jay Bonner, Scott Evans, Steve Jones and sister, Barbie. On Sunday, a second party included his grandparents, Mrs. Marie Andrews of Wilmette, the Frank Sarnos of Melrose Park and the Leonard Gienkos of Highland Park. (A

Question Debated In Northwest Area

(Second in a Series)

by HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

There's nothing louder than the sound of the closing college door — especially if it's mashed your toe as you tried to get inside.

This is the feeling of the Citizens Community College Committee (CCCC), backers of the northwest suburban community college proposal.

On the state level, the CCCC's concern is shared by the Illinois Board of Higher Education, which put forth a master plan for colleges March 3 of this year.

Strangely enough, that master plan has now become the club with which objectors are trying to smash the Northwest suburban junior college proposal.

Opposition to the proposal generally has an economic coloring and originates in the two eastern high school districts (Glenbrook 225 and Niles 219) that would form part of the tax base for the area junior college district.

Objectors in the other two high school districts, Arlington Heights 214 and Palatine 211, have either been less vocal or are relatively non-existent.

IN REGARD to the state plan, opponents say the Northwest suburban area should wait until it's implemented. The CCCC, however, maintains the district should form now and then join the state plan later, if and when it's approved by the legislature.

The main drawback in the CCCC's stand hinges on construction. The state plan, due to be released in a revisde form sometime this month, says in its present form:

"State and/or federal aid for new construction and major rehabilitation be 75 per cent of total cost for each building and campus site approved by the Junior College Board."

Translated into terms of the proposed junior college, this means the state plan would pay $5,565,000 of the $7,420,000 the CCCC estimates would be needed for the building and site in 1966-67.

AS JAMES MOORE, chairman of the Niles CCCC branch, says, "The long term bonded indebtedness is a question mark in the state plan. This would have to be explored at the Board of Higher Education hearings in May."

Moore hinted that the state board may allow existing junior college districts to have construction costs covered if they're incurred after the May hearings in the state plan.

Referring back to the March 3 state plan, however, this seems unlikely, since the board recommended: "The state will share only in the capital costs of new facilities approved by the Junior College Board after an existing institution has been accepted into the system under this provision."

Moore, however, listed another alternative. Simply put, this would be to go ahead with the referendum on the district and then wait before taking on bonded indebtedness until the legislature has a chance to act on the state plan.

IF THE STATE plan then made its way through the legislature, then the area could go ahead with its vote on a bond issue.

What the CCCC doesn't want to do, however, is wait. They see the need to establish the district as being immediate, maintaining that the legislature could turn a deaf ear to the state plan and cause the Northwest movement to suffer a setback that may prove even more costly with rising costs.

Objectors have also pointed out the state plan regarding operational costs of such a college district. If accepted into the planned state system, a junior college district would have to pay only 50 per cent of its operating costs, with the state taking on the rest.

The CCCC, however, returns to its argument that valuable time would be wasted if the area were to wait until the state plan went into effect.

SINCE ECONOMICS forms such an important part of the proposed junior college proposal, here are some of its more important angles:

First, the tax rate called for in the petition for the referendum totals 16 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This is broken down to allow 12 cents per $100 for operation costs and four cents for building.

According to the 1959 law that allows formation of a junior college district, the maximum tax that can be levied in such a district is 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the educational fund and 10 cents per $100 for building.

Dr. Noble J. Puffer, Cook County Superintendent of Schools, clarified this further: "The maximum tax rate as listed in the petition is the maximum. If it's to be increased more than 16 cents, a referendum would have to be held."

REFERENDUMS, according to statute, could also raise the ceiling on the limitations to 75 cents per $100 assessed valuation for educational purposes and 17½ cents for building.

Regarding bonded indebtedness, the limitation is five per cent of the assessed valuation of the district, the same limitation that presently applies to school districts.

Statute also allows the state to provide $7.60 per semester hour completed per student or $228 per year for a student completing 30 semester hours.

The Illinois School Code also authorizes the junior college district to charge a student tuition not to exceed one-third of the student operating expense.

According to the CCCC estimates per student, this means an enrollee could be charged $333 in tuition. The CCCC, however, estimates tuition for the junior college at $200 per student.

ON BARGAIN TV SERVICES

by ED LANDWEHR

Customers have asked at Landwehr TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights how it's possible for some TV Repair men to advertise such low cost service calls. Often, the obvious cost of driving the TV truck to the home is more than the service call price.

Some TV men use rebranded and used tubes in attracting customers who don't know that you don't get something for nothing. The bargain service call must be made up some way so he cuts down on tube costs. You assume that you're paying for quality, first line tubes but you don't get them. Over a period of time, you call him more often and buy more tubes. Actually, your TV maintenance is higher in the long run.

Phone CLearbrook 5-0700 for electronic services and let us show you the difference. You'll like our way of doing business better. We guarantee it.

$4.6 Million Expansion Planned by Hospital

A $4.6 million program to expand Lutheran General Hospital, 1775 Dempster St., Park Ridge, has been announced by the hospital's board of trustees.

The expansion will increase the hospital to 519 beds and greatly expand the outpatient department and ancillary services.

Construction is expected to start this summer with completion scheduled by the end of 1965, according to Dr. N. M. Nesset, president of the board of trustees of Lutheran General and Deaconess Hospitals.

Dr. Nesset explained that tremendous pressure on present facilities necessitated the expansion which has received the approval of the Hospital Planning Council for Metropolitan Chicago.

PLANS CALL for three stories on the present seven-story building and a five-story addition to the west of the hospital.

Present size of the hospital is 316 beds. The expansion will increase medical-surgical beds from 204 to 297 and psychiatric beds from 35 to 81. New features will be a 23 bed intensive care area and a 46 bed chronic care unit.

"Because of high usage, Lutheran General has been operating as high as 110 per cent capacity in psychiatric and over 100 per cent capacity in medical-surgical beds," Dr. Nesset noted. "The intensive care beds and chronic care beds are services which are greatly needed for the area."

A feature of the expansion will be an outpatient department of almost 17,000 square feet. Included in this area will be examining rooms, diagnostic areas, laboratories, X-ray, and minor surgical facilities.

THE EXPANSION will also include a doubling of the present emergency department.

Also included in the expansion will be increasing the lobby to four times its present size, a new admitting area with private waiting room, increasing the size of physical therapy and X-ray, a new medical records library and additional administrative and business offices.

Other areas to be expanded include dietary kitchens, employe cafeteria, Service League quarters, library and lounge for physicians, gift shop and research areas. Seven more elevators will be added in the two buildings.

Parking for an additional 250 cars will be constructed. Additional boilers and air conditioning equipment also will be added.

"OUR PRESENT building was constructed with expansion in mind. This means that we will have to do practically no remodeling of existing facilities," Dr. Nesset said.

Lutheran General opened in January, 1960. Since then, over 140,000 people have been served by the hospital as inpatients, emergencies and outpatients. Over 10,000 babies have been delivered.

Funds for the expansion are expected to be received from Federal grants, funds on hand, mortgages and a community fund drive. Details of the fund drive will be announced later.

Families Without Measles Hold to Social Schedules

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

THURS., APR. 9, 1964

It's blossom time again, and measles are blooming brightly in many local homes. Although the speckled pip cancelled several spring vacation trips and postponed a few birthday celebrations, it didn't affect the immunity set who traveled and partied on schedule. Luckily for the Sidelight column there are more healthy families in town than contagious ones, and there are quite a few with new Florida tans.

Besides being handy for traveling or breaking out in a rash, spring vacations are equally convenient for taking leave of one's tonsils. Two on the ice cream circuit last week were Jim and Scott Letzel, 1237 N. Chestnut, who enjoyed jillions of get-well cards from neighborhood friends, and a clinical "bon voyage" party Easter Day.

After the big family farewell in their honor on the holiday, the boys could hardly announce any last - minute change of plans, so off they went Monday and out they (the tonsils) came Tuesday. Jim and Scott are recuperating well and will be back in school soon.

THE HOWARD Hansen family, 730 S. Mitchell, was recently complete with Grandma, collegiate son, and a brother and his family, here to spend the holiday weekend and witness an Easter confirmation. Among the transient Hansens were Howard's brother, Melvin, and his family, who arrived from Minneapolis with Grandma Hansen, also of that city.

Joining the traffic jam on the welcome mat was the local Hansens' son, Bob, home for the spring vacation week from William Penn University in Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Easter Day Miss Barbara was among the 106 new communicants received into the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights. Following the family celebration after church and despite the temptation to be snow-bound here, the Minneapolis branch of the family headed for home. Bob remained for the rest of the week, returning to the Iowa campus Sunday night. This week there's hardly enough Hansens to go 'round at 730 S. Mitchell.

Mrs. James Bieser and the children came home to 815 W. George Sunday evening after spending the spring vacation week with the children's grandparents in downstate Brighton and Centralia. They visited Mrs. Bieser's parents, the Byron Towses of Brighton, the first part of the week, then finished the vacation time with the senior Biesers in Centralia.

THE JUNIOR William Kopplins, 410 W. Wing, the senior William Kopplins, 515 W. Euclid, and the junior - junior Bill Kopplin of the Wing Street address combined efforts to raise a bit of local dust last Wednesday. In the morning young Bill, ending a 5-day Easter vacation from The Citadel in South Carolina, farewelled his parents who that evening welcomed his grandparents home from their winter-long stay in Youngtown, Ariz.

The description, "tall, erect certainly applies to Bill, but it and with a military bearing" fits his Grandpa Kopplin just as well. The family isn't confused, though; Grandpa's the one in the 10-gallon hat. He adopted the Western bonnet early in his Arizona stay, the two are now inseparable, and they must have been appropriate during Sunday's 10-gallon rain.

The James Yates family, 903 N. Vail, came home last Monday evening from an Easter weekend visit in Fling, Mich., with Mrs. Yates' sister and brother - in - law, the William Morrisseys. With them was Mrs. Yates' and Mrs. Morrissey's mother, Mrs. George Zachariasen of Elm Grove, Wis., with whom the Yates had spent the Palm Sunday weekend. She remained in Flint for a longer stay with the Morrisseys when her Arlington Heights children left for home.

Waiting for the rest of the family at 903 N. Vail was Sue, a freshman in the University of Wisconsin, who was beginning her Easter week vacation. She returned to Madison Sunday.

EXHAUSTIVE research has turned up one Arlington Heights family who admit to being overjoyed with the local Easter snow storm. They are the Dayton Browns, 603 N. Forrest, who were sunning in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., at the time. Neighbors and other chilled friends of the Browns had their semi-sweet revenge Sunday evening when the vacationers returned home to weather almost as disagreeable as Easter's.

The Brown family, now a tan family after two weeks in the Sunshine State, detoured to Tampa to spend the last few days in Florida with the senior Browns at Long Boat Key.

Lisa Perschbacher came home to 310 N. Derbyshire Monday night from an Easter week vacation in suburban Fort Lauderdale with her grandmother, Mrs. B. Larsen. While Lisa was enjoying capital weather in Florida, her brother, Rex, was enjoying everything but the capital's weather in Washington, D. C. where a group of Arlington High School seniors spent their spring vacation.

Another Florida fan is Mrs. Agnes Day, who makes her home with her daughter and family, the Arthur Langerocks, 414 N. Haddow. Mrs. Day is enjoying an extended stay in Miami Shores with long-time friends and former schoolmates. During her visit she has had reunions with other school friends, too, and at a recent party there were eight one-time grammar school "kids" reminiscing together. It might have been a record — these "kids" were in school with each other 57 years ago!

THE LOUIS Schomburg family, 305 S. Evergreen, spent the past weekend campus-touring at Bradley University and Western Illinois University. Lynne, next year's college freshman of the Schomburg family, is still undecided, but decidedly in favor of higher education.

An Easter Sunday celebration with lots of friends and relatives brought birthday congratulations to the host, Kurt Meyer, 705 N. Vail, and to two of his children, Pam and Kenneth, all with early April birthdyas. Pam was 11 Monday, Kenneth was 14 Sunday and their Dad was non-commital April 2.

There's consecutive April birthdays in the Edwin Bublitz family, too, and a family party Thursday night at 108 S. Evergreen brought congratulations to a wide-eyed David, celebrating his first birthday, and to his big brother, Kenneth, who was 15 years old next day. Among party guests were the children's grandparents, the Arthur Papes of Palatine, and uncles, Hans and Charles Johnson, here from Chicago with their families.

FRIDAY NIGHT Grandpa and Grandma Pape came back again for a Kenny-only celebration. David didn't mind; he was still a little tired from the night before.

A pair of late March birthdays in the Albert Goeppinger family, 416 S. Dale, were not celebrated at a single party although Terry's Dad would most certainly have been welcome at her giggle fest with 10 school and neighborhood friends. The girls enjoyed a Saturday afternoon celebration of Terry's March 23 birthday. It was her sixth.

A week and a day later Terry's Dad marked his somethingth birthday at a dinner-out party.

Joan Pagliai celebrated her eighth birthday March 24 with eight school friends at a late afternoon party in her home, 442 S. Kennicott. Almost as her young guests went out the door at party's end, Joan's grandparents came in to begin part two of the celebration. Here from Elmwood Park were the George Piemonts, joining the senior Pagliais from Chicago in wishing Joan a happy day.

MANY Stonegate and Scarsdale families went south with their children during spring Christys, 505 S. Belmont, and school vacation. The Lowell F. Christys, 505 S. Belmont and son, Lowell Jr., vacationed for eight days on Dauphin Island, Alabama, and en route home, stopped in St. Louis to visit their daughter, Linda.

The J. Brown Hardisons, 347 Burton, and daughter Linda, left March 23, for Daytona Beach, where they met their elder daughter, Linda, a Wittenberg College student. Daytona was one of the favorite vacation spots for college students, and the Hardisons enjoyed meeting many of the Wittenberg classmates of their daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Wilkins, 751 S. Belmont, are just back from a month's stay in the Boca Raton hotel. During Easter week, they went to Nassau to be with her daughter, Barbara Langos, who was there with friends during her spring vacation from Pinecrest Preparatory school in Fort Lauderdale.

While they were away, Mrs. Wilkins learned her elder son, Alfred, who recently took a position with Bauer and Black Company in Chicago, has been transferred to Bowling Green, Ky., for a 6-month period.

The Donald Meads, 509 S. Lincoln, and son, Donald, arrived home Monday from a 10-day vacation in Hallandale, Fla.

MISS PAT O'Connell, daughter of the Frank O'Connells, 516 S. Belmont, and two of her Arlington High School classmates, Miss Christine Thackery and Miss Jean Collins, spent spring vacation in Baltimore with Miss Thackery's sister and brother-in-law, the Terry Sandersons.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Knorr, 404 S. Bristol, took their three children, Mark, Janis and Bryce, on a 10-day motor trip to New Orleans and to Dauphin Island. While in New Orleans, they stayed in the Fontainebleau Hotel from where they took sightseeing trips through that historic city. At Dauphin Island, they golfed and visited the vacationing Christy family from Scarsdale who were there at the same time.

The John Sullivans, 211 S. Stratford, and their six children spent last week in St. Petersburg, Fla., where they visited their former Stonegate neighbor, Mrs. Polly Owen.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kramer, 1717 Kensington, and daughter, Susan, spent 10 days vacationing at the Fontainebleau in Miami Beach. While in Florida, Susan celebrated her 14th birthday at a gala party in the hotel's dining room. Joining her for her birthday party was an Arlington Heights friend, Pam Pokrita, who was vacationing in Florida with her parents.

THE ALFRED Wilcox family, 210 S. Brighton, prefer the ski slopes to the sea shore, and took off for Vail, Colo., where they found skiing conditions perfect with plenty of snow and lots of sunshine. Their children, George, Michelle and Gregory, accompanied them, and their eldest daughter, Joan, a Mills College student, came from California to join her family for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Glow, 603 S. Belmont, returned to Arlington Heights Friday after spending the winter in California. They lived in Pasadena during the four months they were in California, and enjoyed visits with their daughters and their families, both of whom live in California. Nita, who is Mrs. Clyde Brictson, lives in Los Angeles and Pricilla, who is Mrs. Edward Reading, lives in San Diego.

Before returning home, the week visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Swen Forsberg, 922 S. Beverly, and their children recently spent a long week-

Glows flew to Hawaii for a 2-end at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton.

The G. William Paines, 519 S Pine, spent the past five days in their former home town of Columbus, Ind., visiting Mr. and Mrs. Norbert E. Sprouse.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Gardner, 631 S. Lincoln, spent the weekend in Lagoda, Ind., at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Lyle Gardner. The senior Mrs. Gardner had just returned from a vacation in Phoenix and accompanied them back to her home.

MRS. ROBERT K. Tindall, 356 S. Beverly, took her children, Rick and Marcia, to Springfield, Mo. to spend a week visiting her brothers, R. P. Hardin and P. C. and Mrs. Hardin.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Styron, 305 S. Windsor, celebrated her birthday and their 22nd wedding anniversary Saturday with friends at a dinner party in their home.

Mrs. Nathaniel Irwin, 329 S. Stratford, and her daughters, Nancy and Marilyn, spent last week in Hampton, Iowa, visiting her parents, the H. V. Walsers.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lussow, 402 S. Gibbons, are home from a 2-week vacation in Florida where they divided their stay between Sarasota and Pompano Beach. While in Sarasota, they visited former Stonegate neighbors, the Chester Moores, and in Pompano Beach, were joined by their son, Fred, a student at Indiana University.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Auer, 202 S. Stratford, were in Champaign over the weekend, where Mr. Auer participated in the Elks State Bowling Tournament.

Notes from Arlington Acres

CLearbrook 5-2936

Mr. and Mrs. William Bayuk, 408 S. Forrest, were almost prophetic in choosing the time for a vacation in Florida. They left from O'Hare the Thursday before Easter and were basking in sunshine when their Arlington Acres neighbors were shoveling snow. Bill and Jean made their first stop Tampa, rented a car there and drove to Sarasota, where they stayed at the hotel which housed the White Sox. Their hopes to see a game weren't realized because of continuing rain, but Bill did get a chance to visit a friend who handles public relations for the ball club.

From Sarasota they drove across the state, with short stays at West Palm Springs and Pompano and stops of several days each at Fort Lauderdale and Miami, where Bill swam and Joan soaked up the sunshine.

The Bayuk children, Karen, David and Mark enjoyed their parents' "second honeymoon" staying with Grandma and Grandpa Niemz in Edgebrook.

ANOTHER AREA family back home after an Easter week vacation is that of the Dexter Ashbrooks, 416 S. Forrest, who crowded in a week of traveling and visiting without leaving the state. Time was spent with the senior Ashbrooks in Normal, with Marjorie's mother, Mrs. Earl Howell in Princeton, and with Dexter's brother, Jim in Washington. While the Easter egg hunt in Washington, D.C., was canceled because of snow, the people of Washington, Ill., are made of sterner stuff and the Easter egg hunt at the Jim Ashbrook home was simply moved indoors to the basement. The family returned home Sunday, in time for Janie and Susan to get back to school and Nancy to her pre-school playmates.

Scott Kunz, who marked his fourth birthday April 2, celebrated often enough to last several more birthdays. The festivities started at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Kunz in Elmwood Park, on Easter, where the family gathered for dinner. In keeping with the current fad, Scott's cake was decorated ala Beatles. When the big day arrived, Scott persuaded his mother to take him to lunch and the celebration ended with cake and ice cream that evening for Grandma Kunz, sisters, Pam, Sandy and Debby, brother Mark, family friends, the Jim Haanels of Arlington Heights and Nancy Selvaggio, a friend of Pam's who stayed overnight.

Scott is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kunz, 505 S. Forrest.

IN HONOR of Michael Smith's 13th birthday April 1, his parents, the Gary Smiths, 517 S. Phelps, hosted a family party Sunday evening. Guests were his grandparents, Mrs. Emily Smith of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. Aden Wilson of Glen Ellyn, a great-uncle and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Feuerhaken of Chicago and Miss Ann Feuerhaken of Glen Ellyn.

Martin De Stephanis, 532 S. Waterman, 16 April 2, chose to mark the day quietly with cake and ice cream shared with members of his immediate family.

Michael Morgan's second birthday March 31 was celebrated on Easter at the home of his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Geist of Winnetka. Completing the family group were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morgan, 412 S. Forrest, and his sister, Lisa. (A

Donate Refrigerators

Two refrigerators for use on the third and fourth floors of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, were donated last week by the Palatine Registered Nurses Club and their Penny Pot Fund.

Mrs. Fred Loss, director of nursing service at the hospital and a member of the Palatine club, advised the group that the gift of refrigerators would benefit the most number of patients.

In December of 1960, the club through its Penny Pot Fund purchase visual aids for the hospital to aid doctors in making diagnoses and for use in lectures and training sessions. These included cameras, projectors and screen.

The gifts of refrigerators and visual aids were in addition to the $5,000 pledge to the hospital which the Palatine Nurses made and fulfilled.

The Penny Pots were placed in various stores so the public could make gifts. (B9

Mrs. Loss to Quit As Nurse Director

MRS. MARTHA B. LOSS

Mrs. Martha B. Loss, director of nursing service for Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, since its opening in 1959, will resign from her position for personal reasons on or about June 1, 1964.

Her resignation has been accepted by the hospital with sincere regrets, according to Alan B. Campbell, hospital administrator.

Mrs. Loss has been a tremendous asset to the hospital both prior to its opening in December, 1959, and during the subsequent years of its organization and development, Campbell said.

A highlight in Mrs. Loss' career at Northwest Community Hospital was the publication of a 250-page comprehensive nursing manual which later was requested by and sent to over 550 hospitals in all 50 states and several foreign countries.

A search is under way for a qualified successor, the administrator said. (B9

Q. When invited to someone's home and the hostess has small dishes of potato chips and peanuts placed on tables about the room, is it proper for a guest to help himself without being asked?

A. Since obviously these dishes are there for the guests, it is quite all right to help yourself.

SOUTH PALATINE

Brownies in South Palatine have all been bustling, busy hostesses giving "friendmaker" parties to acquaint first-grade girls with the Brownie program. Held jointly by troops in the respective schools, the parties combined a program of flag ceremony, songs, Promise, skits and refreshments, often cookies baked by the girls. The parties incorporated the Brownie B's: BE a friend maker, BE a discoverer, and BE a ready helper.

Troops who participated were: Plum Grove School, March 17, Troop 538 with leaders Mrs. R. Kearns and Mrs. Fred Brown; and Troop 646, with leaders Mrs. Albert Timroth, Mrs. Howard Jacobsen and Mrs. E. A. Scholin; Pleasant Hills School, March 17, Troop 614 with leaders Mrs. Charles Kumle, Mrs. Yvonne Kreml, and Mrs. William Larson; and Troop 583 with Mrs. Kenneth Carroll and Mrs. Raymond Taylor helping. Both troops were assisted by Troop Organizer Mrs. Frank Chase.

At Paddock School March 18, hostesses were Troop 905 with leaders Mrs. J. Kenneth Lucas and Mrs. Richard Cutter; and Troop 209 with leaders Mrs. W. G. Vaughn and Mrs. Richard Lawrenz. Troop Organizer Mrs. Robert Parker assisted this group.

At Marion Jordan School March 18, the party was given by Troop 305 with leaders Mrs. W. Osborne and Mrs. A. J. Osterman; Troop 959 with leaders Mrs. John Hamilton and Mrs. Ann Barnor; and Troop 961 with leaders Miss Sue Hamilton and Mrs. Sharley Kissner.

HOFFMAN ESTATES-SCHAUMBURG

Children at the Mark Lund Hilltop Home in Bloomingdale will be recipients of a service project by Junior Troop 649, led by Mrs. F. White. Gift-wrapped toys and treats will be delivered this week to the young handicapped residents.

Colorful Easter eggs decorated by Brownie Troop 925 were an Easter treat for the children's section at Northwest Community Hospital. During Easter vacation this Campanelli School troop visited the Mars candy factory in Chicago.

Touring Little City in Palatine March 18 were Brownies from Troop 949. They saw the living facilities in the cottages and met several girls with knitting and sewing interests.

Ice skating at the Polar Dome in Dundee was a recent outing enjoyed by Troop 662. The Cadettes, accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Lehman, skated after school and had supper at McDonald's.

A roller-skating party at the Rollarena in Wheaton this week was planned by Brownie Troops 861 and 949, Fairview School.

Junior Troop 884 from Blackhawk School recently toured the Salerno Baking Company in Niles. The tour showed them how cookies are made, from the arrival of ingredients in carloads to the packaging of the finished product.

ROLLING MEADOWS

Cadettes of Troop 812 recently went on an overnight trip to Camp Pine where they worked on the Outdoor Safety badge, one of the steps in earning the Challenge of Emergency Preparedness.

They also went ice skating March 19 at the Polar Dome in Dundee. The girls greatly enjoyed both occasions.

NORTH PALATINE

Girl Scout troops, including Brownie troops, from St. Theresa School attended Mass and Communion in a body March 7. After the services they went to Deer Grove where they had breakfast. Spring was the theme of a Scouts' Own presented by the Junior troops. The outing was climaxed with a hike.

The St. Thomas of Villanova Girl Scouts went to the Goodman Theatre by bus March 7 where they saw the production of "Treasure Island." The girls, accompanied by their leaders, enjoyed the trip very much.

Attending the March 22 performance of "Treasure Island" were Junior Scouts from Troop 421 of Palatine, led by Mrs. W. Russow, and Troop 520 of Mount Prospect.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE

All sixth grade girls of Elk Grove Village interested in becoming Cadette Scouts in September, and their mothers, are invited to the meeting of Cadette Troop 129 at Grove Junior High Tuesday evening, April 14, from 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. All leaders of Junior Scout troops in the Village are also invited.

A special feature of the meeting will be the showing of slides of the Girl Scout Cabana in Cuernavaca, Mexico by the Misses Jane Reardon and Mary Wingfield of the Long Tree Council of Oak Park. They will speak on the opportunities and benefits offered older girls in scouting.

Fifteen girls of Junior Troop 879, Clearmont School, visited the Countryside Art Gallery in Arlington Heights March 31, where they heard William Wimmer, artist, explain various methods of painting and sculpturing. They were accompanied by leaders Mrs. R. Hischke, Mrs. G. Mello and Mrs. R. Kroll. (B9

Forest View Band To Play Tomorrow

Tomorrow night, Friday, the Forest View High School Band will hold its annual band concert in the school's theater at 8 p.m.

"We will play a variety of music from such serious composers as Handel, Wagner, and Borodin to modern composers such as Lerner and Loewe and Woody James," Fred Elliot, band director, said.

The harmony and arranging class wrote the band arrangement for one of Mr. Ahnquist's accompaniments.

ALSO FEATURED with the band will be trumpet soloist Paul Ukleja playing "Elegy" and the drum section on "Lawrence of Arabia." The tubas will be featured in "Camptown Basses."

A large Chinese gong, imported from China, was recently acquired by the band. It will be used in a piece called "Hong Kong."

The public is inivted to attend.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

New groups of Blue Birds will be organized in Arlington Heights during the month of April. Schools will be receiving letters to go home with each first grade girl and parties are being planned for an hour after school to acquaint the girls with the Camp Fire program.

There will be two mother's meetings to help form the new groups. The meetings will be on Tuesday, April 21 and Tuesday, April 28, in Pioneer Park Auditorium from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. It is most important that each mother of a prospective new blue bird be at one of these meetings, as there will be no groups formed again until next year.

Anyone who wants further information may call group organization chairman, Mrs. Ralph Hauptly, CL 3-4807.

ON SATURDAY, March 2 the Gay Gazelles Blue Bird Group visited the Hinsdale Health Museum where they were shown a Walt Disney movie on health and saw "Valeda," the $25,000 "talking glass lady."

Mrs. Arthur Krause, leader, Mrs. Frank Juzel, co-leader and Mrs. Diane Tumpa made the trip with the girls.

A tour of the Arlington Heights Municipal Building was made by the Ka-Elu-Ta-Ci Camp Frie group on March 24. The girls were shown the finance building and the police departments; of special interest was the police firing range and radio dispatch room. (B9

MOUNT PROSPECT

Ek-O-Lela-Ko-Da Camp Fire Girls, under the leadership of Mrs. Deisenroth, recently visited Mrs. Walter Keckelmann's Eager Beaver Blue Birds. The group is planning an all day cookout and hike April 25. Girls in the group are Barbara Deisenroth, Christine Garcia, Elizabeth Guth, Sharon Kanoon, Jean Knechtel, Kathy Ludy and Kathy Scheib.

O-Da-Kan-Ya Camp Fire Girls, under the leadership of Mrs. John Hippel, recently staged an international dinner. The girls, who did their own cooking, included Italian spaghetti, French bread, Swedish Rice Pudding and Scottish Short Bread in their menu. The girls traveled to three different homes preparing the meal and then transported it to a fourth home where they ate.

IN THE GROUP are Judy Braun, Cathy Hallberg, Debbie Hippel, Penny Holshouser, Nancy Johansen, Patty Krampert, Patty Lembesis, Jean Ostrom, Barbara Tomanek, Lynn Waishwell and Terri Prescher.

Newly-elected officers of the Lo-Tami-O-Kee Camp Fire Girls are president, Salle Soderstrom; vice president, Nancy Ames; treasurer, Mary Major; secretary, Margery Johns; scribe, Lynn Stecher. Other girls in the group are Joanne Soderstrom, Kathryn Shubeck, Connie Kozanecki, Linda Metzel and Susan White. Guardian of the group is Mrs. Gene Shubeck assisted by Mrs. Gen Kozanecki. 'Y' Mermaid Mamas Plan Aquatic Show

There is an undercurrent of excitement these days around Northwest Suburban YMCA as unusual swim attire and odd antics in the pool arouse curiosity. What's brewing? The Mermaid Mamas Synchronized Swim Club is "cooking" up a water show.

The "Mamas," as they call themselves, are a club of married women who have combined motherhood and synchronized swimming with great enthusiasm. The gamut of their interests runs from "catalinas" and cavities to "dolfins" and diapers.

THIS UNIQUE club is presenting its first water show, "Rippling Rhythms," at 7:30 p.m. the evenings of May 2, 3 and 10. As the title suggests, the show is based on various musical rhythms from bossa nova to ballet, can-can to the march tempo.

Among the 60 participants in the show are two ballet classes of Mrs. Judy Hooper. Girls 9-13 years and 14 to 17 have prepared several numbers, and a beginning women's class, under coaching of Helen Coryell, women and girls director of the "Y," are presenting a floating number, "Kaleidoscope." The effect desired is achieved by wearing Italian lights.

Tickets are now available in the "Y" lobby, 300 E. Northwest Highway, Des Plaines, or from any of the participants. A limited supply of tickets will be available at the door. (B9

Contest Scheduled For Color Guards

The Illinois chapter of the Junior All-American Drum Corps and Band Assn will sponsor a color guard competition at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Prospect High School, Mount Prospect.

The 21 units who have accepted the invitation to compete are members of the Mid-west Color Guard Assn. Many of them hold local titles and some are also national champions.

During the winter, these guards travel many hundreds of miles to compete in various contests.

ONE OF THE guards that will be competing is the Guardsmen, whose members come from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Hoffman Estates, Prospect Heights, Des Plaines, and other northwest suburbs. The unit is the color guard of the Guardsmen Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, which has paraded in Barrington, Addison, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect in the past several years.

The color guard, consisting of 10 girls between the ages of 10 and 16 has competed in Wisconsin and Illinois. Recently the members participated in Madison, Wis., Spring Spectacle of Music. They have also taken several second places this year.

The guard is instructed by Hank Granna. Its managers are R. Lidig and Earl L. Lindberg. In competition members are handled by their sergeant, Judy Miller of Rolling Meadows. (B9

Community Club Lunch Draws Over 50 Women

"The American woman is maturing. She does not attempt to emulate anyone and at last is coming into her own. She may like flowered sheets and if need be she learns to use the equipment to iron them," Roberta Roseberry told the over 90 women listeners at Mondays benefit luncheon at Poppe's Alpine House in Lake Zurich. In her talk, "Oops, Madam, Your Ego is Showing," the speaker admitted the many demands on her have made the American woman nervous and energetic. Asking today's woman to survey herself through a five-way mirror, emphasizing the physical, emotional, spiritual, social and the over-all picture, she was told: "Look in the mirror at yourself and find the real you. Is what you see really integrated?"

Preceding the talk, Community Club President Mrs. Robert Taylor thanked all for their help, mentioning Mrs. Jack Walgren, who headed ticket sales and Mrs. Jon Henricks, who was in charge of posters.

Bubbling with her usual effervescence Mrs. Joseph Young presented the formal welcome and Mrs. Richard Ireland gave out gifts to Pat Harding, Woody Edmunds, Esther Korbelik, Helen Lindemer, Pat Dugan, Barbara Schell, Mrs. Joseph Young Sr., Helen Knaack, Dorothy Wingquist and June Rodjimek.

The program opened with several numbers by Ela-Vernon guitar playing students who are members of a folk song club, with Scott Wilder the president. Vocal numbers were by Diane Scheffner and Betty Stockman.

LONG GROVE Area Committee for Family Guidance needs $3,000 to pay for a year of counseling service through its affiliation with Highland Park Family Service. At least one fourth of the amount must be made available before Highland Park will begin its aid to the Kildeer School district. This amount will provide three weekly hours of counseling. If the community needs more, the price must go up.

Mrs. Martha Winch, executive director of Highland Park Family Service, explained the plan in detail at Sunday's reception at the school's all-purpose room. She described the staff's work to be divided into three concerns: marriage problems; parent - child difficulties; an individual's personal adjustments. Help will be provided by nine psychiatric social workers. The $3,000 fee does not provide for sessions with a psychiatrist.

"Most of people's troubles are due to poor communication," Mrs. Winch told listeners. "Often we are to one another like ships that pass in the night. In our service we do not tell people what to do but try to help them understand themselves and put things in proper perspective. Our goals are to strengthen family life and help an individual lead a personally satisfying and socially useful life. We supplement and complement the church, never attempting to take its role in the community." Appearing at the reception with Mrs. Winch were three other staff members.

IN HIS BRIEF talk, President James Webster stated the Long Grove Family Guidance plan to be "our effort to be a good neighbor." "Tell your friends about us," he urged. "We need your help." He recalled that more than half of Rev. Alfred Williams' time here used to be spent in counseling.

"What became of the missing sheet of signatures?" is what proponents of the Long Grove Park District are asking. "We thought we had 115 signers on our petition." A group of leaders in our village's drive to secure the right to hold a referendum on a park district met March 30 at Kildeer School to decide on a course of action. The dilemma resulted from Circuit Court Judge Minard Hulse's action denying Long Grove petition to hold an election because of an insufficient number of signatures. Required are 100. Hulse said a new petition must now be filed.

Meanwhile—the baffling mystery concerning the missing signatures continues — In a park district referendum held Nov. 5, 1960, the measure was lost by four votes.

Four new residents of Boschome Estates area were among the 15 guests at the Newcomers Club women's card party March 31 at the home of Mrs. Wayne Pearce. The committee in charge included Mrs. Everett Lewis, Mrs. Pearce and Mrs. Ed Kelley.

At a meeting held April 2 at Mrs. Fred Dahlberg's home Women's Guild board members made plans to hold a cake and games party at Bensenville Home on May 6. Mrs. Nicholas Nickl, in charge of arrangements, says that prizes for men and women will be much appreciated and that they be left in the church lounge. Those who would like to bake a cake for the senior citizens are asked to call Sue. The evening circle will meet Monday April 13 at the home of Mrs. David Terrill.

Members at the board meeting discussed the "Friendly Town" project of the Chicago Missionary Society through which the Guild had planned to bring children, aged 6 thru 11, out from Chicago for a vacation with volunteer families, the vacation period to run from July 10 - 24. Reservations with the missionary society are to be in by May 15. Those interested in making their home a vacation spot for a Chicago child are asked to contact Chairman Mrs. Richard Ireland. She will contact an authority from Wilmette who has had much experience as a hostess mother in similar projects and will come to Long Grove to speak to the volunteers. Guild board members agreed there should first be an informational meeting before definite plans to proceed with the project be continued.

IF THERE is general upheaval at the Charles Anstrands', it is because the family is losing no time in packing, preparing to move by the end of April. They have sold their Mardan Estates home to Glenview residents and have rented a house in Libertyville where Chuck will be near his work at the International Minerals and Chemical Corp. The firm is planning to build in the area in the coming year.

A farewell gift was presented to Barbara by 10 of her friends who were invited to Mrs. Stewart Richmond's home April 2 for a bridge luncheon.

The Alaskan quake caused mental tremors to invade the area in the concern for the Jack Deagans' daughter, Pat and family, who live in Haines, 400 miles east of Anchorage. "They are all right; they felt only a slight tremor," John Deagan and his wife of Urbana drove home last weekend to be with the family.

"War is more than a shooting match and can be waged in politics. The communists are waging warfare now and our country isn't countering it effectively," Commander Frank Barnett told his audience at the seminar the Heinz Loefflers and the Charles Johnsons attended April 2 at Irelands' Restaurant in Chicago. The speaker is commander of the National Strategy Information Center's Naval Reserve Supply Unit 9-7.

Heinz Loeffler now wears four stripes on his sleeve, having been conferred with the rank of captain.

PROBABLY no one in Long Grove is more susceptible to the lures of Hawaii than the A. W. Bohnes, who have returned recently from their third vacation to the islands. This time they divided their stay between Waiohai, on the island of Kauai, and Hana on Maui. Travel by train and boat extended the leisure to a month, with a delightful stay in San Francisco. Only "fly in the ointment" was their concern over "Putsy," their English Springer Spaniel, who was so heartbroken he became ill during their absence.

To Wewa Hitchika near Panama City went Mrs. Roswell Ryan to visit her mother, Mrs. A. W. Briscoe, ill at 86 with an ailing heart. En route Anne Mae stopped at Southern Methodist University in Dallas to be joined by son Mike, a sophomore. Florida was a fairyland, according to her story. "Weather was so delightful we drove our convertible with the top down," she says, "and everywhere there were camelias, azaleas, wisteria and jonquils." Many stops were made visiting Florida and Texas friends and relatives.

The Bert Wilds, who are world travelers naively report they've had their first look at the Ozarks. They are home after a two-week visit to Oklahoma City to visit their daughter and family. "One usually receives the impression Oklahoma is dry and arid," says Charlene, "but especially during our stay at our daughter's lake home outside Tulsa we were delighted to receive a different impression."

BRAVELY leaving town in a blizzard, the Art Edmunds found conditions calmed down as they continued on their way during their pre-Easter journey toward Atlanta to see Betty's mother, Mrs. Anne Sewell. Stopping in Jeffersonville, Ky., they called on the Rev. and Mrs. J. V. Carlisle whose church they had attended 17 years ago in Rolla, Mo., during their first years as man and wife. A delight for the family while overnighting in Gatlinburg was to swim in a bubble-topped swimming pool. They picnicked in the Smokies, went hiking near Cave's Cove and explored the mountain area originally tracted out to homesteaders.

Mrs. Fay Fiscus left March 28 by plane for Sioux City and will be gone two weeks, visiting friends and relatives back home. In Sioux City there will be a reunion with her brother Clifford Tague of Los Angeles and in Storm Lake she will visit a son, Fred.

An Easter trip for Mrs. David Edmunds and children consisted of a visit with her parents, the J. M. Dowells near Champaign, also seeing her brother John and his new bride.

Combining business with pleasure, the Clifford Marxes returned home from a short stay in Detroit.

JUDY CALDER'S home was the scene of a Saturday luncheon for seven local seventh and eighth grade youth fellowship members and seven guests from a similar group of the Arlington Heights United Church of Christ. Barbara Coffin provided the dessert for the occasion which followed a business session at Long Grove Church, Ralph Edgar overseeing the activities.

Michael Bluett and Megan Smith will be among the 42 members who will be confirmed at St. Mary Church, Buffalo Grove, the last of the month.

Couples' bridge gatherings included the party hosted Sunday by the A. G. Westons. Making up the play were the William Salzmans, Jim Websters and the Clifford Marxes.

Enameling on copper provided fascinating fun for the art group Thursday. Mrs. Clifford Marx, Mrs. Heinz Loeffler, Mrs. John Rakow and Mrs. Howard Bauer were surprised to see a former member and one time resident of this area, Mrs. Millard Eiseman, now of Libertyville.

Gathering around the Walter Gosswillers' Easter dining table were the George Umbdenstocks. Also recent dinner guests were the Oswald Weidners of Waukegan and the Art Moldenhauers of Wheeling, with "crazy pinochle" providing the diversion.

DATES TO remember: Kildeer School's annual Spring Concert will be held April 17. On May 23 the firemen will hold their dance.

From Kildeer teacher Mrs. Harry Paine comes information concerning a conference on Human Relations to be held April 27 at Allgauer's of the Villa Moderne Holiday Inn, Highland Park. Reservations must be in by April 19. For more information call Mrs. Paine, 432-0318, or this reporter.

According to the Cy Fannings, the wild geese flew over Long Grove last week. The Charles Schaefers are impatient for spring, admitting they are behind in the dormant spraying of their large orchard, the first spray of the season usually having been applied in March.

Mononucleosis and hepatitis are twin giants that seem to be clouding up spring-like atmosphere, many Ela-Vernonites being laid up. Latest victims are Bonny Salzman, home from St. Therese Hospital and Tom Hoyne, whose attack seems comparatively light. Mrs. Walter Saunders has donned a nurse's cap; community responsibilities have relinquished her now to her greater duty that of cheering her husband, Huck, while he struggles with hepatitis. Ed Ernst, who recently underwent surgery in St. Therese Hospital, is back at his job at Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago.

VISITORS at the Tony Bergs' bring reports of Gwen's continued improvement in health; Mrs. Alfred Benavides of Aptakisic Road has had to be admitted for extended treatment at Waukegan Sanitarium; and Frank Hurley is home, where he and Marie will be able to celebrate their wedding anniversary April 12.

Mitchell Bluett's mother will bake his cake and the top will look like a circus ring for his seventh birthday April 11. Also wishes to Marsha Green, Helen Rodewald and John Peterson, April 9; Jean Herrick, 10th; Susan Kieser, 11th; and to Malcolm Shroyer, 13th.

School board election is this Saturday. Polls at Kildeer School will be open from 12 to 7 p.m.

MIMICKING HILL Billies is not making fun but play acting for Grove Junior High School drama club students who are presenting "Feudin' Mountain Boys" tonight, Thursday at 8 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The public is invited to the presentation in the school cafetorium. (Staff Photo)

Township Electors Slash Road Budget

A $242,200 budget request for 1964-65 Wheeling Township Road and bridge expenditures was slashed to $225,737 Monday night in the annual meeting of township electors.

An estimated 300 area residents attending the meeting also approved a $242,214.31 town fund budget, 1964-65 expenditures in the general assistance fund totalling $26,590 and transfer of $5,012.87 to the cemetery fund.

Of the $170,841.87 town and general assistance fund surplus, $100,000 was transferred to elementary school districts within Wheeling Township.

A MOTION TO transfer specified amounts to area mental health organizations was overruled by moderator Richard Cowan based on legal technicalities. Instead, a motion establishing a community mental health fund and transferring $25,000 surplus township funds to that fund was unanimously approved.

Calling for a reduced road and bridge fund budget, Township Auditor Russell Conklin objected to inclusion of village share levies in the proposed budget.

THE FINAL ACTION, reducing the budget by $15,000, also reduced the road and bridge tax levy from .125 per cent to .09 per cent.

The $225,737 road and bridge budget had been approved by the board of auditors at a public hearing March 31, 1964.

Failure to reinstate the township office of weed commissioner reduced the final town fund budget by $600, originally requested for operation of that office.

Primary Vote Tuesday

Registration Up in Suburbs

A total of 78,465 voters in five northwest suburban townships are eligible to vote in Tuesday's primary election, according to figures released this week by the county clerk's office.

This represents an over-all increase of 45 per cent since 1960 in the number of registered voters in the northwest area.

Most dramatic increase in voters registration was Schaumburg Township with 7,221 — a 92 per cent jump over 1960. The township includes the villages of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg.

ALSO SHOWING marked growth over 1960 was Elk Grove Township, whose 16,960 registered voters represent a 77 per cent increase. Close behind was Hanover Township, up 75 per cent with a total of 6,996 voters.

Elk Grove includes south Mount Prospect and all of Elk Grove Village; Hanover includes the new communities of Hanover Park and Streamwood.

Wheeling Township's registration of 32,028 is 35 per cent higher than 1960. This total includes Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights, and North Mount Prospect.

Smallest gain in voters was Palatine Township with 15,260 — up 15 per cent over four years ago. The township includes Rolling Meadows, Palatine, and Inverness.

ALL THE action in Tuesday's election will be on the Republican side. The GOP has hot contests in many races; Democrats have reslated incumbents for most offices.

The major Republican contest pits Charles H. Percy against William J. Scott for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. The winner will oppose the Democratic incumbent, Gov. Otto Kerner, next November.

Both state campaign managers in this crucial race are northwest suburban committeemen. Managing Percy's race is Thomas J. Houser, Wheeling Township Republican Committeeman, while Alex MacArthur, Palatine Township Committeeman, heads the Scott forces.

Percy has been endorsed by the Regular GOP organizations in Wheeling, Elk Grove, and Hanover Townships while the Palatine GOP has given its nod to Scott. The Schaumburg Township organization, divided between the two candidates, has stayed officially neutral.

PRIMARY voters will also get their chance to express a preference for Presidential candidates. Sen. Barry Goldwater's only rival on the GOP ballot is Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, and President Johnson is unopposed on the Democratic side.

The ballot includes five state offices, four county offices and three Sanitary District posts, as well as delegates to state and national nominating conventions.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m.
(WP to 6 p.m. (AF

Highway Magazine Traces Area History

The name Barrington as applied to the township, village and road was adopted from Great Barrington, Mass., the former home of numerous early residents in northwest Cook County, reports the magazine Cook County Highways.

The township, like other Cook County townships, came into being in 1850 under the general law of 1849. The village started in 1854, when the Chicago and North Western built through the place.

There was then only one house at the station, but within a few years there were not only more houses but two settlements, divided by the tracks. On one side was Barrington and on the other Cuba, each with about 300 population.

The two were combined and incorporated by a special act of the state legislature in 1865. The name Cuba vanished from the map of Cook County but survives on a road in Wisconsin, just over the state line.

FREEMAN ROAD, in Barrington Township, probably was named for one — or perhaps all — of three early residents of that name. Samuel and W. B. Freeman served as township highway commissioners and Thomas as supervisor.

Mundhank Road — as it appears on today's maps — appears to have been named for Henry Mundhenke, who came to Barrington Township in 1847.

There were two early residents of the name of Otis, which is preserved on a road in Barrington Township. It was at the home of W. H. Otis that the first meeting to organize a school was held in 1840. C. B. Otis was a constable.

Ella Road, in Palatine Township, presumably was named for George Ela, who set up a store on the Cuba side at Barrington in 1855. (B9

Carroll Is Candidate For Nominating Meet

Illinois voters in the April 14 primary election will vote on delegates to a state nominating convention to be held June 1 in Springfield to select candidates for election in November to the post of state representative.

John W. Carroll, incumbent State Representative from the 6th District is a candidate.

After serving as secretary of the Illinois Public Aid Advisory Commission, Carroll was elected chairman.

REP. CARROLL

CARROLL'S bills in the legislature have resulted in savings in public aid. In the first nine months of the current biennium, these savings amounted to 18 million dollars through ceilings on aid which were spelled out in the legislation.

Carroll passed the first lien law in Illinois history. Prior to this legislation, persons receiving public assistance were not legally responsible to repay it out of estates or other 'windfalls,' and often money went to surviving relatives who had made no attempt to help during the lifetime of the aid recipient. Savings of several millions of dollars each year are resulting from this legislation.

Public assistance recipients are also required to file a simple, certified form of financial statement through another bill sponsored by Carroll.

Through stories published in local papers, Carroll became aware of a danger to local taxpayers' interests in that park districts were not required to let bids on their spending.

CARROLL sponsored a bill requiring park districts to let bids publicly in every expenditure of $2,500 or more. The bill passed and is in effect today.

He was also instrumental in the passage of legislation allowing municipalities to rebate excess money in special assessment proceedings to the owners of the property assessed at the completion of the project.

A key bill sponsored by Carroll affecting this district is one which requires that local school districts be made parties to all zoning matters in order to guarantee them a voice in the consideration of rezonings.

He also helped pass a bill which permits public aid department employes to report information concerning crime on the part of aid recipients to local law enforcement bodies.

He sponsored a bill which enabled Niles and Park Ridge to have their courts included in the 3rd Judicial District under the Blue Ballot court reform bills. Judge Herbert Stoffels of Park Ridge is Chief Judge for the district.

CARROLL handled passage of the sanitary district reform bills in legislature, bills which are expected to produce substantial savings to taxpayers.

He also served on the special economy committee in the closing days of the 1961 session which pared several millions from appropriation bills.

Carroll is proud of his sponsorship of the Weller Creek bills which provided more than $2 million to correct serious flooding in the area of Mount Prospect, Des Plaines and Arlington Heights. (B9

Cancer Drives Use Time-Tested Slogans

The American Cancer Society is again using its time-tried theme — "To Cure More, Give More" during its Crusade which began April 1.

In making this announcement, Mr. Frank, Northwest Suburban Unit Crusade Chairman, said the Society also would continue to use its familiar slogan — "Fight Cancer With a Checkup and a Check."

"Both slogans are meaningful," he said.

"All of us admit cancer is an urgent problem," Mr. Frank explained. "About 530,000 will develop cancer in 1964. There will be more than 280,000 deaths from the disease this year.

"In the face of this, we must waste no time in developing new cures for cancer and better detection techniques because lost time means lost lives. The Society's broad research program is geared to move ahead toward this end."

ALSO, HE said, the Society must move ahead with its education and service programs — both of which are saving lives now.

"To Cure More, Give More," according to Mr. Frank "reflects the Society's determination to reach more people with life-saving facts about cancer; provide more physicians with the latest facts about detection and treatment; to support more scientists in the growing cancer research field, and to supply more service to cancer patients."

Frank pointed out that the Society has a new focus this year — "more and better trained volunteers.

"WE ARE going to acquaint our volunteers with all the facts about cancer — how people can best protect themselves from the disease and the need for stepping-up cancer research. More effective education can save lives today. More funds for research promises an earlier solution to the cancer problem."

Last year the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Society raised $33,531.65. "More people than ever before are aware that cancer is an emergency problem," Mr. Frank said, "I am confident we will do much better this year. The lives of some 48,000,000 Americans now alive are at stake. That is the number who will eventually develop cancer if present rates continue. When people realize this, they will understand why we say 'To Cure More, Give More.'" (B9

Writes Story of Firemen's Favorite Foods

by T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

A magazine entitled "Chicago," planned for distribution at the New York World's Fair, will include a feature prepared by Mrs. Henry Barker, 107 S. Kenilworth Ave., Mount Prospect, on firemen's food.

Mrs. Barker, better known as Joan, is preparing dishes from recipes used by Chicago firemen, who fill many of their non-fire-fighting hours with cooking and swapping recipes.

Joan said the recipes are representative of five ethnic groups: Negro, Irish, Polish, Italian and German.

Her task is to cook at least two copies of each recipe for photographing.

Joan said the least perfect of the two will be used in preparing the table arrangement and the best of the trials will be substituted for the final photo.

MRS. BARKER, a graduate home economist in journalism from the University of Minnesota in 1951, has been writing about food since her graduation.

She worked for several years with Westinghouse, and then went to the Quaker Oats Co., where she did arranging for food photography.

The chef and arranger explained that in food photography, the photographer and the cook each enter the project with an idea of how the table should be arranged.

After several hours, which sometimes result in a solid day under the camera, the end arrangement is reached and the picture shot.

While at Quaker Oats, Joan met her husband to be, Henry, (Hank), and was married in 1958.

SHE MOVED to the post of assistant food editor with a metropolitan newspaper where she "spent more time writing than in photography."

Since her retirement in 1961 from the paper to devote more time to her family, which include a cherubic daughter, Gail, 21 months old, Mrs. Barker has performed similar tasks for the Allstate Insurance Co., in a policyholder's magazine, "Home and Highway," which is produced quarterly.

For "Chicago," Mrs. Barker is preparing soda bread and corned beef and cabbage as the Irish dish; braided bread as the Polish dish; pasta and meat balls as the Italian dish; fish gumbo as the Negro dish, and sauerbraten as the German dish. The food will appear on a smorgasboard setup, according to Mrs. Barker, with a fire engine in the background.

The date of the picture has been changed twice due to weather. Mrs. Barker said weather can affect the food and gave the "congealing of fat" as an example.

SHE SAID "The picture may take three hours to arrange. I have worked all day to get things just right."

Twelve hours are allottted for cooking the foods. Surprisingly, the foods used for the picture will not be usable for anything else.

Joan explained, "The secret in photographing food is to not really get it done."

She said cabbage, for example, is dipped in boiling water for just a few minutes, "or long enough to get rid of the crispy look."

This same feature is applied to carrots and onions. She explained the reason for this is because the lights are very hot and tend to ruin food.

She also said that since it often takes many hours to perfect an arrangement, the food can be spoiled by the time the camera is finally ready.

MRS. BARKER said "although there are tricks to food photography, I don't believe in duping the public. It is for this reason that I wouldn't prepare these dishes from my own recipes, but waited to get the firemen's recipes. I wouldn't want the recipe to say one thing and the picture show another."

The magazine is edited by David Watt of the Allstate Co. He and other editorial people are preparing the magazine on a non-profit venture.

The magazine may be produced quarterly if Chicagoans like it, Watt said, adding that 30-pages of advertising was sold within the first week after it was announced.

The sales put the first issue in the black. If the magazine is produced quarterly it will also be on a non-profit basis, as is this souvenier copy for the world's fair. (A-14

Lower Bills for N-I Gas Customers

Northern Illinois Gas Co. customers are receiving lower gas bills now as a result of a $4.1 million annual rate reduction.

The rate cut was announced in March following joint studies by the Illinois Commerce Commission and NI-Gas and became effective April 1.

This is the fourth major rate reduction for NI-Gas customers in the past two years. The other three reductions during this period total nearly $4 million a year.

FOR THE average residential gas heat customer during a normal heating season, the annual reductions in gas rates, totalling $8 million, mean yearly heating bills will be about $7 lower than two years ago.

Included in the new $4.1 million rate reduction will be a decrease of about 50 per cent in residential gas air conditioning rates and a new rate for installations which provide all energy requirements for electricity, heating and cooling from natural gas.

More than 75 per cent of the $4.1 million rate reduction applies to residential and small commercial customers.

The company expects bills will be reduced even further as a result of pending pipeline company rate reductions and refunds due the utility. These additional savings will be passed on to customers through automatic adjustments of charges on gas bills, said a company spokesman. (A14

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

ARLINGTON SQUARES

April brings a shower of caller talent to Arlington Squares with two popular area callers scheduled for this month's dances. Tomorrow night, April 10, Jim Smith will be at the mike in Miner Junior High School, squaring up the crowd at 8:30 sharp. "Sharp," too, is the word for Smith and "sage brush" reports show a high interest in this dance. Come join the swinging gang, everybody's welcome. Miner School is located at 1101 E. Miner in Arlington Heights and easy to find.

Bill Shymkus is on tap for the club's April 24 dance, scheduled to be held in South Junior High School, 314 S. Highland, Arlington Heights. This one could bulge the walls. Dance [illegible]ners report that additiona[illegible] [illegible]vingin' space is available in the school, but they'll need to know in advance if extra space arrangements must be made.

Therefore they're asking anyone who plans to gather up a full square of guests to notify the club, via LE 7-1584 or CL 5-4183.

ARLINGTON Squares heartily endorse a "the more the merrier" theory and will be delighted to get lots of calls for April 24 dancing room. Guests are welcome at all their dances, held the second and fourth Friday nights of every month. Since a heart attack last fall their regular caller, Bill Clarke, has been following doctor's orders and taking it easy for the rest of the season. However, a fine array of guest callers has been keeping the club going in Bill's absence.

Like most clubs this season, Arlington Squares have been on a banner binge, losing theirs to the Friendly Squares of Chicago late in February. March 25 the local gang invaded Friendly Squares territory to retrieve their banner. In typical thieves-fall-out fashion, however, the local club was foiled in its attempt, but got revenge by pinching the host club's pennant. At least the walls of Arlington Squares halls are no longer bare, but the club won't be satisfied until the home banner is back where it belongs.

PALATINE SQUARES

Those who have followed the saga of Swingin' Squares much-traveled banner will be glad to know the club retrieved it from the Palatine bandits a week ago Saturday night. In addition to the Arlington contingent who reclaimed their club's pennant, there were several other guest couples at the Palatiner's last dance an everybody had a ball.

Saturday night is dancing night again in Palatine, and Art (Ole Dad) Mathews will be squaring up even visiting banner bandits in his usual friendly fashion. Time to dance is 8:30; the place is Paddock School on Washington Court in Palatine. Everybody come!

Assisting Ole Dad will be the club's regular round dance artists, Jerry and Dot Daniels, teaching a very special number, "Let's Do It Again." The extra-ordinary appeal of "Let's Do It Again" is in its origin — it was written by a husband-wife pair of Palatine Squares, Art and Ruth Youwer! Records are available.

Tickets are going fast for the club's Frankie Lane dance April 27, and the committee urges everyone to get in the express lane quick.

Frankie is nationally well-known, booked solid for the season, and the club feels most fortunate in being able to get him for even a one-night stand. He'll be winging in from his home stamping grounds in Estes Park, Colo., to perform from 8:30 to 11:30, and then wing right out again. Further information and tickets may be had by calling Lil Langerock, CL 3-7229.

Your columnist, a simple non-dancing journalist, has been asked to be the club's guest that night, and despite some urgent deadline-beating scheduled for April 27, there's gotta be a way to make it. Sounds like more fun than pounding a typewriter; but the eternal female dilemma arises — "I haven't a thing to wear!"

SQUARES FOR FUN

It's fun time again for this whirlwind Wood Dale club, meeting tomorrow night in Highland School, N. Wood Dale Road. Bob Lewis, featuring his popular sing-along calls, will square 'em up at 8:30 to begin another session of let's-live-up-to-our-name. Guests are always welcome and all area dancers can find out for themselves that Squares for Fun really are!

From currently banner-less Niles and New Lenox there are cries of "They went that-a-way," and all signs point to Wood Dale. Four couples from the Squares for Fun called on the Little Squares of Niles who no longer have the Wood Dale banner on their walls. Not content with just retrieving their own pennant, five more pairs of Wood Dale squares invaded a recent dance of the Buttons and Bows in New Lenox and stole the B & B banner.

New Lenox is a "fur piece" down the road from Wood Dale and it could be a while before there's a return visit. On the other hand, it might be tomorrom night, weather permitting and the spirit willing. Come on out and see.

Squares For Fun dance the second Friday night of every month in Highland School with Bob Lewis at the mike from 8:30 until refreshment time, about 11 o'clock. Comfortable level dancing and lots of fun is their usual schedule, and guests are always warmly welcomed.

TEEN PROMENADERS

District 214 high schoolers in the booming, zooming Teen Promenaders have been so busy lately they're going sideways to keep from flying. March 20 and 21 they wowed 'em in Glen Ellyn at the Jaycees Minstrel Show and tomorrow night they're appearing at Elmhurst College in Elmhurst. Between times the kids dance the first and third Wednesday nights of each month in the Community Room of Hasbrook Park in Arlington Heights.

The Glen Ellyn appearance resulted from the Jaycees' visit to the club several weeks ago. The visitors were so impressed with the Teens' skill and sympathetic to the club's need for funds that they made a unique and flattering offer. The teens were not only invited to appear in the minstrel show, but were offered a percentage of all tickets they might sell for the big event. Gussied up in brand new outfits, the young dancers made a whirlwind ticket-selling tour of the Glen Ellyn area, netting their club $35.

ADDITIONAL thanks from the youngsters go to their adult counterparts, the Palatine Squares and Swingin' Squares of Arlington Heights, for recent cash contributions. Everything's coming up roses for the kids now, in sharp and happy contrast to their former situation when the double shortage of dancing space and finances had them in a 2-way squeeze.

When the home of their caller, Wally Paulson, could no longer accommodate the 35-40 youngsters who turned up at the club was seriously threatened. At the same time the no-money blues made rental of a hall out of the question. Between the dancers' determination to survive, the Paulsons' unending efforts for "their" kids and a small publicity boost that attracted Glen Ellyn attention, Teen Promenaders are now assured club success. Amazing Variety

Exhibit Reveals Ingenuity Of Birds in Building Nests

Chicago Natural History Museum during April is featuring "Nests and Eggs" as its exhibit-of-the-month.

The museum's featured exhibit illustrates the amazing architectural know-how of birds and the great diversity to be found in the types of nests they build. In addition, it shows the wide variation that exists, from species to species, in the eggs birds lay.

From an interior tree-trunk nest of a giant hornbill — into which the female has sealed herself with the help of the male so that only the tip of her bill is visible —to an uncommon example of a four-storied nest built by a yellow warbler, the exhibit calls attention to the myriad adaptations made by birds in constructing their individual "nurseries."

FOR EXAMPLE, there is the nest of the crested flycatcher commonly found in the Chicago area. Usually set in a protective hole, it is almost always adorned with a snakeskin.

The yellow warbler, on the other hand, is sometimes known to build a nest of more than one layer to avoid hatching the alien eggs of a cowbird. The cowbird makes no nest of her own, but lays her eggs in the nests of other birds. Instead of docilely incubating the strange egg, the yellow warbler will occasionally bury it, sometimes along with her own, in the bottom of the nest—and this process may be repeated more than once if the cowbird lays again in the same nest.

Mud nests constitute a special category of bird construction utilizing a type of masonry skill. Among those shown in the exhibit is that of the South American cliff swallow. The robin, whose nest is constructed of grass and weeds, has a concealed mud lining.

SWIFTS USE yet another cementing material — saliva. An example is shown of the common chimney swift's nest which is made mostly of sticks that are stuck together with the bird's saliva. This material is used also to cement the nest inside a hollow tree of a chimney.

In the Orient there is a group of cave swiftlets that make their nests entirely of saliva. These are the nests that are used in making "bird's—nest soup."

The exhibit shows not only a cave swiftlet's nest, but also samples of the cave swiftlet's nest material as it is sent to market and sold in packages in Chicago ready to be put in soup.

Eggs displayed in the featured exhibit vary from that of the tiny hummingbird's, less than a quarter of an inch long, to the 6½ inch egg of the ostrich.

EGG SHAPE IS as variable as egg size. One of the many eggs included in the exhibit is that of the murre, which is often laid on a ledge of rock. Sharply tapered at one end, it rolls in a small circle when it is disturbed, and thus it is less easily rolled off the ledge than if it were oval.

The exhibit shows, in addition, some of the color variations to be found in eggs: the uniform white egg of the shearwater, the dark blue of the catbird, the greenish color of the duck, and the gray of the tinamous.

While some eggs are plain, others are heavily marked with specks, spots, splashes, blotches, or lines. In some cases these colors and markings help to camouflage the egg in its background, so that it is less noticeable to a predator.

"Nests and Eggs" is located in Hall 21 on the Museum's first floor. (A-14

Ribicoff Charges Pesticide Laxity

WASHINGTON — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., has accused the Agriculture Department of being "one year and 10 million fish too late" in looking into the effect of pesticides on fish.

Ribicoff — whose government operations subcommittee will resume hearings Tuesday on the mass death of fish in the Mississippi River - said in a statement placed in the Congressional Record that the Agriculture Department has been warned for more than a year of the dangers of toxic pesticides to marine life.

"IT IS A TRAGEDY that it took 10 million dead fish to put some life into the Department of Agriculture," Ribicoff said. Only now, has the department called a hearing on the problem, he said.

Ribicoff, a former Health, Education and Welfare secretary, said "It is a sad reflection on the bureaucratic process that the (Agriculture) Department's priorities put the promotion of new products in high speed but place protection of the public in slow motion."

The subcommittee is particularly concerned about the dangers of such pesticides as Aldrin, Dieldrin and Endrin. (A-14

Showing Faith

"The Lord knoweth them that are his."
—Isaiah 26:13

Paul the Apostle, in his second epistle to Timothy, reminded that those who sought and worked for the approval of God so distinguished themselves that "the Lord knoweth them that are his."

The true Christian shows his faith, unmistakably. It is evident in more than regular church attendance; it extends into the conduct of every day living, into business activities and social endeavors.

The true Christian is not ashamed to show his faith on Monday as well as Sunday. And he need not show it through "lip-service." He can show it through the manner in which he conducts himself, in the things that he stands for, in the activities he supports and promotes.

The opportunity is there, every day of the year.

Student's Poll Shows Percy with Advantage

A grassroots poll conducted by a northwest suburban college student indicates that Republican gubernatorial candidate Charles H. Percy will win the primary election in populous Wheeling Township by a 3½ to 1 margin.

David J. Cordes, of 415 W. Miner St., Arlington Heights, this week completed analysis of returns from a 20-part questionnaire he circulated here in completion of a bachelor's degree in political science.

The 22-year-old University of Illinois senior told Paddock Publications he is "very pleased" with the cooperation afforded the project by local residents.

"WE MAILED out 180 questionnaires and received 90 back," Cordes said. "That's a 50 per cent return—far in excess of normal poll returns."

In the final tabulation, Percy received 66 votes and his main GOP opponent, State Treasurer William J. Scott, garnered 18 votes. Six persons were undecided.

Of those favoring Percy, 90 per cent said they were most influenced in their decision by Percy's success in business. He is board chairman of Bell & Howell Co., world-wide manufacturers of photographic equipment.

HALF OF those voting for Scott said they were most affected in their choice by his electoral success. Scott was first elected to office in 1962 as state treasurer.

Cordes, a member of the Wheeling Township Young Republican Club, said most of those returning the questionnaire indicated they feel Scott is more liberal than Percy.

One of the two will be nominated in Tuesday's primary.

In the Republican race for President, Wheeling Township residents voted as follows: former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 23; Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, 17; U.S. Sen Barry Goldwater, 15; Michigan Gov. George Romney, 6; Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, 3; and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, 1. Twenty-five expressed no preference.

ON FOUR questions relating to the federal government, the following results were reported:

Should the federal government develop more agencies to cope with the problems of today? Yes—8. No—80.

Should the federal government give as much of its responsibilities back to the state as the states are willing to take? Yes—80. No—8.

Should the federal government increase its regulation of business? Yes—8. No—80.

Should the federal government institute a program of medical care for the aged? Yes—25. No—63.

IN CONDUCTING the poll, Cordes selected at random names of voters who registered as Republicans in 1962.

He also polled south suburban Thornton Township and downstate Grundy County.

In both Thornton and Grundy, GOP voters favored Percy. Lodge received the Presidential nod in Thornton and Goldwater gained an edge in Grundy.

THE POLL results will be combined with interviews of political leaders and a study of voting trends, and finally incorporated into the documented bachelor's thesis, Cordes explained.

After he receives his political science bachelor's degree in June, Cordes plans to enter the University of Illinois School of Medicine.

"MRS. CHURCH BACKS SCOTT FOR GOVERNOR"

Mrs. Marguerite Stitt Church, former Congresswoman from the 13th District, for the first time in her political career has endorsed a candidate in the Primary.

In her statement to the press on Feb. 27th she stated: "I am proud to join the countless number of good citizens, who because of their belief in sound, unselfish public service, are endorsing the candidacy of William J. Scott for Governor of Illinois. In public office, there is no substitute for Proven capacity, experience, and high integrity.

"I have known Mr. Scott for many years and have watched his progress through every rank, low and high, of Republican service.

"His brilliant record as state treasurer indicates his dedication to public service.

"I do more than admire Mr. Scott's record. I respect him. He is a candidate whom I can recommend without reservation.

"His dramatic victory over a strong Democratic opponent in 1962 was no accident, but a tribute to his demonstrated administrative ability and to the trust that people rightly place in him."

Mrs. Church is considered one of the leading conservatives of the Republican Party. As a noted speaker, her services have been widely used throughout the nation. She is now a candidate for Delegate to the Republican National Convention.

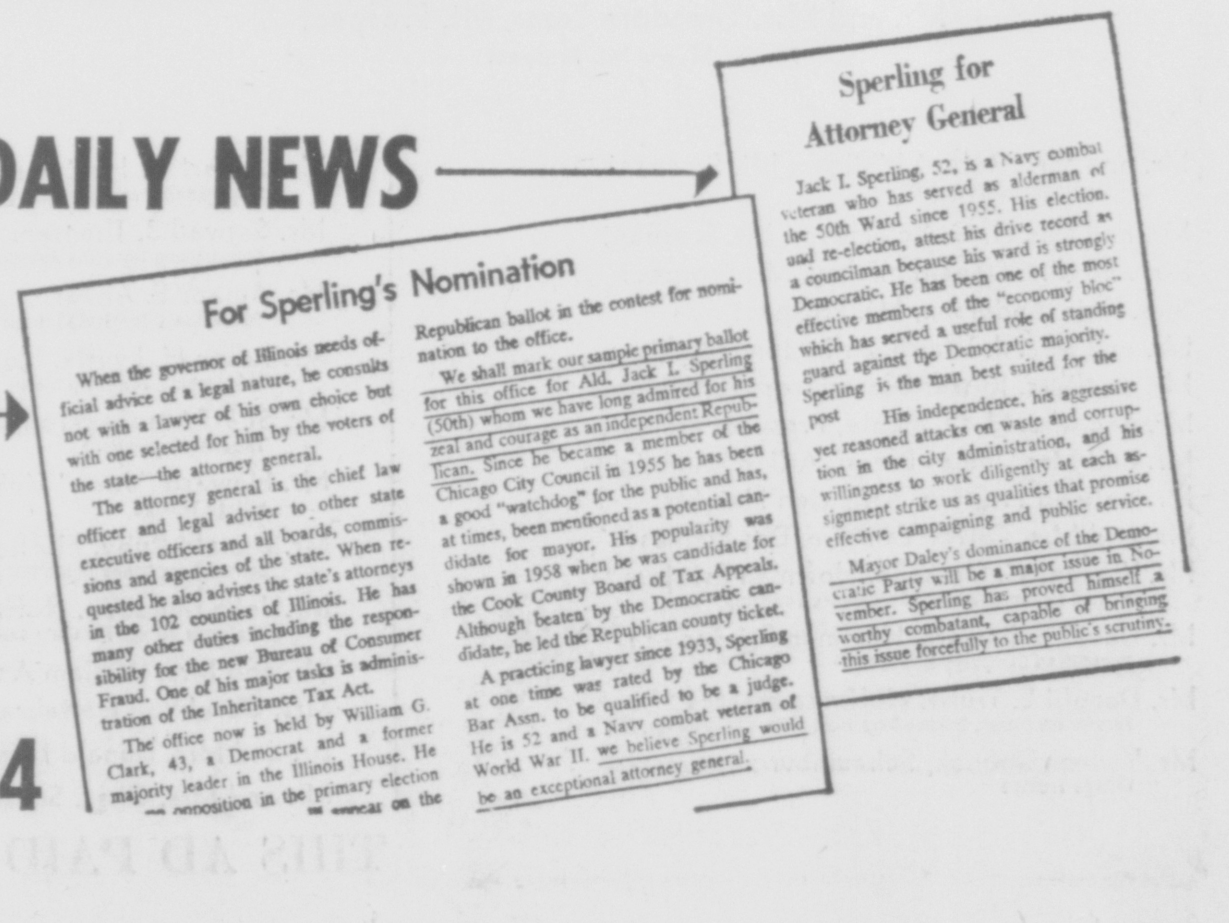
VOTE REPUBLICAN IN THE PRIMARY APRIL 14



For Sperling's Nomination

When the governor of Illinois needs official advice of a legal nature, he consults not with a lawyer of his own choice but with one selected for him by the voters of the state—the attorney general.

The attorney general is the chief law officer and legal adviser to other state executive officers and all boards, commissions and agencies of the state. When requested he also advises the state's attorneys in the 102 counties of Illinois. He has many other duties including the responsibility for the new Bureau of Consumer Fraud. One of his major tasks is administration of the Inheritance Tax Act.

The office now is held by William G. Clark, 43, a Democrat and a former majority leader in the Illinois House. He ... opposition in the primary election ... appear on the Republican ballot in the contest for nomination to the office.

We shall mark our sample primary ballot for this office for Ald. Jack I. Sperling (50th) whom we have long admired for his zeal and courage as an independent Republican. Since he became a member of the Chicago City Council in 1955 he has been a good "watchdog" for the public and has, at times, been mentioned as a potential candidate for mayor. His popularity was shown in 1958 when he was candidate for the Cook County Board of Tax Appeals. Although beaten by the Democratic candidate, he led the Republican county ticket.

A practicing lawyer since 1933, Sperling at one time was rated by the Chicago Bar Assn. to be qualified to be a judge. He is 52 and a Navy combat veteran of World War II. we believe Sperling would be an exceptional attorney general.

Sperling for Attorney General

Jack I. Sperling, 52, is a Navy combat veteran who has served as alderman of the 50th Ward since 1955. His election and re-election, attest his drive record as a councilman because his ward is strongly Democratic. He has been one of the most effective members of the "economy bloc" which has served a useful role of standing guard against the Democratic majority. Sperling is the man best suited for the post

His independence, his aggressive yet reasoned attacks on waste and corruption in the city administration, and his willingness to work diligently at each assignment strike us as qualities that promise effective campaigning and public service.

Mayor Daley's dominance of the Democratic Party will be a major issue in November. Sperling has proved himself a worthy combatant, capable of bringing this issue forcefully to the public's scrutiny.

EDWARD G.
PREE
for LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS

It is impossible for me to meet all of you personally and explain my qualifications and ideas to you before the election; therefore, I am using this article to ask and urge you to support my candidacy for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

I am presently full-time Mayor of Monmouth, Illinois. Before becoming Mayor, I was a Staff Engineer assigned to the International Division of Admiral Corporation. I resigned my position to serve the people of Monmouth as their Mayor. My 13 years experience as an Engineer and Business Administrator qualifies me to serve as your Lieutenant Governor.

I am 37 years old, married, have 3 children, am past 14th District Commander of the American Legion and if elected, will serve full-time as Lieutenant Governor.

As Mayor of Monmouth, I led the municipal, county and township officials in challenging the constitutionality of the "Prevailing Wage Law of 1961" through the courts with a victory for the local governments in retaining their "Home Rule."

As full time Mayor of Monmouth, I have traveled from coast to coast in an effort to find means of economic improvement for our city and have been successful in this effort for we are obtaining new industry, new and improved airport facilities, new hospital facilities and better street, water and sewer facilities for our community.

I am campaigning the State on the following platform:

1. Support decentralization of our State and Federal Government, permitting local (county, township and municipal) Governments to handle matters that can best be handled at local levels.
2. Put the interest of all the people above the interest of any individual, group or organization.
3. Represent all social groups.
4. Represent the best interests of all industry and business both small and large.
5. Support good labor legislation.
6. Be a public servant first and Republican second.

Your help and support will be appreciated

Yours truly,
ALLAN A. WALTERS
Candidate for Lieutenant Governor

Percy Talks Saturday At Miner Junior High

A standing room only crowd is expected Saturday, April 11, at the rally for Charles Percy, according to John Woods and David Regner, respective chairmen for the Wheeling and Elk Grove Township Percy for Governor Committees.

The event, scheduled for 3:30 p.m. at Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner, Arlington Heights, is under the joint sponsorship of both groups. Andrew Lofquist of Arlington Heights has been named rally chairman.

"We feel especially honored to have Chuck Percy appear in our townships so clase to election day," said Regner.

"It is one of his last major public appearances in his bid for the Republican gubernatorial nomination."

WOODS URGED the public to attend, to meet Percy and learn his position on key campaign issues.

In addition to a speech by Percy, a group of women from the area, calling themselves the "Percy Perkettes," will sing a medley of campaign songs. The choral group is under the direction of Mrs. Charles Holroyd of Mount Prospect.

A brass band will also be on hand to entertain the audience with a selection of numbers appropriate to the occasion.

Seated on stage with Regner will be Mrs. H. R. Seloover, chairman of women's activities for Elk Grove Township, George R. Busse, president of the Elk Grove Regular Republican Organization and Mrs. Carl Hansen, wife of Elk Grove Township's Republican Committeeman.

WITH WOODS will be Mrs. Leo Hunter, Wheeling Township women's chairman, Roy Stevenson, regional coordinator of Percy for Governor activities and Wheeling Township Committeeman Tom Houser who has taken over as Percy's campaign manager during the hospitalization of Hansen, the Elk Grove committeeman.

Specially invited guests include the village presidents of Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Palatine and Elk Grove Village.

According to Lofquist, special reminders for the rally are being mailed, distributed door to door and given out at Percy coffee and card parties. Notices are being circulated at shopping centers and train depots.

Kirby Challenges His Auditor Rivals

John Kirby, Williamsville, Republican candidate for state auditor, opened the week with a challenge to his GOP opponents to let their program for the office of auditor be known.

In a statement, Kirby pointed out that during the entire course of the campaign, which has embraced more than 70,000 miles of travel, he has steadfastly urged that Illinois financial problems — taxation and spending—be screened by the established fiscal board of the state—the governor, the auditor, and the treasurer.

"Obviously this is impossible in this administration," Kirby said, "but it is a distinct possibility in a Republican administration. Right now the governor and the auditor, although both are Democrats, don't see exactly eye to eye on governmental matters ,and make no attempt to come to an agreement.

"AND NEITHER will have anything to do with the treasurer because he is a Republican, and—even greater sin—is for saving money.

"These three should work together to save money, to plan spending, to establish sane tax policy, and under a Republican administration that can be done. My idea of a fiscal board has met with good response by the candidates for governor on the Republican ticket. We know we can do the job, but where is the program of my opponents?"

Kerner Committee Formed in Township

The formation of a Volunteers for Kerner Committee was announced in Wheeling Township by the co-chairmen Nello Benedetti of 4 N. Edwards, Mount Prospect, and Mrs. June Arnold of 194 Glendale, Buffalo Grove.

Other committee members are: Mrs. Kay Schuster, 210 N. Elm, Mount Prospect; Patrick Martin, 236 Brucewood, Buffalo Grove; Mrs. Eleanor Norman, 1840 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights; Jack L. Wood, 1625 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Margaret Schuld, 365 Marion Court, Wheeling; Bruno Josephs, 229 E. Norman Lane, Wheeling; Mrs. Patricia Kerwin, 1004 Elmhurst Road, Prospect Heights, and Philip Zigante, 104 N. Coldren, Prospect Heights.

Any resident of Wheeling Township who is interested in helping the volunteer group's work on the behalf of the reelection of Governor Otto Kerner, may call Benedetti at CL 3-2258 or Mrs. Norman at CL 9-3133.

Do not say, "It looks like rain." This is a colloquial contraction for, "It looks AS IF IT WOULD rain."

It is much better to say, "He feels SOMEWHAT discouraged," instead of, "He feels KIND OF discouraged."

FELLOW REPUBLICANS!

A personal message from
WILLIAM D. STIEHL
Republican Candidate for
ATTORNEY GENERAL

As an Active Republican for almost twenty years and a practicing Attorney in Belleville for fourteen years I sincerely desire to further serve our party and the people of the State of Illinois as Attorney General.

Politically I am now serving my second term as Republican County Chairman of St. Clair County. I am active as a member of the Executive Committee of the Illinois Republican County Chairmens Association, and also serve on the Board of Governors of the Illinois Republican Citizens League. Previously I served as President of St. Clair County, and as Vice President of the Illinois Young Republican Organizations.

Professionally, as a practicing Attorney I was President of our Belleville Bar Association 1956-57, Civil Attorney of St. Clair County 1956-60, President of Belleville Board of Education 1956-57, a member of the board 1949-56. Presently I am a member of the St. Clair County, Illinois State and American Bar Associations.

I served in the U.S. Navy in World War II and was recalled to duty as Chief legal advisor to the Naval delegate at the Korean Armistice conference for which I was later decorated.

As the only downstate Republican Candidate for Attorney General my nomination will add balance and strength to our Republican Ticket in November. My professional experience ably qualifies me to administer this important state office, not on a basis of political favor and expediency, but solely on opinions based on impartial interpretations of State Laws.

On this proven record of party service, professional experience and ability I ask your vote and support of my candidacy Tuesday, April 14th.

Sincerely,

Bill Stiehl

We endorse Charles Percy and his program for a Dynamic Illinois

THE CRISIS IN ILLINOIS To protect the future of every citizen of this state, Illinois' economy must grow. And grow fast. To provide adequate opportunity for all our citizens we must generate new jobs at the rate of nearly 2000 a week, every week, for the next 4 years and beyond.

MY CAMPAIGN PLEDGE I pledge the kind of dynamic leadership the State of Illinois must have to meet the critical challenges of the future.

I will bring 25 years of business experience to bear on the economic problems which hobble our state.

I will work tirelessly to generate the hundreds of thousands of new jobs we must have to satisfy the needs of all our people, the new jobs needed to get our citizens off relief rolls and on to payrolls.

I will mount an all-out assault on waste and inefficiency in state administration to keep taxes down.

And I will work for a great resurgence of Republicanism in Illinois, to return Republicans to public office throughout the state, and to carry Illinois for the Republican Party in 1964.

North Star Boy Scouts Launch Expansion Program

A program to meet the growing demand for new units in the North Star District of Northwest Suburban Boy Scout Council was launched recently at a dinner meeting in Randhurst Town Hall.

Representatives of 22 churches, schools and other community groups met to obtain materials that would help them form new scouting units and hear the story of scouting.

Chairman for the program, "Together We Organize," is Carl Hammerl, executive vice president of the Mount Prospect State Bank. Assisting him is W. Roy Martin, 422 S. Elmhurst, Mount Prospect.

THE ASSEMBLED representatives heard Marlin W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago office of the FBI, state that in 20 years with the FBI, he has never had any problems with boys actively engaged in Scouting.

Cub Scout John Martin, son of W. Roy Martin, welcomed the group, and Steve Carley, 123 S. Lancaster, a member of Boy Scout Troop 55, told the adults of the fun he has had being a scout.

"I hope you folks will make it possible for all my buddies to have the same fun and experiences I am having," he said.

Clergy participating in the program were the Rev. John A. McLoraine, pastor of St. Emily Catholic church in Mount Prospect, and the Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom, pastor of Forest River Evangelical Free Church of Mount Prospect.

CHURCHES, SCHOOLS and organizations participating in the meeting were:

Forest River Evangelical Free Church, Lutheran Church and School of St. John, St. Emily's Catholic Church, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Northwest Covenant Church, Community Presbyterian Church, Gregory School, Lincoln School PTA, Sunset School PTA and William Busse School PTA, all of Mount Prospect.

Grace Evangelical Church, Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd and Walt Whitman School, all of Prospect Heights.

Herzog and Devonshire Schools, Des Plaines.

Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Buffalo Grove.

ST. JOSEPH the Worker, Mark Twain PTA, Carl Sandburg PTA, First Baptist Church, Phil Carpenter AMVETS Post and Wheeling Jaycees, all of Wheeling.

Douglas Gomm, district commissioner, 514 N. Emerson, Mount Prospect, said the North Star District currently has 2,200 boys enrolled in scout programs. There are 6,500 boys in the eligible age group, 8 to 16, he said. By 1970 there will be 14,000. Scouting for 500 of the 6,500 will be made possible through the new expansion program.

High School Candidates Take Stands

Elect 3 at Saturday Vote

by JIM CARNS
Staff Writer

Five candidates are seeking three positions on the Arlington High School District 214 board of education in the April 11 election.

As background for a choice at the polls, the Herald interviewed each of the five candidates, asking a standard set of questions on the local school situation.

The candidates interviewed, in alphabetical order, are H. W. Armstrong, 920 Tower Dr., Mount Prospect; Mrs. Eugenia S. Chapman, 903 N. Kaspar, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Leah D. Cummins, 1009 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village; T. Earl Thompson, 412 N. Pine, Mount Prospect, and Lowell F. Todd Jr., 2606 Cardinal Dr., Rolling Meadows.

QUESTIONS used were the following:

1. How do you feel your profession or professional training will aid you, if at all, in school board matters?
2. Do you feel it is the place of the school board to question teaching methods and materials, or simply to follow the recommendations of the superintendent and watch finances.
3. Do you feel that enough, too much, or not enough money is being spent for education in the district?
4. Are facilities adequate, including the building program now in progress, or are there inadequacies within the established schools?
5. Do you feel that the district should continue its trend toward special education provisions and social services?
6. What inadequacies, if any, do you see in the present school setup?
7. DO YOU FEEL that the board is over-using or under-using its authority in any areas.
8. Have you attended any school board meetings
9. Do you seek to change the board's method of operation?
10. Do you think there should be a closer tie between high schools and grade schools, and if so ,in what nature?
11. Why are you running for the board?

The candidates' answers, which follow under name headings, have been shortened and paraphrased in the interest of space economy and equal presentation.

H. W. ARMSTRONG

H. W. Armstrong, who is employed in a sales executive position sees his background of "dealing with people at all times" as useful on the school board.

An incumbent appointed to fill a board vacancy two months ago, he "feels it is the place of the board to question finances and the superintendent's recommendations on teaching methods and materials."

"Generally the recommendations of the superintendent in these areas should be qualified, but by the same token I don't feel every recommendation should be rubber stamped.

"I WOULD SAY that at the present time our district rates are below average as far as per capita expenditure, but we have been very fortunate in that our children have been receiving above average standards of education. Right at the moment I see no need to increase per capita expenditures.

"Improvements should be made in older facilities to bring them up to par with new buildings now being built," Armstrong said. He noted that the district has profited by experience in construction, and there are needs for additional facilities at Arlington, Prospect and Forest View high schools.

"We will have a lay committee completely analyze the need and costs of a complete swimming program in the district. I heartily agree that this is the right approach to make.

"We are doing a good job in preparing the high schools in the district to offer special educational services. With a district as large as ours now and the trend toward rapid growth, this segment of education will undoubtedly grow."

ARMSTRONG also spoke of the possibility of special provisions for vocational education, possibly to be made in the sixth school now entering the planning stages for the district. He added, "I don't think there are enough students for an entire vocational school."

Armstrong said because of his position on the board he did not feel himself in a position to comment on whether the board is over-using or under-using its authority, but said "The board and superintendent have a very harmonious working relationship.

"The board has taken the advice of professional consultants and made great strides in improving operations as a policy-making body."

On his reasons for running, Armstrong said, "When I was appointed as a replacement, I felt it would be unfair to accept responsibility for a three-year term.

"I feel qualified in the fact that I have been active in the affairs of the district, enjoy working on the board, and realize the great deal of work that has to be done."

MRS. EUGENIA S. CHAPMAN

Mrs. Eugenia Chapman, who was professionally trained and has worked as a school teacher, feels this has given her "an understanding of the staff viewpoint, educational philosophy and theory ,and of the organization of the schools.

"It is the responsibility of the school board to try to understand the educational program of the schools to be well informed—this includes methods and materials. Members of the board should be guided very strongly by the recommendations of the staff, and matters involving methods and materials should be a cooperative undertaking involving the staff, administration and the board.

"I FEEL ENOUGH money is being spent in this district at the present time to provide a quality educational program for our children," Mrs. Chapman continued. "I would be most unhappy to see less money spent per student. On the other hand, a great deal of money could be spent in worthwhile ways that would improve the quality of the education.

"We have an excellent building program which is providing economy, but functional economy. The problem facing us will be to continually bring our established schools up to facilities provided in the newest schools.

"The responsibility of the board is to look at the needs of all the schools in the district and to meet those needs in terms of urgency."

MRS. CHAPMAN found an "unquestionable need" to continue the trend toward special education, adding that "We are in a fortunate position because we can see children in need of special education coming up through the grade schools."

She stressed a re-valuation of the educational program in "the light of meeting the needs of the 40 per cent of our high school graduates who do not go to college."

On use of authority, Mrs. Chapman commented, "The present board is operating harmoniously and constructively, and is living up to its responsibility as a board; but I believe it is staying within the bounds of its authority.

"At the present time the board operates as a whole, except for special committees appointed from time to time to study specific matters. I would not seek to change the operations."

"EXCELLENT articulation exists now between the high schools and underlying grade schools. As far as coordination of programs is concerned, there should be continuous efforts to develop an even closer relationship.

"As an incumbent, I believe that anyone who has served on the board for three years should, i fat all possible, seek a second term. Since school district matters are complicated, a considerable amount of time at the beginning of one's service goes into becoming informed about the school system.

"I believe the strength of our government lies in the quality of education we offer our children."

MRS. LEAH D. CUMMINS

Because of her background as administrator -turned-housewife, Mrs. Leah Cummins feels she has the background to "look at the global view, not the narrow one."

"I would take exception to anyone who thinks of himself or of his community only," she said.. "The greatest strength I think we can have is active interest."

On curriculum: "I think a very prime function of the board is to be concerned about the course of study and curriculum of the child. In some instances I can see where the High School Elects 3 2nd galley board would take the initiative, although I realize the superintendent is specialized and in a position to use the best recommendations from his staff.

"NOT ENOUGH money is being spent, per child, on education, but it is not my feeling that the difference should be made up necessarily by the taxpayers. Illinois contributes one of the smallest percentages of state funds used for education.

"As of now, school facilities are adequate, but because of increasing school population these facilities are going to obsolesce quickly. It doesn't stop with the fact that we have passed a referendum for a new high school.

"I feel the district should continue its trend toward special education," Mrs. Cummins said, "and increase every effort in this direction."

"The inadequacy most apparent in the school district is lack of participation on the part of the parents. With better communication to the parents they can take more part, and this can only be good.

"ANOTHER THING to me that is missing is a swimming pool in each of the five high schools. The fact that it costs money is not enough reason for the students to be deprived of it."

Mrs. Cummins said she feels she is not in a position to discuss the board's use of authority without being on the board, and added that she has "unfortunately not been to a school board meeting."

She also said she would have to get a close look at the operation before she could say there should be changes in methods of operation, "But from the results I have seen I think they are operating very soundly and practically."

She was impressed with the ties existing between grade schools and the high schools, particularly in preparation for the transition.

"I'M RUNNING for the board because I want to take an active role in community affairs," Mrs. Cummins said. "Before this time I was engaged in business, but have served as a Girl Scout leader.

"I feel I have the background education—and business-wise to materially contribute to the action of the board. I have the ability to make decisions independently, and to establish and maintain working relationships."

T. EARL THOMPSON

T. Earl Thompson points to his background in personnel, administration ,accounting and finance as potential assets on the school board. He added that "A combination of these should also give a good understanding of what youngsters are going to face."

On board responsibility Thompson said, "The board has a good superintendent, and should give him the authority and responsibility to set teaching methods and materials in the district."

He said per capital school expenditures have resulted in "a pretty good extensive program. I don't know whether it's a question of how much rather than how we are spending. This would be one of the things that we would have to learn, but expenditure appears to be adequate."

"It seems to me that the newer schools are more complete, including Wheeling. There are still some inadequacies in Prospect High School where the building program has never been finished." He mentioned the lack of a foyer and additional athletic stations at Prospect, and said similar needs were felt in other schools.

THOMPSON saw "the definite responsibility of modern education to provide special education and social services, including an early and continued need for counselling." He also envisioned establishment of a vocational school.

"Vocational training is a growing inadequacy in the district, but we mustn't concentrate on just those not going to college. We have to see that our program also prepares those going to college."

He commented that, since there appears to be a good relation between the board, the administration, and teachers, the board probably is not over-using its authority. "If it was over-using, I'm sure there would be some problem."

But after attendance at about half a dozen board meetings, Thompson noted, "I understand they're supposed to meet two days a month. I understand they have, over the past months, met almost once a week. I would hope by a study of the agenda to turn over many of the problems to the superintendent for his decision and action, relieving the board from spending many hours on procedure rather than policy."

ON SCHOOL TIES, "I think there is a good tie, from my experience, between present high schools and grade schools. I feel the programs we run in the high schools to acquaint grade school teachers, students and parents with the high school are good, and adequate."

"I've been a working parent on programs my boy and girl have participated in, and have a great understanding of the needs and wants of teens.

"In order for the district to have an impartial board, that makes all decisions to the benefit of the entire district rather than specific localities, the board representation should be spread throughout District 214, and the town of Mount Prospect should be represented by two members."

LOWELL F. TODD JR.

"In my work I am directly involved with major decisions, great expenditures of money, and all types of people in all types of industry," Lowell F. Todd Jr. answered on what his profession would lend to the school board.

He sees the place of the school board "to set general policies, control finances, and generally oversee all major decisions regarding additional schools, etc. The school board, in my estimation is not trained to make decisions regarding curriculum, teaching methods, or anything pertinent to the actual instruction of the student.

"I feel that District 214 has done quite well regarding the academic standards of the school systems to compare this expenditure per child with expenditures of other areas surrounding the district.

"Judging by the rating of District 214, the facilities are generally adequate. It could be said that every high school in District 214 should have a swimming pool. My question would be, how is a swimming pool going to assist in rounding out the education of the students?"

TODD SAID, "Our problem as parents and potential members of a school board is to educate our children, or in other words to give our child the tools with which to survive in this ever increasingly complex world. If some children are not as fortunate as others, they should be equipped with those tools that they are able to control.

"In a district as large as 214, I feel that in regards to the school board there should be representatives from all major areas of the district. Unless we have such representation, we will be unable to provide what is best for each area."

He called for a line of authority in the school system to be much like that in business, and said that from his view that system had been established without giving the board too much or too little authority.

Todd added that, though he had been to no school board meetings, the board's record "speaks well of what they have done."

"IF THERE IS A closer tie between elementary and secondary schools, naturally this would prove to be advantageous," he said. "But this is not of necessity because I feel that all school systems have the same primary objective."

"With the population growth we have, we as parents have a great deal of responsibility placed on our shoulders to provide our children with the best tools to use in their adult lives.

"I feel we owe this to our children, and our children in turn will owe this to their offspring. Perhaps some little decision made now will directly affect the education of my children and of all children in this area."

Q. I realize it is not a "must," but if a girl wishes to give her fiance an engagement gift, what should it be?

A. Usually some piece of jewelry—cuff links, key chain, tie clasp, monogrammed belt buckle, cigarette case, or lighter.

Q. Is it quite proper nowadays to type social letters?

A. Yes, and it's increasingly popular, too. Typed letters should be written on a single sheet, with only one side of the paper used. And be sure that your signature at the end of the letter is written by hand.

DECOROUS; becoming; proper; seemly. (Accent first syllable). "His suave, decorous manner was pleasing."

Dinner Guests to Hear of Microwaves

The importance of microwaves, stand-ins for telephone wires, will be explained by a representative of Illinois Bell Telephone Co. to those attending a father and son banquet Friday, April 17, at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church of Arlington Heights.

J. E. UDELL

The banquet is sponsored by the Men's Club of the church at 1234 N. State Road.

J. E. Udell, public relations representative, will demonstrate with a working model how microwaves can carry telephone calls and television from coast to coast or around the world.

He will tell the story of Project Echo, which allowed man's voice to leap into space and back again for the first time in history. He also will describe Project Telstar and satellite systems of the near future which will allow instantaneous communications between any two points on earth. (A

A great deal of notice has come to the judge recently as a result of presenting these findings to various legal and religious gatherings, said the Rev. John P. Petersen, pastor of Our Saviour's.

The Church Council and the Parish Education Committee of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church have scheduled programs on "Youth in Church and Community" and "The Laity in The Church" for April and May.

Campbell Attends Institute

Alan Campbell, administrator of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, was among some 1,500 members of the legal and medical professions who met recently in Ann Arbor, Mich., for an in-depth look at medical malpractice.

The program, which drew registrants from throughout America and Canada, was presented by the Institute of Continuing Legal Education of The University of Michigan Law School, Wayne State University Law School and the State Bar of Michigan.

Registrants heard discussions become a problem of mounting concern to lawyers, doctors, hospital administrators and the general public. They also viewed realistic demonstrations of malpractice suits, featuring top trial lawyers. (B9

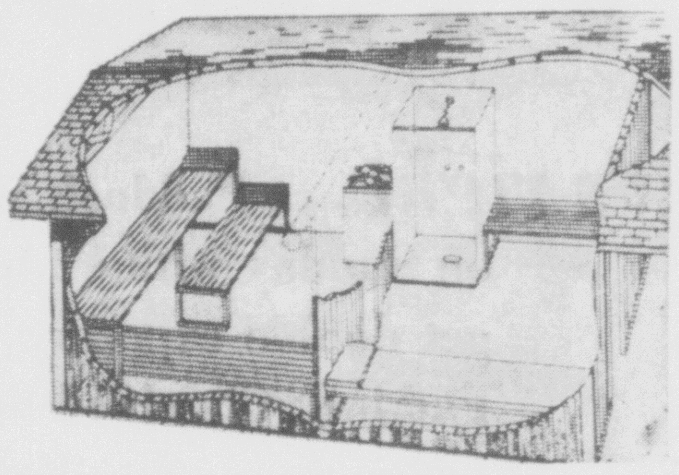
NORDIC SAUNA'S DRY HEAT BATH

- Comforts aching muscles
- Produces soft smooth skin
- Executives — Relax Tension
- Hairdos don't go limp
- Remove skin blemishes



You must try it before you can truly appreciate the wonderful sense of well-being induced by a Nordic (t.m.) Sauna electric dry heat bath.

Nordic Sauna's high heat and low humidity induces complete composure of mind and body, with no discomfort or oppressiveness as in steam baths. Yet temperatures are actually much hotter (175° F or more). The dry heat speeds up circulation and causes free flow of perspiration which cleanses the body of impurities. Thorough rinsing in water and a period of relaxation complete a sauna bath cycle.

Sauna bathing is catching-on all over America. It is proving one of the greatest methods of improving the skin condition and appearance (as well as good health measures) to people of all ages.

Prospect Bands to Play Spring Concert Saturday

The Prospect High School Music Department will present the Symphonic Band and the Concert Band in the annual Spring Concert Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Prospect Fieldhouse.

Faculty members Edward W. Volz and Dean R. DePoy will conduct the bands in selections from orchestral repertoire as well as contemporary band compositions.

For the first time in the history of Prospect, a student composition is being performed. Written by John M. Higgins of Arlington Heights, the march "Six by Eight" will be given its first public performance with the composer conducting. Young Higgins is first tuba player in the Symphonic Band.

Other selections by the Symphonic Band include the award-winning "Concert Suite" by Frederic Ashe; Rimsky-Korsakov's stirring "Procession of the Nobles"; the First Suite in E Flat by Gustav Holst; Charpentier's "Ballet de Plaisir"; and a march by the redoubtable march king, John Philip Sousa —"Sabre and Spurs."

THE CONCERT Band's contribution from the Viennese style of composition is Haydn's "March for the Prince of Wales." Twentieth Century works to be featured by the Concert Band include Charles Carter's Symphonic Overture, Leroy Anderson's "Minstrel Boy," "Coat of Arms" by George Kenny, and "Variation Overture" by Clifton Williams.

Eighth grade band students who will attend Prospect High School next year and their parents will be the guests of the music department at Saturday's concert.

Tickets at 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students may be purchased at the door.

JOHN HIGGINS, student composer, will conduct his own composition at the Prospect High School band's annual spring concert 8 p.m. Saturday in Prospect fieldhouse.

GIRLS SWIM MEET plans are reviewed by State Meet Director Joseph E. Lesniak, Prospect Heights, on right, with Northwest Suburban YMCA Coach Roger Tobin and Girls Activities Director Helen Corell. Lesniak and his staff of assistants drawn from all over the state will run meet at Glenbrook North High this Saturday under sponsorship of Des Plaines YMCA. 500 contestants will represent 29 qualifying "Y's" from those that survived district tournament action.

LessonsInEnglish

Do not say, "The dog runs like he was hurt." Say, "The dog runs AS IF he WERE hurt."

The use of STAND, as, "I can't stand it," and, "I won't stand for his coming home so late," is a colloquialism and should not be used in formal English. It is better to say, "I can't ENDURE it," and, "I won't TOLERATE his coming home so late."

Distinguish between TO ADMIT (to give entrance to, or in a figurative sense, to grant as true), and TO ADMIT OF (to allow or permit). Thus: "This ticket admits one person to the game." "The size of the auditorium will admit OF not more than a hundred persons' hearing the concert."

Promise to Keep Regent Park Pond

The Arlington Heights village board passed another resolution Monday in hopes that it would clear up problems surrounding Regent Park subdivision and Prospect High School.

The resolution, addressed to the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, guarantees that a retention pond located in the center of the Regent Park development will be kept for that use.

The guarantee was requested by the Sanitary District in order to grant sanitary sewer tap-on permits to Regent Park units and an administration building now under construction on the high school property.

THE DRAINAGE pond must house runoff water from the high school property in order to prevent overloading of combined storm and sanitary sewers adjacent to the property, the district claims.

The village board passed one resolution, which was refused by the Sanitary District, and the district in turn proposed the language for an acceptable resolution; but the village Monday refused to accept that wording —using instead an alternate proposed by Village Atty. Jack Siegel.

The resolution proposed by the Sanitary District spelled out the steps by which the permanence of the retention basin would be assured, but the village resolution simply makes the guarantee without spelling out the steps.

OFTEN MISUSED

Do not say, "He was with us throughout the whole week." Since "throughout" means from end to end, or in every part of, omit "whole."

James Glynn

The name of James Glynn, chosen treasurer of the Arlington Heights Community Council last week, was omitted by mistake from the Herald's article.

Glynn, who lives at 2123 E. Grove St. in the village, will be installed along with other elected officers at the May 14 Commco meeting.

St. Peter's PTL To Present Circus

St. Peter PTL is sponsoring a "TNT Circus" on Friday, April 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the school gym, 111 W. Olive.

An all professional show, the circus will feature performers from Spangleland's "population of perfectionists." Each artist is billed as tops in his particular field, and has appeared with circuses both on TV and in road shows all over the country.

CLOWNS, A juggler, life-size puppets, bicycle and animal acts are included in the performances to be presented during the two-hour show. Refreshments are also planned.

Tickets, $1.35 for adults, and 50 cents for children, may be purchased from ways and means committee members or by calling Mrs. A. Demczyna at CL 3-1448.

Q. When are the bread and rolls served at a dinner?

A. As soon as the soup is served, the rolls or bread are passed. Most popular container nowadays is a shallow wicker basket that has a fringed napkin laid in it, and several sorts of bread displayed.

Eastwood Events

Tracing the backgrounds of two famous Americans, Mark Twain and Abraham Lincoln, lent educational aspect to the Easter vacation of the William Edgertons and their son Bob of N. Dryden Avenue. From Hannibal, Mo., where they learned all about Twain, the Edgertons went on to Salem Village to see the Lincon memorabilia. Their leisurely trip ended in Indianapolis where they visited with former Arlington Heighters, the Harding Miller family.

The Dick Kozakiewicz' son, Ricky, was all set to celebrate his April 1st seventh birthday with a party last Saturday afternoon, but illness caused a postponement of plans, and a later affair is tentatively set for this coming Saturday. Nevertheless the whole birthday weekend wasn't a complete loss for Ricky, as his relatives arrived on Sunday for a family celebration.

JUDY OSWEILER, the Vincent Osweilers' daughter of 307 N. Beverly Lane, is receiving congratulations on her initiation into Alpha Xi Delta sorority at Wisconsin State College, La-Crosse, where she is a junior in the school of physical education.

Mr. and Mrs. William Richter of N. Dryden Avenue were hosts at a dinner party Saturday night. A game of cards provided the after-dinner entertainment.

Sunday the Richters were guests in Schaumburg when their grand-nephew, Mike Kramer, was confirmed in St. Hubert's Church. Bernice and Bill attended a get-together at the Kramer home after the church services.

A most hearty welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas White and their four children, who are now at home at 634 N. Dryden Ave. The four little Whites are Tamara, 4, John, 3, Tim, 2, and baby Tracey, 5 months old. Mr. White is an employe of Chicago Latrobe Co.

BOB AND SALLY Lollar and their three daughters, Julie, Cindy and Susie, who were the former occupants of the White residence are now living on Stratford Ave. Before leaving the neighborhood next-door neighbor, Naomi Edgerton, entertained at a coffee for Mrs. Lollar and her mother, Mrs. Alfred Booth, who came from Webster Groves, Mo. to help the Lollars with their moving chores.

Even though the flu bug hit every member of the Cockrell family while vacationing Easter week at Lake Lawn in Delavan, they still managed to have four days of fun, swimming and resting up before returning to business and their respective schools. The Cockrells' eldest daughter, Mary Elizabeth, was vacationing from studies at Ripon College where she is a freshman and president of her Alpha Xi Delta pledge class.

A most propitious business trip took William Stueber of N. Beverly Lane to Washington, D.C. Easter week, so with a week's vacation ahead of them, Mrs. Stueber and Kurt and Karen went along. They left on Good Friday, and while Mr. Stueber, a patent attorney, was busy in the patent office, Mrs. Stueber and the children "sightsaw" along with "everybody and everybody's brother" who seemed to be in Washington last week.

THEY SAW President Kennedy's grave, which the guide said had been visited by 50,000 people the previous day. After a little wait they got into the White House, visited the Bureau of Engraving, saw Ford's Theatre where Lincoln was shot. In the FBI building they visited the target range where Kurt was fortunate enough to be given the practice target, which is an outline of a man. In Georgetown the Stuebers saw the home where Mrs. Kennedy and the children are now living.

After leaving the Capital the Stuebers drove to Williamsburg for a short visit and when they went through Washington again on the way home, the cherry blossoms were just beginning to bloom.

When the Girls' Chorus of Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio, toured the major cities in the East and Midwest recently, Leslie Kellogg was a member of the group on the annual concert tour. Leslie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kellogg of 1007 E. Euclid Ave.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

The experience of fostering a good-will friendship on a direct contact basis was one that a Ridge Park family appreciated recently. Last fall the Jack Le Beaus visited Mr. and Mrs. Theo Muller and daughter in Cologne, Germany During Easter week, Mr. Muller came to Chicago on a business trip, and he was treated to the hospitality of his friends in Arlington Heights. While here, he had an opportunity to do sightseeing in both Chicago and Milwaukee. He also enjoyed American style restaurants, but the Easter dinner he shared with Mr. and Mrs. Le Beau and Susie at 906 N. Yale, was probably the one that pleased him most.

Two memorable occasions took place at Faith Lutheran Church on Palm Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. William Lee, 1012 N. Ridge. Their son, Randy, was confirmed and their daughter, Maureen, was baptized. Relatives who came to the home afterward included the children's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Lee of Chicago, as well as others from Hoffman Estates, Des Plaines and Wheeling.

Joan Oertel was home from Illinois State University at Normal in time to help her parents, John and Liz Oertel, celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary on March 25. The Oertels reside at 708 S. Salem.

EASTER vacation gave Charles and Jean Harrington the chance to return to their home state of Tennessee and visit their parents, the R. E. Givens of Ripley and Mrs. Pauline Hazlewood of Humboldt. For the Givens and Mrs. Hazlewood, it was an opportunity to share a week of pleasure with their grandchildren, Tina and Kelly Harrington.

Lynn Buckley, Sandy Schultheis and Shirley Elsner were among the high school students who flew to Washington, D. C., on March 30. They were in the area until April 3.

At 736 N. Harvard, there is a circle drawn around the date April 2. Perhaps this was Karen Munsen's gentle reminder to her parents, the Martin Munsens, that their daughter's 11th birthday was that day. The reminder was heeded. Karen was treated to dinner Thursday evening, but her happiest moment came on Saturday, when she and 10 friends were taken to an afternoon movie. The girls returned to Karen's home for refreshments. Present for the occasion were Peggy Cunningham, Debbie Danes, Janis Balfour, Tina Harrington, Lynn Gray, Kathy Bobzien, Sheila Shelkop, Kyle McKay, Darlene Strait, all of Arlington Heights, and Karen Wojciuch of Mount Prospect.

THE GEORGE Sampsons 1013 W. Oakton, attended the April 4 wedding ceremony of Mrs. Shirley Eeles and Lloyd B. Flikeid. The new bride is a former resident of Ridge Park and lived on N. Yale for a number of years. They will make their home in Park Ridge.

Diana Rosenblatt was recently officially "pinned" to John McCrudden of Rockford and John came to Arlington Heights to be the Easter weekend guest of Diana's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenblatt of 1007 N. Salem. The Rosenblatts newly-wed son and daughter-in-law, Edward and Nancy, came from Itasca to join the group on Easter.

Bee Danes, 725 N. Harvard, who spent several days in Holy Family Hospital last week, is now recuperating at home.

The party in the Edward Elenz home, 1008 N. Ridge, on Palm Sunday was in honor of their son, Mark. He was confirmed at St. Simon Episcopal Church in Arlington Heights that day, and on April 3 he was 11. Mark's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kauphusman, and his aunt, Miss Gwen Kauphusman, were the guests from Chicago.

IT IS HOPED that Mrs. Edna Lawder of Murphysboro won't meet again with the misfortune that beset her as she came to Arlington Heights this time. She had barely arrived at the home of her daughter and family, the Richard Ethertons of 915 W. Elm, before the garage door slammed shut on her hand. Two fingers were broken in the painful accident. Mrs. Lawder has taken it all in stride, though, and along with her mother, Mrs. Lula Hicks of Murphysboro, is enjoying the remainder of her visit with the Ethertons.

Reports still coming in from Easter confirm that many activities went on, snow or not. Mr. and Mrs. T. Merle Paul, 815 W. Oakton, drove to Harvard to spend the day with her mother, Mrs. Louise Lemker. Also making the trip to Harvard to be with the family were the Pauls' daughter and husband, Ardeth and Jim Yates, who brought their young charmer, Karen.

At 647 N. Kaspar, the home of Arthur and Betty Hughes, more Easter pleasure could be found. They were dinner hosts for Arthur's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harmon from Chicago.

PATTI SHUMATE, 717 N. Salem, began the month of April with the celebration of her 11th birthday. On wednesday, a party was given for Susan Inselberger, Diane Corda, Cyn Dee Kort, LeAnne Niell, Lynn Cornell, Kathy Owens, Ellen Olson, Dawn Dolejs, Donna Miller and Trudi Pods. Margie Phillipp injured her hand and wasn't able to join the group.

Mrs. John Clark, 921 N. Princeton, and her mother, Mrs. P. S. Brubaker of Arlington Heights, went to Pasadena, Calif., on March 18 and returned home April 1. They enjoyed a general sightseeing trip of the Los Angeles area, but the main object of the journey was to visit Mrs. Louise Cushing in Pasadena. The meeting between Mrs. Clark and her aunt, Mrs. Cushing, was quite eventful, because they had not been together for 15 years.

FROM SHERWOOD

Since Rick's college days are not too far in the distant future, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald House, decided to spend the days between March 27 and April 1 taking him on a tour of various campuses. They started with the University of Miami in Ohio and also visited other universitities in Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. When they returned home, their older son, Don, phoned long-distance from the Naval Air Station in Jacksonville. He and his patrol squadron had just returned to Florida from Puerto Rico.

Patty Faust, a freshman at the University of Illinois, is a recent pledge of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. She was home with her parents, the Wayne Fausts of 1314 W. Clarendon, during spring vacation and returned to Champaign April 6.

Bruce Burgess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burgess, 1218 W. Clarendon, is another student who has resumed his studies at the University of Illinois in Urbana.

There was a birthday celebrant at the Norman Herlihy home, 1008 Burgoyne. David was 8 April 3 and had an after-school party for Mark and Ray Carroll, Ricky and Jeff Palmer and John Heinz. David's brothers and sisters were also present.

The Arthur Travers, 1115 N. Yale, were in Wisconsin for the weekend. They stayed at the Milwaukee Athletic Club and attended a dance there Saturday night; the theme of which was "A Night in Paris." The club's decor was so in keeping with the theme that it almost seemed as though the French city was actually transported to Milwaukee for the occasion.

Get well wishes are sent to 1122 N. Patton, where Laurie Sue Olson is recovering from a tonsillectomy.

800 Kids At Easter Egg Hunt

An estimated 800 children turned out for the Third Annual Arlington Heights Park District Easter Egg Hunt.

The event was held at Pioneer, Recreation, and Hasbrook parks for boys and girls in 5th grade and under.

The Arlington Heights Campfire Girls and their leaders assisted the park district in preparations. The younger girls boiled and colored the 200 dozen eggs and the older girls hid the eggs on the day of the hunt, while the children enjoyed a cartoon show inside.

PRIZES, DONATED by Bowen Hardware, were awarded to those finding specially marked eggs.

Bill Appleby, superintendent of recreation for the Park District, extended his gratitude to all those who helped and cooperated to make the event possible.

Break Ground for New Rolling Green Clubhouse

The long-awaited ground breaking ceremony was held Saturday, April 4, at Rolling Green Country Club to officially launch construction of a new half-million dollar clubhouse.

Thomas A. Coward, club president, wielded a golden spade to move the first dirt to make way for the structure, to encompass 43,000 square feet of floor space.

The modern design "Y" shaped building is to include enlarged lounge and dining areas and private meeting rooms, designed to accommodate the present and future needs of the club's membership.

Windows on three sides of the dining areas will overlook the club's fairways, swimming pool and combination water hazard and duck pond. A centrally located kitchen will be equipped to serve up to 350 people.

ARCHITECT for the project, scheduled for completion by 1965, is E. M. Borre of the firm of Cooley and Borre. A. J. Weissmueller is chairman of the building committee, through which the project was born.

"We're embarking on this expansion program in order to continue providing top grade private country club facilities in keeping with the population and income growth in the northwest suburban area," Coward stated at the ground breaking.

The facilities are designed also to provide a larger social membership in the club.

ATTENDING the ground breaking ceremony along with club members were mayors of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Park Ridge; Commissioner William Erickson of the Cook County board, and Chicago District Golf Association officials.

The present clubhouse, with an entrance off of Rand Road north of Euclid, will remain in operation until the new one is built around it.

HAIL TO THE CHIEF

"THE KING is dead, long live the King," is an ancient cry that is a seeming contradiction to the man who does not know that two Kings are thought of and "the President is dead, long live the President!" might seem amazing to one who does not know that two Presidents are thought of and that by the orderly process of our democratic government Lyndon B. Johnson has become the President of the United States of America.

We therefore join with millions of our people in shouting the ancient words, "Hail to the Chief!" And let our prayers be mingled that the Mighty One whom George Washington addressed as the Benign Parent of the human race will guide the man who has by chance become the President of the United States.

The Way We See It

Percy Is Best Bet For Illinois GOP

Paddock Publications recommends that Republican voters mark their ballots for Charles H. Percy as the nominee for governor at next Tuesday's primary.

We offer several important reasons why Percy will make a stronger candidate than William J. Scott, his rival.

First is Percy's outstanding record in industry. He became president of Bell & Howell when it was a none too robust company and piloted the firm to a foremost place in its field during the next 15 years. Percy has demonstrated more executive ability than any other candidate for governor in years.

However, that alone is not enough to recommend him. Some businessmen of proved talent have fallen flat on their faces in Washington, in various state capitols, and other political arenas.

But we think Percy has some talent for playing the game of politics. The main evidence is his success as head of the United Republican Fund, which collects money for GOP causes in Illinois, and as chairman of the committee that wrote the 1960 Republican national platform.

Both these efforts required working with different factions in his party and getting agreement. Percy succeeded in doing this.

The third important reason we favor Percy is that he appears better qualified to break with the stale, stifling political habits which hold back the state of Illinois. Percy sounds convincing when he says he will put "first things first." He sounds sincere when he says he will fight patronage excesses. Percy also seems freer than Scott of allies who would stubbornly cling to outdated, narrow political practices.

Percy's biggest failing in this primary campaign has been a striving to be all things to all men. Apparently, he has chosen to steer by the maxim that "the first step in governing is getting elected." Perhaps he has overdone it somewhat. Frankly, we do not see how the chief author of the enlightened platform adopted at the last Republican convention can also say he would "enthusiastically" support Barry M. Goldwater for President.

What of Scott?

He, too, has been successful in business, although on a more modest scale.

Scott does not appear to have as much potential for uniting Republicans as Percy does. When Scott announced his candidacy for the nomination, he denounced "liberals" and "Eastern interests" in the style of the extreme right wing of Republicanism. His intimate association with Hayes Robertson does not enhance his prospects of uniting the party. Scott had to be sharply challenged before he disavowed distribution by some of his supporters of printed material questioning Percy's patriotism.

Scott showed political talent by his successful campaigns in 1962 to be nominated for state treasurer and then elected. But he does not appear to have the same understanding of the broad picture that Percy has.

Scott declined Paddock Publications' invitation to take part in a wide-ranging interview, although offered his choice of dates over a five-week period. We recall that when we interviewed him during his race for state treasurer, he avoided expressing himself except on matters directly connected with the treasurer's office. We do not believe he has the broader grasp of needs and issues that would permit his party to make him chairman of its national platform committee, as Percy was.

Percy has waged a vigorous, high-level campaign in which he demonstrated an informed interest in state problems and a willingness to provide needed leadership.

For Republicans, Charles H. Percy is the best bet for governor.

We Recommend Bickley

The Republican nomination for Cook County State's Attorney carries some extra importance because the nominee has a better chance than most other Republicans of being elected. At least, this is what the record shows.

Apparently, this is because a large segment of voters, noting that the Democrats dominate city and county offices, want some checks and balances and believe that the law enforcement offices are the best place to get them.

Thus, Benjamin Adamowski was elected state's attorney in 1956 and Richard B. Ogilvie was elected sheriff two years ago, although most of their GOP running mates went down to defeat.

There is considerable contrast between the two Republican aspirants for state's attorney this year — Adamowski and John Bickley of Mount Prospect.

Adamowski is a veteran of the political wars, with many years in the state legislature as well as in city and county politics. At one time a Democrat, he switched parties. He probably knows the ins-and-outs of Cook County politics as well as anyone.

Bickley is a relative newcomer and only 34 years old.

The state's attorney will be expected to battle the syndicate, expose and disperse alliances between crime and politics, make significant inroads on the narcotics traffic which provides the impetus for so much other crime, as well as conduct efficiently all the more routine affairs of the office.

Which Republican is better qualified to tackle the job?

We think the office needs a young and vigorous chief, free of old political entanglements, able to start with a clean slate.

A former Assistant United States District Attorney, Bickley has been a trial lawyer since he was 22 years of age. He was appointed as a special prosecutor in Chicago's Summerdale police burglary scandal and appears to carry the credentials needed to serve well as state's attorney of Cook County. He has set forth a program which, in our opinion, he should be given a chance to implement.

His primary opponent, Adamowski, failed to distinguish himself while he held that office. There is no reason to believe he would do better if given another chance.

For these reasons, we recommend Bickley's nomination.

Critic's Corner

Race Issue Irrational

by PAT ADAM
Staff Editor

There is no doubt in my mind that the major moral issue in this land today is how the white majority is going to react to the attainment of the civil and human rights of the black minority.

I believe the complete attainment of those rights is inevitable, and white citizens have their choice of fighting a losing battle or adjusting willingly to a new set of circumstances.

In the suburbs where many have little direct contact with Negroes and their problems of discrimination, it is easy to turn away from the issue in the belief that it doesn't concern us much anyway.

ADAM

That may be true to the extent that we are confronted with no immediate situation in which we must either act or react, but there are factors at work that may force us to meet a situation before we think we are ready.

LAST YEAR THE Human Relations Commission of Chicago reported that the Negro middle class had grown tremendously in the preceding decade. This trend certainly will increase in the next 10 years both as a natural phenomenon and with impetus from efforts to end or at least ease job and educational discrimination.

There is no reason to think that middle class Negroes are any different from other middle class persons whose power to boost their living standards has increased—they want better homes, better schools and a better community.

Whether all of them will find what they want within the city is debatable, and at least a few are going to see their goals in the suburbs.

THIS MOVE HAS started already with no spectacular success. Most white suburbanites adjust eventually to working with Negroes, learning with Negroes and in other contacts where they have little choice but to conform, but they emphatically shut the door when faced with having Negro neighbors, one area where they still exercise control.

The question of open occupancy seems to arouse more emotion than reason.

Those who oppose open occupancy or forced housing legislation—the term one uses depends upon your side of the fence — are certainly within their rights to challenge such legislation. But they will have to admit, the legislation would never even have been proposed if the Negro had met a welcome reception when he began to seek a home in the suburbs.

THE USUAL argument against Negroes moving into our suburbs is the fear that property values will go down. Any effort to pursue this argument will turn up much evidence to the contrary. Property values depend just as much upon the white resident and his reaction. If he flees, the values may go down.

The Negro seeking a home in the suburbs is not a low income-bracket laborer. He is either in a profession or a skilled worker with the means to buy and maintain a home the same as any white. He is just as eager for a good community as are we who already live in the suburbs. He works just as hard for the money that pays his mortgage.

More than that, he is a human being with hopes, fears, dreams and ideals the same as other American citizens who want more or better for their children than they had themselves. He is also a new breed of Negro, young, confident and proud of his racial heritage and willing to undergo great sacrifices to achieve full realization of what America promises to all its citizens.

COMMUNITY GROUPS and leaders should be working out a positive approach to a situation they may face sooner than they anticipate. Otherwise we will end up with a black city encircled by white suburbs and our own "Berlin wall" of hate and prejudice between.

The issue should be out in the open for discussion, not shoved under the rug like so much unwanted dirt. There are professionals available to give advice on how a community may make the adjustment.

The "pursuit of happiness" has been interpreted to include the right to own property, but that ideal is less than fulfilled if all citizens are not free to choose where they will live. We in the suburbs are the beneficiaries of nearly 200 years of contributions and sacrifices to the cause of freedom, and we dishonor those contributions and sacrifices if we stand in the way of any citizen's achieving his full rights.

'Such Disarming Ease...'

A Hypnotist at Work

by BRUCE LADD
Associate Editor

The intriguing aspect of Edwin L. Baron's hypnosis act is that he puts 'em to sleep with such disarming ease.

Fifteen Arlington Heights' Rotarians and their wives sat in two rows of straight-backed chairs at the Rolling Green Country Club last week.

They stared at the ceiling and heard Baron's soothing voice.

It said: "Close your eyes and relax. You are feeling very tired. You are going to be deep, deep asleep in a few minutes."

LADD

Three of the volunteers-for-hypnosis slept soundly. The others, unable to concentrate themselves into slumber, silently left the stage.

THOSE HYPNOTIZED — a minister, an auto dealer and a salesman — were steered through a humorous series of antics by Baron, who bills himself as "the world's most famous hypnotist."

First it was cold and then it was hot. The subjects laughed heartily at a "suggested" motion picture and then cried real tears when the plot saddened.

Before beginning his demonstration, the middle-aged Baron instructed his audience of 50 local residents to "relax" with him by raising their arms and hands over their heads, interlocking their fingers tightly.

HE APPLIED the sincerity, concentration, and cooperation verbiage and five members of the audience became hypnotized. They were unable to unlock their fingers upon being awakened.

"Hypnotism is one of the most amazing aspects of life," Baron explained at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club of Arlington Heights. "It has solved 'incurable' ills and permitted people to sustain great pain.

"In 2,000 years, no case of a hypnotized person failing to awaken has ever been reported.

"No hypnotized person can be made to do things against his will or character, and no weak-minded person can be hypnotized."

AFTER hypnotizing his three prime subjects, Baron asked them to hold their hands out in front of them. He told them they would feel no pain in their left hands.

And they did not, he proved, by holding a lighted match up to the palm of each left hand.

Next, he advised them that their suitcoats were inside-out. They stood, removed their coats, turned them (in reality) inside-out, and put them back on.

Baron told them they would be greeted by obnoxious odors on either side. They were. One held his handkerchief to his nose, while another scuttled his chair away from his neighbors.

Finally, the three were admonished to awaken, but told they would be unable to arise from their chairs.

Sure enough. They woke up, struggled for a moment to stand, and then sat back in defeat.

"Alright, you may leave the stage now," Baron said.

The three sat passively.

"What's the matter?" Baron asked. "Why don't you return to your tables?"

A LITTLE embarrassed, the minister responded, "I'm striving." He did too, straining at the arms of the chair to stand up.

The salesman, unable to stand, began to slide his chair across the room — all the time seated in it.

And so it was.

Baron, holder of a Ph. B. degree in psychology from Loyola University, has helped thousands of persons reduce their weights by hypnotism.

He is director of the Hypnotism Institute of Chicago, 116 S. Michigan Ave., and is a consultant to the University of Illinois Medical School. He assists in medical research and hypnotic childbirth at the university.

"When I was a student in college, my psychology professor was doing a hypnosis research project," Baron said. "He asked me to assist him. I learned hypnosis, and that's what I've been doing for 25 years."

HE POINTED out that many people require "longer periods of suggestion" in order to be hypnotized, explaining why most of the 15 volunteers did not succumb.

Eye contact is not necessary in hypnosis, he said.

One of Baron's most significant accomplishments was the project in which he hypnotized a Gary, Ind., woman for five days and nights.

He has helped amnesia victims recover memory and has helped heavy smokers cut down or stop smoking completely.

HOWEVER, the stop-smoking hypnosis was fruitless here last week. The three volunteers who wanted to stop smoking could not be hypnotized.

Baron pioneered the use of hypnotism in dentistry and recently gave a convincing demonstration of hypnosis as an effective substitute for anesthetics at the University of Illinois Medical School.

His strangest assignment was for a movie company that wanted him to hypnotize subjects at State and Randolph Streets in Chicago.

He succeeded. Traffic was snarled in the street for hours and police and fire departments were called to handle the crowds.

A Report from the Publisher

Striving to Keep Abreast

The addition of another newspaper to Paddock Publications, Inc. group of suburban newspapers and the further development of a Sunday edition are two recent examples of our recognition of the new position and growing responsibilities of suburban publishing.

They serve to demonstrate how Paddock Publications is continually exploring new approaches to suburban journalism, striving to keep abreast of the changing demands of our suburban readership and advertisers.

This week marks the introduction of the Hanover-Streamwood Herald — the 15th edition in a growing family of Thursday newspapers serving northwest Cook and north DuPage counties. The new Herald will provide concentrated news coverage and advertising service in rapidly-expanding Hanover Township, including the new communities of Hanover Park and Streamwood.

Started in 1962 as a mass circulation medium, The Sunday Suburbanite has undergone extensive remodeling in recent months to further its development as our Sunday edition. News of area-wide interest was introduced to The Suburbanite in December, and classified advertising was added to the edition beginning last Sunday. These improvements are designed to further increase readership, to meet a demand for an area-wide news medium, and to provide advertisers with the additional depth of coverage offered by a Sunday edition.

The birth of the new Herald and expansion of The Suburbanite appropriately serve to remind us of our function and responsibility as community newspapers.

What is the definition of a newspaper? Is it a bulletin board for special groups? Is it a purveyor of spot news? Is it a collection of features and sports coverage? Or is it not a little of all these things, and an interpreter and reporter of social and political issues.

Many changes in style, format, and approach have been effected by Paddock Publications in recent years; others are contemplated for the future as we seek ways and means to make our newspapers more compact and readable.

Under the leadership of a professional staff of writers, reporters, and photographers, we are expanding local news, local features, and local pictures; further development of this local coverage is planned.

Paddock Publications believes that a newspaper has, or should have, a leading role in creating the sort of community in which people thrive and take pride. A newspaper must represent the aspirations of the best elements of the community. We believe that one of our major tasks is to strive for the common good of the community.

That our newspapers work in the best interests of the whole community and not just for a few special interests has been proven time and again in our 92 years of publishing in northwest Chicagoland. In the past 10 years alone, we have been honored with more than 160 state and national press awards for journalistic excellence and disinterested public service.

This is not an occasion, however, for self-praise nearly so much as it is an occasion for self-appraisement. It is time to rededicate ourselves to the trust placed in us by an intelligent, progressive, and enlightened citizenship.

Our efforts to improve editorial content, newspaper readership, and community service are all designed to provide you with better community newspapers. Your comments and suggestions will be most appreciated.

Talk of Voter Apathy Called A Smokescreen

There are some facts about the election of members of the Mount Prospect Board of Education that I would like the people of this community to have.

Much has been said by members of the ROSE group about voter apathy in last year's uncontested election. They are using this as a "smoke screen" reason for why they organized. If you examine the records you will find that real apathy existed in Mount Prospect during the years when the former board members who now support this group and attack the caucus were elected. For example, in 1952, when Russell Smith and Leonard Synder were elected, the total vote cast was 43; in 1955 Russell Smith and Robert Schiller were elected with 69 and 68 votes respectively; in 1958 the town cast 155 winning votes for Schiller and 154 for William Cox.

Hard as it is to believe, in 1956 the educational tax rate was increased to $1.25 by a vote of 79 to 23—a total of 102 votes cast in an election which changed every taxpayer's tax rate.

This is apathy, and these are the years when the public must have been unconcerned with school affairs, when there were no spectators at school board meetings, and no one questioned anything so long as the schools were bright and clean.

In the last six years we have seen the town grow, and with these new people came interest, questions and in many cases a basis for comparison. In the past few years we have watched things happen from minor issues such as a relaxing of the "no lunch eaten at school" rule, an avoidance of split shifts at one school (after board members were told there was no alternative), avoidance of double-shift classes; to major accomplishments such as a remedial reading program, the establishment of libraries, an improved science program, to mention but a few. But all of these were accomplished through the impetus of the board itself or the insistence of the parents.

Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, told participants in the 16th annual School Public Relations Conference March 14, "school boards should remember that education is not just brick and mortar and school finance. The main concern should be 'education' and this means curriculum,s the quality of teaching and learning, setting an educational tone or standard."

We have a school board that understands this and we are trying to keep it strong. Our opponents, however, ask you to vote for three men, none of whom have any record of service in school-related activities, and who are supported by people who we suspect would like to return to the "good old days" of passive acceptance.

We of the Caucus ask you to re-elect two incumbents, June Brownell and William Krampert, who can stand proudly on their records, and add to the board a third member, Richard Drews, whose interest was awakened by his active participation on the Sunset Park PTA Educational Goals Committee, and who we know would serve this community well.

Please, Mount Prospect, don't go back to sleep.

Mrs. Charles A. Nelson

Call Critic of Palatine Prom 'Misinformed'

An answer to Mr. Rogers on Palatine after-prom:

What a shame you are so misinformed. Evidently you did not read your school newsletters, for if you did you would have found a flyer informing every parent of meetings and phone numbers of Post-Prom planning committees. All parents were invited to come and voice their opinions.

This was not done overnight. It took a great deal of time phoning approvals, meetings, and many volunteer hours from interested parents. All aspects were considered, mainly safety and the most wholesome fun for the money.

Students who attended the pron. last year were asked to estimate expenditures and ours fell under this by a goodly amount.

The students who attended the meetings, opened to all junior and senior students, selected this type of after prom event. The parents were grateful for the safety it offered.

Another thing, Mr. Rogers, the high school has no part in these plans. This is strictly a parent committee. Your student may attend the prom and go out afterwards just as he wishes. Our only stipulation is that they may not attend the after-prom train without supporting the prom at school. Hope this sets the record straight. Thank you.

Committee

Wants Ratings Published for Motion Pictures

Several weeks ago I observed that some readers of your paper requested that you list the rating of the motion pictures that you advertise.

I feel this rating would help us parents in editing motion pictures for our children to see.

Without such ratings, we are helpless when it comes to selecting some of the latest pictures. I sincerely feel this would be a great service to us parents.

Claims Civil Rights Bill Is Discrimination in Reverse

I am writing this letter as an independent citizen without connection with any party or special interest group. I am concerned over the apathy and apparent lack of understanding of the electorate regarding the proposed civil rights bill now under deliberation by the U.S. Senate.

It is a controversial, complicated piece of legislation with far-reaching implications. It seems popular and socially acceptable these days in these parts to hop aboard the civil rights bandwagon. Taking a stand against civil rights is like being against apple pie, motherhood and Old Glory.

There are two sections of the proposed bill—Titles II and VII—which are, in effect, discrimination with a reverse twist. Title II on public accomodations is totally unenforceable in the southern states.

Put yourself in the place of a southern innkeeper. You open your establishment to Negroes—those passing through and a few localites who avail themselves of your service. Your steady clientele boycotts you, socially ostracizes you and your family, and brings economic pressure to bear. So you end up bankrupt—financially and socially.

This shouldn't happen. It isn't right. Well, it would in many cases. So what would you do—accept the local mores and customs — or follow a decree from Washington?

Prohibition proved that laws are totally worthless if the local population doesn't respect them. Secondly, the Constitution does not contain any provisions for regulation of intra-state commerce or services. It rather stretches a point to say that the mattress in the inn was shipped across state lines so therefore the innkeeper is in inter-state commerce which makes him subject to Federal regulation.

How about Title VII which will create virtually thousands of Motorola cases? This section is so broadly written that private businessmen will lose all control of employment practices. As a person who is called upon to interview applicants, from time to time, I resent not being able to make decisions intelligently on who I will or will not hire.

What it boils down to is this—you cannot outlaw prejudice. Only time, education of all races, Christian inter-action and most importantly, the desire of the 10 per cent minority to become contributing citizens to their communities can bring about equal rights for all. Respect, social acceptance and admiration have to be earned. They are not necessarily God-given and they surely cannot be legislated by the Federal Government.

When the electorate realizes the total effect of this legislation as I hope they will in time, their voice will outweigh the highly organized, vocal minority pressure blocs which badgered the House of Representatives into stampeding the bill's passage.

Percy Accused Of Associating With Liberals

After several weeks of wondering about it, I have finally seen a copy of that "scurrilous" piece of anti-Percy literature mentioned in your paper. I am amazed that the following types of information should be classified as unfit for people who must do their best in selecting the man for the top job in the State:

1) Percy's endorsement of liberal, left-wing appointments to the IFEPC by Gov. Kerner.

2) Percy's part in a Conference which recommended that we "cozy up" to the Communists.

3) Quotations from Percy's past comments on various subjects.

4) Quotations from political writers in Chicago's Tribune and Sun-Times, the N.Y. Times, Newsweek and Time Magazine. (All citing the liberal orientation of Percy.)

5) A list of the Liberals Percy has "flocked with."

Land Sakes! I bet your paper wouldn't even want us to know about Percy's connection with the Council on Foreign Relations which is said to make and lobby for our foreign aid programs—nor with the Chase Bank in New York which is a beneficiary of those programs—nor that it has been written that Percy's Governorship is considered a step to the Presidency. All of these items are relevant to voters making a wise choice, but somehow are classified as Verboten!

Percy Praised As Builder of Giant Dimensions

Illinois is facing the most critical period in its 146 year history as a state. The lag in our economic growth is the biggest issue of the 1964 campaign. Illinois, during the period of 1939 to 1962 grew only 55 per cent in the number of persons working in non-agriculture jobs, while the national average was 80.7 per cent.

Our state is a great state industrially and agriculturally. It is among the top states in federal tax collections but last year ranked 41st in defense contract awards.

Chuck Percy is a builder of giant dimensions. He is experienced in originating policy, experienced in methods of stimulating economic growth, and in fiscal responsibility, as well as being thoroughly acquainted with industrial, financial, educational and scientific leadership throughout the nation.

Illinois can't afford a mistake in choosing its next governor. It must have as its chief executive a man with exceptional management abilities; a man with vitality, vision, resourcefulness and courage.

One candidate, Charles H. Percy, offers all of these qualities and more. Chuck feels and has stated many times that, as chief executive, his motto will be: "My job is to build the State of Illinois by creating greater opportunities for its people."

After reviewing all of Chuck's background as a businessman and as a great contributor to the Republican Party over the past years, I feel that I must speak out for the Percy for Governor Committee of Elk Grove Township in stating that it is great to be working for a man who can campaign on his own qualifications and not have to rely upon innuendoes and snide remarks about his opponent.

Defends Plans For Palatine's Post Prom Party

In answer to your article, R. G. Rogers, of last week's Hoffman and Palatine Herald, let me put you straight.

1. School officials and faculty members are not in any way supporting the Post Prom Party.

2. Thought, has been given to all students and this is why a Post Prom Party has been planned. Students who can only afford the expenses of a Prom, which is always the price of a ticket, renting of a tuxedo and the price of a corsage for the girl, can still do so.

The other students, who most of them work to get money for such occasions can have a safe after prom good time. If it was not for this planned Post Prom Party, many of these students would spend much more money doing and going places that might end up in a disaster and bring disgrace to our school.

It is unfortunate that the price must be so high as you put it, but being the first year anything like this was ever done in Palatine, inexperience is costly.

If parents who feel like R. G. Rogers would inquire around a little they would find out that students in past years have spent a great deal more than $27 for an after prom good time. Also if they would attend the meetings which they were invited to, they could voice their opinions and also help in the planning.

If this is such an outrageous plan, why is it then that almost every suburban high school in this area has been doing it for many years?

From an interested mother who feels that Palatine High School officials and Faculty have been wrongly criticized for something they are not supporting or have anything to do with the planning.

Says Founders Seek Only Power

In the March 26 issue of the Palatine Township papers, a news item regarding the reactivity of the YRs appeared on the front page. I read the article . . .and noticed several inaccuracies (I am being polite), which I assume was presented to the Paddock Papers by the sponsors of all this activity.

I would like to correct these "inaccuracies."

Shall we go back to the month of July, the 29th day and the year 1958?

Twenty persons met in the home of Kenneth Gobeyn, president of Palatine Township Regular Republican Club, at 2703 George Court, Rolling Meadows. Among several guests from the Cook County Young Republican Organization was Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Committeeman and campaign manager for Chuck Percy, who was Past President of the Cook County YRs.

The meeting was called to discuss the establishing of a Young Republican Organization in the township.

May I repeat the date — July 29, 1958.

If my information is correct . . .and I know it is. . .Alex MacArthur was not even a resident of the township at that time. In fact, no one in the group had even heard of him.

Also, this activity had the unqualified approval of the township committeeman, State Senator Jackson L. Boughner and the full support of the Regular Republican Club.

Does this new club have this backing?

I have read the by-laws of the new club. Article III, Sec. 1 & 3 make me question the policies and purpose of this organization. Knowing something of the members and the sponsor, I'm wondering if they are building an organization for their own purposes in the year 1966.

These sections speak of no cooperation with the regular organization. From my viewpoint it is just another means of trying to grab political power in the township.

If the president and his fellow officers and members are really interested in "getting their feet wet," I know a number of precincts that need captains. There are others that have not been worked properly for years and need new captains. But precinct work is a 12 months out of the year job. But that isn't what you want, is it?

No where in the by-laws does it state anything about working to forward the principles of the Republican Party. You don't care about the principles, only what you can get out of the party.

May I ask where the 35 charter members have been all these years? If they had previously been interested, the former YR organization would not have gone defunct.

The last regular meeting of the former YRs was held Sept. 18, 1961. A special meeting was called for March 11, 1962, and that was the end. From lack of interest, workers and members, the organization gave up the ghost.

I have carefully examined the entire membership list of the former organization and not one name of the new officers, committee chairmen or sponsors appear.

Why the sudden interest in another political organization? We have two now, who are begging for workers. But you don't want to work. . .you only want power and you are determined to get it one way or another. Something for nothing.

The several appearances of one or two of you at the regular organization meetings do not qualify you for criticism of the regular organization. . . I agree the organization is not perfect. . it is made up of imperfect people. . .but I don't see where you are doing anything to change it.

Some of you are like the guy that doesn't vote. . .all holler.

If the conditions in the regular organization are not what you like, why not work to change them from within. . .not from without?

Palatine Student Explains Background of Prom Party

Speaking as a junior co-ed at Palatine High School and having read the letter concerning the post-prom party, let me give the views of one out of many PTHS students.

The prom of Palatine has always been away from the school and this area, usually at a hotel in Chicago. Beginning now, at the prom of 1964 and probably for a long time hence, its site has been changed to the school proper.

As you can probably understand, there is much disappointment held by the Class of '64 and all the rest of us. "Why couldn't they let us have just one more 'away' prom?" is a question often asked of oneself and of one another. But that "one more" finally came in 1963. The feeling until a few months ago has generally been "Why go, it's just another school event." or "Why get a formal and wear it only to the school."

Then a group of sensitive parents organized. These people felt and understood our dissatisfaction with the situation at hand and decided to do something to make prom night one which will never be forgotten.

Several meetings of parents and representatives of the student body got together to discuss the idea of an after-prom, all-night affair. This had to be satisfying to both parents and students.

After several meetings and ideas, it was decided that a train would be hired, cars decorated, and immediately following the dance all prommers would jump into the cars and be "shipped" up to Zion and Illinois Beach State Park. Having enjoyed swimming, walking, eating, etc. until 4 p.m. Sunday., then all participants and chaperones would be returned to Palatine to pick up their well-protected goods (dance clothes) from the Fremd High School locker rooms.

The entire event has been carefully planned. Parents are volunteering for such jobs as helping girls get out of those lovely gowns and into casual clothes and undecorating those crepe papér laden railroad cars.

As far as expense is concerned—prior to the planning of the post-prom affair, probably twice as much money was necessary for an after-the-prom outing. Traditionally this event lasts into the next day, and usually, if not always, is unsupervised. The cost is well divided. The girl's dress will cost as much as the after-prom party, as well as the rental of a tux. The other expenses on each side total to a very similar figure.

All of the above mentioned are actually quite trivial, but are these as trivial? If your son or daughter is going to a large affair, isn't it comforting to know that concerned parents like yourself are on hand in case anything comes up? And isn't it nice to know that he or she isn't in an over-crowded car going to heaven only knows where for how long?

I am sure many parents are all for this coming event and share the enthusiasm with their son or daughter. I hope that both realize the situation at hand and make this a memorable event for all invooved.

Thanks Paper For Cooperation On Polio Drive

May I extend my sincere appreciation to you and your paper for your fine cooperation in publicizing our first mass polio immunization on March 22.

It was a most gratifying experience to work with so many dedicated volunteers.

The progress made in recent years in the effort to wipe out polio is very exciting to those in my profession and to lay people as well.

Let us hope that this "miracle" can be repeated many more times to eliminate other diseases.

Again, I thank you for your wonderful cooperation.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

Track Prospects Bright If Weatherman Cooperates

EARLY RETURNS HAVE BEEN EXAMINED and filed, and track enthusiasts in Illinois are excited.

But any excitement generated by performances indoors is tempered by the knowledge that the success of an outdoor campaign hinges on the disposition of our weatherman.

The weatherman can be a big nuisance around this time every year. With his help we could be headed for the finest cinder season in Illinois history. Chances are he won't be that cooperative.

The outdoor season in Illinois is scarcely seven weeks in length and unusual is the spring when more than two of those weeks provide favorable weather. One half of the total rainfall in this region is accumulated during the month of May.

Several observers have placed a "best ever" tag on the cast of schoolboy trackmen ready to assault the record book in Illinois, and the hope now is that these prep stickouts will have a chance to perform under acceptable conditions.

You hear a lot about the marks turned in by the California preps, for example, but remember that those youngsters have the benefit of good weather throughout the spring and an outdoor season of interminable length. Send our Illinois kids out there and you'd see something.

Actually, we'd like to see our track season extended, not by late league meets but by pushing the state finals back to the first weekend in June.

Training Methods Change

TRACK COACHES TODAY ENCOURAGE hard work for their runners, but did you know an old theory was that it was dangerous to run too much before a meet? It was felt that the athlete would leave his race on the practice track.

Today, boys like Tom O'Hara of Chicago, probably the top American miler and a good bet to win the 1500 meters at the Olympics, thrive on hard work. He runs many miles a week in preparation.

Several observers feel the change in American running came with the adoption of the Swedish program called "fartlek." That means "running for fun" and consists of running, jogging, running, jogging, and so on.

It changed the concept of how much running could be done in training. The Europeans knew it, and were winning in the Olympics.

Training methods have changed. Today, we know that runners actually are better off for doing a lot of running.

Leo Johnson, track coach at the University of Illinois, has a secret ambition he may never realize. "I believe you can train thoroughbred horses to be much faster than they are presently," he says. "They don't work horses nearly as hard as human runners.

"I believe the same training methods are applicable to thoroughbreds. There are a few trainers who lean toward the idea, but most won't have anything to do with it."

One veteran trainer told Johnson, "I use the same training methods everyone does, and if the horse loses the owner blames the horse. But if I switched to a different program and the horse lost, they'd blame me and it would cost me my job."

Watch Out For Lockport

HERE'S ANOTHER CASE of the rich getting richer. Lockport of the rugged South Suburban league, a basketball power in the state, may be the club to watch next winter.

The Porters have 6-foot-4 Bill Ford, a third team All-Stater, and 6-foot-2 Mike Murawski as key returnees, and now we've received word that they'll also have the services of a 6-foot-6 transfer.

Highly regarded Dave Ramsden of Hoopeston, Ill. is rumored on the move to Lockport. Dave whipped in points at a 20.4 ppg clip as a junior.

Looking At The Lighter Side

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE OF SPORTS:

Texas A & M basketball coach Shelby Metcalf likes to tell about all the country boys on his squad. One received a letter from home reporting there had been a fire in the bathroom. When Metcalf expressed sympathy, the player replied, "Don't worry, coach, they got the fire out before it ever reached the house."

Did you hear about the coach who, just after finishing a poor season, was rushed to the hospital for serious surgery? The chairman of the athletic board sent him a wire which read, "Wish you a speedy recovery — by a vote of four to three."

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

ARLINGTON'S DICK WINTERBAUER set two records at the Decatur Relays . . . He flipped the shot put 56-2 and the discus 148-8¾ . . . Dennis Striegel and Wayne Mueller also placed in the weight events . . . York toppled Arlington's baseball nine, 4-1, but the Cards rebounded with an 11-inning, 3-2 victory over Hinsdale on Rog Thomas' clutch single . . . Ed Linneman was the winning pitcher.

Cards Slated To Open Today

Arlington Hampered by Lack of Work Outdoors

by BOB FRISK

When Bob Baker wards off questions about his varsity baseball team at Arlington with an "I don't know," he means just that.

Bob has been working with his club for two weeks now but realizes he still has a lot to learn about his charges.

It's pretty difficult for a baseball coach to evaluate his entry after two weeks of practice when the practice has been restricted to indoor workouts.

"WE HAVEN'T been outside yet," Baker reported Tuesday morning. "I hope we're able to get in at least one day of actual hitting before our first game."

Arlington opens its 1964 season today (Thursday) with a contest at Niles East. The Cards entertain Prospect Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at Recreation Park.

Forced indoors by the weather, Arlington's varsity candidates have not been inactive. "You can do a lot indoors, but we're to the point now where we need to get outside," Baker said.

ALTHOUGH BAKER hasn't seen his outfit in actual game conditions, he does have some ideas on a starting alignment for today's opener. He plans to "see what develops" insofar as the pitching duties with hopes at splitting the work among his three veterans.

Paul Splittorff, Steve Martin, and Dave Christensen are the experienced mound performers. They combined for 105 innings last spring and earned eight of the squad's nine victories.

"I also may want to use the juniors (John Friedl and Jim Kroll) in these two non-conference games," Baker added. "I want to see as many kids as possible before we open in the West Suburban."

Five juniors, three seniors, and one sophomore will probably get the nod today for Arlington in the road contest at Niles East.

JUNIOR MIKE Frase, who lettered with the varsity as a sophomore, will lead off and play second base. Gordie Keeley, a senior letterman, will bat second and play center field, and southpaw Jerry Fink, a junior, will hit third and work at first base.

Splittorff, a senior left-hander, is expected to get the first call on the mound.

BAKER EMPHASIZES that this is just a tentative lineup subject to change. "We have some other boys who might work into the starting team," he points out, "but that will depend on what develops when we get outside."

Arlington will journey to Glenbard West next Wednesday afternoon, April 15, for the West Suburban Conference opener. The Cards will host Downers Grove in a twin-bill on Saturday, April 18.

SLATED TO START in center field today for Arlington High School in the baseball opener at Niles East is senior Gordon Keeley. Lions' Nine Hits The Road

St. Viator First Area Outfit to See Action

by BOB FRISK

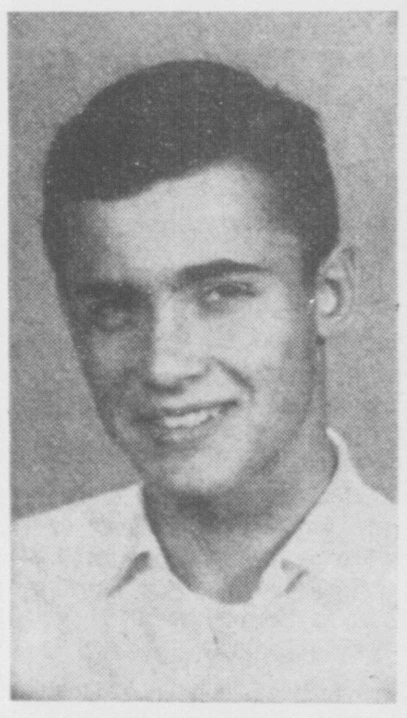
St. Viator's varsity baseball team plays five games in the next eight days, if the weatherman gives his okay, but head coach Frank Mariani isn't worried.

Most coaches fear a crowded schedule which burdens normally thin prep pitching staffs.

Mariani is in the enviable position of having three experienced hurlers ready, and he's anxious to see his flingers toil under actual game conditions.



JOE SANCHEZ
Wins Opener

Sophomore flash Joe Sanchez worked Monday afternoon and checked Immaculate Conception with two hits, 8-3, in the season opener. St. Viator was the first area squad able to launch its schedule.

Righthander Jeff Haiduke, a senior, was slated to work yesterday (Wednesday) against Ridgewood, and junior southpaw Jim Vidt will try to master St. Francis of Wheaton today (Thursday).

Mariani will counter with Sanchez again Friday against Elmwood Park as the Lions complete a string of four straight road encounters. St. Viator returns home Saturday for a contest at 12:30 p.m. with Tuley.

THE SCHEDULE next week calls for a home game with Holy Cross (Monday), and trip to St. George (Wednesday). Contests also are scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Although Mariani will work primarily with his big three of Sanchez, Haiduke, and Vidt, he can call on Chuck Heinrich or Mike Sheetz if the situation dictates. Heinrich is the regular second baseman but is no stranger to the mound. Sheetz is a promising lefty.

Mariani is celebrating his 100th coaching victory this week thanks to the Lions' conquest of Immaculate Conception Monday. Frank now sports a nifty 100-16 coaching record in varsity baseball.

THE VETERAN coach, who is in his last year at St. Viator, was pleased with his squad's performance in the opener Monday. "The boys were hitting the ball hard," he pointed out, "and I was especially encouraged by the work of the lower part of our order."

Five of the Lions' nine safeties came from the four stickers placed in the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth slots. Center fielder Tom Nitch, hitting eighth, had a double and single with his two-base blow rocketing off the tennis court fence.

But the big blow was a three-run homer in the fourth inning by leadoff man and shortstop Ron Bakalar. With Nitch and Tim Walinski on base Bakalar, a .296 swinger last spring, ram-

Willowbrook Hosts Knight Nine Today; Warriors Optimistic

by HOWARD HARMENING

Prospect's varsity baseballers journey to Villa Park today (Thursday) to test the tough Willowbrook Warriors, weather permitting.

Strong in batting, coach Dave Schmitz of Willowbrook sees an even better year for Warrior sluggers.

"Our pitchers, who look real good, don't have much experience," he says, "but our hitting should take care of our lack of experience there."

Why the confidence? Schmitz saw his team average .320 overall in hitting last year. In addition, he has three of his top batsmen back.

INCLUDED IN this trio of veteran sluggers are catcher Dick Busch, right fielder Tom Stengren and first baseman Bob MacKaben, all seniors.

Busch, the co-captain, leads the group of returning lettermen with .427 in 68 at bats and had 59 RBI's last season. Estengren, meanwhile, had .400 in 35 at bats and MacKaben .319 in 72.

Another possible threat in a slugfest may be junior Bob Cannon, a pitcher who was brought up to the varsity in the middle of last season. In 18 at bats with the varsity, Cannon had six hits for .333.

ONE OF THREE possible starters on the mound in the Prospect clash, Cannon hurled a 5-0 record with the varsity last year. If Cannon doesn't start against the Knights, Schmitz said he would go with

Tryouts Slated For Major Loops

Final tryouts for the major leagues in Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League will take place this Saturday at two locations. Boys living north of the railroad are asked to report to Recreation Park and those living south to Pioneer Park.

Boys whose league age is 10 are to come at 12:30 p.m. and 11 and 12-year-olds who have not played in the major leagues previously are to report at 1:30 p.m.

Since all boys are eligible for the major league draft whether or not they try out, they are asked to help the managers in their selections by coming to the tryouts. It is hoped that boys who tried out last Saturday will return this week.

Late signup for those who have decided they would like to play in the Arlington leagues this summer will take place at Pioneer Park fieldhouse from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday. Fees are $8 for the first boy in a family and $5 for each additional boy.

Boys who did not play in Arlington Heights last year must bring a birth certificate (those who will be eight before Aug. 1 and have not reached their 17th birthday by that date are eligible).

All registrants must be accompanied at the signups by a parent.

In Mount Prospect

Pony League Has Special Sign-Up

A special sign-up has been announced for Pony League baseball in Mount Prospect.

The registration is scheduled for Saturday, April 11, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Lions Park fieldhouse. Boys in the 13-14 age group are eligible.

Anyone who will be playing in the system for the first time must bring a birth certificate.

Tryouts for all new boys who will be playing in the Mount Prospect Bronco league will be staged on Saturday, April 11, at Lions Park. Boys who signed up for Bronco League play (9-12 years of age) will be contacted by league officials on the exact time of tryouts.

The new boys who will be registering for the Pony League do not have to try out.

Any questions should be directed to Mrs. Shaffer, Association Secretary, CL 3-6618.

Final Sign-Up

The Elk Grove Little League will hold its final baseball registration this Saturday, April 11, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at Ridge and Rupley schools.

At Proviso West

Falcon Baseballers Get 1st Test Today

by HOWARD HARMENING

Forced to reschedule its first two slated games, Forest View baseballers will test their talents for the first time this year when they journey to Proviso West today (Thursday).

Posting a 12-4 record last year, Proviso West will start senior Ken Erdmann, owner of a 4-1 mark last season, on the mound. A letterman, Erdmann is one of five returning veterans greeted by coach Ed Gilbert.

Gilbert also has lettermen Bob Coan, Ken Blowsher, Frank Yaccino and Greg Willmer back. Coan, a third baseman, hit .327 last season, while Blowsher, the right fielder who also pitches, also "hits awfully well," said the coach.

Yaccino is slated to start at first base, while Willmer will be Gilbert's shortstop.

Mark Kowack, the catcher, will also be watched closely by Gilbert this season. A junior, Kowack batted .290 last year with the varsity.

THE PANTHERS, winning their first clash in district competition last season, were blanked in the second game 1-0 by Willowbrook.

Forest View mentor Hal Sprehe will counter with Tom Wilkes (0-6) on the mound for the first three or four innings; Steve Jacobsen, for the middle two innings; and then finish with Tom Lundgren (2-4).

The Proviso West clash is tentatively scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m., weather permitting. Other upcoming games on the Falcon agenda call for Forest View to host Holy Cross at 11

Controversy Exists

Are Plastic Pins Helpful To Your Game?

Bowlers take note! Those lively new plastic bowling pins rumored to provide "more bounce to the ounce" may not, in reality, be improving your bowling score. In fact, the chances of racking up strikes may be greater with the old, lacquer-coated wooden pins.

Although plastic-coated pins have virtually replaced wooden ones, organizations like the National Committee for Honest Bowling Conditions headed by Wilson Taylor feel that plastic pins only serve to make "bad bowlers look good," and they protest "super - soft conditions" in bowling alleys.

On the other hand, the American Bowling Congress, regulatory body of the sport, feels that plastic pins do not affect the scoring ability of the bowler. There are those who disagree with the ABC, namely some manufacturers of bowling equipment who sell their plastic pins on the grounds that they are "livelier for higher scores."

IN AN EFFORT to shed some light on this controversy, Popular Mechanics has conducted tests to determine the effect of plastic pins on the bowling score of the average league bowler. The magazine's April issue carries the results of these tests in an article entitled "Is There a Rabbit in Your Bowling Pins?" by Stuart James.

For the purpose of the test, three sets of plastic-coated pins and lacquered pins of approximately the same weight were used. The plastic and wood pins were set up in adjacent alleys, and two league bowlers (who had also participated in ABC competition) were asked to roll against both pins alternately. At the end of two games, the wood pins had received 20 strikes and the plastic pins, three.

For six weeks, both sets of pins were subjected to regular league bowling to see if there were marked changes in scoring after normal usage. Then, the two league bowlers bowled three more games, in a repeat of the first test.

ALTHOUGH the wooden pins showed "battle scars" while the plastic pins received little or no damage, the wooden pins scored consistently higher than their plastic counterparts. In the five game totals for both bowlers, the wood pins held a 323 point advantage.

Results of the test weighed heavily in favor of the almost-obsolete wooden pins. "There is definitely a difference," said Francis Dodd, one of the two bowlers participating in the test. "I was surprised, because I believed the claims about the plastic pin. But with slow or fast ball the plastic pins are harder to knock down."

Despite these results, the more durable plastic pins are here to stay.

Prospect Nine Meets Warriors

either pitcher Clyde Motter, a senior, or Bob Carpenter, a sophomore.

Schmitz also will play two other returning lettermen, with Glenn Hankermeyer slated for third base and Ray Sherz in centerfield.

The Warriors posted a 15-7-1 record for the season last year and 10-5 in conference. They won the regional 7-1 over Glenbard East.

Other possible starters against the Knights include Layton Lamb, second base; Jim Carlson, shortstop; and Ed Hinz, left field.

Coach Chuck Aldrich of Prospect will counter with Al Koehler starting on the mound, backed up by Keith Bergen, with Rick Lytle doing the catching chores.

The Knights got outside Saturday for their first intersquad practice. "We played seven full innings and didn't have a score," said Aldrich, adding that the veterans were intermixed with the subs on the two teams.

Friday, the Knights host West Leyden in a rescheduled game from Tuesday and then make a short jaunt to Arlington Saturday.

Also upcoming is a clash against Proviso West Tuesday, April 14, hosted by Prospect.

Game time for all games is 4:15 p.m., with the exception of the Arlington contest, beginning at 11 a.m.

Lion Mound Staff Faces Busy Week

med a fast ball over the fence in left field.

Mariani estimated Bakalar's blast at around 360 feet.

"WE GAVE THEM their three runs," Mariani said. "A misjudged fly ball went for three bases in the first inning, and a balk and error helped them to two runs in the fourth."

The St. Viator coach feels Sanchez is capable of stronger mound efforts, but he still credited the slick soph with an effective stint. Sanchez fanned eight and walked two over six innings, yielding only two hits.

The Lions had two games rained out last week. The contest with Maryville Academy has been canceled, but Mariani was still working on making up a game with Fenton.

Netters Cop 1st Victory

Forest View varsity netters won their first match of the season 3-2 over Elgin Larkin Tuesday.

A day for firsts, it was also the first win in the Falcons' two-year tennis history.

The Falcons took the opening match with John Pardee victorious, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, over Gabe Steinberg. Dave Sund of Larkin tied the team-standings in the following match, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, over Guy Jensen of Forest View.

Jim Buckholz won, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, in the third singles to again give Forest View a 2-1 lead, but a Larkin doubles team of Guy Melby and Steve Vaughan tied it 2-2 when they swept by Lee Timmerman and Bill Sunbald, 7-5, 6-2.

Brian Karp and Tom Kukla took the deciding doubles match, romping 11-9 and 6-0 over John Davis and Denny Lindoerfer of Larkin.

Coach Rog Steingraber of Forest View, saying he felt "pretty good" with the team's first win, added he felt it was "going to take at least two more years for us to hit .500" after upcoming freshmen and sophomores have had time to develop into varsity material.

Forest View's frosh-sophs also won, 4-1, sweeping the singles matches and taking one doubles victory. It was the second win in the frosh-soph's history.

Tank Mystery

Michigan State's 1964 swimming victory over Illinois was its 12th in a row without a loss in the all-time series between the two schools.

Top Pirate Booster? No Doubt About It: It's Hale Hildebrandt

by TOM TULLY

One Thursday afternoon in February when the Palatine basketball team was suffering through a ten-game losing streak, Pirate coach Dick Kolze was moved to crack, "I knew things were going badly, but not this badly. I haven't seen Hale at practice all week."

It was a remark made in jest and one refuted less than ten minutes later when Hale Hildebrandt, all 300 pounds plus of him, made his almost daily appearance at the practice session. Hale didn't realize it was an apology when he said a few minutes later that since the district meet was coming up that weekend, he had been watching the wrestlers all week.

Palatine fans, like all fans, have differences of opinions on matters such as the quality of their teams and players, but one thing they don't argue about is the fact that Hale Hildebrandt is the number one Palatine fan.

THERE JUST isn't any basis for argument. Who could dispute an attendance record like this one? Hale has:

1) The distinction of being the only person to see each of the 32 runnings of the Palatine Relays. Even G. A. McElroy, the Superintendent of Schools, was absent on one occasion.

2) Timed every home basketball game from 1942 to 1960.

3) Timed every home cross country meet the school has participated in since the sport was introduced 20 years ago.

4) Worked every home wrestling meet since the school started the program 13 years ago.

5) Held one job or another at every home football game since the sport was resumed in 1942 after a five year layoff.

THE QUESTIONS that come to mind are: How does a guy get started in something like this? and, How does he find the time to do it all?

Hale, now 40, got his start as a fan while still in grade school. He didn't become a participant until he entered the school as a student in 1937. He became the manager of the basketball and track teams and if that doesn't seem ambitious enough for a guy like Hildebrandt, it must be remembered that these were the only sports offered by the school at the time.

He started timing the basketball games and working in a minor official's capacity at the Relays as a sophomore. Following high school he attended the University of Illinois for a year. That broke his string in basketball, but he managed to make it to the Relays.

Hale, who lives with his mother at 131 E. Slade, is a surveyor and spends most of his free time at the school. In addition to being a spectator at practice sessions, he is regarded in some sports as an unofficial coach. In the spring, track is his first love and he spends a good deal of his time offering tips to the shot putters and discus throwers.

HIS ASSOCIATION with the school, now in its 27th year, has had its share of fringe benefits. Hale has been the head discus judge at the state track meet every year since 1955. He has worked five state wrestling meets as scorer, head timer, advantage timer and announcer, more different jobs, he guesses, than any other man in the state. His name is on the top of the timer's list for the state tournament in basketball and he probably will be named to that tourney next year.

As might be expected Hale has his favorites, both teams and individuals. In basketball he rates the 1962-63 team as Palatine's best, and calls the 1940-41 club the finest of the earlier part of his era.

Ron Kozlicki tops the list of individuals that includes Bucky Harris, Ray Hahnfeldt, Kolze and the first Pirate big man, Don Buenzow.

Hildebrandt can't recall a Palatine football team that he would call "great," but remembers the team that included Len Rhode, Alan Eck, Tom Hillesheim, Doug Hildebrandt (Hale's cousin) and Ray Lorden, as the best eleven. Other top performers he's seen include Andy Merutka, Bill Migley and Duane Brooks.

IN TRACK, he lists Klaus Timmerhaus and Tony Cipri from the early 1940's, and more recent performers like Bob and Ron Frost, Merutka, Dick Welty, Ken Gordon and Don Smith.

Palatine has had so many great wrestlers that Hale had trouble naming just a few, but finally decided on a group that includes the McCreery brothers, Jim, Brad and George; the Gluck brothers, Fred and Mike, Larry Wheeler and Seth Norton.

Every school seems to have one fan who is so interested in the school's sports program that he actually becomes a participant of it, but until somebody finds a guy who sleeps in the locker room, Hale Hildebrandt would have to top the list.

Seniors Show Form in ABC

Men who have lived three fourths of a century took backseats to no one as the 5th ABC National Seniors tournament completed the first of three weekends of competition Sunday at Orchard Twin Bowl in Skokie.

Leading the Class A singles, for men 70 and over, is 79-year-old Ferd Wasicek of Chicago who shot 688 including 130 pins handicap. Trailing him with 668 is Jarvey Brown of Indianapolis, Ind. Brown, 76, who bowls in five leagues and subs in another, posted 590 scratch for high in that department on games of 170-218-192.

The Seniors' tournament, with a record field of 545 men, all 55 or older, also featured the appearance of Fred Holmes of Glencoe on the opening squad Saturday. Holmes, oldest active league bowler in the United States, will celebrate his 100th birthday Oct. 7. The erect, white haired near centenarian rolled games of 65-72-82 for 219. With 243 pins handicap, three less than he got in the 1963 Seniors,

Arlington Whips Evanston Varsity In Tennis Opener

Arlington High School won its long-awaited tennis opener with perennially powerful Evanston Tuesday afternoon.

Ken Schaller's varsity Cardinals, thwarted twice by the weatherman in earlier bids to get the season under way at Evanston ,edged the host Wildkits, 3-2.

Arlington swept singles thanks to Jim Jakubiec (2-6, 6-4, 6-3), Jeff Peek (6-2, 6-2), and Mirrel Kephart (6-1, 6-2) but lost both doubles tests.

EVANSTON WON the frosh-soph meet 3-1. One match was undecided and called because of darkness.

The only Cardinal victor was John Jarecki in third singles. Jarecki posted a 6-2, 7-5 triumph.

Playing second doubles, Bill Sayre and Scott Schneberger won the first set 6-1, fell 5-7, and then were involved in a 13-13 draw when darkness set in.

Arlington's varsity squad will meet host Ottawa this Saturday and will journey to New Trier Saturday for a quad involving the defending state champion Indians.

Hamm's Opens Gap With 4-0 Victory

Leaders Meet RM Bowl For Second Half Title

Hamm's Beer opened a one-and-a-half point lead in the Men's Division of the Paddock Classic Traveling League last Saturday when it blanked Morton Pontiac 4-0 while second place Rolling Meadows Bowl was held to a 3-1 verdict over Jeffery Lanes.

Despite the slight opening of the gap between the two leaders, the second half championship will still not be decided until the final night of the season, Saturday. The final matches are for position, thus the leaders will meet head on at Casares. Hamm's can win it with a tie. Rolling Meadows needs at least a 3-1 decision to win the crown.

The winner will meet Morton Pontiac, champion of the first round, in a four-of-seven game playoff, April 18. The first session will be held at Beverly Lanes, home of the Pontiacs. The second segment will be held at either Country Lanes (Hamms) or Rolling Meadows.

OTHER ACTION last week found the Brass Rail Restaurant routing Gunnell's 4-0, and Casares Pro Bowl whipping Pioneer Lanes, 3-1.

Herm Simonis paced the shutout of the Pontiacs. The Hamm's star, tenth in the individual standings, fashioned the night's top game, a 253, on the way to a 645 series. Ron Garr led the Pontiacs with a 603.

Rolling Meadows copped the first two games, but fell victim to Jeffery's top game of the year, a 999, in the final. RM Bowl featured a balanced attack topped by Al Jordan's 595, while Jeffery sent two men soaring over 600. John Glass turned in his top effort of the season, a 224-191-252 — 667 to top all PCTL bowlers for the evening. Teammate Ed Melton chipped in with a 623.

Ted Zimmerman fired a 635 and Earl Nichols a 600 as the Brass Rail blanked Gunnell's. Bob Rogers led the losers with a 611. The match wasn't as lopsided as the score indicates. The Railers won the first game by a single pin and the third one by 24.

Norm Schoemann and Lobby Lobinsky set the pace for Casares in the Pro Bowlers victory. Schoemann hit for 617, Lobinsky for 602. Individual champion Mike Dinschel and Ralph Krakow each had 622 for Pioneer. Dinschel, owner of a 197 edge, has a three pin per game average on Jordan, the runner-up, with just one night remaining.

Handball Tourneys Under Way

Over 150 men and boys are now competing in five different classes in the annual singles and doubles handball tournaments of the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Most matches are scheduled for play on Sunday afternoons and the finals of the singles event will be held on April 19 with the doubles final event scheduled for one week later.

Outstanding in the best AA singles class are last year's winner, Richard Craig, and the runner-up, Don Schmidt. Strong challengers in this bracket appear to be Stan Sitarz and Walt Hadley. Dark horse competitor Frank Epstein is also given an outside chance for victory.

In the doubles field the competition appears to be wide open with Bob Rumpsa and Bob Baker, Arlington High School baseball coach, given the pre-tournament nod as the strongest pair. First round matches begin Sunday, April 19.

Top Performances

Michigan State - Ohio State swim meets always bring out top performances and the 1964 dual meet was no exception. Seven dual, five MSU pool and four MSU varsity records were shattered as the Spartans won 61-44.

SPRING APPEARS TO HAVE finally come, and the thought is exciting—but not as exciting as it would have been the last week in March.

Remember the week? Cold, rain, wind, and finally a little less than a foot of snow. Well, that was the week, beginning March 26, for a fishing trip to the Arkansas Ozarks.

It was the first spring moon, and Jim Duncan at the Panther Boy dock on Lake Norfork said things would be right if the weather held. Wednesday, March 25, it was 75 degrees on the lake. It was cold in Chicago as I left Wednesday night, but I was driving south.

I was meeting two old friends and stout fishermen at the lake, and could depend on the weather because a fisherman's optimism on the first spring trip is never unfounded in Arkansas.

Well, almost never . . . When I arrived after a night's driving it was only 10 degrees colder than it had been when I left Chicago. But the moon was still right, and the stout fishermen were waiting as promised—almost immobile.

That morning we sat in Smoky's restaurant on Panther Pay until the sun had wormed the air to a comfortable 28 degrees. It was time to fish.

The day before, in sun and 75 degrees, good Kentucky bass had been taking Bombers, cast directly into shallow, rocky shores, and dragged outo to imitate the action of a crayfish. We tried that.

But the wind was raw ,and ice had to be bitten from the rod guides after every three or four casts. A lure dragged too close to the rod tip would freeze there, immobile.

It was real fishing—a challenge until the sun warmed the air to a degree above freezing. The first fish came while it was still cold enough for ice to form on the dip net after it was thrown back into the bottom of the boat.

Suerly there would be better days. The stout fisherman's thoughts should always run in this vein, even though the result may be fruitless deception.

On this long weekend, that was not the result. On the following day, spent floating the White River for trout, the thermometer rose to a dazzling 45 degrees. Obviously it was warm enough to go back after Kentucky and largemouth bass the following day.

Now the moon was right and the weather was right. But who—even the fishedman—could foretell that the lake would rise and fall two feet that night, March 27, as a giant quake hit Alaska and swelled the earth for thousands of miles?

It was a little hard to explain that night as we slept on a covered boat dock to keep out of intermittent thundershowers. The floating dock creaked and rose as if the showers had caused an amazing flood somewhere in the lake's drainage area.

The following morning we looked at the murky water as we listened to the radio explanation of the local phenomenon. The weather had turned cold again anyway, and now the water was not right. The fish would be confused.

Some of the guided parties did better than we did that day, but none did well. "You'll kill them with crayfish," one guide had said that morning. The same guide met the evening with a frown and began speaking of the next moon.

The next full coon comes forth the last weekend in April. It is only an educated and optimistic guess that the weather will be better then, and the time will pass without a major quake.

In Arkansas the living is slow, and the guides, dock owners and resort owners take almost everything in stride. The fishing trade has not been at its best so far, but they just reason that when it comes, it will be better than ever.

Somehow, the wait 'til tomorrow philosophy has never failed on Norfork Lake.

Coming April 18

Pancake Day Plans Set

Plans for the annual Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League Pancake Jamboree are shifting into high gear this week.

Food is ordered, entertainment planned, prizes obtained, and ticket sales well under way for the event to be held April 18 from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Arlington High School.

General chairman Jack Sullivan has announced that close to 300 workers will be on hand to serve the expected 6,000 guests.

REUBEN CORDOVA and Dick Down will be masters of ceremonies for the continuous entertainment which will feature appearances by James "Rip" Collins, former baseball great and now a coach of the Chicago Cubs, and Aunt Jemima, in person, through the courtesy of the Quaker Oats Co.

Aunt Jemima will arrive in Arlington Heights on April 7 to make serveral local appearances.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN for Pancake Jamboree are Mrs. Donald Armstrong, recruitment; James Brice, program book; Maurice Cooney, tickets; Reuben Cordova, entertainment; Jack Coulter and Walter Kellin, food preparation; Paul Harbough, food serving; Dennis Malcolmson, publicity; John O'Berry, procurement; and Lucky Somers, prizes.

More than a thousand local boys have tickets on sale for this, Boys Baseball League's primary money-making project. Each boy who sells 20 tickets will be a guest at a Chicago Cubs baseball game, and may take a friend for each 20 additional tickets he sells. Tickets will also be available at the door on the day of the Jamboree.

Tickets entitle holders to all the pancakes they can eat, plus sausage, coffee, or milk.

Anderson's Claim Men's Cage Title

The Wheeling Park District's adult basketball league came to an end last Monday evening, when Anderson's defeated Illinois Lock for the tournament championship, 56-43.

The Air Force Radar team placed third when they won by forfeit from McDonald's Drive-In.

This completes the second year of play for adult men in the Wheeling Park District. Plans are being made for a bigger league for next year.(ß

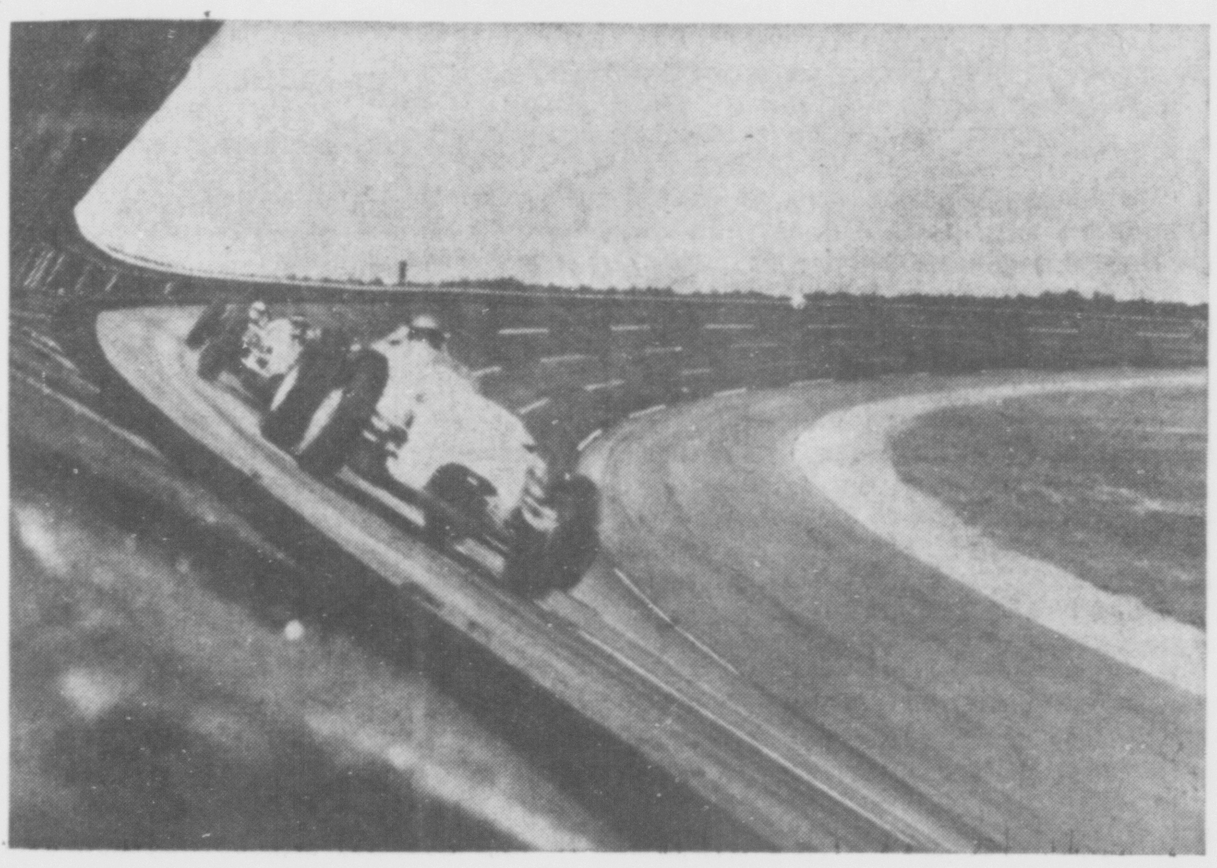
Motor Sports Top Baseball As Spectator Sport; Races Top 5,000 in United States



U.S. AUTO CLUB SPEEDWAY cars move through the 31 degree banked west turn of the world famous Daytona International Speedway at Daytona Beach, Fla. Formula car racing — so-called because of the cars' design restrictions — is limited to single seat, open wheel racing cars that are custom made.

Did you know that motor sports have become America's number one spectator sport? Latest attendance figures show that motor sports outdraw major league baseball. And motor sports are number two in participation sports — second only to bowling.

More than 5,000 sports car races were held in the U.S. last year, with total racing miles exceeding three million. According to information supplied by the "Jaguar Journal," the guiding forces behind America's big boom in auto racing include the nation's three largest organizations of active motor sports participants: the Sports Car Club of America, the U.S. Auto Club's road racing division, and the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Stock car racing accounts for more than 50 per cent of the total number of auto races held annually in the U.S., according to Bill France, Sr., President of NASCAR. This 12,000-member association supervised over 1,200 stock car races last year, which were attended by nearly ten million fans! France says the typical audience for any of the big weekend events runs from 40 to 70 thousand thrill-seekers. The number of stock car tracks across the country currently exceeds 500.

SPORTS CAR racing and formula car racing are the two other most popular contests for speed buffs. Jim Kaser, Competition Director for the Sports Car Club of America, reports that 221 sports car races were sanctioned by the SCCA last year, comprising 90 per cent of the important sports car races in this country. These contests thrilled more than a million spectators.

Formula car racing involves single seat, open wheel (no fenders) racing cars that are custom made. The name "formula" derives from the design restrictions imposed on these cars by the FIA (Federation International de l'Automobile). These construction restrictions and specifications are so exact that, if you wanted to buy one of last year's formula race cars, you'd have to pay about $30,000. Competition Director Kaser says that at the present time the U.S. does not have a regular formula racing program of professional races for the highest formula cars—but such a program will probably be instituted within the next five years.

Do you have to be a speedway racer to enjoy behind-the-wheel competition in motor sports? Not at all! By far the greatest number of motor sport participants are involved with "non-speed" events such as a rally, tour, gymkhana or "concours d'elegance"—all trials or tests of auto and driver.

SPORTS CAR clubs like the Jaguar Clubs of North America organize and execute these non-speed events—and sometimes come up with highly-unusual programs like rallies which inspire blind children to master braille, or contests in which every inch of a car's finish is subjected to the unbiased scrutiny of judges' spotless white gloves!

A rally is a motor event in which driver precision and control are tested on a cross-country course. In a typical rally, the driver's navigator—the person in the passenger seat who does the "figuring" and gives the driver instructions and directions—is handed at the moment of take-off a set of sealed instructions. Check posts along the way (some hidden, some not) clock the car's time, and any variation from the speed specified for that stretch costs points.

With turns, hills, the passing of other cars and the million other incidents that affect average speeds, it is tremendously difficult to keep exactly to the required averages; some teams show up with complicated devices to help them achieve the enormous accuracy rallies exact. Secrecy surrounding these devices accounts for much of the atmosphere of intrigue and excitement that rallies generate among enthusiasts. One driver and his navigator turned up at a rally with an electronic computer as the back seat passenger!

MANY RALLIES offer unusual rules—such as directions hidden in a cryptogram for the driver and his navigator to figure out. But perhaps the most unusual rally is the annual event of the Tonawanda Touring Club in Western New York, which invites students from the New York State School for the Blind at Batavia to act as navigators—by reading braille maps! The president of the club, Richard Dargusch, says the rally is used as an incentive for the youngsters to learn to read braille—and qualifying for the event is used as an aid to such scholarship. Since the Tonawanda group started the idea seven years ago, other groups around the country have followed suit.

A "concours d'elegance" is perhaps one of the stateliest of motor sports. To enter one you must rebuild—or build a replica of—an antique vehicle, complate to the design of nuts and bolts. Almost all of the parts will have to be turned out on special order—and a bill for $11,000 is not uncommon.

During the "concours d'elegance" drivers take their vehicles in a stately procession to a local showroom where they immediately don overalls and start cleaning and polishing. Judges wearing white gloves will then judge each car—and too bad for the contestant who has a spot of dust under his fender!

Tracy, 1016 Cypress, Elk Grove, covered the 12-gate slalom course in the required 75 seconds or faster for a bronze medal. Skiers have to cover the course in 50 seconds or less to win a gold medal, 60 seconds or better for a silver and 75 seconds or faster for a bronze. The course is about a half mile in length with a vertical descent of 450 feet.

In Bat Boy Contest

Mike Hogan Places 5th

Mike Hogan, 16, of Arlington Heights finished fifth from among 5,000 entrants in the annual Chicago Daily News-Chicago White Sox bat boy contest.

Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogan, 614 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, will serve as a salaried ball boy for the White Sox during the 1964 season.

The Arlington winner is a junior at St. Viator High School. He comes from a family of 10 children.

Each entrant in the contest wrote a 50-word essay on "Why I Would Like To Be White Sox Bat Boy." From an original group of 5,000 entries 15 finalists were selected by a group of nine judges.

Those finalists were individually interviewed at Comiskey Park, and the winners were announced Monday.

Robert Bramlette of Flossmoor and Malcolm Robinson of Chicago were the two winners. Bramlette will serve as White Sox bat boy for 1964 and will earn a $1,000 scholarship when he enrolls in college.

ROBINSON will be the visiting team batboy at Comiskey Park. Robinson, as well as Bramlette, won an expense-paid road trip with the White Sox to Detroit and to Washington.

Each judge rated each of the 15 finalists from five points to one in five categories: personality, attitude, sportsmanship, character, and baseball interest.

Hogan impressed the judges with his "sincerity, good humor and dedication."

Present Awards To Card Athletes In Winter Sports

Awards were presented in four sports at the recent Arlington High School Winter Sports Banquet.

Sixty-three Major 'As' were given to boys participating in basketball, gymnastics, wrestling, and swimming.

Cheerleaders were also honored.

Coaches also presented awards to squad members at the freshman, sophomore, and junior-varsity levels.

Prospect Sees Ease In Opener

Prospect goes into its first outdoor track meet of the season April 14 at Glenbrook North with confidence but expects more trouble from Maine West the Tuesday following the opener.

Coach Dick Calisch, rating Glenbrook North as "not very tough," said he expects a lot more competition at Maine West April 21.

"Maine West is strong where we're weak," said Calisch. "Their pole vaulters, though, are about equal with ours."

Seeing the meet as "pretty well matched," the coach stated he expected special trouble from Bruce Congalton in the hurdles. However, Calisch added, "(Larry) Bogart looks very good."

The Knights open against Glenbrook North at 4:30 p.m.

Kelly Gains Second Half Gals' Crown

Clinches Title With Victory Over Steve's

Martin J. Kelly Olds clinched the second half championship in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League with a tight 2½ to 1½ victory over Steve's Restaurant Saturday evening.

Pace-setting Kelly now holds a four and one-half point lead with only one night of play remaining before the roll-off.

The leaders could take a night off and still claim the coveted title with only four markers at stake in each match.

THE STAGE IS set now for the roll-off between Kelly and first half champ Charlotte's Pizza on Saturday and Sunday, April 18-19. Sites and times will be announced next week.

Edith Wayne, a consistent performer all season for Kelly, flipped a 584 series in pacing the second half champs to their one point victory over Steve's Restaurant.

Only one pin separated the two teams (2572-2571) but that single pin gave Kelly an extra point and the second half title. Kelly took the second game and team series and split a point with an 807 opener.

Rosemary Babich (525) and Agnes Saula (516) followed Edith Wayne for the victors.

LAVERNE ROSSET and Delores Harris shared honors for Steve's with identical 535 counts. Laverne had a 200 game but that was four pins shy of the evening's top effort, a 204 by Kelly's Wayne.

River Rand Bowl, still struggling to escape the basement, gained one point on fifth place Morton Pontiac with a 3-1 conquest of Charlotte's Pizza.

Ethel Juenger fashioned a 556 for the winners. Winnie Lohse was high for Charlotte's with a 519.

In other action Saturday Irv's Fire Extinguisher Co. and Morton Pontiac battled to a 2-2 deadlock.

Bonnie Kuhn had a 554 for Irv's, and Judy Reed posted a 521 for Morton Pontiac.

The standings:

Kelly Olds	40
Irv's	35½
Steve's	32½
Charlotte's	28

Mahoney Missing

St. Viator Eyes Opening Net Meet

St. Viator's tennis picture, clouded by the loss of No. 1 man Kevin Mahoney, should start clearing up next Tuesday afternoon, April 14, when the Lions host Holy Cross in the season opener.

"It's still early and we haven't had much chance to work outside," head coach Paul Anderson reports. "Several boys have shown promise, but we did lose a good boy in Mahoney."

Mahoney, who was a stickout for the Lions last spring in the rugged No. 1 position, transferred to Arlington High School.

ANDERSON, a newcomer to the St. Viator coaching ranks, listed one senior, four juniors, and two sophomores among his leading candidates.

Paul Weirich is the lone senior. He's joined by juniors John Schinka, Dave Herr, Paul Demmert, and Mike Massey and sophs Dave Harris and Tom Weirich.

"We'll just have to wait and see how the boys fare in actual competition," Anderson added.

St. Viator's home opener is with Holy Cross next Tuesday. St. George hosts the Lions on Thursday, April 16. The two meets with DeLaSalle have been cancelled.

St. Viator Launches 1964 Track Campaign Friday at Winnemac

St. Viator, St. George, and St. Joseph will battle on a varsity and frosh-soph level tomorrow (Friday) in a triangular track test at Winnemac Park.

Competition will get under way at 4 p.m. The meet will serve as the season opener for the St. Viator Lions under the direction of Tom Hansen and Charley Mondi.

Hansen reported at the outset of the week that they were working with 94 boys at all levels. "We have a field laid out across from the school," Tom said, "although we'll only have one home meet this year. The freshmen will meet St. Joseph a week from Thursday."

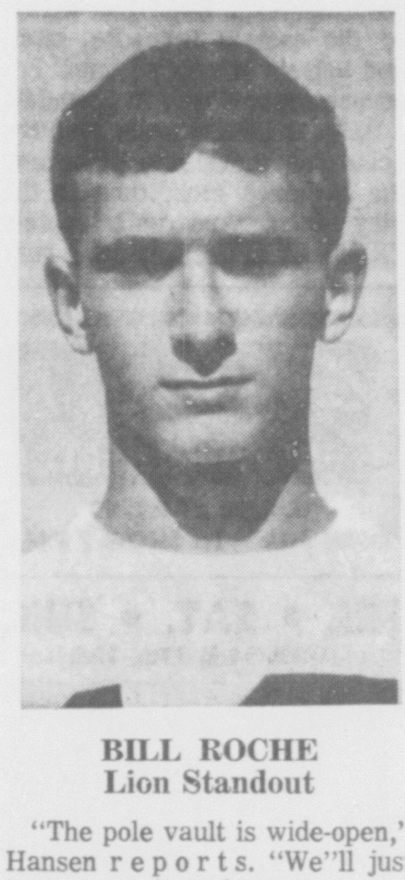
THE WEATHERMAN hasn't given Hansen and Mondi much help in preparing a squad for the outdoor season although there are several promising candidates.

Hansen feels his strongest events will be the discus and high jump.

"We have Gary Forston and Pete Rickerson in the discus," Tom reports. "Forston has been around 135 feet. Senior Bill Roche and junior Dennis O'Donnell, a transfer, give us some strength in the high jump."

ROCHE, ALSO a football quarterback, cleared 6-1 last year in a CYO meet. O'Donnell, who came to St. Viator from St. Ignatius in Cincinnati, Ohio has done 5-8.

D'Donnell, John Kidd, and Forston give the Lions three capable entries in the shot put, and Pat Kennedy and Dan Mulcahy look like the best bets in the broad jump.



BILL ROCHE
Lion Standout

"The pole vault is wide-open," Hansen reports. "We'll just have to wait and see."

STEVE McNAMARA and Roche are leading candidates in both dashes — 100 and 220 — with Dick Helmer also a possibility in the furlong.

Bob Keifer and Bob Saigh will handle the 440 yard dash with Saigh and junior Mike Jones in the 880. Jones and Paul Larson are leading milers.

Mulcahy and Terry Madigan should get the nod over the low hurdles with Mulcahy, Larson, and Helmer handling the high sticks.

"IT'S STILL EARLY but we may bring up some freshmen or sophomores," Hansen pointed out. "It looks like we've got some talent available at the lower levels."

Following Friday's triangular at Winnemac Park, the Lions will be idle until Tuesday, April 14, when they journey to DeLaSalle Field to meet the Meteors. On Thursday, April 16, the Lion frosh will host St. Joseph.

'Fire Engine' Hitch to Appear At Benefit Show

Six matched Shetland ponies pulling a miniature antique fire engine will be one of the feature attractions at the first annual Horse Show May 30 and 31 at the Lake County Fairgrounds.

General Chairman John Romer of Lake Villa reported that the nationally known Victor Comptometer Corp. six-pony "fire engine" hitch of Barrington will appear at both matinee and evening performances.

Besides the Victor pony attraction and other individual acts, the show will offer competition in such classes as fine harness, three gaited, five gaited, equation and horse events, English pleasure, walking horses, Morgans, hunters and jumpers, roadsters and three gaited ponies.

ALL PROCEEDS will go to build a 55 bed hospital on Grand Avenue, west of Lake Villa to serve a four township area in west Lake County.

Romer said tickets are on sale from members of the hospital association or they may be obtained by writing Countryside Hospital, Lake Villa, Ill.

Romer said premium lists were mailed last week to 1,500 horse fanciers throughout Illinois. Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana.

The show is sanctioned by both the Northern Illinois Horse Show Assn. and the Wisconsin Horse Show Assn. Earl E. Bruss of Milwaukee, well known midwest horseman, is manager of the two-day event.

BRUSS HAS assured the hospital association that the show will match the horse shows conducted regularly to benefit large hospitals in Chicago and Milwaukee and other notable charities.

Romer reported that a special committee is arranging accommodations for the some 400 persons from riders to stable boys who are connected directly with the show.

Competition will be offered for professional riders, amateurs, adults and children.

Bakalar Belts 3-Run Homer As Lions Win; Mariani Has No. 100

Junior shortstop Ron Bakalar supplied the power and sophomore right hander Joe Sanchez the pitching Monday afternoon as St. Viator's varsity baseball team shelled visiting Immaculate Conception 8-3 in the season opener.

Bakalar delivered a three-run homer in the fourth inning that snapped a 3-3 deadlock, and Sanchez toiled six innings on a yield of only two hits.

With the decision St. Viator coach Frank Mariani achieved the 100th victory of his coaching career in baseball. Mariani now has seen his varsity entries record 100 wins in only 116 outings.

SCORE BY INNINGS

I.C.	100	200—3-2
St. Viator	030	41*—8-9

Immaculate Conception drew first blood Monday with a single tally in the first inning, but St. Viator rebounded with a trio in the second. I.C. pulled into a 3-3 tie in the top half of the fourth, and that set the stage for Bakalar's heroics.

TOM NITCH started things off with a double to left, and Tim Walinski moved Nitch along one base with a single. Bakalar then rammed a fast ball over the tennis court fence in deep left field, a poke estimated at 360 feet.

St. Viator added a single run in the fifth inning on a walk to Mike Graczyk, hit batsman, walk to Walinski, fielder's choice, and error. Nitch came around on the error off Vidt's grounder.

ST. VIATOR enjoyed its first offensive explosion of the 1964 campaign in the second inning when three runs counted.

RON BAKALAR

Tom Ostermann walked and moved to third on Graczyk's double to left-center. Nitch dropped a hit over first base to send Ostermann home and a fielder's choice brought in Graczyk. Heinrich rapped a single to send Walinski across.

Immaculate Conception reached Sanchez for a single run in the first inning on a misjudged fly ball that went for a three-base error and infield out. Two singles, a balk, and error brought in two more runs in the fourth.

Sanchez fanned eight and walked two in his six innings of work. The highly regarded right hander yielded only two safeties, both in the fourth frame.

Coach Considers FV Realignment If Loses Hurdler

Forest View faces the possible loss of one of its hurdlers before the April 14th opener in its 1964 outdoor track season.

Coach Dick Ohl said Gary Busse, the hurdler, "has had trouble with his back. We're not sure yet if he'll be out for the rest of the year or not."

If Busse is lost to the Falcons, Ohl added he'd work with sophomore Pat Dunnigan, Forest View's dash man, on the low hurdles, with another sophomore possibly trying to fill in on the highs.

HOSTING Deerfield at 4:30 p.m. in the opener, the Falcons had "a lot of promise in Jim O'Keefe in the broad jump" this season, said Ohl.

Ohl added he sees O'Keefe reaching 22 feet this year and a possible trip downstate.

The coach is also counting on three other Falcons this season. Scott Armstrong is expected to make good showings in the hurdle events, while Darrell Fenton is rated strong in the discus throw and shot put, with throws of 150 feet and 30 feet, respectively, in practice.

THE THIRD threat, George Sladek, is expected to bring his best mile time of 4:42 down to 4:39.

As for weaknesses, Ohl says he sees a need to improve in the quarter-mile and half-mile running events, along with the pole vault.

Ohl is assisted by Rusty Dowell, hurdles coach; Bill Beckman, middle distance coach (also athletic director); and Jerry Greer, assisting in the high jump and field events.

Falcons Present Varsity Awards

Forest View recently presented a total of 52 varsity awards to athletes and managers who participated in winter sports.

In addition, the listings included six athletes for special distinctions: Joe Mueller was selected captain of the basketball team; Pat Dunnigan, most improved cager; Darrell Fenton, most valuable cager; John Buczek and Don Campbell, swimming co-captains; and tanker Cliff Hadick, VFW award winner.

Managers receiving varsity basketball letters included Doug Freiburger, Rich Koepke and Tony Salazar.

Wrestling letters went to Larry Andrews, George Derby and Chuck Lemke, with Omar Aviles, Howie Hinze, Gary Hodson, Bob Jennings and managers Tom Wilkes and Tom Young all winning certificates.

GYMNASTIC letters went to Rich Antti, Fred De Falco, Garth Freeman, Tom Hempel, Dave Hippensteel, Randy Jeskey, Ralph Kaspari, Steve Kretschmer, John Medley, Marty Sidor, Ken Vomacka, Craig Wagner, Jeff Weaver and manager Mark Stogsdill.

Swimming letters were awarded to Tom Blair, Buszek, Campbell, Hadick, Jim Larson, Dave Leuck, Mike Mortenson, Scott Peterson, Bill Reising, Tom Tyrell and managers Rog Baron and Jim Bretner.

Swimming certificates were presented to Ed Boddy and Chuck Mensching.

Keeps Busy

Michigan State basketball forward Bill Berry also competes in track for the Spartans and placed third in the high jump in the 1963 Big Ten outdoor championship meet.

Juniors Hold Key To Links

Things have to get better because they can't get worse.

That sums up the prospects for the varsity golfers from Forest View this season, opening at St. Viator Monday, April 20, at 4 p.m.

Posting an 0-11 record last season, Forest View placed most of its emphasis on the frosh-soph level, said coach Al Kintzle.

There, the young Falcons took eight wins in 11 outings and this is where Kintzle intends to draw most of his strength from this season.

"Four boys are presently vying for the number one spot," said Kintzle. Included in that group are juniors Jim Junkunc and Bob O'Keefe, senior Don Campbell and sophomore Al Piehl.

Campbell, along with seniors Russ Barger and Chip Julian, are the only three returning varsity lettermen.

"Barger could very well help us out a lot, too," added Kintzle.

With Piel described as "pretty good" but only a possible varsity candidate, Kintzle will also rely heavily on juniors Paul Byrne and Bob Glass this season.

'Moving Color' Hit Of MOS's 'Kismet'

by JOAN REDDY
Drama Critic

"Kismet," latest production of Music-on-Stage, Inc., offers pleasure to the eye as the stage of Prospect High School becomes a college of color and movement.

Unfortunately, "Kismet" is a musical, and it does not offer the same pleasure to the ear.

The music, based on the classical themes of Alexander Borodin, appears to be too much for some of the members of the orchestra.

To give him due credit, music director Gordon Palmer has his group playing together as an ensemble but the orchestra has a few clinkers among it that are impossible to ignore.

A gossamer Arabian fairy tale, "Kismet" spins the fable of a beggar-poet who, through his nimble wit and the blessings of Kismet, achieves fortune and happiness for himself and his beautiful daughter.

KISMET MUST depend on the allure of its Baghdad setting to keep the audience's interest. Here MOS has done an excellent job. The stage is alive with moving color as director Tom Ventriss shifts his large cast about the rather small stage.

Set designer Kathy Halvorsen has executed a sequence of sets that truly seem to come from the Arabian Nights. It is unusual to see such opulence in suburban theater.

And to match its set design, costumer Lila Ryan has arrayed the cast in brocades, silks, and velvets of myriad hues. Everyone dresses well in Baghdad.

BUT AFTER a while even the color and movement palls, and the audience must turn to the play itself. And unfortunately "Kismet," in itself, is not a very good play. It is neither farce nor fantasy, and the two refuse to blend together.

Borodin's lyrical music is perfect for the fantasy, but it seems out of place and over-blown in the farce.

Among the cast, A. Robert Topel, as the poet, can be forgiven singing that tends to fall flat because of the acting performance in which he blends charm and oiliness in a portrayal of a Middle East con man. In another role with a less demanding score, he could successfully talk his way through the high notes.

AS THE poet's daughter, Carol Rogers can be forgiven a flat acting performance because of her clear, lyric soprano. Her "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads" is a particular delight.

Ronnald Farland, in the role of her lover, makes a handsome Caliph. His voice is good, but his wooden acting runs over into his singing performance. He just stands there. Certainly a number such as "Night of My Nights" demands an expansive gesture or two.

The two best all-round performances of the evening are delivered by Hank Vandenboom as the wicked Wazir of Police and Jacqui Cassel as his licentious wife. Of course, theirs are the comedy roles, and a good job in comedy is always endearing to an audience.

PROBABLY the best musical number of the evening is Vandenboom's "Was I Wazir?" It has a vitality that the renditions of much of the more familiar music lack.

Miss Cassel has the blues voice and sensuous movements just right for her role as the wayward wife. In fact, some of the dancing girls could take lessons from her in how to undulate. Their attempts at being sexy were just too reserved to be successful.

But dancer and choreographer Beth Vandenboom needs no lessons. In her solo Arabian dance, she has all the right movements.

MOS'S real asset is its chorus. It contains some really excellent voices, and in ensemble singing Borodin's music never sounded lovlier. (Bill

Adult Students to Exhibit Art Work

Adult students in classes sponsored by the Countryside Art Center will present an exhibit of their work opening this Sunday from 2 - 4 p.m. at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

Paintings in oil, watercolor, and collage; drawings and wood carvings will be featured — as well as a special display of original prints. Most of the work will be for sale in the modest price range.

"OUR STUDENTS have homework in addition to their class problems," states Mrs. J. Shillington, education chairman.

"The classes usually have a lecture period — sometimes with slides — discussions, critique; and occasionally field trips.

"The students then choose the best of their work to mat, frame, and exhibit to the public."

Mrs. Shillington adds, "The instructors, Barbara Housekeeper, Vincent O'Connor, James Torrel, and Bill Wimmer have full backgrounds in teaching and have received many awards for their work in the fine art field."

COUNTRYSIDE Art Center classes are presently in the third ten session term. However, new registrations will be accepted in all classes.

Those interested are asked to contact Mrs. Shillington, CL 3-9521. (Bill

Area Artist Shows Paintings at Bank

A trip to the Pacific Northwest furnished the inspiration for many of the pictures now on exhibit at The Bank of Arlington Heights, Arlington Market Shopping Center.

Artist Shirley Hogberg traveled to the Seattle World's Fair two years ago with the family and stopped along the way to record many scenes in water colors. These she later translated into the oil paintings she is showing at the bank.

Mrs. Hogberg began her career in art by winning a scholarship to the Chicago Art Institute in her first year of high school. Later she completed two years at the American Academy of Fine Arts and two years at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, specializing in interior decorating.

BEFORE HER marriage Mrs. Hogberg was associated with a Chicago advertising agency. Now a resident of Des Plaines, she combines taking care of her family of three children with her work as layout artist for Paddock Publications.

She began doing custom wall murals 12 years ago, and now many homes in the area have a room distinguished by her scenes. (Bill

Antique Art Glass Exhibit Opens

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS THURS., APR. 9, 1964

Suburban Living

Especially for Women

RARE 19TH CENTURY glassware to be displayed next week at Randhurst is admired by Mrs. Herbert A. Cornelius and Mrs. John K. Auld of Arlington Heights. The Antique Art Glass Exhibit is being sponsored by the Service League of Lake Bluff Children's Home. Mrs. Cornelius and Mrs. Auld are co-chairmen of the exhibit, which will officially open Saturday night with an evening of dining and dancing in the Tree Top Restaurant at Randhurst.

Feature Of Gala Benefit

Northwest suburban members of the Lake Bluff Children's Home Service League will relax from their busy weeks of benefit planning Saturday night and dress in their prettiest formal wear for an evening of dining and dancing in the Tree Top restaurant at Randhurst.

The gala occasion will be the Sponsors' dinner dance which will officially open the Antique Art Glass exhibit to be featured all next week at Randhurst shopping center, Mount Prospect, as the annual benefit of the Lake Bluff Service League.

Preceding the dinner, which will be served at 7:30 p.m., Northwest Chapter Service League members and their husbands will be guests of the William L. Brockobs at a cocktail party in their home in Park Ridge.

At 9:30 p.m. during the dance Saturday, CBS personality, Mal Bellairs will officiate in the ribbon-cutting ceremonies to open the Antique Art Glass show, featuring more than 800 pieces of priceless 19th century art glass.

THIS WILL BE the midwest premiere of the glas scollection which has been acquired in more than 30 years of antique-hunting by Robert F. Caswell of Lunenburg, Mass.

Caswell's collection, the only traveling "museum on wheels" in the country, has been aiding churches, art clubs and service groups in fund raising throughout New England, California and Florida.

The collector, who sold his motel business seven years ago in order to devote more time to his hobby, worked six months to outfit a specially built truck so that he could take his glass collection cross country.

"I believe that antique art glass is such a part of our American heritage that I wanted to travel from coast to coast to make it possible for antique lovers all over the nation to enjoy the beauty of these rare pieces of art glass," comments Caswell.

CASWELL'S ARRAY of antique glass is displayed against a backdrop of black satin. The truck holds ten cases, each six feet long, opening up to a total of 900 square feet of display space. The cases are easily removed from the truck and can be quickly set up without touching the glassware.

Viewing schedule for the exhibit includes Sunday, April 12, noon to 5; Monday through Friday, noon to 9; Saturday, April 18, noon to 5. Tea will be served to those who attend Monday afternoon.

Admission donation to the glass exhibit is payable at the door. All proceeds go to the Lake Bluff Children's Home, which is currently observing its 70th year as a child care center in suburban Lake Bluff.

THE HOME'S program includes group care for grade schoolers and high school boys and girls, an adoption program for infants, a home for unwed mothers and foster home placement for pre-schoolers and teens.

Since its opening in 1894, more than 7500 youngsters have been aided by the Lake Bluff home.

Seek to Combat Glamor

Teenagers Succumb To 'Smoker' Image

"If you could get glamorous young ladies objecting to the stale tobacco smell of their boy friends, you would change the habits of a nation more quickly than all the cancer statistics in the world."

That suggestion is one cited in a discussion article titled "Combating Teenage Smoking" and featured in the April issue of the official magazine of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Author Emil Corwin of the American Cancer Society reports on the progress of a nation - wide educational program, initiated by the Society in 1960, to teach young people the facts about smoking and its now demonstrated dangers as "the chief cause of lung cancer and an important cause of other diseases."

STILL, HE points out, experts "do not always agree on the best ways to approach children." Sir Robert Platt, chairman of the Committee on Smoking and Lung Cancer of the London Royal College of Physicians, is an authority who believes "the key to success is to revise social attitudes toward smoking."

Besides "giving youngsters the facts about the long - term effects of smoking" and sponsoring smoking - withdrawal clinics to "help Mother and Dad to break their habit," the Society is now taking up the British suggestion.

"Because young people in the United States have come to look upon smokers as great successes, whether in athletics or in social affairs," Corwin notes, "the American Cancer Society last year decided to change this image . . .(through) promotional material that would present the nonsmoker as sophisticated, mature, and socially acceptable." In Athletes Against Cancer, one part of this program, prominent sports figures testify to the "health hazards of cigarette smoking."

ADDITIONALLY, Corwin reports, "some of the most effective campaigning against smoking is being done by the teenagers themselves" in TAC (Teens Against Cancer) clubs devoted "to spreading the word among pre - teenagers . . .that smoking isn't very bright."

Young people have also held conferences on smoking and health, like the one in Delaware a year ago, at which they made recommendations for further action to influence children, teenagers, and parents.

Though the success of these programs is hard to gauge, Corwin compared a 1958 poll of teenage smokers with a 1963 study showing a reduction in the percentage of youngsters who smoke. Most of the nonsmokers in 1963 explained, "It's bad for my health."

IF THESE teenagers "are getting the message," Corwin urges, "the message must go on. Every year a new crop of youngsters reaches the age when the question arises, To start or not to start?"

He suggests community organizations might well undertake organized efforts "to keep the smoke cleared away" and warn "our teenagers away from Tobacco Road."

Heights Clubwomen Elect New Officers

Mesdames Marvin S. Brand, Thomas P. Johnson Jr., Douglas L. Thomson, H. A. Burnett and Robert E. Meyers were elected directors of the club.

Mrs. Clarence C. Hendrickson, first vice president of Northern Region IFWC and a former president of the Arlington Heights club, installed the officers and directors and extended congratulations to them.

Suburban Mom Asks:

Is It Music or Noise?

by BETTY AINSLIE

What's your favorite brand of music these days? Seems like the nursery rhyme "rings on her fingers and bells on her toes, she shall have music wherever she goes," never was so true.

With hi-fi and stereo records to fill our homes with sound and AM and FM music to keep us awake while driving, we live our daily hours constantly bombarded with our own particular brand of music.

Super markets pipe in "music to wheel our shopping carts by," restaurants offer electric organ selections or jukebox tunes for our eating and listening pleasure— even the dentist wisks soft strains through a PA system.

PERSONALLY, I kinda like that dead sound of absolutely nothing hitting my eardrums. After a weekend of a radio swinging rock and roll from a bedroom — stereo flinging out booming sound in the living room and TV bursting forth with a symphony, a sing along or variety show — and the small phonograph owned by son no. 2 hitting the twist favorites—my station in the kitchen becomes a sounding board of snatches from each room, blending all the noise into a fine cacophony of sound.

So the absolute silence of a Monday morning, say around 9 o'clock, is deafening.

There are several moods of music which are popular in this family.

SON NO. 1 likes things like "Victory at Sea," talking records, hootenanny, group singers and rock and roll.

Daughter, if and when she's around, likes symphonies or full scores of motion pictures.

Son no. 2 enjoys Civil War songs, World War battle sounds, "1812 Overture" and parade and military marches.

Pop specializes in dixieland and the big pipe organ music.

Now I'm partial to "nostalgia" songs danced to and remembered fondly from proms or long dead romances. The soft ballads that sound sweeter to my ears than present day twist music.

IT PROBABLY would be rather nice if families agreed on this subject of music and all enjoyed one variety. For instance, any trip in our car calls for five voices trying to command one radio. The choices are sport events from football, hockey, basketball, track and naturally baseball which vie with disk jockeys, rock and roll and twist. Who wins? Why, naturally, Pop as he's usually driving and has full control of the radio push buttons.

But music is supposed to be an art which applies to organized sound. In other words some of the way out yelling and hollering which is standard accompaniment for these short lived twist pieces wouldn't, no matter how you slice it, be considered music.

ALL TEENAGERS go through a period of record collecting and listening, with volume turned up, to jump and jive records. Isn't it nice though that it doesn't last too long, and they gradually settle into an enjoyment of the more standard types of music. At least the kind that is passable and possible as background noise even though not necessarily your favorite selections.

Since the record player replaced the old time Victor talkmashine, our homes are constantly bombarded with sounds. Remember when you were allowed to try out your selected records at the store? When record departments had little rooms equipped with phonographs? Many an inexpensive evening of fun, when we were budgeted newlyweds, was spent listening to new records in the store. We could spend an entire evening with our favorite music by just the purchase of a record or two for our collection of 78's.

ACCORDING to Mozart, "Music even in situations of the greatest horror should never be painful to the ear but should flatter and charm it, and thereby always remain music."

I've a feeling that what is one fellow's music might be another's discord. A good friend of mine dislikes most all but the very classical. Another hates anything with stringed instruments and another listens to only operas.

The volume control probably is a big factor in musical enjoyment. Soft background music is soothing and relaxing and many enjoy reading, eating and doing housework with the accompaniment of soft strains. Ever notice the Stereo fan must be slightly deaf or always figures his audience is.

"I know whether my record fan friend is a stereo fiend by just noticing how loudly he plays his phonograph," declares a friend.

As Confucius say — "Music produces a kind of pleasure which human nature cannot do without." — To which I agree. That is if it's my kind of music.

Workpower Wooing Area Women to Work

Ex-career housewives in the west and northwest suburban area are very soon going to find that they are being pursued.

The pursuer, hardly a stranger to the area, will be Workpower, Inc., the work-contracting service that on occasion turns itself into a rolling grab-bag of opportunity for suburban wives and mothers who have almost forgotten the fun of working for pay.

BETWEEN the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Workpower's mobile office unit, the "Workmobile" will travel to the Arlington Motel, 948 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights, where applications for temporary office work will be accepted in Conference Room "A" by veteran Workpower interviewer, Marge McCormick.

As ever, the object of the visit will be to woo women back to work.

And while Workpower's appeal will be directed chiefly to the frantic hausfrau bushed from battling the budget, it will also welcome the response of the lass recently out of school and in quest of kopeks (provided she has passed her 18th birthday).

To these ladies, Workpower offers temporary work, the nature and duration being left to the discretion of the applicant herself.

"Our only requirement," says Stanford Meigs, Workpower's president, "is that the applicant be able to work at least one, full eight-hour day.

"Workpower is not an employment agency. We are work contractors. Our clients need people to work with and to assist their permanent personnel for specified lengths of time—chiefly during vacation and peak operational periods.

"WHEN AN applicant finishes a job, she may request further assignment if and when she wishes. Similarly, if we ourselves contact her with regard to a particular job, the decision to accept or not is entirely up to her."

What kind of work? You name it — Workpower apparently has it. However, according to Mr. Meigs, most client requirements cover office work: clerical, steno, typists, executive secretary, IBM etc. He added however, that one Workpower client is a north shore society matron who uses Workpower girls to assist her in making beaded dog dollars which she sells at fantastic prices to her fashionable friends.

'Coffee' for Demo Women Volunteers

The Democratic Women's Organization of Wheeling Township held a coffee and cake session for all volunteer workers last Friday afternoon at headquarters, 111 E. Davis St., Arlington Heights.

A cross section of volunteers from the entire Wheeling Township area was represented, enabling them to become acquainted with their "neighbors."

For the benefit of newcomers as well as experienced workers, a brief lecture was presented on the origin and purposes of the Democratic party by Mrs. Herman Koenaman, secretary to Committeeman James Stavras. The importance of politics was explained from the national down to the grass roots level.

Mr. Stavros had a message of appreciation conveyed to all volunteers, saying "It is the women, interested in politics, that bring vitality to the suburban scene."

Mrs. W. C. Thiele, president of the local organization, distributed work assignments to area block captains.

'Recipe File' Shower Thoughtful for Brides

by DOLORES HAUGH

April showers bring May flowers and June Brides, so this month we will be thinking of what a young man's fancy turns to and what those lucky "engaged" gals hope for, pre-wedding showers. This one will prove to be different, fun and a boon to the new housewife, cook and even to hubby.

INVITATIONS

From white construction paper cut a file box and decorate it with red hearts and a Pennsylvania Dutch motif. Make it so that the top is hinged, that is, fold it ¼ of the way from the top so that you must lift it to see the slit which you have cut in the box. Into this on standard file cards which have been cut into thirds, write on one:

Recipe for a SHOWER for

TIME: PLACE:
GIVEN BY: RSVP
Wear your prettiest apron.

On the next one write:

Recipe for the EVENING (or afternoon or morning)

Bring a Kitchen Gift:
—a favorite recipe of yours
—with your wish and signature

On the third write:

Recipe for Memories

Wrap your gift box in a new kitchen towel

Tie on a small but needed kitchen item and your recipe card. Enclose blank card for them to use.

PREPARATIONS

This is a fun-type of shower for the hostess, too, as it is easy and she will need only a few items on hand for her guests besides the food.

She will, of course, have a beautiful new file box for the guest of honor. This may be hand-painted by her, purchased or made of wood and monogrammed with the new initials of bride and groom or just the bride's motto "Made in the kitchen of ——————".

Have an index ready so the guests may file their recipes in the box after they read them, and this is your gift to the bride. Make sure you add your own favorite recipes.

IF YOU have a large kitchen or adjoining family room by all means use it for the shower. Use your kitchen colors for the table and make a centerpiece of fresh flowers in your plastic casserole or prettiest pottery salad bowl.

Use bright terry cloth towels as napkins picking up the colors of your room or using contrasting ones.

Be sure you have tables or lap trays for your guests and chairs for all with a special chair for the guest of honor. Crown her with a chef's hat and present her with a lovely cover-all apron which her mother may wish to make for her... ... ...

HAVE A table set up with a bright breakfast cloth on it and let the guests stack their towel-wrapped gifts on it. Have a matching one empty and place cartons under a larger sized tablecloth so that the gifts may be displayed as she opens them for viewing by the guests later.

Have the new file box ready, and as each gift is opened have the memory wish read and note the gift on it for the guest of honor to acknowledge later. You may, as the hostess or the mother of the bride-to-be, present her with kitchen note paper for her acknowledgments which should be sent not more than one week after the gifts are received. The groom may help write them or at least address the envelopes, as he will enjoy these shower recipes too.

MENU

Honeymoon salad — "lettuce alone" will be the center of the menu, and then let each guest place tuna, chicken or ham salad or a little of each on the honeymoon salad. Hot sweetheart rolls, made heart shaped, relishes, dessert, coffee, nuts and mints will complete the menu.

The dessert may be a box made from a loaf cake and decorated to match the invitation and recipe box itself. This is done by making your favorite cake in a bread pan — you may need to make two, but a small intimate shower is always more fun than huge impersonal ones.

You may wish to keep this one at approximately 12 to 15 guests but your entertaining facilities will dictate the number you can best accommodate.

ENTERTAINMENT

The reading of the wishes, recipes and gifts plus the food will take up a lot of time, but you may wish to unscramble names of a few menus or kitchen items, and even have the guests give the bride-to-be their favorite menu so that she may have a few to start off with after the honeymoon. A thoughtful bride-to-be, when entertaining friends for the first time in her own home, may even select one recipe from each menu when she makes up her own party menu.

So be a happy planner and get your recipe file out to stir up this April shower. (S

Hairstyling Program For Kappas April 14

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Kappa Kappa Gamma alumna in the northwest suburban area will meet for dessert and a program on hair styling Tuesday, April 14, at 1 p.m. in the Park Ridge home of Mrs. W. G. Catron.

Following dessert, Charles Huege of The Pamper Shoppe, Des Plaines, will entertain the Kappas with a demonstration of hairdos for hot weather in a program he calls "Give Yourself a Head Start on Summer."

Using a live model to show how women with various hair problems can wear modern new hair styles, the youthful hairdresser will also talk of wigs and "wiglettes," which he describes as the latest rage in the world of hair fashions.

Charles is the official hairdresser for Estelle Compton modeling agency, and conducts a weekly column on hair problems and styling in a Des Plaines newspaper.

All Kappa Kappa Gamma alumna in the Paddock area are invited to the April 14 dessert meeting, and may call Mrs. Glen Schmid, 358-5335, for reservations.

HAIRDO FOR SPRING hat finery is one of the specialties of Charles Huege of the Pamper Shoppe. His hot weather hairdos will be the program April 14 for members of Kappa Kappa Gamma alumnae when they hold a dessert meeting. (S

PI BETA PHI

Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club of Arlington Heights celebrated Founders' Day Wednesday evening at a banquet at Old Orchard Country Club.

The national sorority was founded April 28, 1867 at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., and each year pays tribute to the 12 girls who organized the first chapter.

Heading plans for the local alumnae club's banquet were Mrs. Robert Armstrong and Mrs. John Otzen. Springtime decorations were in charge of Mrs. Leslie G. Janett and Mrs. Roy Hanken.

The evening's entertainment included a choral group of sophomore girls from Forest View High School who sang light, classical and popular tunes.

DELTA ZETA

Alumnae of Delta Zeta will meet in the Prospect Heights home of Miss Annabelle Smith, 100 N. Elm St., on Tuesday, April 14, at 8 p.m.

White elephant gifts will be auctioned off followed by an evening of cards; Mrs. John Corday, LE 7-1292, is taking reservations.

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

Plentywood Farm Restaurant, Bensenville, will be the setting April 18 of the annual Founders Day Luncheon planned by the Chicago Suburban West Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Sigma Sigma Sigma, a social sorority for college women, was founded at Longwood College, Farmville, Va., on April 20, 1898. The Sorority has grown to encompass 63 collegiate chapters and more than 130 alumnae chapters throughout the nation. High Christian ideals and service to others, always the purpose of Tri Sigma women, inspire collegiates now, as they have over 26,000 members in a 65-year-span.

THE SORORITY has recently purchased property in Woodstock, Va., for the location of its national memorial headquarters. This location, in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley, will mean much to all Tri Sigmas, as the area of its founding and much of its early history.

Mrs. Robert Wilson, 520 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights, is current president of the local alumnae chapter. Mrs. Wade Harris of Hoffman Estates, Roselle, will be installed as the 1964-65 president in May.

ALPHA PHI

A program on interior decorating is slated for area Alpha Phis at a meeting Thursday, April 16, in the home of Mrs. Robert Nesbit, 305 S. Redfield, Park Ridge.

After the business meeting, Robert Mook, owner of Hilltop Studio in Arlington Heights, will present current trends in decorating and room arrangement.

Mr. Mook was graduated from the University of Alabama. He opened the studio in 1949 and for the past 10 years has been teaching at Arlington High School.

All Alpha Phis in the area are urged to call Mrs. Nesbit at 825-3678 for reservations and information.

Authoress and honorary member of Alpha Psi Chapter, Mrs. John Fleming, will speak at a joint meeting of the Eta, Beta Tau and Alpha Psi Chapters of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society on April 11.

Members will meet to hear Mrs. Fleming's topic, "Literature Reflects Changing Culture," at The Pantry in Park Ridge.

An important meeting is to be held prior to the luncheon at The Pantry. Edith Ford, Alpha Psi president, will host a 9:30 coffee in her home, at which time final reports, installation of new officers and balloting for new members is planned.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Northwest area Tri Deltas have slated a tour of the Chandelier Shop in Arlington Heights at 8 p.m., April 15.

Following the tour and dessert, Mrs. Dana Harmon, decorator for the shop and a member of the group, will speak on home decor, accenting accessories.

Co-hostesses are Mrs. Richard Sutton, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. L. Pinotti, Prospect Heights. Mrs. Sutton, 259-2179, is accepting reservations.

BETA SIGMA PHI

Members of Mu Pi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi packed Easter baskets for a needy family at their last meeting, March 26, hosted by Mrs. Russell Henry of Streamwood.

After the project was completed, Mrs. Carl Carlson and Mrs. Henry led a debate entitled, "Television's Influence on Our Children." Members also learned their recent bake sale was a "huge success."

RESULTS OF THE election of 1964-65 officers are as follows: Mrs. Jay Sinnes, Bartlett, president; Mrs. Henry, vice president; Mrs. Sam Nowling, Hoffman Estates, treasurer; and Mrs. T. Tolentino, also of Hoffman, corresponding secretary.

Two Bartlett women, Mrs. Melvin Van Buren, and Mrs. Mathew Bernert were named to the posts of recording secretary and extension officer.

CHI OMEGA

Local alumnae, Mrs. Donald F. House and Mrs. Verne Whitnell of Arlington Heights, coordinating committee members, have announced plans for Chi Omega Illinois State Day, to be held Saturday, April 11.

The purpose of this third annual event is to promote greater alumnae interest in Chi Omega and to let the actives and alumnae share ideas. This year a workshop, scheduled at Northwestern Chi Omega House at 11 a.m., will hear ideas on rushing, scholarship and current fraternity issues.

AT THE 12:30 luncheon in the Orrington Hotel, Evanston, James C. McLeod, dean of students at Northwestern, plans to address the membership on "The Changing Fraternity Image." Honored guest for State Day is Mrs. John Howard of Little Rock, author of Chi Omega Symphony, which was written while she was a pledge at Northwestern.

The month of April is a meaningful time to all Chi Omegas, who will also honor the founders of the fraternity at this time with a candlelighting service. Chi Omega was founded on April 5, 1895, at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, Ark.

Following the luncheon, tours of the Alice Millar Chapel and the lake fill project will begin at the chapter house at 10 a.m. All members are invited to meet here for an informal open house after the Eleusinian luncheon. The address is 1870 Orrington Ave.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Air Travel Boon

Data System Streamlines Reservations

By JEANNE WELCH
Travel Editor

About six years ago one of the major airlines flew Chicago area travel writers to Denver to see its new data processing equipment which speeded up the complicated business of reservation-making in what seem a miraculous manner. Last week American Airlines, in a press conference in Chicago, vividly demonstrated that six years have brought data-processing to new heights of super-human achievement.

WELCH

American's new system, called SABRE, has taken some 10 years to develop, during which time International Business Machines Corporation and airline executives have worked in close collaboration. When completely activated by the end of 1964 SABRE will be the most extensive data processing system in the business world, according to H. D. Sillman, the airline's Chicago regional vice president.

By the use of this electronic system American's reservation desks serving northern Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and northern Indiana can know in seconds what space is available on any of the airline's 900 daily flights. This almost instantaneous information comes from the system's computing center at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., near New York City. The Briarcliff center is capable of processing over 7,500 complete airline reservations in an hour.

Handling reservations, however, is only one string of the bow of a system which is versatile as well as speedy. SABRE can also automatically: notify sales agents when special action is needed, such as calling a passenger to inform him of changes; process waiting lists and make reservations as seats become available; and advise agents to follow up on reservations which have not been picked up.

An important by-product of the record-keeping abilities of the new system is that it can provide data to aid American's management to plan for future needs. Such data include daily running totals of seats sold and the percentage of business deriving from various sources. It can even help in planning menus for the airline since it can indicate passenger preferences for certain types of meals.

It is estimated that SABRE will save the airline about $1,000,000 yearly while improving its passenger service. One very nice and reassuring fact about this savings, however, is that it will not be affected by the release of employees whose duties the system has usurped.

Seems as though American deserves a special pat on the back for the care and concern it has shown in working out a program whereby those employees whose jobs have been made obsolete have been re-trained for other positions and their continuing employment guaranteed.

TYPICAL RESERVATIONS office of American Airlines shows the SABRE equipment which enables each agent, no matter where located, to "talk" directly with an electronic reservations center at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. SABRE is the largest data processing system in business use. Able to communicate instantaneously with Briarcliff, the agent in seconds time may reserve flight space or complete any particular action requested by the customer. The multi-million dollar system represents a major advancement over any present reservations setup in accuracy, efficiency, speed and capacity.

Leisurely Driving

Scenic Scandinavia Rewards Motorists

Motoring in Scandinavia is not so much a matter of speed as scenery. It's not that roads in Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden don't permit high speeds, but what's the point of racing along with eyes glued to the highway when there are fjords, fairy-tale towns, sparkling lakes and folklore provinces to see?

In Denmark, for example, where rolling terrain and modern highways certainly make for fast driving, the Danes nevertheless urge motoring tourists to get off the main roads and onto the secondary "green roads" which go past white-washed half-timbered houses with thatched roofs and lush farms where some of the world's finest dairy products originate.

En route, there's always a "kro"—the quaint inn serving real Danish pastries, open-faced sandwiches and other gourmet specialities. Good excursion centers for motorists are Copenhagen, the gay capital; Odense and Svendborg, on Hans Christian Andersen's fairy-tale isle of Funen, and Aarhus, in Jutland.

IN FINLAND, too, a country of lakes and forests, modern architecture and medieval castles, leisurely driving in light traffic offers many scenic rewards, particularly in the Eastern Lake District. All major roads are paved, and sharp curves have been eliminated in an extensive road-building program.

Helsinki-bound motorists can drive all the way from the Continent on Highway E4, which starts in Lisbon, Portugal, and has its longest stretch in Sweden, from Helsingborg, in the south, to Haparanda, at the Swedish-Finnish border, above the Arctic Circle. Excellent ferries across the Gulf of Bothnia between Sweeden and Finland offer several short cuts.

Norway's motor routes are themselves among that country's leading scenic attractions. Zigzagging roads with hairpin bends in the mountains offer extra thrills. Well-kept and safe, they introduce new breath-taking sights at every turn — fjords, glaciers, waterfalls, tiny farms perched high on the mountainside and bustling towns sheltered in the valleys.

THE MOTORIST trying to estimate his travel time in Norway from a map is easily deceived because of the terrain and the frequent fjord crossings by ferry. From Bergen to Oslo, for example, the most interesting and direct auto route is 310 miles, a day's drive in America, but you'll need three days for it in Norway, where 100 to 150 miles a day is considered a comfortable maximum.

In Sweden, one of the most picturesque drives is the road along the eastern shore of Lake Vattern, on the popular route between Stockholm and Gothenburg which takes in the high spots of the Gota Canal district. This drive usually includes a brief detour via medieval Vadstena to see its castle and historic cloisters.

Sweden, which now has left-hand driving, will change to right-hand driving in the summer of 1967.

THE "MOTORING season" in Scandinavia extends from early May through September, even on routes to the North Cape, above the Arctic circle, and—believe it or not—some roads in northern Sweden are open all year around. A popular motor route in the north is from Kiruna, mining center in Swedish Lapland, to Karesuando, which connects with roads via Finland and Norway to the Cape, for Midnight Sun driving.

Drive-yourself and chauffeur-driven cars are available everywhere in Scandinavia and can be reserved in advance through travel agents. Both American and European makes of cars are rented but the smaller European car is more common because of its economy, since gasoline costs from 53 to 62 cents a gallon. Small cars rent for $3.25 to $4 a day plus 4 cents to 5.5 cents a kilometer.

Literature on motoring in Scandinavia is available from the Scandinavian Travel Commission, Box 260, New York, N. Y. 10017.

Treat for Tourists

Jamaica Rum Taster Is an Artist at Work

by JAMES WINCHESTER

KINGSTON, JAMAICA — "Great rum, this," you say, smacking your lips over your favorite brand of Jamaica rum. And possibly, as you drink, it may occur to you once in a great while that it has the same lovely taste it had when you first tried it, years ago.

Most likely, though, it has never occurred to you to wonder just how it happens that it tastes the same year in and year out. It does because of the subtle and exacting work of the rum taster, or, as he is also known, the blender.

The materials he works with are rums that may come from the manufacturer's own distilleries, or from various independent distillers. They may be of many "crops" of many ages, of varying types as to color, body and aroma. All of these characteristics must be tasted, smelled, evaluated and given their proper weight, ultimately to be blended into the final, finished rum that you drink. It is a task that cannot be relegated to even the most complex machine, or to a group of skilled employees. It is the job of a specialist — a dedicated person with a nose and palate extraordinarily perceptive and acute.

WATCH HIM as he works. All Jamaica's larger rum plants, most of them in or near Kingston, welcome visitors, according to British Overseas Airways Corporation, which jets to this Caribbean island in 3½ hours from New York City.

Around the taster on the table are samples of rums that have been aged from five to 25 years. The blender picks up a sample, pours some into his balloon-shaped snifter — his "London Dock glass"—and cups his hand around it to warm the liquor and release its bouquet. He puts his nose well into the glass. A sniff alone can tell him quite a lot about that sample.

Then he will let a drop or two onto his tongue. That is all he needs—he does not swallow, but spits it out when it has told him what he needs to know about it.

THEN ON to another sample. Again he swirls the glass to help the liquid release its aroma. Again he puts his nose into the glass and sniffs. Again he takes a drop, rolls it around, spits it out. Again he has learned all he wants to know about that aspirant for your favor.

But he is not only testing and testing. As he works he is calculating which of the samples will go into the particular blend he is working toward, and how much of each sample. It is on his skill and judgment that rests the uniformity found so desirable in any Jamaica rum.

The testing of individual samples over, the blending begins. Each mixture is closely examined for color. It is smelled and tested. Eventually the blend is achieved that satisfies the taster. This is the blend that comes as close as is humanly possible —and that is as close as no matter, as the British say — to the rum that represents the firm in markets all over the world.

NOW THE RUM is ready to be bottled. At this point the only change allowed by law is the addition of coloring, in the form of a little sugar caramel, and the adding of distilled water to reduce the proof of the rum to the predetermined strength.

The taster-blender, as you might expect, is one of the highest-paid men in the Jamaica rum industry. If his firm's reputation—and fortunes — can be said to rest in the hands of any one person, he is it.

The blender's formulas for achieving a particular rum of a very particular nature are not written down. They are passed along by him to his assistants, who in turn will convey them to their assistants. A taster often has a 20-year apprenticeship.

THESE MEN represent the culmination, the perfecting, of a process that begins with the harvesting of the sugar cane, the fermenting of the molasses by-product, the distilling of the spirit, and the aging process that itself may take up to 25 years.

Yes, the taster-blender is the man to whom you might well doff your hat as you savor the most delectable of drinks—Jamaica rum.

Aluminum Windows Have AAMA Label

If you're planning to buy a new home this spring, or are starting a remodeling or room addition on your present one, be sure the aluminum windows and sliding glass doors you buy bear the "Quality Certified" label of the Architectural Aluminum Manufacturers Association (AAMA), which is headquartered in Chicago.

This seal is your guide to a quality product that won't swell, warp or stick.

All houses and remodeling projects with aluminum windows and sliding glass doors that are insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) must carry this label. Too, many savings and loan officers view with favor houses and remodeling projects that carry the AAMA, Inc., label.

THE SEAL says that the unit bearing it has been designed and manufactured in compliance with a rigid set of industry standards. It protects you against inferior products.

"What the Underwriters' Laboratory Seal is to safety, the AAMA, Inc., label is to quality," according to George O. Radford, president of the 111-member organization.

Gallery Wall Of Paintings

Do you have a number of important and valuable paintings which need display on a gallery wall in your home? Then, here is an idea which a western art fancier developed in his home.

He decided his paintings needed a good foil, a neutral background which would enhance their beauty and color and not rob them.

SO, IN designing his home, he had his living room created in a two-story height with the entrance from the top level. One two-story tall wall has become his gallery, and is a constant source of pleasure to the owner and his guests. It flanks an open stair system which leads to the living floor level.

The wall was built of four-inch wide west coast hemlock flooring, tongue-and-groove pattern, and it was finished in clear plastic which brings out the warm, soft champagne color of the wood.

The effect is startling, a beautiful, warm wall and yet one of such soft colors that it builds up the paintings. The wall has no pattern.

It can be applied directly to a stud wall, if it is a new home under construction, or it can be affixed to an old wall by merely leveling the wall with one-by-two inch furring strips which also make a good nailing surface.

Cook 'Salutes' Spring with Elegant Angel Food

HIGH, LIGHT AND HANDSOME is the elegant Angel Food Ice Box Cake which Mrs. William J. Ryan of Mount Prospect is serving her son, Tom, 10 years old. This good cook especially recommends serving this refreshing dessert during the spring and summer months. (SH

ANGEL FOOD ICE BOX CAKE

1 angel food cake
½ cup butter
½ cup granulated sugar
4 egg yolks
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
4 stiffly-beaten egg whites

Cut angel food cake in three layers. Cream butter and sugar together thoroughly. Beat egg yolks and add to creamed mixture; slowly add lemon rind and juice. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites.

Spread filling between layers and on top of cake. Refrigerate overnight.

If served at the table, cover sides and top of cake with whipped cream. If served from the kitchen, slice cake and place spoonful of whipped cream on each serving. Serves 12.

FILLETS OF SOLE

2 pounds fillets of sole
⅓ cup butter
3 tablespoons finely-chopped green onion
1 cup dry white wine
1 bay leaf
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup water or soup stock

Melt butter; add onion, bay leaf, wine and water and heat. When hot, add fillets and salt and pepper them. Cover and cook for 10 minutes.

Remove fillets to heat-proof platter and boil sauce down for five minutes. Add ½ cup cream or rich milk. Heat thoroughly and pour over fillets. Place under broiler for a few minutes, until bubbly. Serves 4 to 6.

SHISH KABOBS

3 or 4 pounds well-marbled beef or lamb
Salt and pepper
1 onion, sliced
½ cup dry wine, red or white
4 large green peppers
About 10 small onions
4 tomatoes cut in quarters or 10 or 12 cherry tomatoes
2 cans small potatoes

Cut meat in 1½-inch cubes; place in a large bowl and season with salt and pepper. Add the sliced onion and the wine. Marinate for at least six hours or overnight, stirring occasionally to keep meat coated. Put meat on skewers, interspersed with small onions.

On separate skewers put the sections of green peppers, small tomatoes and potatoes. Brush the vegetables with butter, salt and pepper them, and place on the sides of the grill where the heat is less intense. Place skewers with meat on them in center of the grill and brush with marinade which has had water added to it. Brown nicely on all sides. Serves 5.

Sea Jewel Salad

Appetizing soup and salad mates provide interesting and taste-tempting fare for lunch or supper. For instance, this shimmering salad of tuna, green peas, and crisp diced apples molded in orange-pineapple flavor gelatin is a satisfying entree, preceded by mugs of steaming hot Cheddar cheese soup and crusty toasted bread.

MOLDED SEA JEWEL SALAD

1 package (3 ounces) orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 cup boiling water
¾ cup cold water
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
½ cup drained cooked peas
½ cup chopped red apple

Dissolve gelatin, salt, and pepper in boiling water. Add cold water and vinegar. Stir in mayonnaise and blend well. Chill until very thick. Fold in remaining ingredients and pour into a 1-quart mold. Makes 4 to 6 servings. (SH

The parsnip is strictly a winter and early spring vegetable, for it takes about two weeks exposure to near-freezing temperature to change its starch to sugar.

Cake Is Layered With Whip Cream

by LOIS SEILER

An elegant dessert designed to draw raves from the most discriminating guests is the luscious angel food ice box cake being featured today as a salute to spring.

It is one of Mrs. William J. Ryan's favorites, which she especially recommends serving during the summer months because it is so "cool, light and refreshing."

The dessert is made by cutting an angel food cake into three layers and filling and frosting it with a rich and creamy lemon-flavored filling.

There is no cooking involved in preparing this filling; it simply consists of butter, sugar, egg yolks, lemon rind and juice creamed together with egg whites folded in. Refrigerated overnight, Mrs. Ryan frosts the cake with whipped cream just before serving.

This is a perfect dessert to serve with either fillets of sole or shish kabobs, two of this good cook's dinner specialties.

Sole prepared by her method is guaranteed to have no fishy taste. Cooked in wine, butter and water seasoned with chopped green onion and bay leaf, the sauce is later cooked down and cream is added. This rich sauce is then poured over the fish and popped under the broiler until bubbly.

"I like to serve baked or boiled potatoes and a green vegetable, such as broccoli, with this dinner," Mrs. Ryan commented. "Crisp rolls and a salad are also good accompaniments."

Either beef or lamb can be used to make this capable homemaker's shish kabobs, which are barbecued on an outdoor grill. She marinates the meat in wine at least six hours, preferably overnight. It is then put on skewers interspersed with small onions.

ON SEPARATE skewers Mrs. Ryan threads sections of green peppers, cherry tomatoes and small canned potatoes. The vegetables are placed on the sides of the grill where the heat is not too intense, as they require a shorter cooking time, while the meat is placed in the center of the grill and browned nicely on all sides.

Crispy hard rolls and a tossed salad is all that is needed for this appealing and flavorful outdoor meal.

Cooking is only one of many interests of this busy mother of three who also enjoys sewing, knitting and gardening and who is very active in several organizations.

A member of the Mount Prospect Unit of Home Demonstrators, she is 4-H chairman for this group as well as 4-H chairman for North Cook County. She is also a member of the youth committee and a director on the Home Demonstrators Council for Cook County. Mrs. Ryan belongs to St. Emily's Guild, too.

The Ryan family lives at 512 N. Maple in Mount Prospect. Their children are: Patricia, 18, a freshman at Illinois State University at Normal; John, 15, a sophomore at Prospect High, and Tom, 10, a fifth grade student.

Oranges Flavor Canadian Bacon

You'll turn a colorless winter day into a bright occasion when mealtime reveals a brilliant orange sauce on Canadian style bacon.

The sauce is prepared with sweetened orange juice thickened with cornstarch. It's served warm with orange sections and flecks of lemon rind.

AS TO THE meat, that's an innovation, too. For each serving an orange slice and a thin onion slice are tucked between two Canadian style bacon slices. The stacks are baked and the orange sauce poured over for serving.

This dish is delicious at dinner or lunch. It's also a wonderful idea for a brunch. (Omit the onion at this meal, if desired.)

CANADIAN STYLE BACON AND ORANGE SAUCE

12 slices Canadian style bacon, cut ¼ inch thick
6 thin onion slices
6 orange slices, rind removed
2 teaspoons sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup orange juice
1 orange, peeled and cut in sections
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Arrange 6 slices Canadian style bacon in a greased shallow 1½-quart baking dish. Top each slice with an onion slice, an orange slice and another slice of Canadian style bacon. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes.

Mix together sugar and cornstarch. Add orange juice and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Stir in orange sections and lemon rind.

Serve sauce over meat. Six servings. (SH

Extra Day in '64 Chosen For King-Hicks Nuptials

(Bak Studios

The extra day provided in 1964 was chosen by Betsy King, daughter of the C. H. Kings, 350 S. Burton Place, Arlington Heights, and David F. Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hicks of Braddock, Pa. for their wedding. Their Leap Year Day wedding on Feb. 29 took place at 4:30 p.m. in First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights with Dr. Paul L. Stumpf officiating.

Organist for the candlelight ceremony was Mrs. Isaac Strain with Mr. Strain as soloist. His selections were "The Lord's Prayer" and "The 13th Chapter of 1st Corinthians." Candelabra, white stock and snap dragons decorated the altar, and candelabra also marked the aisle down which Mr. King escorted his daughter.

For her marriage the bride wore an ivory peau de soie gown with panels of antique Irish lace decorated with lace medallions and seed pearls. The bodice was fashioned with scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves, and a split court train was a feature of the skirt. Her ivory illusion veil was held in place with a pearl crown and she carried a cascade of white baby orchids and stephanotis with a large center orchid.

MISS GAY Capouch of Libertyville, an Alpha Delta Pi sorority sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the Misses Jane Solon of Glencoe, the groom's sister, Nancy Hicks of North Braddock, and Miss Linda Jungbluth of Arlington Heights.

All wore identical gowns of gypsy beauty satin fashioned with floor-length skirts, scooped necklines and elbow-length sleeves. They carried cascades of pink carnations and American Beauty roses.

The bride's 10-year-old brother, Tommy of Arlington Heights was acolyte. The groom's best man was Rick Rothenberger of Chicago and ushers were Henry Chapman and Don DeFord of Chicago and Charles King, brother of the bride, of Arlington Heights.

THE SERVICE was followed by a reception in the church's Fellowship Hall and a buffet in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. King greeted the 175 guests in a gold silk dress with matching jacket and a corsage of green cymbidiums. Mrs. Hicks chose a navy crepe dress with jacket and a corsage of white camellias.

Mr. Hicks took his bride on a 2-week wedding trip to Acapulco and since March 13, the newlyweds have been residing at 6310 N. Kenmore, Chicago.

The new Mrs. Hicks was graduated from Arlington High School and Northwestern University, and the groom was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh. Both young people are employed by IBM. (S

World-Wide 'Tour' Planned For Faith Ladies April 15

All ladies of Faith Church, Arlington Heights, are invited to "come along" on a world-wide tour of mission fields at Faith Ladies' Society's mission meeting Wednesday, April 15. Mrs. Paul Brna, mission chairman, has arranged to have Mrs. Albert Warnke of Des Plaines show the colored slides which she and her husband took on a Lutheran World Mission Tour last summer.

The tour included visits to Lutheran missions, LWML projects, foreign Lutheran Hour offices, Lutheran World Relief spots, and Wheat Ridge Seals hospital projects around the world, as well as the Holy Land. Particularly interesting to the ladies will be the LWML projects, for these are sponsored in part by their own mite-box offerings which are taken up at each mission meeting, according to the chairman. Besides the Holy Land, the countries visited include Hawaii, Japan, Formosa, Hong Kong, India, Thailand, Greece and Nigeria. Tour leader was Pastor Waldo J. Werning who currently is topic editor of the Lutheran Woman's Quarterly.

"MRS. WARNKE is a dedicated Christian woman who has done considerable work for and with the blind children. She has served on the Braille Transcription Committee of the Board of Missions for the Blind and is also a former editor of the Lutheran Woman's Quarterly," commented Mrs. Brna.

State Judging Honors Arlington Juniors

Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club has been informed by Mrs. Charles M. Whitworth, IFWC Community Improvement Project Chairman, that it has received an honorable mention in state judging of entries in the GFWC Community Improvement Program. The nation-wide competition among member clubs of the General Federation of Women's Clubs is sponsored by the GFWC in cooperation with Sears Roebuck Foundation under the direction of the General Federation Public Affairs Department, whose chairman is Mrs. George Malmgren of Chicago.

National prizes totaling $26,000 are offered as incentive to federated women's clubs to take an active part in the improvement of their own communities. Improvement projects submitted by more than 600 Illinois Federation clubs competed at the state level. Cash prizes and certificates of honorable mention will be awarded at the Illinois Federation Convention in May.

ARLINGTON Juniors received an honorable mention for their efforts to improve the recreational program offered teens of the community. The club was instrumental in establishing Arlington Heights' "Bo-Gi" Youth Center program which is now conducted by an elected student board with advisory assistance from an adult board, whose members are appointed by several participating civic and administrative groups. The club's efforts towards the establishment of a formal youth center organization, built upon a broad base of community support, was described in publicity and other material which went into its CIP scrap book for state judging. Mrs. James Summers prepared and submitted the book for Arlington Juniors.

Mrs. Howard Schick, president of Arlington Juniors, has expressed her pleasure at news of the recognition accorded her club, adding "We want to take this opportunity of stating our conviction that any credit given should be shared by the Park District, High School Administration, Arlington Heights Woman's Club, Chamber of Commerce and Jay-cees, whose representatives joined us in working on this community project."

First place winner in each state competes in the national Community Improvement Contest, with national awards being presented June 10 at the General Federation of Women's Club's convention in Atlantic City. (S

Touch of Yesteryear Graces Wedding of Inverness Pair

Satin cushions used at the wedding of her maternal grandparents and a long lace bridal veil purchased in Belgium in 1910 for her paternal grandmother, added a touch of yesteryear to the wedding of Miss Barbara Jean Melum and James Edward Carnal. MAID OF honor was Miss Marilyn Mead of La Grange and bridesmaids were the Misses Jennifer Payne of Inverness, Diane Nielsen of Buenos Aires, Argentina, Carol Koehler of River Forest, cousin of the bride, Sally Walker of Chicago and Suzanne Sola of River Forest.

A RECEPTION for 250 guests was held in Inverness Golf Club where Mrs. Melum received in a French blue sheath dress with lace trim, matching coat and pale pink cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Carnal chose a beige, pure silk, sheath with matching jacket and a corsage of beige-green cymbidiums.

The newlyweds are now residing in Carbondale where the groom is enrolled at Southern Illinois University. He previously attended the University of Colorado, where he became affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, and has just recently completed his active duty with the Navy. From Breakfast to Supper–

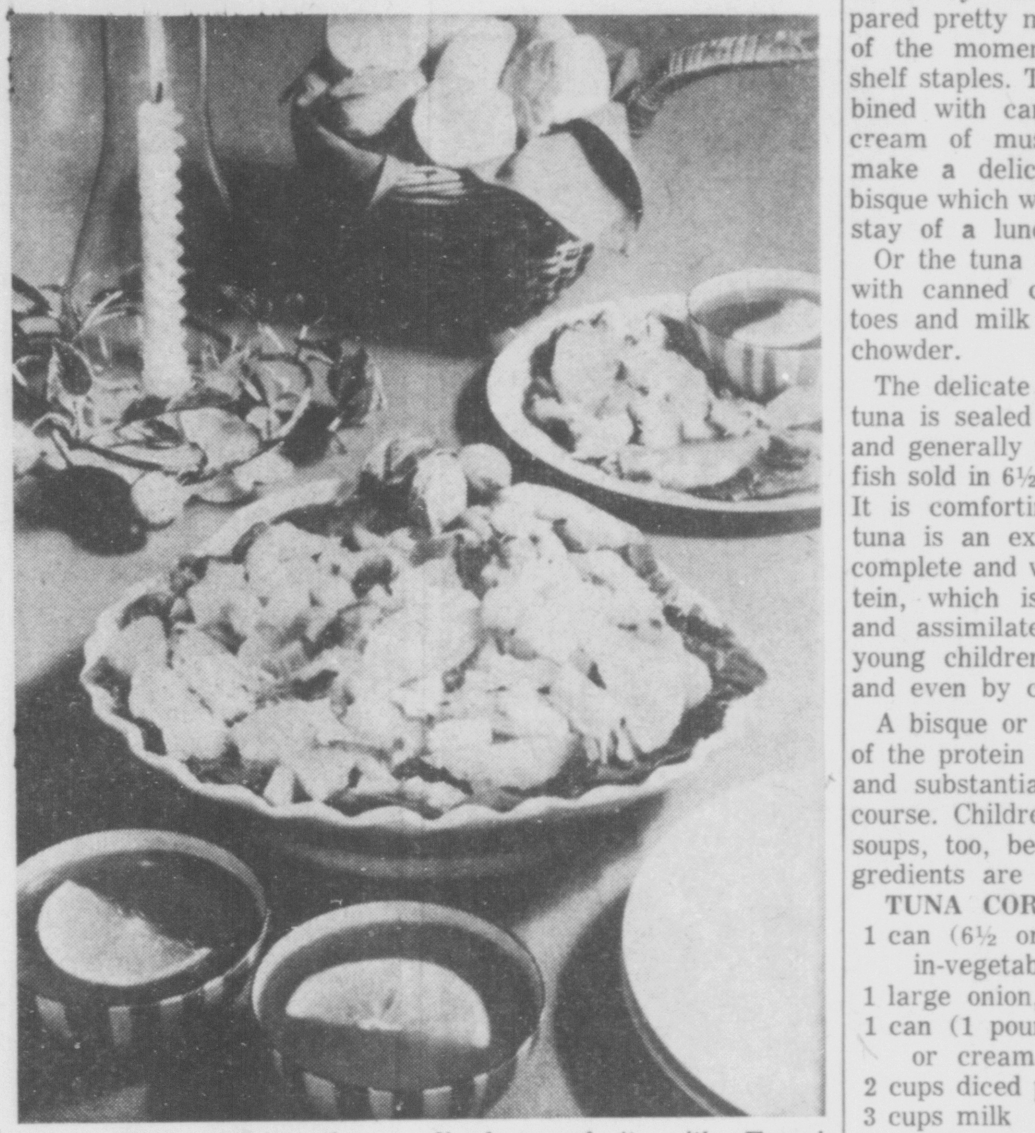
Citrus Fruits Important In Spring Menu Planning



Warm soup and a refreshing salad make the best kind of luncheon or Sunday night supper on a brisk spring day. Florida's good crop of plump juicy oranges and tart-sweet grapefruit are at their peak of goodness now, enabling you to enjoy them from breakfast through supper. The fruit is larger at this period than it was last year due to early maturing, and the season will be a shorter one.

The flavor of canned condensed tomato soup is delicious when you dilute it with fresh Florida orange juice instead of water and garnish it with thin orange slices.

ONE-TWO-THREE Salad, so-called because it takes no time at all to mix up, makes a nourishing, appetizing salad accompaniment for the sweet soup. Zesty diced Florida grapefruit sections combine with celery and canned crab meat, crisp salad greens and French dressing for a light refresher.

Consider the healthful vitamin C content of the grapefruit and the protein and minerals in the crab, and you're assured you're serving a nutritious, delicious salad.

ORANGE TOMATO SOUP

1 can condensed tomato soup
1½ cups orange juice
Florida orange slices

Combine tomato soup and orange juice in saucepan and heat to serving temperature. Garnish with thin slice of orange. Yield: three servings.

ONE-TWO-THREE SALAD

1 can (7½ ounces) crab, flaked
1 cup diced celery
1½ cups diced grapefruit
¼ cup French dressing
Salad greens

Combine crab, celery and diced grapefruit with French dressing; toss gently. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours. Drain and arrange on salad greens, topping with additional grapefruit sections, if desired. Yield: three servings. (SH

Tuna Chowder, Bisque Favored for Economy

Tuna bisques and chowders in savory variety can be prepared pretty much on the spur of the moment with kitchen shelf staples. Tuna can be combined with canned tomato and cream of mushroom soup to make a delicious and hearty bisque which would be the mainstay of a luncheon or supper.

Or the tuna can be combined with canned corn, diced potatoes and milk for an excellent chowder.

The delicate flavor of canned tuna is sealed in vegetable oil, and generally you will find this fish sold in 6½ or 7 ounce cans. It is comforting to know that tuna is an excellent source of complete and well-balanced protein, which is easily digested and assimilated by both very young children, senior citizens and even by convalescents.

A bisque or chowder because of the protein of tuna is hearty and substantial as the main course. Children will like these soups, too, because all the ingredients are familiar.

TUNA CORN CHOWDER

1 can (6½ or 7 ounces) tuna in-vegetable oil
1 large onion, sliced
1 can (1 pound) whole kernel or cream style corn
2 cups diced potatoes
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon Tabasco

Drain tuna; add onion to tuna oil in large saucepan and cook until tender, but not brown. If whole kernel corn is used; drain corn and add corn liquid to saucepan. If cream style corn is used; add ½ cup water to saucepan.

Bring to a boil and add potatoes; cover and cook 10 minutes. Add corn, milk and tuna. Add salt. Heat thoroughly. Add parsley and Tabasco. Yield: Six servings.

TUNA BISQUE

1 can (10 ounces) tomato soup
1 can (10 ounces) cream of mushroom soup
1 soup can milk
1 soup can water
½ teaspoon Tabasco
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna-in-vegetable oil
Finely chopped parsley

Combine undiluted soups in deep saucepan. Gradually stir in milk, water and Tabasco. Add tuna, heat slowly to serving temperature. To serve, spinkle with parsley. Yield: Six to 8 servings. (SH

BRING OUT THE DELICATE FLAVOR of tuna by preparing a chowder or bisque for luncheon or dinner. Two excellent recipes given here use popular canned soups and corn. (SH

A NEW SOUP COMBINATION blends canned tomato soup with fresh Florida orange juice. Garnished with orange slices, this savory entree is served with crab meat and grapefruit salad.

Breaded Fish Squares Boost Luncheon Ideas

HOT 'N HEARTY LUNCHES are the order of day for perking-up lagging appetites. Seafood sandwiches receive star billing for their body-building proteins, vitamins and minerals. (SH

The fishing industry's latest brain child—frozen breaded fish squares and rectangles—are among the easiest foods to prepare for quick hot lunches. By virtue of their shape, these frozen breaded portions of fish are uniquely suited to sandwiches.

They fit on a hamburger bun or onion roll and need only brief oven heating before serving. Look for frozen breaded fish squares and rectangles in the frozen food cabinet of your local supermarket labeled as "fillets," "cutlets," "burgers" or "steaks."

FISH SANDWICH PLATE

Prepare breaded fish squares or rectangles according to package directions. Use bottled tartar sauce or make Cucumber Sauce following directions below. Spread toasted bun halves with sauce before topping them with fried fish. Serve additional sauce on the side.

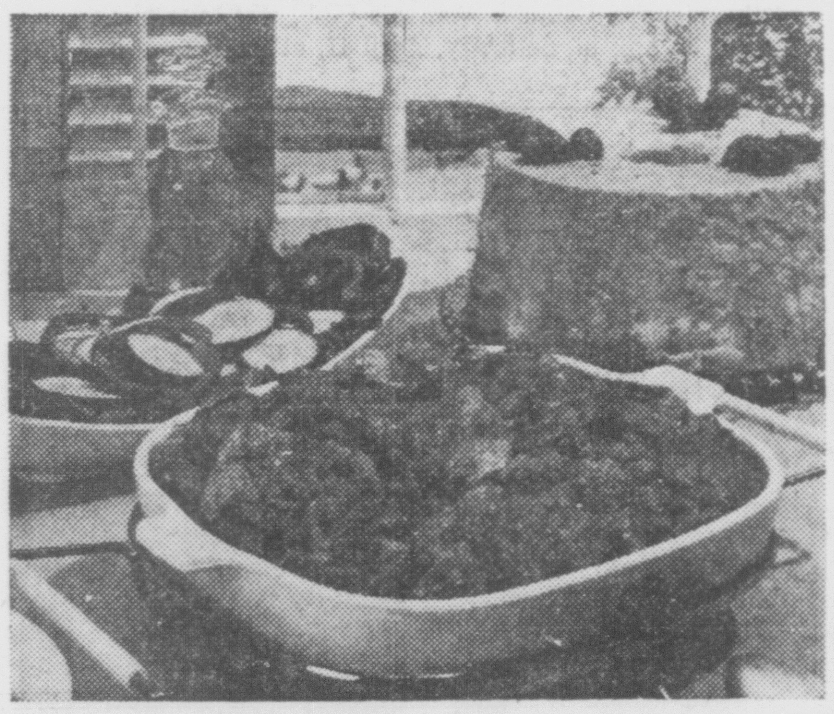
Arrange the fish on a sandwich plate with carrot curls or sticks, olives and a slice of tomato topped by a grind of peppercorns.

CUCUMBER SAUCE

1 cup sour cream
½ cucumber, chopped and very well drained
3 tablespoons finely chopped dill pickles
1 teaspoon chopped chives or minced onion
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine ingredients. Refrigerate sauce and let stand several hours or overnight before serving so that flavors will be well blended. Makes enough sauce for three or four servings.

Perk Spring Veal With Spicy Sauce



"Rain, rain, go away." When April showers begin to get you down, brighten the day with a dinner that's bursting with spring.

Have the neighbors over, arrange some spring flowers, and call on canned onion dry soup mix to help you plan dinner that will not only bring raves, but is so easy to do.

A GOOD CHOICE is tender veal cutlets which have simmered to delectable doneness in a spicy sauce made from the onion dry soup mix and tomato juice. It's so quick to prepare and practically seasons itself.

For even greater convenience, canned onion dry soup mix now comes with a new easy-open-pull-tab can. A marvelous creation—and each can may be used as a measure for the required liquid.

Now that your spring dinner is well on its way to success, marinate cucumber slices and green pepper rings in French dressing for a refreshing salad. Strawberry glazed angel food cake stars for dessert.

SPRING VEAL SAVORY

1½ pounds thinly sliced veal cutlet
2 tablespoons shortening
1 can (1-5/8 ounces) onion dry soup mix
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
¾ cup tomato juice
1 tablespoon Marsala wine
1 large clove garlic, minced
2 pounds fresh asparagus, cut in 2-inch pieces

Cut veal into serving-size pieces. Pound with meat hammer or edge of heavy saucer. In skillet, brown veal in shortening; pour off fat. Add soup mix and flour; gradually stir in water, tomato juice, and wine.

Modern Etiquette

Q. My friends tell me I am supposed to give my fiancee a cedar chest or "hope chest." Is this correct?

A. Although often done, it is not required. The cedar chest, as well as its contents of household and personal items, are properly the expense of the bride and her family.

Members of the Inverness Garden Club are expecting more than 400 women to attend their spring card party Thursday, April, 16, at noon in the homes of 10 members.

Ticket proceeds will be used to purchase trees and shrubbery for the grounds around the Inverness Village Field House. "The Garden Club sponsors a continuing program of activities devoted to the beautification of the village," commented Mrs. Joseph Dodson, chairman of the Party Committee. (S

The early birds will have the best choice at the Wheeling - Buffalo Grove Nurses Club Patio Rummage Sale according to members who are sponsoring the sale from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, April 18 at the home of Mrs. Eugene Kuffel, 119 Glendale Road, Buffalo Grove.

Main purpose of the 3-year-old club is to stimulate and further the professional interests of area nurses and to help with community health problems. First community effort of the club was helping in the Sabin oral polio vaccine distribution. Its present community service is the lending closet, which hospital equipment for use at home is loaned to individuals without cost.

THE CLUB began its lending closet two years ago when Lillian Olson and Clara Sharp visited area hospitals and were given donations of equipment. Further donations were received from Buffalo Grove Woman's Club, patients and interested residents. Equipment in the lending closet now includes a modern collapsible wheel chair, a walk-o'matic walker, crutches, child's walker, commode, two hospital beds and smaller items.

Chairman of the lending closet is Mrs. Alison Clark, of Buffalo Grove, who may be contacted by anyone interested in obtaining supplies.

The club is now initiating a scholarship fund for a student nurse. Any high school girl with proper qualifications will be eligible to apply for the scholarship. Further investigation is in progress and data regarding the scholarship is being compiled by club members.

Anyone wishing to donate to the rummage sale may call Mrs. Kuffell at LE 7-1627. (S

SPRING WILL BE IN BLOOM Sunday afternoon as the Palatine Legion Auxiliary hosts a ham dinner and bazaar in the local post home, 122 W. NEW WHEEL CHAIR purchased by Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Nurses Club for their lending closet is tried out by Mrs. Frank Clark as Mrs. Eugene Kuffel, Mrs. Earl Schabel, Mrs. Richard Stanowski and Mrs. Harry Hengish look on. To swell the club treasury and add supplies to the lending closet, the group is holding a patio rummage sale Saturday, April 18.

Mrs. D. McCabe to Represent Northwest at Fashion Show

REVIEW OF GENE SMITH'S "When the Cheering Stopped," the last years of Woodrow Wilson, was enjoyed by Mrs. R. Lidge, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. D. C. Jensen, Mount Prospect when the Women's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital held its spring luncheon meeting in Old Orchard Country Club. Mrs. Lidge was luncheon chairman. (S

Mrs. Ralph Clabaugh, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital announced at the luncheon meeting March 31 in Old Orchard Country Club that the representative model at the Grant Hospital annual fashion show to be held in May will be Mrs. Desmond McCabe of Arlington Heights. Mrs. McCabe is a former model, an auxiliary member and a volunteer at the Northwest Community Hospital.

Six members were nominated and elected to serve on the nominating committee: Mrs. Charles Swingley, Palatine; Mrs. E. F. Larson, Barrington; Mrs. Neil Rowe, Mount Prospect; Mrs. M. Edward Smith, Arlington Heights, Mrs. Thomas E. Lindsey, Arlington Heights, Mrs. David Kenyon, Arlington Heights.

AT A PREVIOUS board meeting the following three members were nominated and elected by the board: Mrs. Kenneth Retzke, Rolling Meadows; Mrs. Ralph Lidge, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Leslie Janett, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Clabaugh asked that members and friends reserve Friday, May 1, for the antique auction sale, lunch from the Stable Kitchen and Bake Sale to be held at Arlington Park Race Track. Chairman is Mrs. C. S. Hanson of Arlington Heights, who will be assisted by Mrs. William Peterson of Palatine and Mrs. Paul Glick of Mount Prospect. (S

Piggy Bank Funds Buy Water Pumps

Foreign Relations Chairman Mrs. James Radlein of the Ninth District, American Legion Auxiliary, reports that piggy banks made of plastic bottles, brightly decorated, are gathering up a heavy load of pennies and other coins these days at meetings at the American Legion Auxiliary Units throughout the District. Contents of the banks are going into a national fund to buy pumps for waterless villages in the Republic of Ecuador, the country which the American Legion Auxiliary members are studying this year in their Foreign Relations program.

Purchase of the pumps and fittings, and their delivery to selected villages are being conducted through the CARE organization, while the Peace Corps is guiding installation.

STUDY OF Ecuador showed that there are many such villages where much of the energies of the women are consumed by carrying water from a distant source, or where available water is badly polluted. Auxiliary members also learned that pure water can be produced by wells sunk in the vilages at a cost of $125.

The first of the pumps have been ordered and the first of the wells were being dug at last report. Meanwhile, last year's auxiliary project of building rural schools in the Dominican Republic is also going forward. Members reported they collected enough pennies to build 13 schools for towns where there were no schools. With the cooperation of CARE and the Peace Corps, and free local labor they reported that only $1500 per school was required. (S

Q. If a dinner party is in progress and a guest arrives late, must all the men rise for introductions or in greeting?

A. No. In the case of a woman guest, she slips into the seat indicated by the hostess after a brief greeting, and the man to her right alone rises to seat her. The hostess does not rise, because then all the men would be compelled to rise with her.

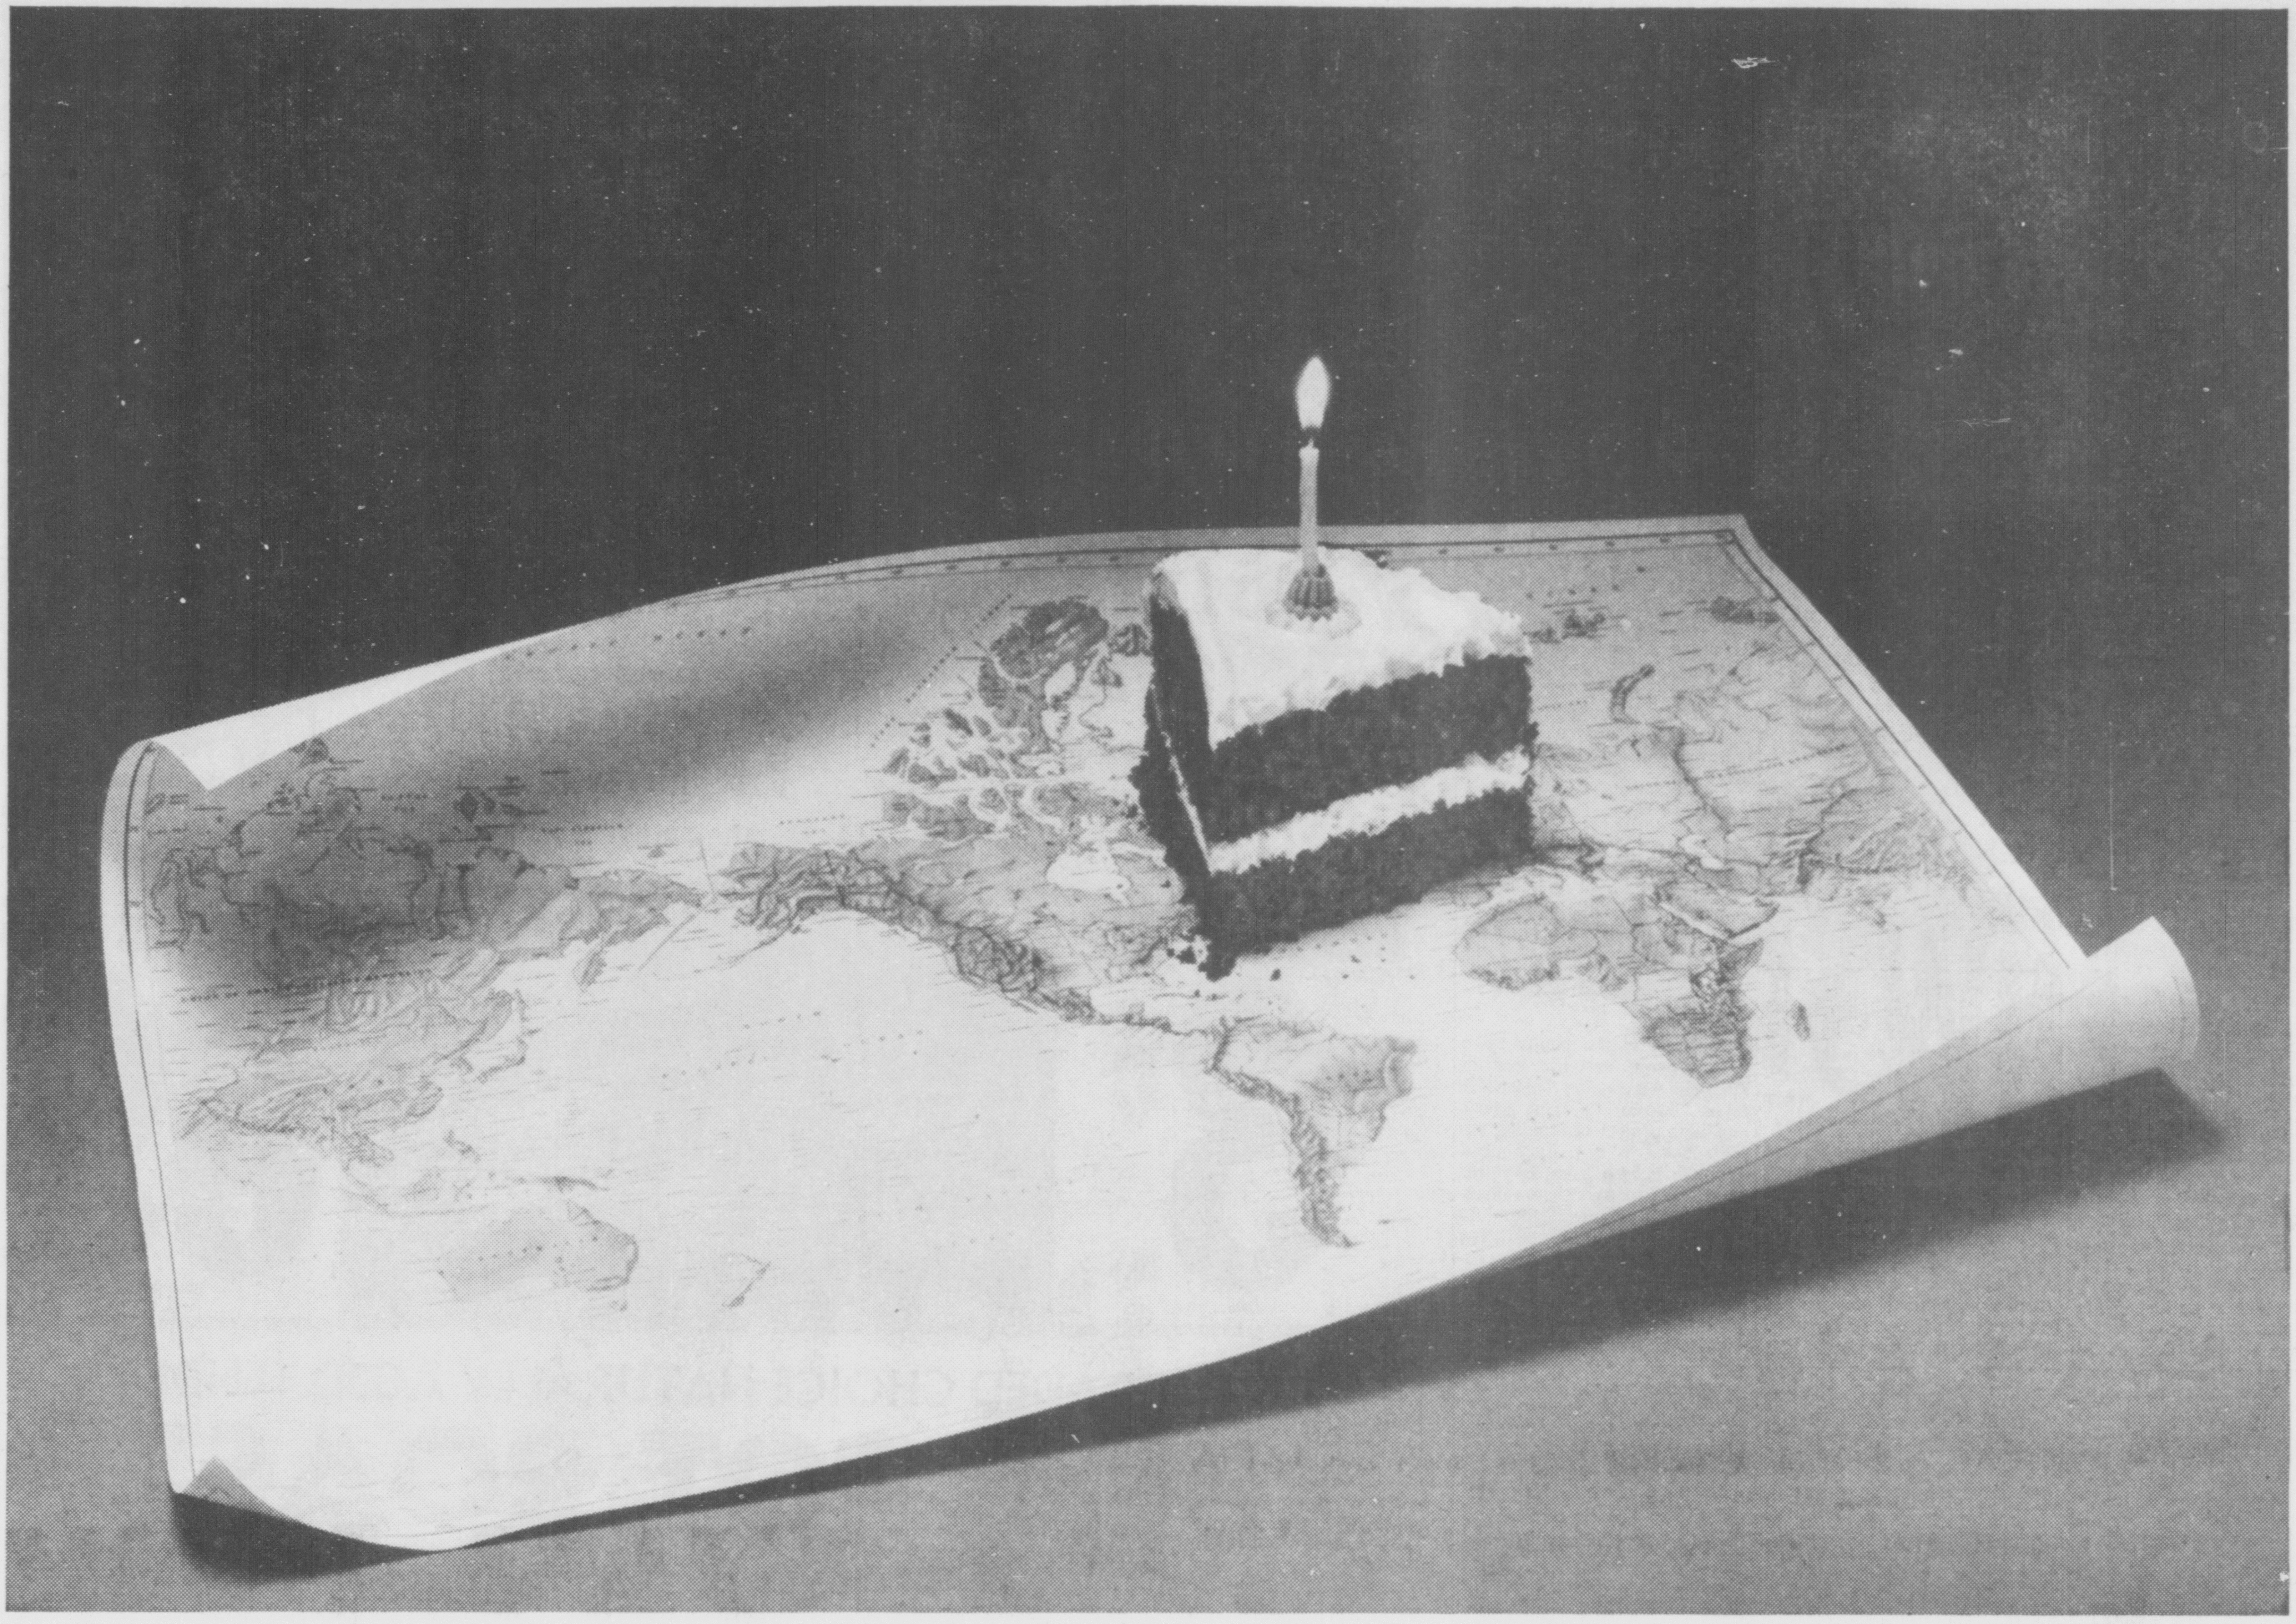
© The Pure Oil Co.



From Chicago to the Arabian Peninsula, we're celebrating our 50th birthday today

Where we're working, what we're doing—a short report to our neighbors about the people at Pure Oil

On this April 9, some 50,000 Pure Oil people—employees, dealers, jobbers, and distributors—are at work in 34 states and on 4 continents. Quite a change from the day in 1914 when we first found oil at Cabin Creek, West Virginia. Today, Pure Oil is among the top 100 U.S. industrial corporations. And our success is reflected here and in other communities where we live and work.

Chicago is our home town. Working in the area are over 2,300 employees—in our General Offices, in the Research Center at Crystal Lake, and at the refinery in Lemont. It is also the center of our Midwest Marketing Division, serving six states and more than 3,600 dealers and attendants who invite you to "fire up" with Firebird® Gasolines.

As we look into the next 50 years, we see the probability of great changes. Some are beginning to take shape already. But one thing will remain the same: people...accountants, scientists, roustabouts, refinery operators, pipeliners, craftsmen, stenographers, seamen, salesmen—the thousands of people who make The Pure Oil Company. Where we've been is their doing. Where we're going will be their doing, too. We have never been more confident—or more grateful—as we say: "Be sure with PURE."

Jewelers Announce Expansion Program

Persin and Robbin Jewelers announces it is expanding its quarters at 24 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, to twice the present size.

THE PARTNERS plan all new fixtures and new lighting as well as complete remodeling for their store. While carrying the same lines of china, sterling silver, stemware, diamonds and watches, they will have a wider selection of these items than before, Robbin explained.

Radio Series to Air 'Oklahoma'

The second of a series of complete musical comedies to be broadcast at 8 p.m. on WNWC will be presented this next Sunday.

This Sunday's selection will be the Rogers and Hammerstein production, "Oklahoma," based on Lynn Riggs' "Green Grow the Lilacs."

The story concerns the feud between ranchers who staked out the Oklahoma territory for cattle grazing and farmers who wanted the land for crops.

Dr. Knodt Receives Feed Study Award

Dr. Cloy B. Knodt, research and development director of A. O. Smith Harvestore Products Inc., Arlington Heights, manufacturers of sealed storage structures for farms and industry, has been honored by the Distillers Feed Research Council.

He was one of several scientists selected who received a special award at the annual meeting of the Distillers Feed Conference March 25 at Cincinnati.

Dr. Knodt's recognition by the group was based on extensive research on distiller feeds. Much of this was done while Dr. Knodt was on the staff of Pennsylvania State University from 1946 to 1954.

For five years during this period Dr. Knodt conducted extensive investigations on the advantages of by-products of the distilling industry in dairy cattle feeding programs. At that time Dr. Knodt was professor of dairy husbandry and chairman of the nutrition section in the school's College of Agriculture.

Big Firms In Chicago, New York

Although 16 million Californians may disagree, statistics show that the young man looking for a job should not be too quick to take Horace Greeley's famed "go west" advice.

That's because most of the companies with a capitalization of a million dollars or more still are based closer to the nation's eastern shores.

New York is tops, being headquarters for more than 2,500 of the million-dollar companies, and second-place Chicago is home for more than 1,000. California's booming Los Angeles shares honors with Philadelphia and Dallas in rounding out the five most popular headquarters cities for the big concerns.

Business Bureau

Explains When Price Cut Is True Discount

To some people the term "discount" has a magic appeal, according to inquiries received by the Chicago Better Business Bureau.

There's no magic, but there may be some mystery in the word as used by some advertisers. Actually, it means a price cut, and bona fide price cuts are offered by retailers every day.

On the other hand, the term "discount" could be a gimmick, or a deception. The important point is—"a discount from what?"

A definition is in order. According to Webster's, discount means "to reckon off or deduct." So there must be a starting point from which to figure the so-called "discount price."

OBVIOUSLY, if the starting point is based on a false or exaggerated comparative price, the savings figure, that is the discount, can not be truthful.

Under our American competitive system a retailer may have as low prices as he wishes. He may make as little profit as he wants or as much as the traffic will bear. He may price himself out of business, or out of the market.

The seller is free to set the price and, the buyer is free to take it or leave it, and trade where he feels he gets the most value for his money.

So when is a discount a true discount? It is a discount if it represents bona fide savings from the prevailing price of an article in the seller's or competitor's store in his immediate trade area, in the recent, regular and normal course of business.

THE ADVERTISER has the burden of clearly and unambiguously stating just what he means in his copy. He should be able to prove his claim.

Another point to be considered, says the Better Business Bureau, is whether the merchandise is actually new and of good quality, or is it just stock of unknown age, purchased by the dealer through bankruptcies, close-outs or other distressed sources, but not disclosed as such in connection with advertising.

Is the seller cutting out some of the normal services and privileges you expect and want from business, such as delivery and hook-up services, warranties, return and exchange privileges, credit availability, etc?

Does the seller have a reasonable stock of sizes, models or styles in the name brands featured? Or, are the well known brand names used merely as "bait," with a minimum on hand and mixed with unknown brand items?

NO FIRM or organization has a monopoly on the know-how of merchandising to the extent that all its merchandise or services are always going to be sold at prices lower than those of all competitors.

Discounts in one form or another are a legitimate part of merchandising, but customers are entitled to know that the "discount" is from a normal selling price.

If you are in doubt—find out! Do your shopping and comparing before you buy—not after.

Year's Ford Sales Go Up 9 Per Cent

New car sales of Chicagoland Ford dealers during the 12-month period ended March 31 were nine per cent over the corresponding period a year earlier, it was announced today.

D. O. Wiggins, sales manager for the Chicago district of Ford division, Ford Motor Co., attributed the sales boost to "the noteworthy success of the Big Change advertising and sales promotion program which was begun April 1 of last year."

During the 12-month period, Ford division's Chicago district dealers sold a total of 63,436 new cars, compared with 58,227 in the preceding like period.

IN THE first three months of 1964, Chicagoland dealers accounted for 14,852 new car sales, up 17.2 per cent over the first quarter of 1963. March, 1964, sales totaled 5,545, an increase of 670 or 13.7 per cent over the corresponding month a year ago.

"The Big Change program, which originally had been planned for a five-month period, was so successful we decided to continue it," said Wiggins. "Our success for the 12-month period shows every indication that the program has been extremely beneficial. We plan to continue it."

The Ford division executive added, "The basic attempt was to have people test-drive our products—not just around the block for a five-minute ride, but overnight. This old-fashioned sales technique worked 60 years ago when the founder of our company successfully 'took the hands of the public off the reins and put them on the steering wheel'."

Another factor influencing the increase in sales, he said, is a series of speech presentations made before service and civic clubs throughout Chicagoland. Many of those attending were invited to test drive a Ford for a week. (14BB

Motorists Should Watch for Holes

The Chicago Motor Club cautions motorists that this is the season to be on the lookout for chuckholes.

Chuckholes in the pavement of streets and highways result when water, frozen in the road surface, thaws, causing the pavement to break up. The holes can be extremely dangerous and can cause extensive damage to a car.

A car's tires can receive damage from striking a chuckhole which, if undetected, could eventually cause a blowout. Hitting a chuckhole also could put wheels out of alignment, which in time would result in severe and uneven wear on the tire, motor club safety experts say.

IT IS possible that if a driver runs into a deep chuckhole at high speeds, he might even break an axle or overturn his car.

The motor club cautions that motorists should not be lulled into a false sense of security because roads and highways are free of ice and snow. Motorists should be alert for chuckholes so that they have time to avoid them. However, if a driver finds he is approaching a chuckhole rapidly, he should not stop or swerve suddenly. This could result in a collision with following or oncoming vehicles.

The motor club also urges drivers to be alert for road crews which at this time of the year are likely to be out repairing highway surfaces.

Franchiser Helps Make Economy Tick

One of the key forces that makes the American economy tick is the partnership between big business and small, local firms that sell the products or services of large, national companies under franchise agreements.

A familiar example of the franchisee is the man who owns the corner gas station.

Thousands of other small firms are set up the same way. They operate motels and restaurants, sell groceries, bottle soft drinks, rent and sell cars, tour your neighborhood with ice cream wagons, run your corner drugstore and sell almost every type of retail product.

ALTOGETHER, according to recent figures, these neighborhood partners of big business account for about one-fourth of all the retail trade in the United States, or about $60 billion a year.

Auto and truck dealers top the list, with about $35 billion in annual volume; gas stations come next with $14 billion. The largest other categories of franchisees are the grocery stores, accounting for $4.5 billion, and the soft drink bottlers whose sales add up to a respectable $2 billion.

As a segment of the economy, franchised local firms are becoming even more important. About 338,000 of these firms are already operating, and in 1964 another 30,000 are expected to open their doors, each providing jobs for at least five Americans. (14BB

Value of Advertising

Heritage House Products Inc., a new business in lawn seed and lawn aids, established itself in the market place by the judicious use of its advertising dollar.

The firm advertised in metropolitan dailies and suburban weeklies, network television and commuter railroad station posters, news magazines and gardening publications, and in its first year became widely known to both consumer and the trade.

Among the media used by Heritage House is Suburbia Today, which comes with the Paddock Publications once a month. (14BB

Barrington Gets New Type Car Wash

Car owners in the Barrington area now have an added convenient auto wash and wax at their disposal.

A new Violet Spray Wash n' Wax is located at 330 W. Northwest Hwy., across from the Ten Pin Bowling Alley.

The new auto wash provides its customers with the benefit of an actual wax application to each auto washed through special wax and detergents which are added to the water via special wands and consoles. There will also be two wash lanes which will keep waiting time at a minimum.

A distinct type of auto wash n' wax is being featured . . .the Violet Spray Econo-Wash N' Wax, which will be the outside only. This will be for drivers who would rather drive their car through the various operations, and prefer to clean the interior of their car themselves.

Also available is a deluxe wash that will include cleaning the interior of the auto.

Other features to be offered are motor cleaning, interior shampooing, convertible top cleaning and a six-month guaranteed glaze. (9BB

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by James Fizzell, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

If you have let your lawn go, chances are it's out of condition, just as you'd be if you lost the battle of the calories. Lawns, like people, need conditioning.

Proper springtime care can make your lawn the pride of the neighborhood. We suggest these seven steps for prize lawns:

1. Roll. Freezing and thawing during the winter causes the sod to heave, leaving lumpy, uneven areas in the lawn.

You'll probably need to roll your lawn in early spring. But don't do it when the soil is wet. Rolling wet soil or heavy clay soils causes compaction that hinders root development and moisture penetration. Use about 100 pounds of weight for each foot of roller width.

2. RAKE. About a week before the first mowing, rake up the dead grass, leaves, twigs and other debris that's been collecting since last fall. If grass is unusually high, you may have to rake up clippings after mowing. If so, let them dry for a day before raking.

3. Mow. Mow when the grass is about three inches high. Cut it to a height of about one and one-half inches, then cut it each time it gets over two and one-half inches tall.

4. Fertilize. Use a nitrogen-carrying fertilizer on lawns at least twice a year. Apply it in March or April and again in late August or early September.

Use 20 pounds of 10-8-6, or a similar analysis, per 1,000 square feet for Merion bluegrass. Kentucky bluegrass needs only 12 to 15 pounds. The vigor of the lawn indicates the amount of fertilizer you'll need to use; vigorous lawns may not need as much as is recommended here.

5. WATER. Lawns usually do not need extra water in the spring. But if they do, soak the soil to a depth of 6 inches. Then wait for about a week before watering again.

6. Control weeds. If correct management doesn't crowd out crabgrass, a host of pre-emergence chemicals are now available. Limit them to established lawns, and follow the label directions closely. A rule of thumb —apply them before the lilacs start to bloom.

Dacthal, Zytron, calcium arsenate and diphenatrile give good results on grassy weeds when used as pre-emergence sprays, that is, before the seeds germinate. For post-emergence control of crabgrass, use disodium methyl arsonate (DSMA) or amine methyl arsonate (AMA).

To control broadleaf weeds, 2, 4-D is still a good bet. But follow directions closely when applying. To reduce the danger of killing ornamentals, use the 2, 4-D amine form. It's less volatile.

7. CONTROL insects and diseases. Sod webworms and grubs are two of the biggest lawn problems from the insect world. DDT or chlordane will control webworms. Aldrin or chlordane will control grubs.

Apply DDT as a spray. Use either spray or granular form of aldrin or chlordane on established sods. In all cases follow label directions.

To help you with problems which arise in caring for your lawn, write us for the following publications: "How to Have an Attractive Lawn," "A Dozen Weeds Iin Your Lawn," and "Lawn Diseases in the Midwest." Cooperative Extension Service, 201 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights. (14BB

Tells What to Do In Case of Tornado

Though April showers may bring May flowers, changing spring weather seems to bring on more attacks by tornadoes.

Tornadoes have already hit in Illinois this year. They will cause more destruction and loss of life during April, May and June than during all the rest of the year.

Knowing what to do if you hear a tornado warning or see a tornado coming may save your life. O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois safety specialist, offers these tornado life-saving precautions:

1. TAKE shelter in the southwest corner of your basement, or go into a storm cellar or fallout shelter. If your home doesn't have a basement, take cover under heavy furniture against inside walls on the lowest floor, away from doors and windows.

2. If you have time, open windows on the north and east to reduce damage. This will help equalize the pressure inside the house with the atmospheric pressure outside. Shut off electricity and fuel lines coming into the house.

3. Stay away from windows.

4. If you are in open country when a tornado comes, travel at right angles away from the path of the storm. Since most tornadoes move from the southwest toward the northeast, you should travel toward the northwest or the southeast. If you don't have time to escape, lie flat in a depression in the ground or in a ditch or ravine. (14BB

Explains Special Home Finance Plan

First Federal Savings and Loan of Des Plaines, 749 Lee St., calls attention to its special interim financing plan for families living in their own home who want to purchase a new one.

Major feature of the plan, said J. A. Eagleson, firm president, is to provide necessary funds to buy a new home before selling the present home. The plan also provides a waiver of taxes and insurance on the present home for one year, he said.

It enables a home owner to sell his old home after moving into the new one.

"INTERIM financing is one of many home loan services we have tailored to the needs of Northwest suburban families," Eagleson said.

Since the plan was initiated in 1961, Eaglesor said, more than $7 million in interim loans have been given new home buyers. (9BB

Make Major Changes In University ROTC

Two major changes in Army ROTC program at the University of Illinois were announced last week by Col. Harold L. Dorsett, professor of military science.

A general military science curriculum will replace instruction in specific branches of the service next September for all except 1964-65 seniors who will complete work they started in branch instruction.

Military credit will be given for selected regular university academic courses. Many are courses which students take as part of their major field of study or as electives.

THEY INCLUDE anthropology, communications, economics, geography, history, modern foreign languages, political science and psychology.

Army cadets previously spent 480 class hours in military courses during four years. Under the new program they will attend 360 class hours of military subjects and receive military credit for 120 hours of related academic subjects.

All Army cadets will attend a leadership laboratory meeting one hour a week.

This will include instruction, planning, organization, and war games in classroom and in the field. Cadets in their senior year will attend a professional seminar at which outstanding professors from the university will discuss military relations and aspects of many areas.

Program changes follow university action making ROTC optional next fall after 96 years during which two years of training were required of male students at Urbana-Champaign.

Art at The World's Fair . . . page 6

Irving Stone, the famous biographer of Michelangelo, gives a preview of the breathtaking experimental architecture, the gardens and goodly walks, the rare art treasures, and the performing arts of East and West—a magnificent offering, filled with ideas that are going to enrich life for all of us.

Summer Plan . . . page 12

Fresh air, mountains of home-cooked food, fishing in a pond, milking a real cow . . . see how you and your family, like the many others who have done it, can experience the special joys of deep-country life by spending your holiday on one of the hundreds of farms that take paying guests in the summertime.

Help—Teen-agers Wanted! . . . page 20

Regular jobs are scarce, but there are countless volunteer jobs that offer teen-agers what they need most—the experience that will help them with college and with paid jobs later. And these young people have what service organizations are looking for—energy and enthusiasm.

Fair-Weather Gear . . . page 25

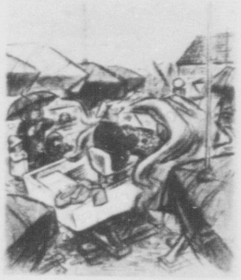
Lighthearted "whites," trusty blues, a delectable pink dotted-swiss parka, and a snappy, intrepid striped dress—here are the chic, tough ones to swab a deck, fry a bass, or heave an anchor in, and look terrific while you're doing it.

On the Cover



Just look at Whitney Darrow's powerboat owner blissfully imagining he's riding the waves. Could Walter Mitty in his wildest dreams have had such a good time? But if our daydreamer is enjoying himself, Mom and the kids are not. They'd like a little more reality, like getting in out of the rain and back home for dinner.

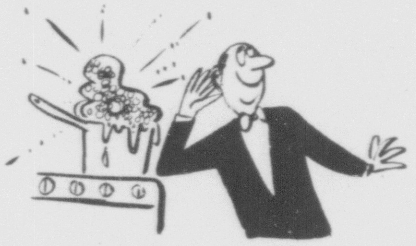
GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

OUR APOLOGIES to Mr. Robert A. Howcroft and his fellow workers at the General Motors Technical Center in Warren, Michigan. It seems that some time ago Mr. Howcroft taught his colleagues how to make a dish called "Bubble and Squeak" as his mother had made it for him when he was a boy in Coventry, England: "Any old bits of greens . . . sausages or bacon . . . eggs . . . sliced or mashed potatoes all fried together for a top-rate breakfast." Top rate, his friends agreed, and here for once, to their wives' great pleasure, was an approved way of using up leftovers.



But early this year SUBURBIA TODAY came along with Food Editor Melanie De Proft's de luxe version of B and S: corned beef simmered four hours, a variety of root-cellar vegetables prepared from scratch, and on the side an English mustard sauce (delicious)—and ever since, says Mr. Howcroft, he has been faced with doubting looks.

Well, Sir, we think you are right, too. Who can fight a long family history of a dish? But please accept our glamour version, too. After all, as you yourself have said, "If both are true, you can Bubble and Squeak from breakfast to dinner."

Getting a repairman on a Saturday afternoon is a major campaign, as most of us know from experience. But one reader in Scottsdale, Arizona, reports that he solved the problem recently. All of a sudden, one Saturday, the kitchen range began to shoot sparks. And since company was expected for dinner, his wife's circuit was about to blow at any minute, too. So, rushing to the phone, our smooth operator called the serviceman and said, "I know it's Saturday afternoon, but I have an hysterical wife. Can you help me?" "Sure," replied the electrician, "I'll be right there." And he never did ask what the electrical problem was.

In Lynnwood, Washington, an ambulance was called to the scene of an accident to pick up a woman patient. She was coherent, so the driver figured he would ask for her hospital preference. "Where do you want to go?" he asked. "To the yacht club," she gasped. "Charlie will be furious."

For two weeks in June, 30 high-school students from Wayland, Massachusetts, will learn their Latin language and Roman history right where it all began—in Pompeii, Herculaneum, Ostia Antica, and above all, in Rome itself.

Their Latin instructor, Francis Smith, who had the idea for the trip, was a student himself at the University of Rome last year, and under his guidance these students will see a Rome that tourists rarely do.

"We plan to give lectures in the morning and then go right to the places we've discussed," said Mr. Smith. "I want them to see Rome as it grew from the beginning to the present day." And believing in the old "when in Rome—" he is beginning after-school Italian lessons for his students this month.

The total cost for 30 students and four chaperons will be $15,000. Each student will pay half his fare and the remaining amount is being earned through student projects.

A brisk money-making activity at this point is the student-run gift department which a sympathetic supermarket has allowed them to install in the store. They've named it, of all things, "Caveat Emptor" ("Let the Buyer Beware," in case your Latin is rusty), and they feature quite a line of homemade goods. Car washes and a hootenanny have also helped to fill the till. Caveat Roma!

With Little Leaguers dusting off their mitts this month, it's time for fathers to warm up, too. When one eager father in Hillside, Illinois, was asked if he would be willing to coach or manage the village minor league team, he was heard to reply earnestly, "Gee, I don't know a thing about baseball, but I'd love to help. Maybe I could be the umpire."

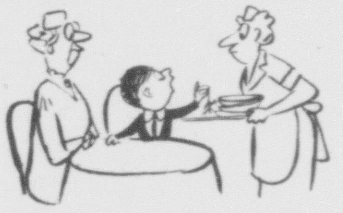
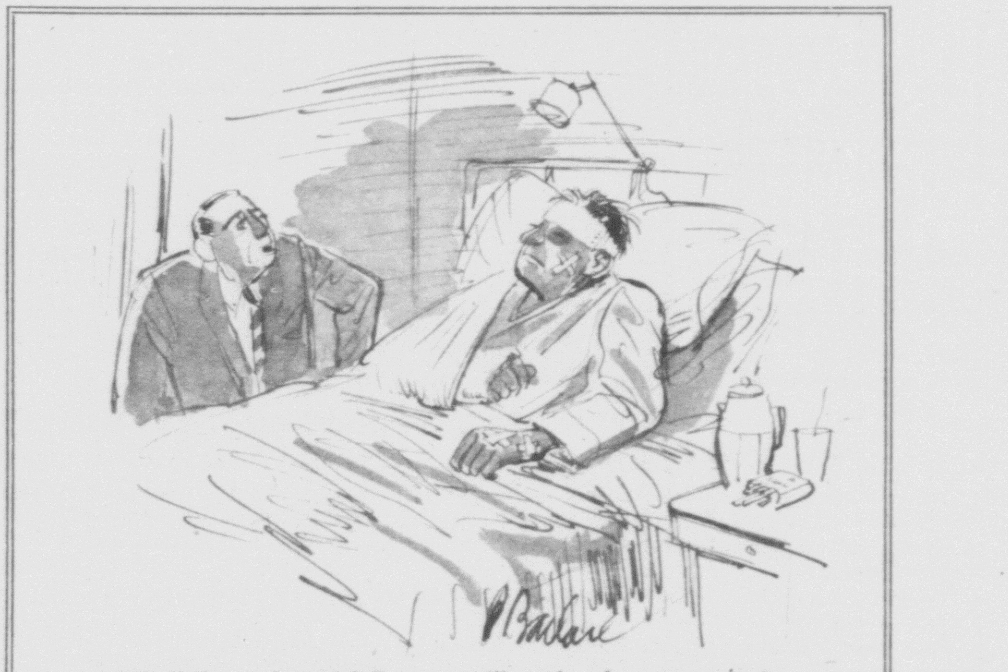
Mrs. Mildred Geer of Peabody, Massachusetts, has a four-year-old grandson, Bobby, who takes a man's view of parsley. At a local restaurant where he was treated to lunch, his order arrived with the usual garnish of parsley, which he quickly tucked under the plate. When the waitress came to clear the table there was Bobby's parsley on the cloth. Scrambling up to his knees on the chair, he held it out to the girl. "Here's your weed," he told her.





"Well, how about it? Do you still prefer the town meeting form of government with its free give and take?"

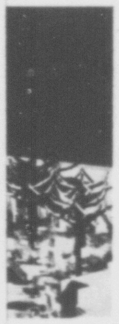
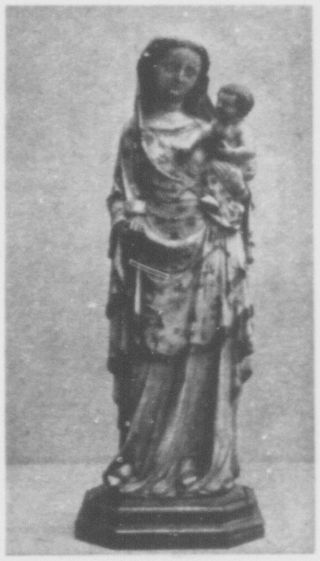
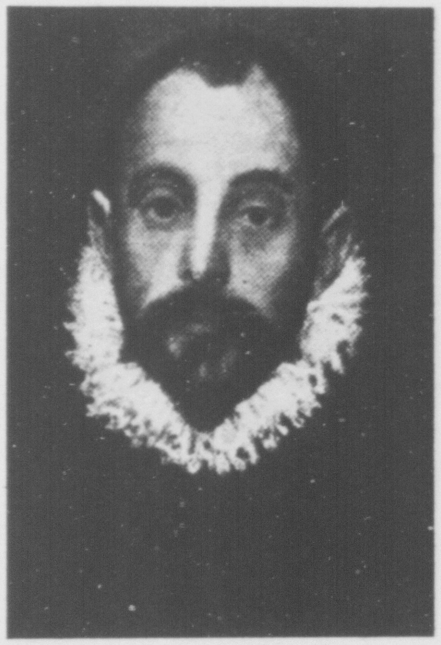
Michelangelo, Pieta

Michelangelo's biographer previews the magnificent offering —"a leaping-off place into new visions"

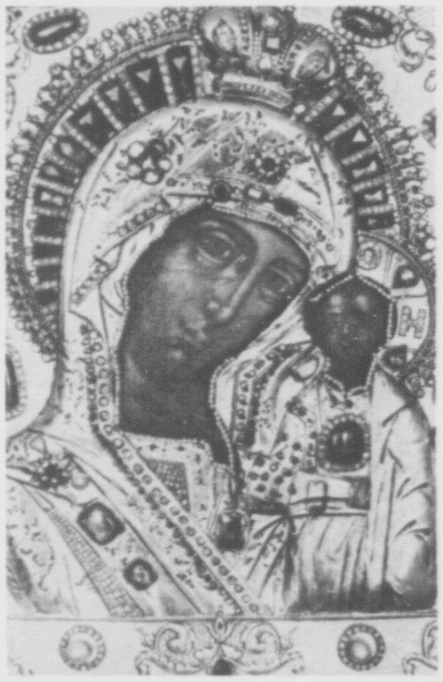




Virgin and Child, French, 14th Century, Metropolitan Museum of Art



El Greco, Knight with Hand on Chest (detail)



Virgin of Kazan, Russian ikon, 17th Century (detail)

Andrés Segovia, classical guitarist

There will be other magnificent displays of world art. One collection comes from the Imperial Treasure, Peking, and will be shown by the Republic of China. Here the visitor will see bronzes of 4000 B.C., reputed to be the oldest artifacts extant, as well as rare jade carvings, paintings, tapestries, ivory, cloisonné and ceramics going back hundreds of years, bringing to life for us an old and legendary civilization.

The fact that there can be no such thing as a static culture is demonstrated by the impressive Spanish Pavilion. Here one will encounter great Goyas, not only the Portrait of Charles III, but the even more famous Majas, nude as well as clothed. Spain's other great masters, El Greco, Velásquez, Zurbarán, will be represented, frequently by their best canvases. And at the same time many of her most daring modern experimenters will be shown: Picasso, Miro, Dali. There will be a giant abstract sculpture by Chellida and works by the younger painters and sculptors. The visitor will be able to see how each nation's genius changes with the passing of the centuries and with the birth of new ideas.

America is not neglecting the artist or skilled artisan. The New York City Pavilion will be an inexhaustible mine, with exhibitions by the Metropolitan, the Museum of Modern Art, the Museum of Primitive Art, the Guggenheim, the Pierpont Morgan Museum, the Jewish Museum, the Asia and Hispanic Societies, the Brooklyn Museum.

The New York State Pavilion will have a show of the Hudson River painters, and there will also be Pollack and Calder as well as spectacular examples of avant-garde art, abstract and expressionist.

JUST WHAT will be the reaction to the "pop art" remains an explosive mystery. Will the viewers be outraged? That would be good. One of the purposes of art is to inspire; another is to shock. From strong emotion in the cultural world comes strong argument. Along with heat, these discussions also shed light. People grow on art.

Nor is that all. The Federal Pavilion will show, out of doors, some of the finest sculptures from private collections in the 50 states. Within the Pavilion there will be painting and sculpture, American in origin, from all over the country.

A visit to this Pavilion will demonstrate something we are inclined to forget. Americans have always painted, and for the most part, painted well. Along with strained arches, a lot of our people are going to take home a new vision and respect for American culture.

What of the other arts? Music, Drama, the Dance? The Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts is opening its World's Fair Festival on April 23 with the New York City Ballet, which was such a magnificent success in the U.S.S.R. in 1962. This will be followed by the Chilean Ballet. Enthusiasts of folk dancing will enjoy the Fiesta Mexicana and the Bayenihan Philippine dance company. Music lovers will hear the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Orchestra featuring such solists as Serkin and Van Cliburn. Japan is sending its Toho String Orchestra.

The Spanish Pavilion will seat 850 people for concerts by Segovia and Victoria de LosAngeles. Classic drama will be represented by the Royal Shakespeare Company of Stratford-on-Avon, doing King Lear and The Comedy of Errors.

If you consider eating a fine art (I do, between books, which is the only time I can handle more than the simplest of foods), here you become participant, rather than spectator. Many of the 50 nations exhibiting at the Fair are bringing their best chefs to prepare their most popular native dishes. Food is not only energy, it, too, is a way of life, a way to display the character, temperament, and culture of a people. See for yourself what each country does with rice, for example, and you will perceive how resourceful is the mind of man in relation to food. The Fair will offer an opportunity to be a gourmet for a few days.

WHAT IS CULTURE? It is man's attempt to express himself, to create worlds beyond the creature comforts. Culture is the sum total of our wisdom, of our penetration into the eternal truths of the universe. It is the pushing back of limited horizons, the deepening of sensitivity to life and the human condition.

I dedicated my little book, "The Story of Michelangelo's Pietà," to:

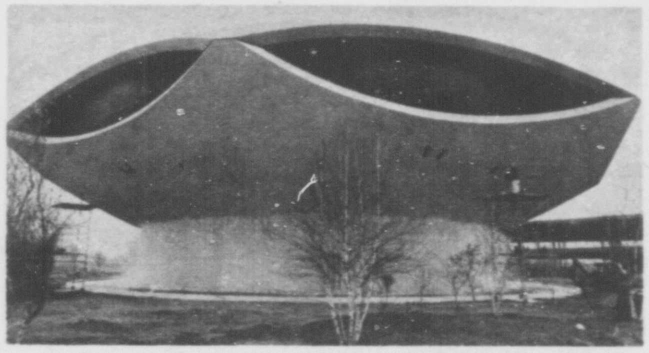
"All creative artists who, stretching hand-in-hand in a continuous line across the ages, form one of our indissoluble chains of brotherhood."

This is true. See all the art you can possibly absorb at the Fair, and you will emerge with a greater warmth and understanding of all peoples everywhere. If this happens, the World's Fair, 1964-65, will have been a fabulous success.

GREAT ART AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

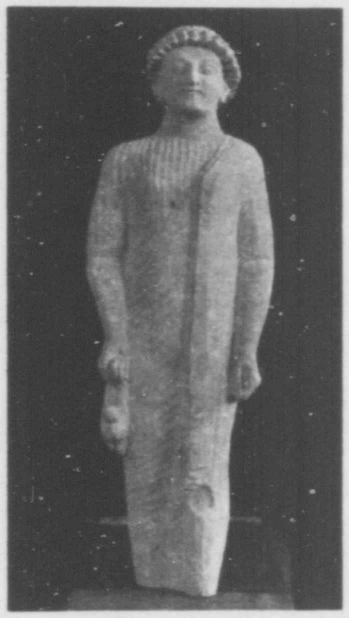
BY IRVING STONE

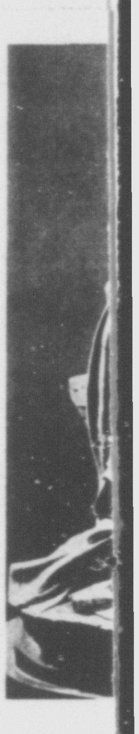
author of "The Agony and the Ecstasy," "The Story of Michelangelo's Pietà," "Lust for Life," etc.

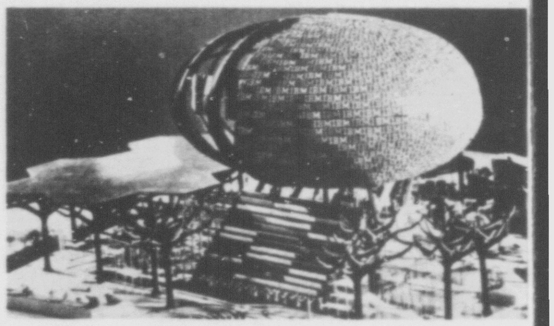


Travelers Insurance Companies Building, Kahn & Jacobs

Votary Holding a Bird, Cypriot, 5th Century, Metropolitan Museum of Art







IBM Building, Charles Eames and Eero Saarinen & Associates

A WORLD'S FAIR should be germinal, a leaping off place into new visions for mankind.

The New York World's Fair, which opens on April 22 and runs until October 18, with a rerun scheduled for 1965, will do a tremendous amount to spread our knowledge about science and industry. But its profoundest effect may be the impact of its arts on the culture of our age, as I can testify from my own experience all the way from the Panama Pacific International Exposition in 1915 to the Brussels Fair in 1958.

The Queen of this World's Fair will certainly be Michelangelo's Pietà. The most intensely spiritual carving created by Michelangelo in his 75 years of work, it transcends all religions to become the universal figure of mother love. But more of this story later.

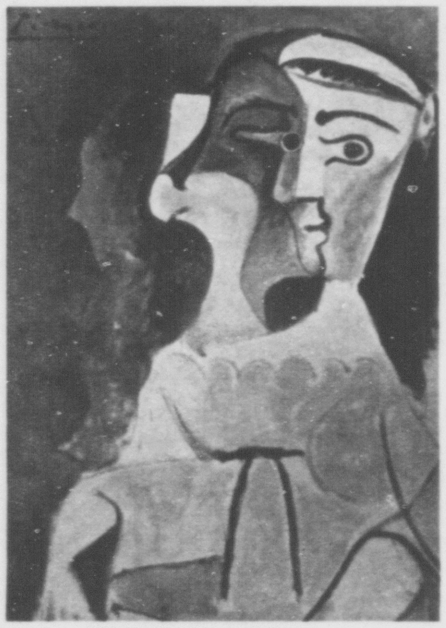
First we must speak of another, more functional, art because its impact will be the one first to be felt by the visitor to the Fair. If the past history of World's Fairs continues, it will change not only the sky line of our great cities, but of our home towns as well.

I am referring, of course, to architecture, to the design, structure, beauty, new use of line, color, curve, mass, of the hundreds of daring buildings among which we will walk, revolutionary forms that will open our minds to new concepts of a way of life.

The exciting part of the architecture of the New York World's Fair is that it is international as well as experimental. The finest architects have designed for their countries—the solid, rising levels of the Spanish; the open-air pagoda of Korea; the advanced geometric forms of Sweden; the domes, cones, rotundas, spires, mosaic, and glass of Malaya, the Caribbean, India, Ireland, and the Philippines.

Our giant American industries are spending multimillions; witness Welton Becket's General Electric prismatic power and Buckminster Fuller's geodesic dome which will serve as a sky roof for the Assembly Hall. Steel and concrete are being shaped into a variety of free forms, such as the "space frames" for I.B.M. by the late Eero Saarinen, and Eastman Kodak's "moon landscape," designed by Kahn and Jacobs. Ford will feature pylons, Johnson's Wax arches will light the night.

A walk among the avenues, gardens, fountains, pools, 4,000 major trees and 65,000 shrubs of the Fair will be a journey around the world. It would be a surprise if, when you are designing a new home, redecorating your living room or relandscaping your garden, the New York World's Fair does not turn up in very palpable form.



Picasso, Woman and Dog (detail)

My own home in Beverly Hills, a wood, glass, and steel structure overlooking Southern California, is a direct result of the week Mrs. Stone and I spent studying the architectural ideas of the Brussels Fair, just two years before we built.

Back to the Pietà, to be housed in an exquisite chapel in the Vatican Pavilion: my friend, Frederick Voss, with his firm Kiff, Colean, Voss, and Souder, designed the Pavilion, and another friend, the talented set designer Jo Mielziner, conceived the staging and lighting for the sculpture. It was my good fortune, to watch this beautiful building and superb setting evolve from the minds of these creative people.

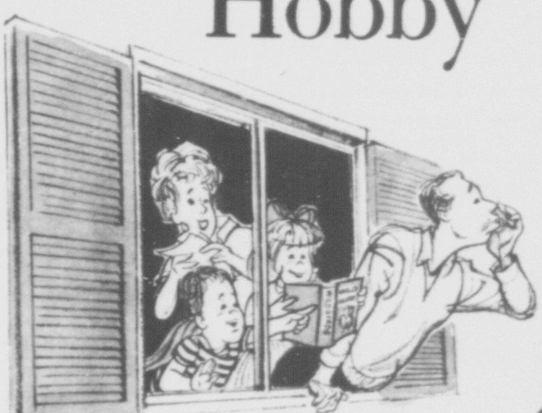
The Pietà has never been out of St. Peter's since Michelangelo placed it there himself in 1500, when he was 25 years old. It is particularly interesting that it comes to America for its first journey because in the very year Michelangelo began his design, 1497, one of his future neighbors in Florence, Amerigo Vespucci, claimed to have set foot on the North American continent, not too many miles from where the Pietà lands in its journey to Flushing Meadow aboard the Cristoforo Columbo.

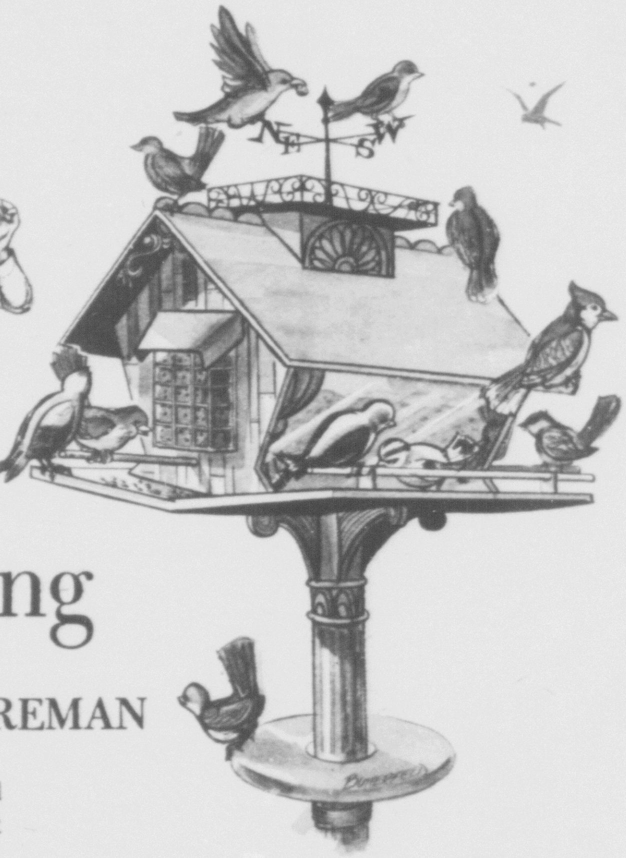
The Pietà was created because the French Cardinal Groslaye secured permission from the Pope to leave behind him something of beauty in Rome. But the aged Benedictine died before Michelangelo could complete his carving of the pure white Carrara block. Michelangelo literally had to smuggle the Pietà into the old basilica of St. Peter's, begun by Constantine in 324, for he and his friends in Rome were afraid the Pope might not approve. Abandoning all tradition, he had carved a life-sized Christ, lying across the lap of his young mother.

WE IN AMERICA will have a chance to see the Pietà bebecause Cardinal Spellman secured permission from the late Pope John XXIII to have the precious marble brought here. Its showing may help create a renaissance of religious art and a rebirth of the now almost vanished craft of the marble carver.

It takes effort and brains and 50 pounds of sunflower seeds to get results in

The Hectic Hobby of Bird Watching





BY BOB FOREMAN

LAST YEAR there were 15,000 active bird watchers in the United States. At least eight more joined the ranks this year: the four members of our family plus a family of four which lives next door to us.

It all began innocently enough one evening when my wife said to me, "Guess what Marge Jones and I decided?"

I couldn't, and I said so.

"We're going to study birds," she replied.

"That's nice," I said and went back to the sports page.

"By 'we' I mean the whole family," she went on, "including you."

"Wowie!" said the kids.

"If it takes effort, money, or brains, include me out," I said.

"It takes all three," she continued, "and you're definitely in. Ralph's helping Marge, and it'll be simply wonderful for the children."

Could I refuse to go along with a next-door neighbor? Could I deny my children something wonderful? Of course not.

I folded my paper and said, "What do I do? Learn to whistle?"

"The first thing you do," she said, "is to come home tomorrow with the best bird feeder you can find."

"I have a terribly busy day tomorrow," I said.

"You'll find time."

"How does one determine the quality of a bird feeder? Should I try eating out of it?"

Her look signified this was not the way.

"Just don't get the cheapest," she said.

"What did Ralph spend?" I asked. I wanted to keep up with the Joneses.

"Eighteen-fifty, and it's a beauty."

"It must be. Does it have push-button transmission?" I said.

Next day I did what I was told. I took an hour off after lunch and went out to purchase a bird feeder. In order to show Ralph Jones up, I bought the super-de luxe model. It was the Giant Size! It was Rust-proofed by a Secret Process! And it had a Patented Squirrel Guard!

"I don't think our squirrels need guarding," I said to the salesman.

"THE GUARD is mounted on a spring," he explained. "That prevents squirrels from climbing up into the feeder. Do you need sunflower seeds?"

"I haven't up till now," I said. I bought a 10-pound sack.

That night I struggled home with the feeder and the seed.

"Marge and I have made it even more interesting!" said my wife as I unwrapped everything.

"How's that possible?" I said.

"We decided to have a contest between our families."

"I already won it. I outspent Ralph," I said.

She ignored the remark. "We're going

What could be more glorious... more soul-satisfying... more relaxing... more down-right fun? And you can make music. Right now. Today. Even if you "never took a lesson in your life!"

That's right. With Conn's remarkable new learning method, "Instant Music," you will be playing any one of 39 familiar tunes—in a matter of minutes! Handsome as a car

Useful as a truck

The broad appeal of Chevrolet El Camino

Not many automotive products these days are in a class by themselves.

This Chevrolet El Camino is one of the rare exceptions.

The good idea was that a lot of people must need a vehicle as good looking as a car and as useful as a pickup truck.

El Camino, as you can see, is not almost as handsome as a car; it's so handsome you can drive it any place at all without an ounce of misgiving. It's not quite as tough as a regular Chevrolet pickup, but it's tough enough to handle up to 1,200 lbs. of payload.

This is its broad appeal. Not everybody will buy it, but almost everybody can imagine a legitimate place for it in their scheme of things.

What about you? Can you see an El Camino serving your business, or family, or both—in the city, country, any place? If you'd like to look one over and drive it, call your Chevrolet dealer and he will be glad to arrange it.

You can order an El Camino as plain or as fancy as you wish. Bucket seats, air conditioning, 4-speed transmission, power windows, transistorized radio and a snappy 250-hp V8 engine are among its extra-cost options. . . . Chevrolet Division of General Motors, Detroit, Michigan.

of Bird Watching

down. Off the grosbeak flew. I'd have written him down anyway, but as luck would have it, my wife was watching.

A pair of phoebes (sayornis) built their house under the eave of our garage. Since they feed on insects rather than seeds, I tried to entice them over to the feeder with a few dead flies and mosquitoes and some homemade phoebe chirping. These phoebes, however, wouldn't budge from the garage except when I drove in, which scared the mother to death. At least my wife said it did.

"She'll desert her eggs if you continue to drive in," she said in front of the children one evening.

The children sniffled and looked at me as if I were a potential murderer. So I left my car out of the garage for the next two weeks, rain or shine.

Well, 30 days to the minute our families tallied up the results. I'm proud to say we ended the month with seven more birds than the Joneses had. As a result, we're going to the bird sanctuary next week, all expenses paid. And, by the way, when I'm up there, I intend to eat like a vulture (coragyps atratus).

"And what's more, the new diet works! I've gained only five pounds this week."

You can see one special touch in the picture: the warm look of mahogany-toned paneling. No other wagon has yet been able to match the elegant richness. Another Mercury hallmark is the interior decor: so luxurious it suggests a town car. Then there's the extra staying power of Mercury's engines — up to a 427 cubic inch V-8. to see which family can identify the most birds in a month. The family that loses will treat the winners to a weekend at a bird sanctuary upstate."

This sounded expensive so I rushed out and set the feeder up on the lawn and filled it with sunflower seeds. There was no time to waste. Then the family took up its vigil at the window where a dire thought occurred to me.

"How will we know the Joneses aren't cheating?" I said.

"They're honorable people," said my wife in a tone of voice that meant don't say such things in front of the c-h-i-l-d-r-e-n.

"How will they know we aren't?" I said.

No answer.

"Look, here comes something," shouted our youngest.

Sure enough a feathered item was hovering above the feeder.

"Shhh," said my wife. "It has to alight or it doesn't count."

"Who said so?" I asked.

"Those are the rules Marge and I agreed on," she said. "Quick. Open the book. It's eating now."

I opened the book. The first thing I saw was the price. $12.75. "This book must be first quality," I said.

We rushed through pages of hawks, eagles, egrets, geese and finally came to some little biddy birds.

"Here it is," said my wife triumphantly. She pointed to a black-capped bird. "It's a chickadee! Mark it down!"

"If it was yellow it would be a goldfinch," said the second child.

"Stop arguing," I said to her.

"Is it saying chick-a-dee-dee-dee?" my wife asked.

"I can't hear anything from in here," I said.

"The chickadee is found from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico," the older child said.

"Isn't this exciting?" said my wife.

"I think so," I said.

"That reminds me," she continued, "I ordered a 50-pound sack of sunflower seeds."

EVERY EVENING we took up our position at the window, my wife, the kids, and I. Time flew by in a whir of wings and sunflower seed.

After the first week we checked our list against that of the Joneses and found they were six ahead!

Two weeks later we were running neck and neck. By now both families had listed most of the ordinary birds, and it was obvious that the rarer species would make the difference. Competition was at a fever pitch.

Some birds like the mourning dove (zenaidura macroura carolinensis) waddled on the ground beneath the feeder, picking up what the jays and chickadees spilled. But they couldn't be enticed to set foot on the feeder. Same thing held for the towhees.

Other frustrating things happened, too. For example, one night I was at my post watching when a very rare item hovered over the feeder, about to come in. It was a rose breasted grosbeak (pheuticus ludovicianus)! You can bet a 50-pound sack of sunflower seed the Joneses didn't have one of them!

Unfortunately, just as the grosbeak was about to alight, an old blue jay (cyanocitta cristata) came screeching

SUGGESTIONS FROM
MRS. DAN GERBER

Signs of self-feeding starting to show? Finger foods, like Gerber Meat or Chicken Sticks are helpful for practicing hand-to-mouth co-ordination. Tasty ways to do it, too.

The Meat Sticks are made from lear pork and beef—the Chicken Sticks from juicy poultry . . . all specially selected by Armour. Both have added nonfat dry milk for extra protein. Both are suitably seasoned to pamper a toddler's palate.

Breakfast bonanza. Nothing like a tasty, toasty, nut-like flavor to win a baby's favor. And Gerber High Protein Cereal is just the thing to titillate an appetite. In addition to being pleasantly flavorful, it has a 35% protein content to help promote baby's growth. And, like all Gerber Cereals, it's enriched with iron to help build good red blood . . . calcium for strong bones and teeth and important B-vitamins which contribute to appetite and growth.

Added attraction. A topping of baby's favorite fruit adds a special fillip of flavor to any Gerber Cereal Variety review. Now there are nine refreshing Gerber Juices to give added pleasure to baby's "juice breaks." The sipping delights include Orange Juice, Apple Juice, Orange-Apple, Orange-Apricot, Orange-Pineapple, Pineapple-Grapefruit, Apple-Cherry and the two newest Gerber offerings: Mixed Fruit Juice and Prune-Orange. All luscious—all equally rich in the vitamin C your darling needs for sound gums and body tissues.

VACATION DOWN ON THE FARM

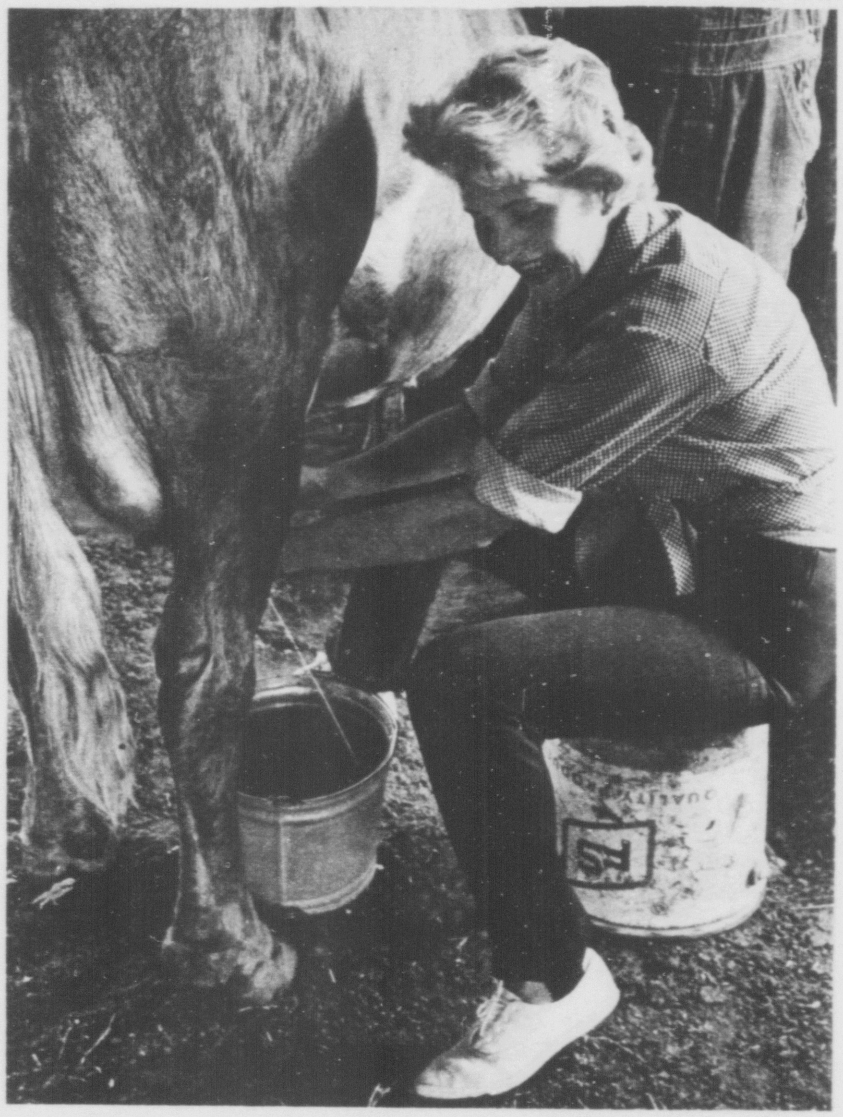
■ "Dad, when can we come back?"

Eleven-year-old Tim Graff popped the question the same moment he reluctantly climbed into the car as his family started the drive home from their vacation. The query wasn't too unusual, coming from a boy who had just had the time of his life, but the vacation was, at least for Tim, his nine-year-old sister Laurie, and their parents, Herbert and Marge Graff of Webster Groves, Missouri, a suburb of St. Louis.

It was the Graffs' first trip to a working farm. And from start to finish, it was a time of delight—driving a tractor, feeding livestock, cuddling kittens, eating tremendous home-cooked meals, fishing in a pond, and exploring Indian burial mounds.

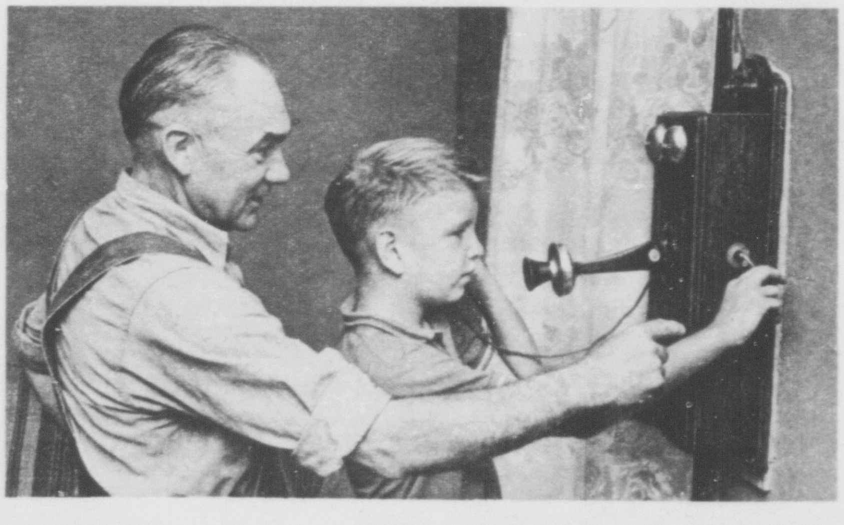
Herb Graff was born on a farm and lived there until he was five, but his wife and children had never been to an actual working farm. They found their hosts—Fern and Chester Thacker of Sumner, Illinois—in a national directory of farms taking paying guests.* They paid $50 each a week for the adults, and $25 for children. The experience, they agreed, was priceless.—SHIRLEY ALTHOFF AND DICK WEDDLE

*"Farm Vacations and Holidays," 36 East 57 St., New York 22, N.Y., which lists some 300 farms in 50 states. $1.



"I'm afraid I'll hurt her," Marge Graff says in trying to milk a cow for the first time, as her family vacations on an 830-acre farm.

Above: Tim Graff, 11, gets a chance to drive a tractor in an open pasture—and learns a little about tilling the land. Below: Chester Thacker explains to him the mysteries of an old-fashioned telephone that you crank by hand to hear the voice of a real, live operator.



Tim loves to feed the sheep at seven o'clock in the morning—while his parents are still asleep.

NEW MOON YEAST ROLLS

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¾ cup warm water (110°F to 115°F)
3 cups biscuit mix
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons butter, softened
4 oz. (about ½ cup) almond paste

1. Dissolve yeast in warm water in a large bowl. Add biscuit mix, sugar, and egg; beat vigorously until well mixed. Turn onto a lightly floured surface. Knead dough until smooth, about 20 times.

2. Roll dough into a 10-in. square and spread softened butter over one-half of dough. Fold unbuttered half over buttered portion; press edges to seal. Roll dough into a 12-in. circle and crumble almond paste evenly over surface. Cut dough into 16 wedge-shaped pieces. Roll up each wedge beginning at wide end.

PANCAKES A LA BAHAMAS

Orange Butter
3 egg yolks
1 cup milk
Few grains salt
7 tablespoons flour
3 egg whites
Butter

1. Prepare Orange Butter (see recipe) and chill thoroughly.

2. Beat egg yolks. Add milk and salt; beat until blended. Mix in flour until well blended.

3. Using a clean beater, beat egg whites until rounded peaks are formed. Fold egg whites into egg yolk mixture.

4. Heat butter (allowing about 2 tablespoons of butter for preparing each pancake) in an 8-in. skillet over low heat. When butter begins to foam, pour it into a small cup.

5. Stir batter (stirring each time before pouring into skillet); using about ½ cup for each pancake, pour batter into heated skillet; tilt to evenly coat bottom of skillet. Cook until the batter is set.

6. Spoon a portion of the melted butter around the edges of the pancake and underneath until it seems to "float." Allow the pancake to cook slowly in the butter until the underside is golden, about 4 min. Turn and cook until the other side is golden. Add more butter, if necessary, to keep the pancake free from the skillet at all times.

7. Transfer pancake to a hot platter and top with a spoonful of the Orange Butter; roll. Set platter in warm oven while preparing remaining pancakes. Top with any remaining Orange Butter and pour Cointreau over the warm pancakes. Serve immediately.

Can you name the 6 reasons Martini devotees prefer the glorious Gordon's Martini?

1 To this day, the ancient pot still method is used in distilling Gordon's Gin. 2 Only gin from the heart of the run is bottled for Gordon's. 3 Gordon's uses only juniper berries and other choice botanicals aged to the peak of maturity. 4 Gordon's is extraordinarily dry. 5 Gordon's has a distinctively delicate flavour. 6 Gordon's maintains its exceptional quality because it still harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula created in England in 1769. Reasons enough for enjoying a Glorious Gordon's Martini soon, wouldn't you say?

Cut Your Roses Back —Now

BY JOHN BRIMER, Garden Editor

A PLAIN-SPOKEN gardener was once asked how she produced such magnificent roses.

"Feed 'em like hogs and water 'em like elephants," she said, and that, along with a place in the sun, about tells the story. But early in the year, she also got out her shears and pruned, to channel her roses' energies into building strong young canes for the magnificent flowers to grow on.

In most of the country, right now in April is the time to prune. (In warm regions, pruning is best done in winter, but considerable benefits can be gained from now on, too. Cutting flowers for the house is, in a sense, pruning.) The sketches below will guide you to the proper pruning of various types of roses, except for the climbers, which vary so in their needs it is best to consult a nursery on your particular varieties. Don't be afraid of cutting back too much—roses will produce more from the new wood that develops. Feed well after pruning, again in June and lightly in midsummer.

Make Your Cuts Correctly: Use only clean, sharp tools. Select an outward-facing bud; cut about ½-inch above it. Treat large cuts with tree-wound paint or dressing. CUTS: 1. Too far above bud; will cause die-back. 2. Too close to bud. 3. Wrong angle, too horizontal. 4. Wrong angle, too slanting. 5. The Proper slant, ½-inch above bud.

Spring Pruning: Cut off all dead or diseased canes to healthy, live wood. Remove any canes that rub others, also twiggy branchlets, weak canes. Three to five or six good strong canes are sufficient, and these must be shortened according to your climate. Your rose may look stubby and skinny now, but it won't for very long. For best results, cut boldly!

Summer Pruning: Cutting roses for the house helps to produce more bloom. Cut with a short stem at (A) to force new growth, at (B) and (C) for later bloom. If the bush was not pruned in spring, cut your rose near the base of its shoot (D) about ½-inch above a leaf. This will force new flower growth with long stems and fewer but larger flowers, helping to shape the bush. If you want really big flowers, cut off the little side buds (E), (F), leaving the main one to develop into a superb specimen.

Keep 'em Coming: As blossoms begin to fade, remove them. On hybrid tea roses, cut ½-inch above the top 5-leaved leaf. Floribundas, having multiple blossoms, fade intermittently; individual blossoms may be removed or wait till cluster fades, cutting it off ½-inch above top 5-leaved leaf. With grandifloras, bearing both individual and cluster blossoms, follow both procedures. If you have no blossoms, force bloom by cutting just above a strong 5-leaved leaf.

What Do Teen-agers Get Out of Volunteer Jobs?

BY STANLEY SCHULER

NEXT TIME the conversation turns to the sorry state of American teen-agers, take a good look at what they are really doing in your community. You'll find that the delinquents are far outnumbered by youngsters who have quietly volunteered for projects which directly or indirectly benefit us all.

In contrast to the run-of-the-mill paid jobs—so much desired, so hard to get—volunteer work offers a ready market for teen-age enterprise and energy and plenty of the experience that comes with doing.

To hear the volunteers tell it: "I've learned to get along with people in all walks of life," said a California girl who helped in her town's Easter Seal rehabilitation center.

"Almost all the girls in the upper school belong to the Social Service Club," a young New Englander reported. "Friday afternoons we work at volunteer jobs wherever we're needed. Some of us run errands and wait on tables in the hospital, and other girls put on games at the Day Nursery or do filing at the Red Cross or secretarial chores at the Tuberculosis Center.

"It's so much better than kidding around town all the time because we know we're needed, and the work makes us feel as if we were doing something really worthwhile."

In Lyndhurst, Ohio, top students from the comfortably endowed Hawken School have taken on a civic chore with an unusual and exciting potential: twice a week in the Obviously, your pool sanitizer should protect the kids against bacteria and algae. But that's not all it should do.

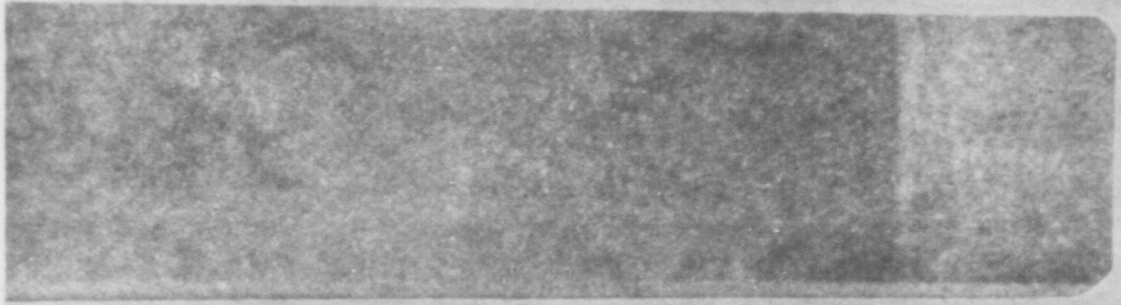
It should also leave an effective chlorine residual you can measure quickly with a simple test kit.

And, it should be cheap and simple to handle.



And, if the pH level is O.K., it should let you jump in a few minutes after you chlorinate, without irritating your eyes, your nose or your skin.

But, it shouldn't add any unpleasant taste, color or odor of its own. Or change the effect of other chemicals in the water. Or eat away at the pool finish, equipment or accessories.

There are pool sanitizers that come up to some of these standards.

But HTH,® Olin's sanitizer, makes the grade on all counts.

HTH is chlorine in dry form. It's delivered to your door in a 100-lb. steel drum.

(It can't break, spill, leak or stain.)

One phone call to your pool supply dealer (he's listed in the Yellow Pages) at the beginning of the season takes care of all your chlorine shopping for the whole year.

It should be that easy.

Don't worry. We won't be giving away many $20. This is brand new, and only Sheraton has it. Read carefully: If you hold a confirmed reservation at any Sheraton Hotel, and if you show up for your room when you said you would and if, for any reason, you don't get a room, then we give you a certificate good for $20 worth of food, beverages and lodging at any Sheraton Hotel or Motor Inn anywhere. No but's or maybe's. And you get the $20 certificate even if your reservation called for a $9.90 room. You can't lose. But then, you never can at Sheraton. evening they bus into Cleveland, to the Karamu Settlement House, to tutor certain of their contemporaries in the "frayed neighborhoods" who need help with school work.

From 7:30 to 10 on these evenings the Hawken boys help the city pupils with discouraging mathematics or make suggestions for English themes or offer strategy for the study of the Civil War or discuss chemistry experiments. Toward the end of the evening the talk gets general—on cars, for instance, and the Cleveland Browns and close harmony and other subjects of peculiar interest to tutors and pupils alike.

"Our courses at Hawken are entirely academic," one of the volunteers remarked, "and some of the Cleveland students are taking vocational subjects, but when we shoot the breeze, we find we're all pretty much alike."

COMMUNITY Service Societies, the Scouts, Y's Boys' Clubs, Red Cross, and other national organizations have all sorts of jobs to offer volunteers. Much that they do is commonplace (and the same can be said of young workers in paid jobs, too). They work on clothing drives and city clean-up campaigns; entertain shut-ins at Christmas; raise money for charitable projects. But there are also many unusual programs.

Since 1959, for example, almost 100 senior Girl Scouts in DuPage County, Illinois, have worked as therapy home assistants for the disabled. After intensive training in the skills needed to care for crippled children, they baby-sit without fee for at least an hour a week for the families concerned. "This is like a big breath of fresh air," sighed one grateful mother who, after five years, was finally free to leave her handicapped child.

At Washington, D.C.'s, International Center, Girl Scouts from Arlington, Virginia, are hostesses to foreigners who come to learn more about the United States.

"THEY'RE wonderful," says Mrs. Margaret O'Donoghue, the Center's coordinator of volunteer services. "The foreigners who meet these girls are delighted and impressed, after arriving with a very distorted image of American youth."

If the only thing teenagers got out of volunteer service was the feeling of being useful, their work would be worthwhile. But they gain much more. They develop a sense of responsibility, become more dependable, punctual, self-confident, poised, patient, and neat—qualities that will help in getting a paid job later.

Volunteer work often leads to a career, too. Many discover that what they are doing for free they would like ultimately to do for pay. And on the other hand, some who think they know where they are headed find out as result of volunteer experience that they have been on the wrong track.

A good record in volunteering can also help in getting into college because it carries weight with admissions officers. And well it might — the teenager who has done a good volunteer job has already begun to take his place in the world.

■ WHEN THE MAN of the house falls for his boat, as is often the case (see cover), take heart. This spring, sportswear designers have gone all out to equip you with the most practical, chic, and feminine boating gear that ever competed with a 90-horsepower engine. There's the dainty pink dotted-swiss parka with pants and peaked scarf to match (right), the "I'll show you, rain," foul-weather gear of duckbill yellow (left), or the sea shift (big news) in fearless stripes. These, along with the tomato-red knit, the trusty blue denim, and lighthearted "whites" and parkas will fill any foot locker with the best-looking clothes afloat.

WHICH FENCE?

The most beautiful fence now costs the least!

Some fences enhance the beauty, value and privacy of your home more than others. Most beautiful of all is a "living fence" of roses. The only rose created especially for fence use, "Red Glory," quickly forms an impenetrable wall of beauty. Strong, tightly-knit bushes weave into one another from the ground up, grow compactly upright without sprawling. Keep your children and pets in, those of others out. Gives you, month after month, a bonus of radiant red roses to enjoy seeing and picking. And should any bush fail to grow, it will be replaced free. Yet this fence costs under 25¢ per foot, less than any other kind of fence. 90% less than brick, 80% less than board, 85% less than wire. Before ordering fencing, get the story of Red Glory. STAINLESS STEEL "SPOON BUG"

No more long, disappointing waits for big fish to get hungry. The unique design of the SPOON-BUG gives it a lively, life-like "panic" action that makes fish fighting, biting mad. Even lunker fish eat very little; it's amazing how many smaller fish (like the SPOON-BUG!) they attack in anger. That's why the SPOON-BUG is 100% guaranteed . . . not just that it is expertly made of finest Stainless Steel, with easily replaceable hook and expensive Marabou feathers; not just that it's an outstanding comparative value; BUT THAT IT WILL CATCH FISH wherever there are fish swimming. Step up the enticing action of the SPOON-BUG by hooking on a wiggling strip of pork rind, with or without leaving the Marabou feathers. Because it is so perfectly weedless, you can troll or cast your SPOON-BUG into the heaviest under-growth, even fish the man-made lakes where the trees were left standing. It casts like a bullet, has the weight and streamlined shape to give extra distance, extra accuracy. 18SB—1/8 oz., 75¢ each. 16SB—1/6 oz., 85¢. WATER BOARD CHANGES SEEN

Candidates Tell Views

Grade School Board Vote Saturday

Four candidates are in the running to fill three vacant posts on the Arlington Heights District 25 school board in the April 11 board election.

At the same polling places, open from noon to 7 p. m., registered residents will also be able to vote for three open positions on the Arlington High School 214 board. (Interviews with these board candidates will be found on an inside page.)

CANDIDATES in the elementary district election are incumbent Charles O. Bennett, 111 S. Drury Lane; Robert Bukowski, 810 N. Dunton Ave.; Howard H. Sjogren, 1802 N. Walnut Ave., and Charles H. Raths, 1726 N. Patton Ave.

Bennett, Bukowski and Sjogren form the 1964 school caucus slate, opposed by Raths, running as an independent.

Here are the standard questions used in interviews with each candidate, and the replies of each, paraphrased and shortened to permit fair display.

1. How do you feel your profession or professional training will aid you, if at all, in school board matters?
2. Do you feel it is the place of the school board to question teaching methods and materials, or simply to follow the recommendations of the superintendent and watch finances?
3. Do you feel that enough, too much, or not enough money is being spent for education in the district?
4. Are facilities adequate, including the building program now in progress, or are there inadequacies within the established schools?
5. Do you feel that the district should continue its trend toward special education provisions and social services?
6. What inadequacies, if any, do you see in the present school setup?
7. Do you feel that the board is over-using or under-using its authority in any areas?
8. Have you attended any school board meetings?
9. Do you seek to change the board's method of operation?
10. Why are you running for the board?

Sees Growth Challenge

Charles O. Bennett, a member of the village's plan commission, calls his experience on that body "extremely valuable to the board." He said one of the major problems of the foreseeable future is going to be planning for the time at which school enrollment reaches its peak on the crest of village development.

In the area of teaching materials and methods, "You must set basic policy," he said. "I think you rely on your superintendent to come forward with suggestions, but whether or not you accept them is up to the board.

"WHETHER YOU are spending too much money is relative to the amount of money you've got to spend. We are working within our means, and we're doing a very good job.

CHARLES O. BENNETT

"As of next fall, if all goes well, we're in good shape facility-wise. This isn't going to last very long—at the most one school term.

"I don't know that special education is a trend," Bennett said. "We have to concern ourselves, but I don't think we should ever get to the point of being more concerned about the special case than the majority.

"The whole system was set up to provide education for the multitudes.

"I DON'T THINK there are many gross inadequacies in the system, but I wouldn't go to a board meeting if I didn't think that some of these things (inadequacies) might be taken care of.

"In times past, the board has transferred responsibilities to the administration that possibly are properly or were originally vested in the board as representatives of the community.

"We sometimes feel that we should be deciding an issue and we find that we are stepping on the administration's toes.

"I think I've made a contribution or two over the past three years," Bennett concluded in his reasons for seeking re-election. "It has been a very stimulating experience, and I think I can continue to contribute."

Finance Is Top Problem

"Probably at least 50 per cent of any problem in the school board can be reduced to financial terms," according to Robert H. Bukowski. He calls his work in analysis and study of financial problems an asset.

He also listed his background of four years as a village trustee as valuable in coming to the school board.

But on the board, Bukowski said, "Each member has the responsibility for familiarizing himself with the overall operation of the school system. He is responsible not to the superintendent but to the electorate.

"He is there to devote his energy to production of a facility which will give maximum educational opportunity to all. This includes responsibility to question or oppose editorial policy he feels is wrong."

ON FINANCES: "There is a point after which expenditure of money yields diminishing return. Pure money will not necessarily buy a good education. It is more a question of whether we are getting good value for the money we're spending. I think we are, but that doesn't mean we can't do better.

"In general school facilities giving effect to the recently approved building program do a good job of meeting the immediate needs to the best of the ability of available resources, but I don't think good education can be equated with facilities.

"I think it is important that the school district continue to adapt to the needs of the community," Bukowski answered on special education. "As long as we have a need that can be economically met, this is the proper function of the school system.

HE FOUND THAT, looking from the outside, "When it comes to criticizing inadequacies, I have none that I could indicate at this point. He has attended board meetings regularly since his selection as a candidate by the school caucus.

"There seems to be a pretty good balance that exists between the board and administration," Bukowski noted, "—one of mutual respect. I don't think I should set out to change actions on the board.

ROBERT H. BUKOWSKI

"I was asked to run by people whom I respect and admire. I have a deep interest in education that stems in part from four children either through or going through the elementary system. I am interested in the art of government in its various facets, and can arrange for the time to take part.

Education Costs Money

"I think my professional training certainly would aid me," said Howard J. Sjogren. "I was a classroom teacher, coach and administrator, although some time ago, in the Nebraska system."

Presently the assistant manager of an insurance group, he found similarity with board duties both in hiring employees and keeping expenses in line.

"There is a pretty fine line between legislative and administrative responsibility of the school board, but their job should certainly be more than just watching finances. It is necessary that they follow the recommendation of the superintendent, but only from an analytical standpoint.

"I CAN NEVER believe too much money is being spent for education. It may be a question as to how it is being spent, though I am not personally questioning the expenditures.

"I know of no present inadequacies in the educational system, but then I am very much a layman in Arlington Heights," Sjogren said. He also said the physical setup seems adequate.

"From an observational standpoint, the board seems to have been doing what they were elected to do. My running is not because I have any axes to grind.

HOWARD J. SJOGREN

"From what I know about this board's operation I would have no reason to seek changes," Sjogren said. "If it can be shown to me logically that what they have been doing has been working to their success, I will continue in that line.

"My running goes back to a strong belief in educating all, whether they be average, retarded, or gifted children. The system should bring out the best in all.

"The problem goes back to whether you are willing to devote time to do what needs to be done," he concluded.

Raps Apathy Of Citizens

The school board is a board of directors, according to Charles H. Raths, and the more it can draw on the background of members, the better it will be.

Raths, a registered professional structural engineer, feels his experience would be valuable in communicating with contractors and architects in the construction of schools.

"I do not believe it is the function of the school board to teach the children per se," he said. "The administration must oversee the daily operation of the schools and curriculum, and carry through the policies of the board.

"I DON'T THINK any member of the board is in a position to say 'this is the book.' We have to depend on the recommendations of teachers and administrators.

"We could always spend more money on education," Raths answered on the funds question. "It depends on what the citizens feel they can afford.

"I think the greatest challenge we as citizens and board members face is really adequate education for the gifted, handicapped and retarded. The more and higher quality each of us receive, the better citizens we will be today and tomorrow.

"One inadequacy of the educational system is the matter of public relations. We have to let the citizens really know what our goals and aims are. If we establish rapport with the people, we will find a lot more interest and a better climate for education."

RATHS SAID HE would have to be on the school board to answer whether the board is over-using or under-using its authority. He has been to two school board meetings within the past four months, but added he does not feel the average citizen should have to attend the meetings.

"I feel that if the citizens are going to have an interest in our educational programs they should also have an interest in voting in the elections," Raths said.

CHARLES H. RATHS

"If only three candidates run for three positions, I think the result is apathy. Citizens are not showing as much interest as they should.

"To the best of my knowledge, I know of no other engineers on the school board. The building program takes such a big chunk of our tax dollar, I think we should have one on the board as a watchdog over expenditures.

"I believe education is the most important thing that we as adults are facing, and would like to do all I can to further it."

Same Precincts for Both School Votes

Polling precincts for the April 11 school board vote in Arlington Heights will coincide with attendance boundaries for K-5 elementary schools, with polling places in those schools.

Both elementary and high school board balloting will be at the eight K-5 schools, with polls opening at noon and remaining open until 7 p.m.

Schools included are: Dryden, North, Ridge, Park, Dunton, Westgate, Wilson and Windsor.

TRUSTEE SCHLICKMAN receives plaque of commendation from Norval Stephens after presiding over his last village board meeting.

Schlickman Ends Trustee Career in Prexy's Chair

Trustee Eugene F. Schlickman took the president's seat for his last village board meeting in Arlington Heights Monday, with the best wishes of Village Pres. John G. Woods.

Woods, called out of town on business and forced to miss a meeting for the first time in his term of office, left a letter for the board recommending that Schlickman be appointed president pro-tem.

The senior trustee had announced his coming resignation by letter two weeks ago.

By unanimous vote, board members put him in the president's chair, and a typically long agenda shrank away with a speed seldom seen.

His actions, somewhat more abrupt and ordered than Woods', were caught up by the remainder of the board in brief discussion, few asides, and time limits to appearances before the board.

As Schlickman closed the meeting, he brought up the matter of his own resignation, made effective on the return of the village president by a unanimous, but "regretful" vote.

TRUSTEE NORVAL Stephens then read a framed resolution of commendation stating in part, that "because of Eugene F. Schlickman, Arlington Heights has become a better place in which to live."

In tendering his resignation, Schlickman read a statement to the board (see separate story this page), noting that his period of five years on the board had served as an education and training. "I would not trade it for my four years of college," he said.

After all official presentations, he was invited to a testimonial dinner by the board members, but Trustee Bud Beacham told him, "We have not yet been able to settle on a day."

The board also approved mailing of all village minutes and agendas to the retiring trustee for a year without charge.

Schlickmann expressed his appreciation and commented, "I'll keep up."

Delay Action On Donation

A reformation of the DAMP Water Commission (Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine) may be in the air, and on that basis Arlington Heights has put off any new financial contributions to the group.

Trustee Eugene Schlickman reported to the village board Monday that William T. Mott, chairman of the water commission, had requested contribution of $1,000 from each member village.

He recommended that this contribution be considered as an alternate to a proposed independent study by the village on possibilities for future acquisition of a Lake Michigan water supply.

Des Plaines is now in the process of connecting to the Chicago municipal water supply to thwart possibility of a critical water shortage within the next two summers.

MOTT EXPLAINED in a letter to all village presidents that, keyed on Des Plaines' independent action, the commission is looking for new "charter" members with water needs similar to the three remaining villages. All have indicated they will have an adequate supply of water for about five years.

Trustee Bud Beachman raised the possibility at Monday's meeting that municipalities joining the commission as new charter members could contribute proportionate shares of the amount expended in the past for data and engineering studies which would benefit both old and new commission members.

This would put money in the water commission's account, now standing at $200, without requiring the $1,000 donation from old commission members, Beacham theorized.

THE MATTER of a donation was referred to the finance committee to await the outcome of proposals for new municipal membership in the commission on a pay-your-way basis.

Other communities which Mott has mentioned for possible membership are Wheeling, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village and Buffalo Grove.

Mott's letter to Village Pres. John G. Woods indicated the commission has decided, since water need is no longer considered immediate, to concentrate effort on securing data on water supply, alternate routes, current cost, and water table figures for member municipalities.

The commissioners reaffirmed their belief that "notwithstanding Des Plaines' decision, the ultimate water solution for the northwest area suburbs was a primary water supply provided by a water commission such as the DAMP Water Commission."

THE COMMISSION was near an agreement with Chicago for connection into the municipal system and Lake Michigan water when Des Plaines decided to make a similar connection outside commission auspices.

A previous plan, which still has village preference, was for a direct pipeline to Lake Michigan, constructed by the commission.

Reviews His 5-Year Record

The following is a prepared text of remarks made by Trustee Eugene F. Schlickmann to the village board Monday upon his resignation:

"Five years ago I came onto this Board reputedly as the youngest Trustee to be elected up until then. Tonight I leave as the senior member.

"This period has served as an education and training for me. I would not trade it for my four years of college.

"I have had the pleasure of associating with some of the finest people it shall ever be my privilege knowing.

"During the past five years I served in three village halls, under three village presidents, with 12 village trustees, two village clerks and innumerable Paddock reporters. And throughout this time—I maintained—or was sustained—by one and the same wife. God bless her.

"WHAT DID I contribute? What did I accomplish?

"1. A ceiling on the working cash fund.

"2. A properly financed municipal building.

"3. A citizens committee to promote the approval of the municipal building.

"4. Written committee reports and the re-establishment of standing committees.

"5. A stop sign policy.

"6. An increase in trustees' salaries for future generations.

"7. Boundary line discussions with neighboring communities.

"8. A reasonable Oakton Street.

"9. The solidification of the village manager's position—believe it or not.

"10. The upgrading of apartment standards.

"11. The initial suggestion for adoption of the budget before the beginning of the fiscal year.

"12. The success of the Caucus in three elections.

"13. A reputation for integrity and dedication to public service, for which I am most grateful.

"I REMEMBER well — and shall never forget—the memory of Ed Carlisle, the bells of a nearby church, delinquent water bills, Stan Ptak's garden, hotel fires (a trustee's life can be dangerous), and how on occasion I would wonder how a majority of the Board could be so wrong.

"I have had the opportunity of seeing this village grow to a size larger than many state capitols. I have witnessed the functioning of the best administered and operating municipal departments in the whole metropolitan area. For example, our police and fire forces are superb. Public works has no peer. I thank each and every village employe.

"Major contributions to the planned and orderly development of the Village were enacted during the five years I have been on the Board. Of course, they were inevitable—but due to Ed Carlisle, Harold Carlson, our village attorneys and many others, these necessary controls and facilities came sooner and perhaps sounder.

"THE PRINCIPAL disappointment I have is that as of this evening, we do not have a recodification of village ordinances. It is long overdue, and everyday without it causes less efficient and less effective village administration. This matter should become an issue and a challenge.

"I leave with no regrets. I leave the Board with Arlington Heights a better village—thanks to each of you and your predecessors."

'Music Man' Coming For Two-Night Stand

"The Music Man" is coming to town — to the Arlington High School boys' gym, April 17 and 18, with its famous "Seventy-Six Trombones" number and all the other songs that have made this one of the best-loved of all American musical comedies.

Ray Schmeiser will be starred in this melodic tunefest recalling small-town life of the early 1900's, that was written — all of it, book, lyrics, and music — by Meredith Willson. Ray will be singing, dancing and acting the role of "Prof." Harold Hill, the disarming swindler who spellbinds gullible townsfolk into starting a brass band, sells them instruments and uniforms and plans to skip town without teaching anybody how to play.

The musical's plot tells how this plan misfires in River City, Iowa, because the con man falls in love with a standoffish librarian and can't bring himself to leave.

Dawn Nebel will play the role of Marian the librarian, and sing two of the show's most famous song-hits, "Good Night My Someone" and "My White Knight."

OTHERS IN the large cast, directed by Dave Lindeman, include Tom Ralph as Marian's lisping kid brother who sings the celebrated "Gary, Indiana"; Claudia Hansen as her mother; Steve Carns as the mayor of the town; and Dan Baughman, Jim Walton, Ed Federle and Ken Petrucci, who form the show's quartet, rendering ditties in barbershop style that have become almost as famous as the "Seventy-Six since "The Music Man" became a hit in late 1957.

The show's music will be under the direction of Boyd White and Fritz Schmoyer. It's exuberant dances are being choreographed by Diane Jaques and Rae Sander, and settings of a small town in President Taft's time are being designed by Jim Walker of the Arlington High School art department. (A

Park Pools to Use Photo-Ident Passes

This summer residents of the Arlington Heights Park District will be using photo-identification cards as admission passes to the swimming pools.

The Arlington Heights Park Board recently approved use of the cards to replace tags previously required for swimming pools.

The system has been used by a number of other park districts in the area and has proved to be a superior method of admission and control over many other different systems that have been tried, according to Bill Appleby, superintendent of recreation.

A number of reasons were stated as to why the change is being made—primarily to solve the problem of residents obtaining more passes than persons in their family, and in turn passing them on to non-resident friends and even other residents plus summer guests.

This action on the part of residents plus the falsifying of name and address by non-residents has caused overcrowding of the pools and recreation activities, Appleby said.

ANOTHER PROBLEM that Photo I. D. will eliminate is that of having to sew pool tags on the swimming suits. Swimmers will now be able to use as many different suits as they wish without taking their pass off of one suit and sewing it on another, he said.

A third point that was noted is that the picture I. D. gives a person a source of positive identification which very few people, especially children, possess.

The park district has set April 27 as the proposed date to start registration for summer activities and swimming pool passes.

Next week additional information on registration procedures will be given. (A

Stonegate Home Group's History Goes Back to '29

Another in a series of articles on the aims and activities of member organizations of the Arlington Heights Community Council.

Back in the late '20's a builder, H. Roy Berry, planned a housing development in Arlington Heights which would resemble in appearance an English village.

Christened Stonegate, this development was begun in 1928, and by the end of the next year 26 homes had been completed and occupied. The present Windsor Drive was dedicated as Tri-States Boulevard and was the planned route of an interstate highway.

With only 26 homes in the entire area, neighbors were as much as two or three blocks apart. Boundaries of the area, then as now, were Dryden on the west, Kensington on the north, Gibbons on the east and Northwest highway on the south.

As a means of regular social contact among the relatively few residents of this large area, the Stonegate Civic Association was organized in 1929.

For several years this group was relatively inactive; then in 1937 a problem of weeds arose and the group was reorganized to raise money for weed mowing during the summer months.

OFFICIAL meeting place of the association was the first building constructed in Stonegate. Situated at the intersection of Wilshire and Northwest Highway, this was known as the Stonegate Tavern.

Final reactivation of the Stonegate association occurred in 1953 when residents picked up the thread of the earlier reorganization and adopted a new set of bylaws.

Main objective of the Stonegate Civic Association is to maintain the character of its area. First test of this came in the 1950's when the first bi-level house was constructed in Stonegate. Prior to this only two-story homes could be built. The association filed a suit against the home and won; the money derived from the suit was donated to the Northwest Community Hospital.

Another successful battle was the prevention of the removal of a cement plant from the northwest side of the city to the abandoned village sewage site across the Northwest Highway from Stonegate. In this battle, numerous associations and individuals in adjoining, affected areas lent their support.

AMONG THE current projects of the Stonegate Civic Association are:

Annual sponsorship of a Cub Scout troop.

A unique Christmas party in which Santa Claus receives — not gives — gifts from Stonegate children for distribution to less fortunate children.

A Fourth of July ice cream social and street dance.

A pre-Lenten dinner dance.

A winter bridge tournament, from September to May, climaxed with a dinner dance and awarding of prizes.

Sponsorship of an entrant in the "Tip-Top Teen" contest.

Regular membership meetings are held three or four times a year with programs aimed at information on civic problems and projects, as well as general information for homeowners.

Membership is restricted to residents of the Stonegate area.

Quartets Join In Celebration

The Arlingtones, local chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., is joining the 30,000 members of SPEBSQSA in celebrating Harmony Week, the 26th anniversary of the organization of the society.

The Illinois District Convention and International Preliminary Quartet Contest was held at Joliet on April 3-4-5. The top three quartets will represent Illinois at the International Convention to be held at San Antonio in June. The fourth place quartet was named as an alternate if any of the three could not make it.

Two of the 19 competing quartets were from the ranks of the Arlingtones. The Roustabouts quartet includes Jack Musich, Jack Schuler, Dan Krebsbach and Gene Loughrin, all of Arlington Heights.

THE OTHER Arlingtones quartet competing was The Foursome, made up of Dick Reed, Skokie; Len Klaproth, Wheeling; Vern Dohe, Bensenville, and Bob Keck, Mount Prospect. The Foursome placed fifth in the contest, only one point out of fourth place.

Stan Myers of Arlington Heights and Milt Decker of Cary attended the House of Delegates meeting while Fred Tullar of Mount Prospect and Nolan Nelson of Hoffman Estates attended the PROBE (Public Relations Officers and Bulletin Editors) meeting at Joliet.

The Arlingtones and their quartets sang April 3, at the Annual Night of Harmony sponsored by the Mayfair Lions Club of Chicago.

The chorus and quartets have been selected to star at the annual Kenosha Chapter show being held at Kenosha, Wisconsin on April 11.

Kenosha is the home of Harmony Hall, International Headquarters of SPEBSQSA Inc. The chapter members have been invited to tour Harmony Hall and meet the international officers prior to the show.

Annual College Night Set for District 214

The annual Spring College Night for High School District 214 will be held at Forest View High School on Wednesday evening, April 15. This program will be for all of the juniors and their parents from Arlington, Forest View, and Prospect High Schools.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. and last until 9:30 p.m. During the evening, juniors and their parents may visit with representatives of at least three different schools of their choice.

Approximately 150 colleges and universities, secretarial schools, schools of nursing, technical schools, and trade schools will be represented at College Night.

District 214 counselors in charge of College Night are Miss Leotta Hampton and David Lindemann at Arlington High School; Miss Mary Christie and Jack Emery at Prospect High School; and Mrs. Virginia Kercheval and Floyd Hillman at Forest View High School.

THIS WEEK juniors were given a list of the schools which will be present on College Night. This list will give them a chance to discuss with their parents the schools whose representatives they would like to see.

Parents will be given room and time schedules when they arrive at the school that night.

L. S. Jenness, principal of Forest View, suggests that those planning to attend should arrive early to avoid excessive traffic near the school. He also said that ample parking will be available and that parking attendants will assist in the handling of traffic.

Entrance to the school can be from either Golf or Algonquin roads.

This will be the only college night program presented this year.

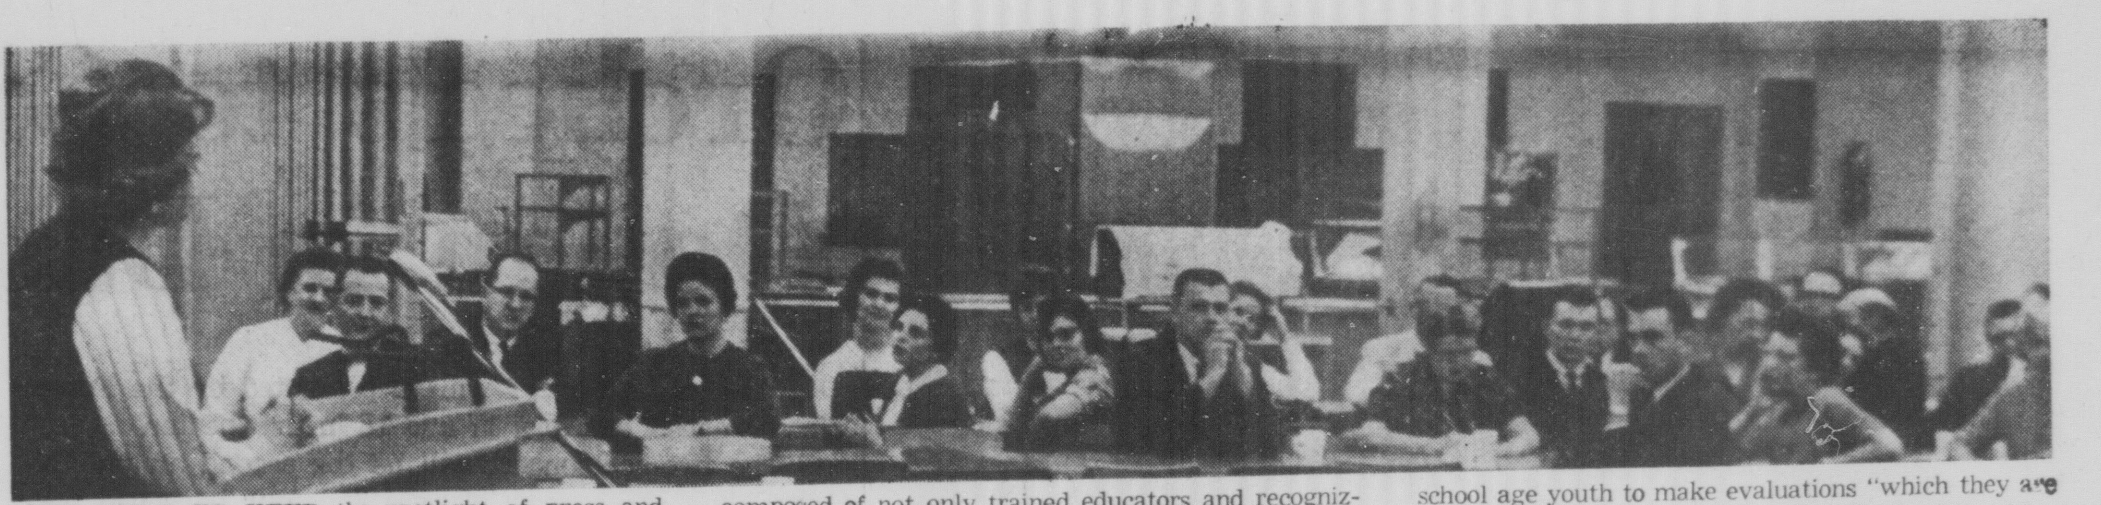
OPEN MONDAY AND THURSDAY EVENINGS



THE NEED TO KEEP the spotlight of press and teacher-public concern on the work of a state committee developing new social studies curricula guidelines was stressed by Paddock Publications Education Editor Helene Bristol to faculty members of Arlington High School this week. The state social studies committee, working under the state superintendent, includes a special subcommittee on comparative international political systems. The subcommittee is composed of not only trained educators and recognized authorities on such political systems but far-rightest civilian "experts" such as Illinois Sen. Paul Broyles, famed for his red "witch hunt" at the University of Chicago and sponsor of the state legislation which requires loyalty oaths of teachers and other public employees. Painting a slanted all "black and white" picture to students rather than allowing high-school age youth to make evaluations "which they are far more capable of making than most non-teachers believe," Mrs. Bristol urged the teachers to carefully watch the work of the committee, to make sure that the final result was not loyalty oaths for students to prove their acceptance of the rightist indoctrination but realistic suggestions for the betterment of the general study of social science. Airmen Chorus To Sing

The United States Army Air Defense Command Choral Group will present a limited-audience concert at 8 p.m. Friday, April 10, in the Arlington High School little theatre.

Primary mission of the 35-man group, operating out of ARADCOM headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., is entertaining personnel at far-flung Nike guided missile installations.

The chorus is being sponsored in its visit to Arlington Heights by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce. Though the group makes no charge for its appearance, incidental expenses involved in the one-night stand are being handled by a group of 10 area residents who are participants in Operation Understanding with the Air Defense Command.

Approximately 300 tickets to fill the high school little theatre have been distributed to Arlington Heights residents and merchants.

The chorus, under direction of Sp. 4 Lawrence J. Parker, was lined up through the 45th Artillery Brigade, headquartered at the Nike site on Central Road in the southern portion of the village.

Candidates Speak To Township Demos

More than 300 men and women attended the April 1 joint meeting of the Men's and Women's Regular Democratic Organizations of Wheeling Township in honor of several Cook County party candidates.

James Stavros, Democratic committeeman, welcomed Joseph J. McDonough, clerk of the Circuit Court of Cook County and Democratic candidate for that office; Bernard Peskin, state representative of the 6th District of Illinois; Vincent DePaul Garrity, vice president of the Cook County Sanitary District, and Valentine Janicki, both candidates for sanitary district trustee.

McDonough outlined the effect and the benefits of court reform under the unified Circuit Court of Cook County which he has experienced since he was appointed Circuit Court clerk by Chief Judge John Boyle.

HE NOTED that the responsibilities of the Wheeling Township branches of the court in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect are expected to be expanded under the administration of Judges Harold Sullivan and Herbert Stoffels. He explained that the clerk's offices in these two courts have been reorganized and expanded to give effective and prompt services to township residents.

Rep. Peskin spoke on the coming state conventions to select the at-large candidates for state representative and urged all Democrats to vote in the primary for the Democratic slate and to give Gov. Kerner and the Cook County candidates a large turnout on April 14.

Garrity introduced Janicki and called for the largest Democratic primary vote in Wheeling Township history. He commended Stavros' formation of a Young Democrats Organization and stated that volunteer groups such as this not only provided campaign help but future candidates.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Do you think it is in good taste for a receptionist to smoke at her desk?

A. This does not give a good impression of the company she is representing. A receptionist should look pleasant, act and talk pleasantly, and it's difficult to do these things while puffing away on a cigarette. She should reserve smoking for her rest periods while she is away from her desk.

Many Firms Give Parade Donations

The Arlington Heights Post 981, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has expressed its thanks to nearly 80 business and civic organizations in the village which have contributed to the "Memorial Day Fund" to finance the traditional parade May 30.

The parade has been financed primarily in past years by the VFW post, but members have indicated that the source of funds normally tapped was no longer available.

A village-wide campaign for contributions was kicked off with a donation from Post 891, and resulted in 78 group or commercial contributions.

Donation jars have been placed in stores and offices throughout the village as well.

Make Racial Visits

Area families will participate in the National Home Visit Day Sunday, April 19, sponsored by cooperating agencies working for interracial understanding.

The program, endorsed and supported by the Chicago Conference on Religion and Race, grew out of previous experiments by Friendship House of Chicago. It was planned by the United Church Women of Greater Chicago, United Temple Sisterhoods and Archdiocesian Council of Catholic Women.

It has been endorsed by the executive board of the Northwest Suburban Council on Human Relations as "an excellent means to establish communications with those of other races and religions. All who are able are urged to take part."

The purpose of the visits is to bring people of good will together in a social setting to discuss the things that unite and the things that divide them.

COUPLES OR families who wish to be hosts or guests to those of another race or creed give their names to a local chairman, and the names are paired with those obtained by cooperating agencies.

Some of the local participating families in the last Home Visit in November were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tierney, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Leighton, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wolfinger and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker, all of Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. William Kvininen, Mr. and Mrs. William Newcomb, Mr. and Mrs. William Pohlinger, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shaler and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wheelock, all of Mount Prospect.

Anyone interested in participating in the program who does not have contact through his own church's social action department, may contact Mrs. Charles Baker, 19 N. Pine, Arlington Heights, CL 3-6567. Deadline is Sunday, April 12.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

The holiday spirit carried over into the events of last week due, in many cases, to the fact that Terrace school children were enjoying their spring recess.

Le Roy and Velma Leister and children, Marsha, Eddie, Delores and Sharon, 1440 N. Yale, returned Saturday from an eight-day tour of the east. Highlights included a tour of Gettysburg, sightseeing in Washington D.C., exploring the wonders of New York City and visiting Niagara Falls. They also visited friends in Philadelphia and New York City.

Going to Florida for their spring vacation were Ray and Vaneta Kellogg and children, Whitney and Jean, 1341 N. Wilke, who left for St. Petersburg on March 26 and returned home Saturday. They stayed with Ray's mother, Mrs. R. C. Kellogg in Gulfport, just outside St. Petersburg, and also visited Ray's uncle, Richard Gray, and Vaneta's aunt and uncle, the Earl Hepkers. A tour of the Ringling home at Sarasota was one of the high points of their vacation.

HEADING west for their vacation were Virgil and Helen Marienau and children, Danny, Leonard and Timothy, 1334 N. Illinois. They went to Kearney, Neb., to visit Virgil's parents, the John Marienaus, and they also saw Virgil's four brothers and their families while in Nebraska. Saturday they returned home from the six-day vacation to brave the cold weather after enjoying the 80 degree temperatures in Kearney.

Saginaw, Mich., was the destination of Bill and Kay Platte and sons, Paul and Jimmy, 1318 N. Race, when they left home March 26. They spent Easter weekend with Kay's parents, the Martin Nuermingers. Bill returned home on Easter and Kay and the boys stayed the rest of the week with her parents, returning home by train on Friday. Kay also enjoyed visiting with her sister, Mrs. Earl Dunker of Freeland, near Saginaw.

Dick and Shelba Le Fort and daughter, Michelle, 1246 N. Yale, visited Shelba's parents, the Stanley Halleys, near Cameron, Ill., over the holidays. They left here March 27 and returned last Sunday. They also visited Dick's mother, Mrs. Birdie Le Fort in Monmouth. Since the Le Forts were former Galesburg residents, they also visited former acquaintances while on vacation.

A three-day visit in Des Moines was enjoyed by Jack and Elma Harmon and son, Bruce, 1430 N. Race, over Easter. They visited Elma's parents, the Fred Winettas.

A Monday visitor of Elma Harmon was Mrs. Ruth Seals of Centerville, Iowa.

TAYLORVILLE was the vacation spot of Jack and Helen Martin and children, Lori, Douglas and Beth, 1337 N. Chicago, over the Easter holiday. They visited Jack's grandparents, the Harmon Allisons. On Easter, there was a reunion of Jack's family. Twenty-three relatives attended.

Darrel and Francine Elder and son, Darin, 1334 N. Chicago, spent three days in Sullivan, visiting Darrell's parents, the Delmar Elders. Sunday Francine's parents, the P.F. Pools of Worth, visited the Elders.

Journeying to Milwaukee for a five-day visit were Les and Jo Rozdalovsky and daughters, Shirley and Mary Jo, 1321 N. Race. They visited Jo's parents, the Joseph La Prestis. While there, Les celebrated his March 31 birthday with a family party which included Jo's brother and family, the Ned La Prestis. A side trip to West Bend to visit relatives was an added feature of the vacation. Another highlight was visiting the new museum in Milwaukee.

Easter dinner in Skokie was enjoyed by Bill and Freya Jones and children, Mara and Matthew, 1227 N. Illinois. They were at the home of Bill's sister and family, the Francis Kleins.

A weekend outing in Milwaukee broke the winter monotony for Hal and Phyllis Fluhrer and children, Linda, Janet and "Skip," 1433 N. Race. They stayed at a motel where they enjoyed swimming in the pool.

Two Terrace failies enjoyed the Easter party at the Yacht Club in Chicago on March 28. The party, especially for children, was sponsored by the Cleveland Masonic Lodge. Attending the celebration were Keith and Ina Merckx and daughter, Kim, 1207 N. Race, and Bob and Marilyn Schmidt and daughters, Vicki, Kathy and Barbara, 1201 N. Race.

THE TERRACE welcomes Jim and Marilyn Ford, who moved on March 31 from Chicago to 1330 N. Illinois. Jim is an electronics engineer for the Federal Government and works in the Loop. Hobbies include duplicate bridge for Jim and music for Marilyn. Jim has played bridge in tournaments on various occasions.

Denise Anne, daughter of Bruce and Vivian Meyer, 1618 Oakton, was baptized Sunday morning in the Arlington Heights Methodist Church by Rev. H. Morris. Sponsors were Denise's great-aunt and uncle, the Elmer Cudnohufskys of Pound, Wis. The Meyers hosted a buffet luncheon for a number of relatives and friends after the ceremonies. Attending, in addition to Denise's parents and sponsors, were her grandparents, the Melvin Freys of Lake in the Hills, and the Edward Meyers of Park Ridge: uncle, Tom Frey and a friend, from Elmhurst College; great-aunts and uncles, the Harry Freys of Chicago, the Ernest Luckners and Miss Myrtle Frey of Mount Prospect. Friends included the Richard Seidner family of Palatine, Art Surman family of Lake in the Hills and the Walter Eggerts of Chicago.

Celebrating her fifth birthday April 5 was Judy Parks, daughter of the Ray Parkses, 1259 N. Wilke. She was honored at a party on Saturday for Kathy and Timmy Maybee and Judy's brother, Robert, and sisters, Susan and Nancy. A circus theme was carried out in the party decorations.

Sunday a family party was given for Judy. Her grandmother, Mrs. Clara Liepitz of Elgin, and her aunt, uncle, and cousin, the John Heidemanns and Billy of Elgin, helped Judy celebrate.

BOB AMANN, son of the James Amanns, 1409 N. Wilke, was 9 on April 3. A family party was given for him on his birthday. Attending were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Amann, and Mr. Leonard Weidner, his aunts, Rosemary and Carol Amann, all of Arlington Heights; his parents, his sisters, Catherine and Dawn, and his brother, Jim.

A welcome is extended to Edward and Wanda Abel and their daughter, Connie, who moved into their home at 1200 N. Chicago on March 31 from Wonder Lake.

Cathleen Jean, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Keller, N. Douglas, was christened in St. James Catholic Church on Sunday by Rev. James Doherty. Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Al Mied of Chicago, who joined the Kellers for dinner out. Guests at the family gathering later in the evening were the Arthur Goebelt family of Lincolnwood, grandparents, the Max Kellers and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gentile, and uncle, Armand Gentile, and Mrs. Victoria Jeschke, a friend of the family, all from Chicago.

The unseasonal Easter snowstorm was an added incentive for Mrs. Howard Schick and daughters, Sharon and Lisa, E. Olive, to head south on Monday of last week. Joining them was the grandmother, Mrs. Lemma Schick of Evanston. First stop was New Salem and a tour of the Lincoln lore. Vicksburg, Miss. and the Civil War battlegrounds, Natchez and a tour of the ante-bellum homes were next. In Louisiana they toured the capitol at Baton Rouge and visited the state university before reaching New Orleans to do some sightseeing. They arrived home on Saturday.

Easter weekend visit for the Charles Andersons of N. Douglas was a motor trip to McKeesport, Pa., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Bell.

A FLIGHT back to St. Edwards University in Austin, Tex. last Tuesday ended spring vacation for Michael Zelsmann of E. Clarendon.

An Easter weekend visit with the family on N. Beverly Lane was what was left of Chris Bylski's vacation from junior classes at Northern Illinois in DeKalb. She joined three sorority sisters for a trip to Miami and Nassau in the Bahamas.

George Pisors of E. Clarendon ended his Easter vacation visit with the family on Sunday, returning to classes at Milwaukee School of Engineering. Sister Marie, a student at St. Joseph Convent in Milwaukee, ended her five-day visit earlier in the week.

The Easter weekend also ended spring vacation for Ray Raines Jr., with a trip back to Kirksville, Mo., and classes at Northeast State Teachers College.

Spring vacationing from classes at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, Miss Janine Carlson of E. Clarendon celebrated her birthday with a family dinner party Friday evening. Joining them for the occasion at O'Hare's Seven Continents was her sister, Marilyn, just returning from a week's trip to Washington, D.C., with a group of Arlington students.

The Bill Smits family of N. Douglas spent Easter weekend with the grandparents, the senior William Smits in Green Bay.

MR. AND Mrs. Mel Kasen and daughter, Ann, of N. Haddow Court were guests of the Harry Ericksons in Sister Bay, Wis. for two days last week.

Mrs. Otto Shaw and the children, Nancy and Neil, of N. Belmont visited the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tornow of Northbrook, during school vacation last week. The family was saddened earlier in the month by the death of the grandfather, Mr. Otto Cschau.

Eight-year-old Craig Warman of N. State Road celebrated his birthday Saturday afternoon with his brothers and 16 neighborhood classmates and friends as guests at a cookout party in Deer Grove.

Also celebrating a birthday Saturday was 5-year-old Bobby Andres of N. Hickory. Games and the circus theme delighted Nancy Radcliffe, Valerie Averill, Bernadette Zaborowski, Jay Bonner, Scott Evans, Steve Jones and sister, Barbie. On Sunday, a second party included his grandparents, Mrs. Marie Andrews of Wilmette, the Frank Sarnos of Melrose Park and the Leonard Gienkos of Highland Park. (A

Before you or your contractor dig around the boundaries of your lot, please call Illinois Bell.

You might think you're cutting through a tough root. But it could, in fact, be an underground telephone cable. About 800 of them are cut or damaged inadvertently every year by homeowners and contractors.

And a damaged cable means you're cut off not only from friendly social calls, but also from police, fire and medical help.

Underground telephone cables can't always be marked to show their exact location. So please, if you or your contractor plan to do any digging, call our Repair Service first. (You'll find the number in the front pages of your directory.) We'll come out and show you where the cables are.

Question Debated In Northwest Area

(Second in a Series)

by HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

There's nothing louder than the sound of the closing college door — especially if it's mashed your toe as you tried to get inside.

This is the feeling of the Citizens Community College Committee (CCCC), backers of the northwest suburban community college proposal.

On the state level, the CCCC's concern is shared by the Illinois Board of Higher Education, which put forth a master plan for colleges March 3 of this year.

Strangely enough, that master plan has now become the club with which objectors are trying to smash the Northwest suburban junior college proposal.

Opposition to the proposal generally has an economic coloring and originates in the two eastern high school districts (Glenbrook 225 and Niles 219) that would form part of the tax base for the area junior college district.

Objectors in the other two high school districts, Arlington Heights 214 and Palatine 211, have either been less vocal or are relatively non-existent.

IN REGARD to the state plan, opponents say the Northwest suburban area should wait until it's implemented. The CCCC, however, maintains the district should form now and then join the state plan later, if and when it's approved by the legislature.

The main drawback in the CCCC's stand hinges on construction. The state plan, due to be released in a revisde form sometime this month, says in its present form:

"State and/or federal aid for new construction and major rehabilitation be 75 per cent of total cost for each building and campus site approved by the Junior College Board."

Translated into terms of the proposed junior college, this means the state plan would pay $5,565,000 of the $7,420,000 the CCCC estimates would be needed for the building and site in 1966-67.

AS JAMES MOORE, chairman of the Niles CCCC branch, says, "The long term bonded indebtedness is a question mark in the state plan. This would have to be explored at the Board of Higher Education hearings in May."

Moore hinted that the state board may allow existing junior college districts to have construction costs covered if they're incurred after the May hearings in the state plan.

Referring back to the March 3 state plan, however, this seems unlikely, since the board recommended: "The state will share only in the capital costs of new facilities approved by the Junior College Board after an existing institution has been accepted into the system under this provision."

Moore, however, listed another alternative. Simply put, this would be to go ahead with the referendum on the district and then wait before taking on bonded indebtedness until the legislature has a chance to act on the state plan.

IF THE STATE plan then made its way through the legislature, then the area could go ahead with its vote on a bond issue.

What the CCCC doesn't want to do, however, is wait. They see the need to establish the district as being immediate, maintaining that the legislature could turn a deaf ear to the state plan and cause the Northwest movement to suffer a setback that may prove even more costly with rising costs.

Objectors have also pointed out the state plan regarding operational costs of such a college district. If accepted into the planned state system, a junior college district would have to pay only 50 per cent of its operating costs, with the state taking on the rest.

The CCCC, however, returns to its argument that valuable time would be wasted if the area were to wait until the state plan went into effect.

SINCE ECONOMICS forms such an important part of the proposed junior college proposal, here are some of its more important angles:

First, the tax rate called for in the petition for the referendum totals 16 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This is broken down to allow 12 cents per $100 for operation costs and four cents for building.

According to the 1959 law that allows formation of a junior college district, the maximum tax that can be levied in such a district is 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the educational fund and 10 cents per $100 for building.

Dr. Noble J. Puffer, Cook County Superintendent of Schools, clarified this further: "The maximum tax rate as listed in the petition is the maximum. If it's to be increased more than 16 cents, a referendum would have to be held."

REFERENDUMS, according to statute, could also raise the ceiling on the limitations to 75 cents per $100 assessed valuation for educational purposes and 17½ cents for building.

Regarding bonded indebtedness, the limitation is five per cent of the assessed valuation of the district, the same limitation that presently applies to school districts.

Statute also allows the state to provide $7.60 per semester hour completed per student or $228 per year for a student completing 30 semester hours.

The Illinois School Code also authorizes the junior college district to charge a student tuition not to exceed one-third of the student operating expense.

According to the CCCC estimates per student, this means an enrollee could be charged $333 in tuition. The CCCC, however, estimates tuition for the junior college at $200 per student.

ON BARGAIN TV SERVICES

by ED LANDWEHR

Customers have asked at Landwehr TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights how it's possible for some TV Repair men to advertise such low cost service calls. Often, the obvious cost of driving the TV truck to the home is more than the service call price.

Some TV men use rebranded and used tubes in attracting customers who don't know that you don't get something for nothing. The bargain service call must be made up some way so he cuts down on tube costs. You assume that you're paying for quality, first line tubes but you don't get them. Over a period of time, you call him more often and buy more tubes. Actually, your TV maintenance is higher in the long run.

Phone CLearbrook 5-0700 for electronic services and let us show you the difference. You'll like our way of doing business better. We guarantee it.

$4.6 Million Expansion Planned by Hospital

A $4.6 million program to expand Lutheran General Hospital, 1775 Dempster St., Park Ridge, has been announced by the hospital's board of trustees.

The expansion will increase the hospital to 519 beds and greatly expand the outpatient department and ancillary services.

Construction is expected to start this summer with completion scheduled by the end of 1965, according to Dr. N. M. Nesset, president of the board of trustees of Lutheran General and Deaconess Hospitals.

Dr. Nesset explained that tremendous pressure on present facilities necessitated the expansion which has received the approval of the Hospital Planning Council for Metropolitan Chicago.

PLANS CALL for three stories on the present seven-story building and a five-story addition to the west of the hospital.

Present size of the hospital is 316 beds. The expansion will increase medical-surgical beds from 204 to 297 and psychiatric beds from 35 to 81. New features will be a 23 bed intensive care area and a 46 bed chronic care unit.

"Because of high usage, Lutheran General has been operating as high as 110 per cent capacity in psychiatric and over 100 per cent capacity in medical-surgical beds," Dr. Nesset noted. "The intensive care beds and chronic care beds are services which are greatly needed for the area."

A feature of the expansion will be an outpatient department of almost 17,000 square feet. Included in this area will be examining rooms, diagnostic areas, laboratories, X-ray, and minor surgical facilities.

THE EXPANSION will also include a doubling of the present emergency department.

Also included in the expansion will be increasing the lobby to four times its present size, a new admitting area with private waiting room, increasing the size of physical therapy and X-ray, a new medical records library and additional administrative and business offices.

Other areas to be expanded include dietary kitchens, employe cafeteria, Service League quarters, library and lounge for physicians, gift shop and research areas. Seven more elevators will be added in the two buildings.

Parking for an additional 250 cars will be constructed. Additional boilers and air conditioning equipment also will be added.

"OUR PRESENT building was constructed with expansion in mind. This means that we will have to do practically no remodeling of existing facilities," Dr. Nesset said.

Lutheran General opened in January, 1960. Since then, over 140,000 people have been served by the hospital as inpatients, emergencies and outpatients. Over 10,000 babies have been delivered.

Funds for the expansion are expected to be received from Federal grants, funds on hand, mortgages and a community fund drive. Details of the fund drive will be announced later.

Families Without Measles Hold to Social Schedules

Sidelights Of Arlington Heights

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298 Elsie Jedd, CL 3-5982

It's blossom time again, and measles are blooming brightly in many local homes. Although the speckled pip cancelled several spring vacation trips and postponed a few birthday celebrations, it didn't affect the immunity set who traveled and partied on schedule. Luckily for the Sidelight column there are more healthy families in town than contagious ones, and there are quite a few with new Florida tans.

Besides being handy for traveling or breaking out in a rash, spring vacations are equally convenient for taking leave of one's tonsils. Two on the ice cream circuit last week were Jim and Scott Letzel, 1237 N. Chestnut, who enjoyed jillions of get-well cards from neighborhood friends, and a clinical "bon voyage" party Easter Day.

After the big family farewell in their honor on the holiday, the boys could hardly announce any last - minute change of plans, so off they went Monday and out they (the tonsils) came Tuesday. Jim and Scott are recuperating well and will be back in school soon.

THE HOWARD Hansen family, 730 S. Mitchell, was recently complete with Grandma, collegiate son, and a brother and his family, here to spend the holiday weekend and witness an Easter confirmation. Among the transient Hansens were Howard's brother, Melvin, and his family, who arrived from Minneapolis with Grandma Hansen, also of that city.

Joining the traffic jam on the welcome mat was the local Hansens' son, Bob, home for the spring vacation week from William Penn University in Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Easter Day Miss Barbara was among the 106 new communicants received into the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights. Following the family celebration after church and despite the temptation to be snow-bound here, the Minneapolis branch of the family headed for home. Bob remained for the rest of the week, returning to the Iowa campus Sunday night. This week there's hardly enough Hansens to go 'round at 730 S. Mitchell.

Mrs. James Bieser and the children came home to 815 W. George Sunday evening after spending the spring vacation week with the children's grandparents in downstate Brighton and Centralia. They visited Mrs. Bieser's parents, the Byron Towses of Brighton, the first part of the week, then finished the vacation time with the senior Biesers in Centralia.

THE JUNIOR William Kopplins, 410 W. Wing, the senior William Kopplins, 515 W. Euclid, and the junior - junior Bill Kopplin of the Wing Street address combined efforts to raise a bit of local dust last Wednesday. In the morning young Bill, ending a 5-day Easter vacation from The Citadel in South Carolina, farewelled his parents who that evening welcomed his grandparents home from their winter-long stay in Youngtown, Ariz.

The description, "tall, erect certainly applies to Bill, but it and with a military bearing" fits his Grandpa Kopplin just as well. The family isn't confused, though; Grandpa's the one in the 10-gallon hat. He adopted the Western bonnet early in his Arizona stay, the two are now inseparable, and they must have been appropriate during Sunday's 10-gallon rain.

The James Yates family, 903 N. Vail, came home last Monday evening from an Easter weekend visit in Fling, Mich., with Mrs. Yates' sister and brother - in - law, the William Morrisseys. With them was Mrs. Yates' and Mrs. Morrissey's mother, Mrs. George Zachariasen of Elm Grove, Wis., with whom the Yates had spent the Palm Sunday weekend. She remained in Flint for a longer stay with the Morrisseys when her Arlington Heights children left for home.

Waiting for the rest of the family at 903 N. Vail was Sue, a freshman in the University of Wisconsin, who was beginning her Easter week vacation. She returned to Madison Sunday.

EXHAUSTIVE research has turned up one Arlington Heights family who admit to being overjoyed with the local Easter snow storm. They are the Dayton Browns, 603 N. Forrest, who were sunning in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., at the time. Neighbors and other chilled friends of the Browns had their semisweet revenge Sunday evening when the vacationers returned home to weather almost as disagreeable as Easter's.

The Brown family, now a tan family after two weeks in the Sunshine State, detoured to Tampa to spend the last few days in Florida with the senior Browns at Long Boat Key.

Lisa Perschbacher came home to 310 N. Derbyshire Monday night from an Easter week vacation in suburban Fort Lauderdale with her grandmother, Mrs. B. Larsen. While Lisa was enjoying capital weather in Florida, her brother, Rex, was enjoying everything but the capital's weather in Washington, D. C. where a group of Arlington High School seniors spent their spring vacation.

Another Florida fan is Mrs. Agnes Day, who makes her home with her daughter and family, the Arthur Langerocks, 414 N. Haddow. Mrs. Day is enjoying an extended stay in Miami Shores with long-time friends and former schoolmates. During her visit she has had reunions with other school friends, too, and at a recent party there were eight one-time grammar school "kids" reminiscing together. It might have been a record — these "kids" were in school with each other 57 years ago!

THE LOUIS Schomburg family, 305 S. Evergreen, spent the past weekend campus-touring at Bradley University and Western Illinois University. Lynne, next year's college freshman of the Schomburg family, is still undecided, but decidedly in favor of higher education.

An Easter Sunday celebration with lots of friends and relatives brought birthday congratulations to the host, Kurt Meyer, 705 N. Vail, and to two of his children, Pam and Kenneth, all with early April birthdyas. Pam was 11 Monday, Kenneth was 14 Sunday and their Dad was non-commital April 2.

There's consecutive April birthdays in the Edwin Bublitz family, too, and a family party Thursday night at 108 S. Evergreen brought congratulations to a wide-eyed David, celebrating his first birthday, and to his big brother, Kenneth, who was 15 years old next day. Among party guests were the children's grandparents, the Arthur Papes of Palatine, and uncles, Hans and Charles Johnson, here from Chicago with their families.

FRIDAY NIGHT Grandpa and Grandma Pape came back again for a Kenny-only celebration. David didn't mind; he was still a little tired from the night before.

A pair of late March birthdays in the Albert Goeppinger family, 416 S. Dale, were not celebrated at a single party although Terry's Dad would most certainly have been welcome at her giggle fest with 10 school and neighborhood friends. The girls enjoyed a Saturday afternoon celebration of Terry's March 23 birthday. It was her sixth.

A week and a day later Terry's Dad marked his somethingth birthday at a dinner-out party.

Joan Pagliai celebrated her eighth birthday March 24 with eight school friends at a late afternoon party in her home, 442 S. Kennicott. Almost as her young guests went out the door at party's end, Joan's grandparents came in to begin part two of the celebration. Here from Elmwood Park were the George Piemonts, joining the senior Pagliais from Chicago in wishing Joan a happy day.

MANY Stonegate and Scarsdale families went south with their children during spring Christys, 505 S. Belmont, and school vacation. The Lowell F. Christys, 505 S. Belmont and son, Lowell Jr., vacationed for eight days on Dauphin Island, Alabama, and en route home, stopped in St. Louis to visit their daughter, Linda.

The J. Brown Hardisons, 347 Burton, and daughter Linda, left March 23, for Daytona Beach, where they met their elder daughter, Linda, a Wittenberg College student. Daytona was one of the favorite vacation spots for college students, and the Hardisons enjoyed meeting many of the Wittenberg classmates of their daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Wilkins, 751 S. Belmont, are just back from a month's stay in the Boca Raton hotel. During Easter week, they went to Nassau to be with her daughter, Barbara Langos, who was there with friends during her spring vacation from Pinecrest Preparatory school in Fort Lauderdale.

While they were away, Mrs. Wilkins learned her elder son, Alfred, who recently took a position with Bauer and Black Company in Chicago, has been transferred to Bowling Green, Ky., for a 6-month period.

The Donald Meads, 509 S. Lincoln, and son, Donald, arrived home Monday from a 10-day vacation in Hallandale, Fla.

MISS PAT O'Connell, daughter of the Frank O'Connells, 516 S. Belmont, and two of her Arlington High School classmates, Miss Christine Thackery and Miss Jean Collins, spent spring vacation in Baltimore with Miss Thackery's sister and brother-in-law, the Terry Sandersons.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Knorr, 404 S. Bristol, took their three children, Mark, Janis and Bryce, on a 10-day motor trip to New Orleans and to Dauphin Island. While in New Orleans, they stayed in the Fontainebleau Hotel from where they took sightseeing trips through that historic city. At Dauphin Island, they golfed and visited the vacationing Christy family from Scarsdale who were there at the same time.

The John Sullivans, 211 S. Stratford, and their six children spent last week in St. Petersburg, Fla., where they visited their former Stonegate neighbor, Mrs. Polly Owen.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kramer, 1717 Kensington, and daughter, Susan, spent 10 days vacationing at the Fontainebleau in Miami Beach. While in Florida, Susan celebrated her 14th birthday at a gala party in the hotel's dining room. Joining her for her birthday party was an Arlington Heights friend, Pam Pokrita, who was vacationing in Florida with her parents.

THE ALFRED Wilcox family, 210 S. Brighton, prefer the ski slopes to the sea shore, and took off for Vail, Colo., where they found skiing conditions perfect with plenty of snow and lots of sunshine. Their children, George, Michelle and Gregory, accompanied them, and their eldest daughter, Joan, a Mills College student, came from California to join her family for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Glow, 603 S. Belmont, returned to Arlington Heights Friday after spending the winter in California. They lived in Pasadena during the four months they were in California, and enjoyed visits with their daughters and their families, both of whom live in California. Nita, who is Mrs. Clyde Brictson, lives in Los Angeles and Pricilla, who is Mrs. Edward Reading, lives in San Diego.

Before returning home, the week visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Swen Forsberg, 922 S. Beverly, and their children recently spent a long week-

Glows flew to Hawaii for a 2-end at the Wagon Wheel in Rockton.

The G. William Paines, 519 S Pine, spent the past five days in their former home town of Columbus, Ind., visiting Mr. and Mrs. Norbert E. Sprouse.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Gardner, 631 S. Lincoln, spent the weekend in Lagoda, Ind., at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Lyle Gardner. The senior Mrs. Gardner had just returned from a vacation in Phoenix and accompanied them back to her home.

MRS. ROBERT K. Tindall, 356 S. Beverly, took her children, Rick and Marcia, to Springfield, Mo. to spend a week visiting her brothers, R. P. Hardin and P. C. and Mrs. Hardin.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Styron, 305 S. Windsor, celebrated her birthday and their 22nd wedding anniversary Saturday with friends at a dinner party in their home.

Mrs. Nathaniel Irwin, 329 S. Stratford, and her daughters, Nancy and Marilyn, spent last week in Hampton, Iowa, visiting her parents, the H. V. Walsers.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lussow, 402 S. Gibbons, are home from a 2-week vacation in Florida where they divided their stay between Sarasota and Pompano Beach. While in Sarasota, they visited former Stonegate neighbors, the Chester Moores, and in Pompano Beach, were joined by their son, Fred, a student at Indiana University.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Auer, 202 S. Stratford, were in Champaign over the weekend, where Mr. Auer participated in the Elks State Bowling Tournament.

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall

CLearbrook 5-2936

Mr. and Mrs. William Bayuk, 408 S. Forrest, were almost prophetic in choosing the time for a vacation in Florida. They left from O'Hare the Thursday before Easter and were basking in sunshine when their Arlington Acres neighbors were shoveling snow. Bill and Jean made their first stop Tampa, rented a car there and drove to Sarasota, where they stayed at the hotel which housed the White Sox. Their hopes to see a game weren't realized because of continuing rain, but Bill did get a chance to visit a friend who handles public relations for the ball club.

From Sarasota they drove across the state, with short stays at West Palm Springs and Pompano and stops of several days each at Fort Lauderdale and Miami, where Bill swam and Joan soaked up the sunshine.

The Bayuk children, Karen, David and Mark enjoyed their parents' "second honeymoon" staying with Grandma and Grandpa Niemz in Edgebrook.

ANOTHER AREA family back home after an Easter week vacation is that of the Dexter Ashbrooks, 416 S. Forrest, who crowded in a week of traveling and visiting without leaving the state. Time was spent with the senior Ashbrooks in Normal, with Marjorie's mother, Mrs. Earl Howell in Princeton, and with Dexter's brother, Jim in Washington. While the Easter egg hunt in Washington, D.C., was canceled because of snow, the people of Washington, Ill., are made of sterner stuff and the Easter egg hunt at the Jim Ashbrook home was simply moved indoors to the basement. The family returned home Sunday, in time for Janie and Susan to get back to school and Nancy to her pre-school playmates.

Scott Kunz, who marked his fourth birthday April 2, celebrated often enough to last several more birthdays. The festivities started at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Kunz in Elmwood Park, on Easter, where the family gathered for dinner. In keeping with the current fad, Scott's cake was decorated ala Beatles. When the big day arrived, Scott persuaded his mother to take him to lunch and the celebration ended with cake and ice cream that evening for Grandma Kunz, sisters, Pam, Sandy and Debby, brother Mark, family friends, the Jim Haanels of Arlington Heights and Nancy Selvaggio, a friend of Pam's who stayed overnight.

Scott is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kunz, 505 S. Forrest.

IN HONOR of Michael Smith's 13th birthday April 1, his parents, the Gary Smiths, 517 S. Phelps, hosted a family party Sunday evening. Guests were his grandparents, Mrs. Emily Smith of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. Aden Wilson of Glen Ellyn, a great-uncle and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Feuerhaken of Chicago and Miss Ann Feuerhaken of Glen Ellyn.

Martin De Stephanis, 532 S. Waterman, 16 April 2, chose to mark the day quietly with cake and ice cream shared with members of his immediate family.

Michael Morgan's second birthday March 31 was celebrated on Easter at the home of his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Geist of Winnetka. Completing the family group were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morgan, 412 S. Forrest, and his sister, Lisa. (A

Donate Refrigerators

Two refrigerators for use on the third and fourth floors of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, were donated last week by the Palatine Registered Nurses Club and their Penny Pot Fund.

Mrs. Fred Loss, director of nursing service at the hospital and a member of the Palatine club, advised the group that the gift of refrigerators would benefit the most number of patients.

In December of 1960, the club through its Penny Pot Fund purchase visual aids for the hospital to aid doctors in making diagnoses and for use in lectures and training sessions. These included cameras, projectors and screen.

The gifts of refrigerators and visual aids were in addition to the $5,000 pledge to the hospital which the Palatine Nurses made and fulfilled.

The Penny Pots were placed in various stores so the public could make gifts. (B9

Mrs. Loss to Quit As Nurse Director

MRS. MARTHA B. LOSS

Mrs. Martha B. Loss, director of nursing service for Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, since its opening in 1959, will resign from her position for personal reasons on or about June 1, 1964.

Her resignation has been accepted by the hospital with sincere regrets, according to Alan B. Campbell, hospital administrator.

Mrs. Loss has been a tremendous asset to the hospital both prior to its opening in December, 1959, and during the subsequent years of its organization and development, Campbell said.

A highlight in Mrs. Loss' career at Northwest Community Hospital was the publication of a 250-page comprehensive nursing manual which later was requested by and sent to over 550 hospitals in all 50 states and several foreign countries.

A search is under way for a qualified successor, the administrator said. (B9

Q. When invited to someone's home and the hostess has small dishes of potato chips and peanuts placed on tables about the room, is it proper for a guest to help himself without being asked?

A. Since obviously these dishes are there for the guests, it is quite all right to help yourself.

SOUTH PALATINE

Brownies in South Palatine have all been bustling, busy hostesses giving "friendmaker" parties to acquaint first-grade girls with the Brownie program. Held jointly by troops in the respective schools, the parties combined a program of flag ceremony, songs, Promise, skits and refreshments, often cookies baked by the girls. The parties incorporated the Brownie B's: BE a friend maker, BE a discoverer, and BE a ready helper.

Troops who participated were: Plum Grove School, March 17, Troop 538 with leaders Mrs. R. Kearns and Mrs. Fred Brown; and Troop 646, with leaders Mrs. Albert Timroth, Mrs. Howard Jacobsen and Mrs. E. A. Scholin; Pleasant Hills School, March 17, Troop 614 with leaders Mrs. Charles Kumle, Mrs. Yvonne Kreml, and Mrs. William Larson; and Troop 583 with Mrs. Kenneth Carroll and Mrs. Raymond Taylor helping. Both troops were assisted by Troop Organizer Mrs. Frank Chase.

At Paddock School March 18, hostesses were Troop 905 with leaders Mrs. J. Kenneth Lucas and Mrs. Richard Cutter; and Troop 209 with leaders Mrs. W. G. Vaughn and Mrs. Richard Lawrenz. Troop Organizer Mrs. Robert Parker assisted this group.

At Marion Jordan School March 18, the party was given by Troop 305 with leaders Mrs. W. Osborne and Mrs. A. J. Osterman; Troop 959 with leaders Mrs. John Hamilton and Mrs. Ann Barnor; and Troop 961 with leaders Miss Sue Hamilton and Mrs. Sharley Kissner.

HOFFMAN ESTATES-SCHAUMBURG

Children at the Mark Lund Hilltop Home in Bloomingdale will be recipients of a service project by Junior Troop 649, led by Mrs. F. White. Gift-wrapped toys and treats will be delivered this week to the young handicapped residents.

Colorful Easter eggs decorated by Brownie Troop 925 were an Easter treat for the children's section at Northwest Community Hospital. During Easter vacation this Campanelli School troop visited the Mars candy factory in Chicago.

Touring Little City in Palatine March 18 were Brownies from Troop 949. They saw the living facilities in the cottages and met several girls with knitting and sewing interests.

Ice skating at the Polar Dome in Dundee was a recent outing enjoyed by Troop 662. The Cadettes, accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Lehman, skated after school and had supper at McDonald's.

A roller-skating party at the Rollarena in Wheaton this week was planned by Brownie Troops 861 and 949, Fairview School.

Junior Troop 884 from Blackhawk School recently toured the Salerno Baking Company in Niles. The tour showed them how cookies are made, from the arrival of ingredients in carloads to the packaging of the finished product.

ROLLING MEADOWS

Cadettes of Troop 812 recently went on an overnight trip to Camp Pine where they worked on the Outdoor Safety badge, one of the steps in earning the Challenge of Emergency Preparedness.

They also went ice skating March 19 at the Polar Dome in Dundee. The girls greatly enjoyed both occasions.

NORTH PALATINE

Girl Scout troops, including Brownie troops, from St. Theresa School attended Mass and Communion in a body March 7. After the services they went to Deer Grove where they had breakfast. Spring was the theme of a Scouts' Own presented by the Junior troops. The outing was climaxed with a hike.

The St. Thomas of Villanova Girl Scouts went to the Goodman Theatre by bus March 7 where they saw the production of "Treasure Island." The girls, accompanied by their leaders, enjoyed the trip very much.

Attending the March 22 performance of "Treasure Island" were Junior Scouts from Troop 421 of Palatine, led by Mrs. W. Russow, and Troop 520 of Mount Prospect.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE

All sixth grade girls of Elk Grove Village interested in becoming Cadette Scouts in September, and their mothers, are invited to the meeting of Cadette Troop 129 at Grove Junior High Tuesday evening, April 14, from 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. All leaders of Junior Scout troops in the Village are also invited.

A special feature of the meeting will be the showing of slides of the Girl Scout Cabana in Cuernavaca, Mexico by the Misses Jane Reardon and Mary Wingfield of the Long Tree Council of Oak Park. They will speak on the opportunities and benefits offered older girls in scouting.

Fifteen girls of Junior Troop 879, Clearmont School, visited the Countryside Art Gallery in Arlington Heights March 31, where they heard William Wimmer, artist, explain various methods of painting and sculpturing. They were accompanied by leaders Mrs. R. Hischke, Mrs. G. Mello and Mrs. R. Kroll. (B9

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

New groups of Blue Birds will be organized in Arlington Heights during the month of April. Schools will be receiving letters to go home with each first grade girl and parties are being planned for an hour after school to acquaint the girls with the Camp Fire program.

There will be two mother's meetings to help form the new groups. The meetings will be on Tuesday, April 21 and Tuesday, April 28, in Pioneer Park Auditorium from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. It is most important that each mother of a prospective new blue bird be at one of these meetings, as there will be no groups formed again until next year.

Anyone who wants further information may call group organization chairman, Mrs. Ralph Hauptly, CL 3-4807.

ON SATURDAY, March 2 the Gay Gazelles Blue Bird Group visited the Hinsdale Health Museum where they were shown a Walt Disney movie on health and saw "Valeda," the $25,000 "talking glass lady."

Mrs. Arthur Krause, leader, Mrs. Frank Juzel, co-leader and Mrs. Diane Tumpa made the trip with the girls.

A tour of the Arlington Heights Municipal Building was made by the Ka-Elu-Ta-Ci Camp Frie group on March 24. The girls were shown the finance building and the police departments; of special interest was the police firing range and radio dispatch room. (B9

'Y' Mermaid Mamas Plan Aquatic Show

There is an undercurrent of excitement these days around Northwest Suburban YMCA as unusual swim attire and odd antics in the pool arouse curiosity. What's brewing? The Mermaid Mamas Synchronized Swim Club is "cooking" up a water show.

The "Mamas," as they call themselves, are a club of married women who have combined motherhood and synchronized swimming with great enthusiasm. The gamut of their interests runs from "catalinas" and cavities to "dolfins" and diapers.

THIS UNIQUE club is presenting its first water show, "Rippling Rhythms," at 7:30 p.m. the evenings of May 2, 3 and 10. As the title suggests, the show is based on various musical rhythms from bossa nova to ballet, can-can to the march tempo.

Among the 60 participants in the show are two ballet classes of Mrs. Judy Hooper. Girls 9-13 years and 14 to 17 have prepared several numbers, and a beginning women's class, under coaching of Helen Coryell, women and girls director of the "Y," are presenting a floating number, "Kaleidoscope." The effect desired is achieved by wearing Italian lights.

Tickets are now available in the "Y" lobby, 300 E. Northwest Highway, Des Plaines, or from any of the participants. A limited supply of tickets will be available at the door. (B9

Contest Scheduled For Color Guards

The Illinois chapter of the Junior All-American Drum Corps and Band Assn will sponsor a color guard competition at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Prospect High School, Mount Prospect.

The 21 units who have accepted the invitation to compete are members of the Mid-west Color Guard Assn. Many of them hold local titles and some are also national champions.

During the winter, these guards travel many hundreds of miles to compete in various contests.

ONE OF THE guards that will be competing is the Guardsmen, whose members come from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Hoffman Estates, Prospect Heights, Des Plaines, and other northwest suburbs. The unit is the color guard of the Guardsmen Junior Drum and Bugle Corps, which has paraded in Barrington, Addison, Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect in the past several years.

The color guard, consisting of 10 girls between the ages of 10 and 16 has competed in Wisconsin and Illinois. Recently the members participated in Madison, Wis., Spring Spectacle of Music. They have also taken several second places this year.

The guard is instructed by Hank Granna. Its managers are R. Lidig and Earl L. Lindberg. In competition members are handled by their sergeant, Judy Miller of Rolling Meadows. (B9

Community Club Lunch Draws Over 50 Women

"The American woman is maturing. She does not attempt to emulate anyone and at last is coming into her own. She may like flowered sheets and if need be she learns to use the equipment to iron them," Roberta Roseberry told the over 90 women listeners at Mondays benefit luncheon at Poppe's Alpine House in Lake Zurich. In her talk, "Oops, Madam, Your Ego is Showing," the speaker admitted the many demands on her have made the American woman nervous and energetic. Asking today's woman to survey herself through a five-way mirror, emphasizing the physical, emotional, spiritual, social and the over-all picture, she was told: "Look in the mirror at yourself and find the real you. Is what you see really integrated?"

Preceding the talk, Community Club President Mrs. Robert Taylor thanked all for their help, mentioning Mrs. Jack Walgren, who headed ticket sales and Mrs. Jon Henricks, who was in charge of posters.

Bubbling with her usual effervescence Mrs. Joseph Young presented the formal welcome and Mrs. Richard Ireland gave out gifts to Pat Harding, Woody Edmunds, Esther Korbelik, Helen Lindemer, Pat Dugan, Barbara Schell, Mrs. Joseph Young Sr., Helen Knaack, Dorothy Wingquist and June Rodjimek.

The program opened with several numbers by Ela-Vernon guitar playing students who are members of a folk song club, with Scott Wilder the president. Vocal numbers were by Diane Scheffner and Betty Stockman.

LONG GROVE Area Committee for Family Guidance needs $3,000 to pay for a year of counseling service through its affiliation with Highland Park Family Service. At least one fourth of the amount must be made available before Highland Park will begin its aid to the Kildeer School district. This amount will provide three weekly hours of counseling. If the community needs more, the price must go up.

Mrs. Martha Winch, executive director of Highland Park Family Service, explained the plan in detail at Sunday's reception at the school's all-purpose room. She described the staff's work to be divided into three concerns: marriage problems; parent - child difficulties; an individual's personal adjustments. Help will be provided by nine psychiatric social workers. The $3,000 fee does not provide for sessions with a psychiatrist.

"Most of people's troubles are due to poor communication," Mrs. Winch told listeners. "Often we are to one another like ships that pass in the night. In our service we do not tell people what to do but try to help them understand themselves and put things in proper perspective. Our goals are to strengthen family life and help an individual lead a personally satisfying and socially useful life. We supplement and complement the church, never attempting to take its role in the community." Appearing at the reception with Mrs. Winch were three other staff members.

IN HIS BRIEF talk, President James Webster stated the Long Grove Family Guidance plan to be "our effort to be a good neighbor." "Tell your friends about us," he urged. "We need your help." He recalled that more than half of Rev. Alfred Williams' time here used to be spent in counseling.

"What became of the missing sheet of signatures?" is what proponents of the Long Grove Park District are asking. "We thought we had 115 signers on our petition." A group of leaders in our village's drive to secure the right to hold a referendum on a park district met March 30 at Kildeer School to decide on a course of action. The dilemma resulted from Circuit Court Judge Minard Hulse's action denying Long Grove petition to hold an election because of an insufficient number of signatures. Required are 100. Hulse said a new petition must now be filed.

Meanwhile—the baffling mystery concerning the missing signatures continues — In a park district referendum held Nov. 5, 1960, the measure was lost by four votes.

Four new residents of Boschome Estates area were among the 15 guests at the Newcomers Club women's card party March 31 at the home of Mrs. Wayne Pearce. The committee in charge included Mrs. Everett Lewis, Mrs. Pearce and Mrs. Ed Kelley.

At a meeting held April 2 at Mrs. Fred Dahlberg's home Women's Guild board members made plans to hold a cake and games party at Bensenville Home on May 6. Mrs. Nicholas Nickl, in charge of arrangements, says that prizes for men and women will be much appreciated and that they be left in the church lounge. Those who would like to bake a cake for the senior citizens are asked to call Sue. The evening circle will meet Monday April 13 at the home of Mrs. David Terrill.

Members at the board meeting discussed the "Friendly Town" project of the Chicago Missionary Society through which the Guild had planned to bring children, aged 6 thru 11, out from Chicago for a vacation with volunteer families, the vacation period to run from July 10 - 24. Reservations with the missionary society are to be in by May 15. Those interested in making their home a vacation spot for a Chicago child are asked to contact Chairman Mrs. Richard Ireland. She will contact an authority from Wilmette who has had much experience as a hostess mother in similar projects and will come to Long Grove to speak to the volunteers. Guild board members agreed there should first be an informational meeting before definite plans to proceed with the project be continued.

IF THERE is general upheaval at the Charles Anstrands', it is because the family is losing no time in packing, preparing to move by the end of April. They have sold their Mardan Estates home to Glenview residents and have rented a house in Libertyville where Chuck will be near his work at the International Minerals and Chemical Corp. The firm is planning to build in the area in the coming year.

A farewell gift was presented to Barbara by 10 of her friends who were invited to Mrs. Stewart Richmond's home April 2 for a bridge luncheon.

The Alaskan quake caused mental tremors to invade the area in the concern for the Jack Deagans' daughter, Pat and family, who live in Haines, 400 miles east of Anchorage. "They are all right; they felt only a slight tremor," John Deagan and his wife of Urbana drove home last weekend to be with the family.

"War is more than a shooting match and can be waged in politics. The communists are waging warfare now and our country isn't countering it effectively," Commander Frank Barnett told his audience at the seminar the Heinz Loefflers and the Charles Johnsons attended April 2 at Irelands' Restaurant in Chicago. The speaker is commander of the National Strategy Information Center's Naval Reserve Supply Unit 9-7.

Heinz Loeffler now wears four stripes on his sleeve, having been conferred with the rank of captain.

PROBABLY no one in Long Grove is more susceptible to the lures of Hawaii than the A. W. Bohnes, who have returned recently from their third vacation to the islands. This time they divided their stay between Waiohai, on the island of Kauai, and Hana on Maui. Travel by train and boat extended the leisure to a month, with a delightful stay in San Francisco. Only "fly in the ointment" was their concern over "Putsy," their English Springer Spaniel, who was so heartbroken he became ill during their absence.

To Wewa Hitchika near Panama City went Mrs. Roswell Ryan to visit her mother, Mrs. A. W. Briscoe, ill at 86 with an ailing heart. En route Anne Mae stopped at Southern Methodist University in Dallas to be joined by son Mike, a sophomore. Florida was a fairyland, according to her story. "Weather was so delightful we drove our convertible with the top down," she says, "and everywhere there were camelias, azaleas, wisteria and jonquils." Many stops were made visiting Florida and Texas friends and relatives.

The Bert Wilds, who are world travelers naively report they've had their first look at the Ozarks. They are home after a two-week visit to Oklahoma City to visit their daughter and family. "One usually receives the impression Oklahoma is dry and arid," says Charlene, "but especially during our stay at our daughter's lake home outside Tulsa we were delighted to receive a different impression."

BRAVELY leaving town in a blizzard, the Art Edmunds found conditions calmed down as they continued on their way during their pre-Easter journey toward Atlanta to see Betty's mother, Mrs. Anne Sewell. Stopping in Jeffersonville, Ky., they called on the Rev. and Mrs. J. V. Carlisle whose church they had attended 17 years ago in Rolla, Mo., during their first years as man and wife. A delight for the family while overnighting in Gatlinburg was to swim in a bubble-topped swimming pool. They picnicked in the Smokies, went hiking near Cave's Cove and explored the mountain area originally tracted out to homesteaders.

Mrs. Fay Fiscus left March 28 by plane for Sioux City and will be gone two weeks, visiting friends and relatives back home. In Sioux City there will be a reunion with her brother Clifford Tague of Los Angeles and in Storm Lake she will visit a son, Fred.

An Easter trip for Mrs. David Edmunds and children consisted of a visit with her parents, the J. M. Dowells near Champaign, also seeing her brother John and his new bride.

Combining business with pleasure, the Clifford Marxes returned home from a short stay in Detroit.

JUDY CALDER'S home was the scene of a Saturday luncheon for seven local seventh and eighth grade youth fellowship members and seven guests from a similar group of the Arlington Heights United Church of Christ. Barbara Coffin provided the dessert for the occasion which followed a business session at Long Grove Church, Ralph Edgar overseeing the activities.

Michael Bluett and Megan Smith will be among the 42 members who will be confirmed at St. Mary Church, Buffalo Grove, the last of the month.

Couples' bridge gatherings included the party hosted Sunday by the A. G. Westons. Making up the play were the William Salzmans, Jim Websters and the Clifford Marxes.

Enameling on copper provided fascinating fun for the art group Thursday. Mrs. Clifford Marx, Mrs. Heinz Loeffler, Mrs. John Rakow and Mrs. Howard Bauer were surprised to see a former member and one time resident of this area, Mrs. Millard Eiseman, now of Libertyville.

Gathering around the Walter Gosswillers' Easter dining table were the George Umbdenstocks. Also recent dinner guests were the Oswald Weidners of Waukegan and the Art Moldenhauers of Wheeling, with "crazy pinochle" providing the diversion.

DATES TO remember: Kildeer School's annual Spring Concert will be held April 17. On May 23 the firemen will hold their dance.

According to the Cy Fannings, the wild geese flew over Long Grove last week. The Charles Schaefers are impatient for spring, admitting they are behind in the dormant spraying of their large orchard, the first spray of the season usually having been applied in March.

Mononucleosis and hepatitis are twin giants that seem to be clouding up spring-like atmosphere, many Ela-Vernonites being laid up. Latest victims are Bonny Salzman, home from St. Therese Hospital and Tom Hoyne, whose attack seems comparatively light. Mrs. Walter Saunders has donned a nurse's cap; community responsibilities have relinquished her now to her greater duty that of cheering her husband, Huck, while he struggles with hepatitis. Ed Ernst, who recently underwent surgery in St. Therese Hospital, is back at his job at Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago.

VISITORS at the Tony Bergs' bring reports of Gwen's continued improvement in health; Mrs. Alfred Benavides of Aptakisic Road has had to be admitted for extended treatment at Waukegan Sanitarium; and Frank Hurley is home, where he and Marie will be able to celebrate their wedding anniversary April 12.

Mitchell Bluett's mother will bake his cake and the top will look like a circus ring for his seventh birthday April 11. Also wishes to Marsha Green, Helen Rodewald and John Peterson, April 9; Jean Herrick, 10th; Susan Kieser, 11th; and to Malcolm Shroyer, 13th.

School board election is this Saturday. Polls at Kildeer School will be open from 12 to 7 p.m.

A fabulous vacation is reported by Hildegarde and Manning Wertheimer, 600 Sycamore Lane, who began their trip to California on Feb. 4. Joining them was Hildegarde's brother, Bill Willert of Norridge Park. En route they visited friends in Phoenix and once in California they visited many friends, all former Chicagoans, in Pasadena, Arcadia, Long Beach, Fullerton, Seal Beach and Glendale. Also included on their agenda were Disneyland and Knott's Berry Farm.

The islands of Hawaii beckoned the travelers and they boarded the Liner Lurline on which they were wined and dined in a manner of complete luxury. They participated in the shipboard activities and Hildegarde received a diploma after a successful course on how to do the hula.

The following three weeks were filled with sunshine, gaity and sightseeing tours. On the Island of Oahu they stayed at the Reese Tower Hotel on Waikiki Beach; in Honolulu they visited Pearl Harbor and Kokoli Kokoli Pass of World War II. There were pineapple and sugar plantations and banana groves to be seen. They were also able to visit many military installations; they boarded the U.S.S. Constellation; went through the Submarine base and saw three nuclear submarines. The Wertheimers were escorted at Scofield Army Air Base by friends, Senior M. Sgt. and Mrs. Richard Rundblad.

The Wertheimers even attended a luau at the Hilton Hawaiian Village before taking a jet back to California and on to Las Vegas. While there they saw the famed night shows, including the Follies Bergere and such celebreties as Milton Berle, Mitzie Gaynor, Al Morgan and the Vagabonds.

On the trip home they stopped in Springfield, Mo. to visit relatives and friends and in St. Louis before winding up their nine-week holiday.

BERNICE AND Tom Gain, 45 Keswick Road, spent Easter weekend in Missouri, visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Goeke of Florissant and Tom Cain, and great-grandmother, Mrs. Emma Cain, of St. Louis.

An April 1 birthday was celebrated on Easter by Gerald Galloway, son of Violet and Grant Galloway of 960 Carswell. Wishing Gerald a happy eighth birthday were his brothers, Glen and Gordon, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reves of Chicago.

Mrs. Julia Stanley is home at 281 Peach Tree Lane after undergoing surgery in Illinois Masonic Hospital.

Christened in Queen of the Rosary Church on Easter was Tracy Lynn, infant daughter of Lynn and Al Hattendorf of 265 Mimosa Lane. Attending the services officated by Fr. J. Ward Morrison were the godparents, Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Britt of Chicago. The twofold occasion was feted with a dinner party later in the evening attended by friends and relatives, including grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Trott of Lincolnwood, and great-grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Feichtner of Glenview.

Ladies bridge club met Thursday evening at Millie Durbin's, 610 Magnolia Lane, residence. Guests were neighbors, Barbara Fichtner, Yvonne Bowman and "Mike" Clarbour.

JUDY AND ED Gloppen, 228 Fern Drive, have been entertaining out-of-town guests. Arriving for Easter were Judy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Feind of Battle Creek, whose arrival was feted with a special Easter dinner also attended by Ed's mother, Mrs. Walter Gloppen of Arlington Heights. Mr. Feind returned home Monday, however, Mrs. Feind remained for the week.

Shoulder surgery confined Carol De Camp, 235 Fern Drive, in West Suburban Hospital, Oak Park, however, she is now at home.

Primary Vote Tuesday

Registration Up in Suburbs

A total of 78,465 voters in five northwest suburban townships are eligible to vote in Tuesday's primary election, according to figures released this week by the county clerk's office.

This represents an over-all increase of 45 per cent since 1960 in the number of registered voters in the northwest area.

Most dramatic increase in voters registration was Schaumburg Township with 7,221 — a 92 per cent jump over 1960. The township includes the villages of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg.

ALSO SHOWING marked growth over 1960 was Elk Grove Township, whose 16,960 registered voters represent a 77 per cent increase. Close behind was Hanover Township, up 75 per cent with a total of 6,996 voters.

Elk Grove includes south Mount Prospect and all of Elk Grove Village; Hanover includes the new communities of Hanover Park and Streamwood.

Wheeling Township's registration of 32,028 is 35 per cent higher than 1960. This total includes Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Prospect Heights, and North Mount Prospect.

Smallest gain in voters was Palatine Township with 15,260 — up 15 per cent over four years ago. The township includes Rolling Meadows, Palatine, and Inverness.

ALL THE action in Tuesday's election will be on the Republican side. The GOP has hot contests in many races; Democrats have reslated incumbents for most offices.

The major Republican contest pits Charles H. Percy against William J. Scott for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. The winner will oppose the Democratic incumbent, Gov. Otto Kerner, next November.

Both state campaign managers in this crucial race are northwest suburban committeemen. Managing Percy's race is Thomas J. Houser, Wheeling Township Republican Committeeman, while Alex MacArthur, Palatine Township Committeeman, heads the Scott forces.

Percy has been endorsed by the Regular GOP organizations in Wheeling, Elk Grove, and Hanover Townships while the Palatine GOP has given its nod to Scott. The Schaumburg Township organization, divided between the two candidates, has stayed officially neutral.

PRIMARY voters will also get their chance to express a preference for Presidential candidates. Sen. Barry Goldwater's only rival on the GOP ballot is Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, and President Johnson is unopposed on the Democratic side.

The ballot includes five state offices, four county offices and three Sanitary District posts, as well as delegates to state and national nominating conventions.

Polls will be open from 6 a.m. (WP to 6 p.m. (AF

Township Electors Slash Road Budget

A $242,200 budget request for 1964-65 Wheeling Township Road and bridge expenditures was slashed to $225,737 Monday night in the annual meeting of township electors.

An estimated 300 area residents attending the meeting also approved a $242,214.31 town fund budget, 1964-65 expenditures in the general assistance fund totalling $26,590 and transfer of $5,012.87 to the cemetery fund.

Of the $170,841.87 town and general assistance fund surplus, $100,000 was transferred to elementary school districts within Wheeling Township.

A MOTION TO transfer specified amounts to area mental health organizations was overruled by moderator Richard Cowan based on legal technicalities. Instead, a motion establishing a community mental health fund and transferring $25,000 surplus township funds to that fund was unanimously approved.

Calling for a reduced road and bridge fund budget, Township Auditor Russell Conklin objected to inclusion of village share levies in the proposed budget.

THE FINAL ACTION, reducing the budget by $15,000, also reduced the road and bridge tax levy from .125 per cent to .09 per cent.

The $225,737 road and bridge budget had been approved by the board of auditors at a public hearing March 31, 1964.

Failure to reinstate the township office of weed commissioner reduced the final town fund budget by $600, originally requested for operation of that office.

Highway Magazine Traces Area History

The name Barrington as applied to the township, village and road was adopted from Great Barrington, Mass., the former home of numerous early residents in northwest Cook County, reports the magazine Cook County Highways.

The township, like other Cook County townships, came into being in 1850 under the general law of 1849. The village started in 1854, when the Chicago and North Western built through the place.

There was then only one house at the station, but within a few years there were not only more houses but two settlements, divided by the tracks. On one side was Barrington and on the other Cuba, each with about 300 population.

The two were combined and incorporated by a special act of the state legislature in 1865. The name Cuba vanished from the map of Cook County but survives on a road in Wisconsin, just over the state line.

FREEMAN ROAD, in Barrington Township, probably was named for one — or perhaps all — of three early residents of that name. Samuel and W. B. Freeman served as township highway commissioners and Thomas as supervisor.

Mundhank Road — as it appears on today's maps — appears to have been named for Henry Mundhenke, who came to Barrington Township in 1847.

There were two early residents of the name of Otis, which is preserved on a road in Barrington Township. It was at the home of W. H. Otis that the first meeting to organize a school was held in 1840. C. B. Otis was a constable.

Ella Road, in Palatine Township, presumably was named for George Ela, who set up a store on the Cuba side at Barrington in 1855. (B9

Carroll Is Candidate For Nominating Meet

Illinois voters in the April 14 primary election will vote on delegates to a state nominating convention to be held June 1 in Springfield to select candidates for election in November to the post of state representative.

John W. Carroll, incumbent State Representative from the 6th District is a candidate.

After serving as secretary of the Illinois Public Aid Advisory Commission, Carroll was elected chairman.

CARROLL'S bills in the legislature have resulted in savings in public aid. In the first nine months of the current biennium, these savings amounted to 18 million dollars through ceilings on aid which were spelled out in the legislation.

Carroll passed the first lien law in Illinois history. Prior to this legislation, persons receiving public assistance were not legally responsible to repay it out of estates or other 'windfalls,' and often money went to surviving relatives who had made no attempt to help during the lifetime of the aid recipient. Savings of several millions of dollars each year are resulting from this legislation.

Public assistance recipients are also required to file a simple, certified form of financial statement through another bill sponsored by Carroll.

Through stories published in local papers, Carroll became aware of a danger to local taxpayers' interests in that park districts were not required to let bids on their spending.

CARROLL sponsored a bill requiring park districts to let bids publicly in every expenditure of $2,500 or more. The bill passed and is in effect today.

He was also instrumental in the passage of legislation allowing municipalities to rebate excess money in special assessment proceedings to the owners of the property assessed at the completion of the project.

A key bill sponsored by Carroll affecting this district is one which requires that local school districts be made parties to all zoning matters in order to guarantee them a voice in the consideration of rezonings.

REP. CARROLL

He also helped pass a bill which permits public aid department employes to report information concerning crime on the part of aid recipients to local law enforcement bodies.

He sponsored a bill which enabled Niles and Park Ridge to have their courts included in the 3rd Judicial District under the Blue Ballot court reform bills. Judge Herbert Stoffels of Park Ridge is Chief Judge for the district.

CARROLL handled passage of the sanitary district reform bills in legislature, bills which are expected to produce substantial savings to taxpayers.

He also served on the special economy committee in the closing days of the 1961 session which pared several millions from appropriation bills.

Carroll is proud of his sponsorship of the Weller Creek bills which provided more than $2 million to correct serious flooding in the area of Mount Prospect, Des Plaines and Arlington Heights. (B9

Cancer Drives Use Time-Tested Slogans

The American Cancer Society is again using its time-tried theme — "To Cure More, Give More" during its Crusade which began April 1.

In making this announcement, Mr. Frank, Northwest Suburban Unit Crusade Chairman, said the Society also would continue to use its familiar slogan — "Fight Cancer With a Checkup and a Check."

"Both slogans are meaningful," he said.

"All of us admit cancer is an urgent problem," Mr. Frank explained. "About 530,000 will develop cancer in 1964. There will be more than 280,000 deaths from the disease this year.

"In the face of this, we must waste no time in developing new cures for cancer and better detection techniques because lost time means lost lives. The Society's broad research program is geared to move ahead toward this end."

ALSO, HE said, the Society must move ahead with its education and service programs — both of which are saving lives now.

"To Cure More, Give More," according to Mr. Frank "reflects the Society's determination to reach more people with life-saving facts about cancer; provide more physicians with the latest facts about detection and treatment; to support more scientists in the growing cancer research field, and to supply more service to cancer patients."

Frank pointed out that the Society has a new focus this year — "more and better trained volunteers.

"WE ARE going to acquaint our volunteers with all the facts about cancer — how people can best protect themselves from the disease and the need for stepping-up cancer research. More effective education can save lives today. More funds for research promises an earlier solution to the cancer problem."

Last year the Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Society raised $33,531.65. "More people than ever before are aware that cancer is an emergency problem," Mr. Frank said, "I am confident we will do much better this year. The lives of some 48,000,000 Americans now alive are at stake. That is the number who will eventually develop cancer if present rates continue. When people realize this, they will understand why we say 'To Cure More, Give More." (B9

Writes Story of Firemen's Favorite Foods

by T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

A magazine entitled "Chicago," planned for distribution at the New York World's Fair, will include a feature prepared by Mrs. Henry Barker, 107 S. Kenilworth Ave., Mount Prospect, on firemen's food.

Mrs. Barker, better known as Joan, is preparing dishes from recipes used by Chicago firemen, who fill many of their non-fire-fighting hours with cooking and swapping recipes.

Joan said the recipes are representative of five ethnic groups: Negro, Irish, Polish, Italian and German.

Her task is to cook at least two copies of each recipe for photographing.

Joan said the least perfect of the two will be used in preparing the table arrangement and the best of the trials will be substituted for the final photo.

MRS. BARKER, a graduate home economist in journalism from the University of Minnesota in 1951, has been writing about food since her graduation.

She worked for several years with Westinghouse, and then went to the Quaker Oats Co., where she did arranging for food photography.

The chef and arranger explained that in food photography, the photographer and the cook each enter the project with an idea of how the table should be arranged.

After several hours, which sometimes result in a solid day under the camera, the end arrangement is reached and the picture shot.

While at Quaker Oats, Joan met her husband to be, Henry, (Hank), and was married in 1958.

SHE MOVED to the post of assistant food editor with a metropolitan newspaper where she "spent more time writing than in photography."

Since her retirement in 1961 from the paper to devote more time to her family, which include a cherubic daughter, Gail, 21 months old, Mrs. Barker has performed similar tasks for the Allstate Insurance Co., in a policyholder's magazine, "Home and Highway," which is produced quarterly.

For "Chicago," Mrs. Barker is preparing soda bread and corned beef and cabbage as the Irish dish; braided bread as the Polish dish; pasta and meat balls as the Italian dish; fish gumbo as the Negro dish, and sauerbraten as the German dish. The food will appear on a smorgasboard setup, according to Mrs. Barker, with a fire engine in the background.

The date of the picture has been changed twice due to weather. Mrs. Barker said weather can affect the food and gave the "congealing of fat" as an example.

SHE SAID "The picture may take three hours to arrange. I have worked all day to get things just right."

Twelve hours are allottted for cooking the foods. Surprisingly, the foods used for the picture will not be usable for anything else.

Joan explained, "The secret in photographing food is to not really get it done."

She said cabbage, for example, is dipped in boiling water for just a few minutes, "or long enough to get rid of the crispy look."

This same feature is applied to carrots and onions. She explained the reason for this is because the lights are very hot and tend to ruin food.

She also said that since it often takes many hours to perfect an arrangement, the food can be spoiled by the time the camera is finally ready.

MRS. BARKER said "although there are tricks to food photography, I don't believe in duping the public. It is for this reason that I wouldn't prepare these dishes from my own recipes, but waited to get the firemen's recipes. I wouldn't want the recipe to say one thing and the picture show another."

The magazine is edited by David Watt of the Allstate Co. He and other editorial people are preparing the magazine on a non-profit venture.

The magazine may be produced quarterly if Chicagoans like it, Watt said, adding that 30-pages of advertising was sold within the first week after it was announced.

The sales put the first issue in the black. If the magazine is produced quarterly it will also be on a non-profit basis, as is this souvenier copy for the world's fair. (A-14

Lower Bills for N-I Gas Customers

Northern Illinois Gas Co. customers are receiving lower gas bills now as a result of a $4.1 million annual rate reduction.

The rate cut was announced in March following joint studies by the Illinois Commerce Commission and NI-Gas and became effective April 1.

This is the fourth major rate reduction for NI-Gas customers in the past two years. The other three reductions during this period total nearly $4 million a year.

FOR THE average residential gas heat customer during a normal heating season, the annual reductions in gas rates, totalling $8 million, mean yearly heating bills will be about $7 lower than two years ago.

Included in the new $4.1 million rate reduction will be a decrease of about 50 per cent in residential gas air conditioning rates and a new rate for installations which provide all energy requirements for electricity, heating and cooling from natural gas.

More than 75 per cent of the $4.1 million rate reduction applies to residential and small commercial customers.

The company expects bills will be reduced even further as a result of pending pipeline company rate reductions and refunds due the utility. These additional savings will be passed on to customers through automatic adjustments of charges on gas bills, said a company spokesman. (A14

Couple to Show Rock Color Slides

Slides on rock hunting will be shown at a meeting of the Des Plaines Valley Geological Society at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 16, in the West Park Fieldhouse.

Howard E. Frazelle of Des Plaines, program chairman, said there also will be an array of cut and polished Lake Superior agates and original prize winning agate jewelry on display.

The public is invited. (A14

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

ARLINGTON SQUARES

April brings a shower of caller talent to Arlington Squares with two popular area callers scheduled for this month's dances. Tomorrow night, April 10, Jim Smith will be at the mike in Miner Junior High School, squaring up the crowd at 8:30 sharp. "Sharp," too, is the word for Smith and "sage brush" reports show a high interest in this dance. Come join the swinging gang, everybody's welcome. Miner School is located at 1101 E. Miner in Arlington Heights and easy to find.

Bill Shymkus is on tap for the club's April 24 dance, scheduled to be held in South Junior High School, 314 S. Highland, Arlington Heights. This one could bulge the walls. Dance ners report that additiona. .wingin' space is available in the school, but they'll need to know in advance if extra space arrangements must be made.

Therefore they're asking anyone who plans to gather up a full square of guests to notify the club, via LE 7-1584 or CL 5-4183.

ARLINGTON Squares heartily endorse a "the more the merrier" theory and will be delighted to get lots of calls for April 24 dancing room. Guests are welcome at all their dances, held the second and fourth Friday nights of every month. Since a heart attack last fall their regular caller, Bill Clarke, has been following doctor's orders and taking it easy for the rest of the season. However, a fine array of guest callers has been keeping the club going in Bill's absence.

Like most clubs this season, Arlington Squares have been on a banner binge, losing theirs to the Friendly Squares of Chicago late in February. March 25 the local gang invaded Friendly Squares territory to retrieve their banner. In typical thieves-fall-out fashion, however, the local club was foiled in its attempt, but got revenge by pinching the host club's pennant. At least the walls of Arlington Squares halls are no longer bare, but the club won't be satisfied until the home banner is back where it belongs.

PALATINE SQUARES

Those who have followed the saga of Swingin' Squares much-traveled banner will be glad to know the club retrieved it from the Palatine bandits a week ago Saturday night. In addition to the Arlington contingent who reclaimed their club's pennant, there were several other guest couples at the Palatiner's last dance an everybody had a ball.

Saturday night is dancing night again in Palatine, and Art (Ole Dad) Mathews will be squaring up even visiting banner bandits in his usual friendly fashion. Time to dance is 8:30; the place is Paddock School on Washington Court in Palatine. Everybody come!

Assisting Ole Dad will be the club's regular round dance artists, Jerry and Dot Daniels, teaching a very special number, "Let's Do It Again." The extra-ordinary appeal of "Let's Do It Again" is in its origin — it was written by a husband-wife pair of Palatine Squares, Art and Ruth Youwer! Records are available.

Tickets are going fast for the club's Frankie Lane dance April 27, and the committee urges everyone to get in the express lane quick.

Frankie is nationally well-known, booked solid for the season, and the club feels most fortunate in being able to get him for even a one-night stand. He'll be winging in from his home stamping grounds in Estes Park, Colo., to perform from 8:30 to 11:30, and then wing right out again. Further information and tickets may be had by calling Lil Langerock, CL 3-7229.

Your columnist, a simple non-dancing journalist, has been asked to be the club's guest that night, and despite some urgent deadline-beating scheduled for April 27, there's gotta be a way to make it. Sounds like more fun than pounding a typewriter; but the eternal female dilemma arises — "I haven't a thing to wear!"

SQUARES FOR FUN

It's fun time again for this whirlwind Wood Dale club, meeting tomorrow night in Highland School, N. Wood Dale Road. Bob Lewis, featuring his popular sing-along calls, will square 'em up at 8:30 to begin another session of let's-live-up-to-our-name. Guests are always welcome and all area dancers can find out for themselves that Squares for Fun really are!

From currently banner-less Niles and New Lenox there are cries of "They went that-a-way," and all signs point to Wood Dale. Four couples from the Squares for Fun called on the Little Squares of Niles who no longer have the Wood Dale banner on their walls. Not content with just retrieving their own pennant, five more pairs of Wood Dale squares invaded a recent dance of the Buttons and Bows in New Lenox and stole the B & B banner.

New Lenox is a "fur piece" down the road from Wood Dale and it could be a while before there's a return visit. On the other hand, it might be tomorrom night, weather permitting and the spirit willing. Come on out and see.

Squares For Fun dance the second Friday night of every month in Highland School with Bob Lewis at the mike from 8:30 until refreshment time, about 11 o'clock. Comfortable level dancing and lots of fun is their usual schedule, and guests are always warmly welcomed.

TEEN PROMENADERS

District 214 high schoolers in the booming, zooming Teen Promenaders have been so busy lately they're going sideways to keep from flying. March 20 and 21 they wowed 'em in Glen Ellyn at the Jaycees Minstrel Show and tomorrow night they're appearing at Elmhurst College in Elmhurst. Between times the kids dance the first and third Wednesday nights of each month in the Community Room of Hasbrook Park in Arlington Heights.

The Glen Ellyn appearance resulted from the Jaycees' visit to the club several weeks ago. The visitors were so impressed with the Teens' skill and sympathetic to the club's need for funds that they made a unique and flattering offer. The teens were not only invited to appear in the minstrel show, but were offered a percentage of all tickets they might sell for the big event. Gussied up in brand new outfits, the young dancers made a whirlwind ticket-selling tour of the Glen Ellyn area, netting their club $35.

ADDITIONAL thanks from the youngsters go to their adult counterparts, the Palatine Squares and Swingin' Squares of Arlington Heights, for recent cash contributions. Everything's coming up roses for the kids now, in sharp and happy contrast to their former situation when the double shortage of dancing space and finances had them in a 2-way squeeze.

When the home of their caller, Wally Paulson, could no longer accommodate the 35-40 youngsters who turned up at the club was seriously threatened. At the same time the no-money blues made rental of a hall out of the question. Between the dancers' determination to survive, the Paulsons' unending efforts for "their" kids and a small publicity boost that attracted Glen Ellyn attention, Teen Promenaders are now assured club success. Amazing Variety

Exhibit Reveals Ingenuity Of Birds in Building Nests

Chicago Natural History Museum during April is featuring "Nests and Eggs" as its exhibit-of-the-month.

The museum's featured exhibit illustrates the amazing architectural know-how of birds and the great diversity to be found in the types of nests they build. In addition, it shows the wide variation that exists, from species to species, in the eggs birds lay.

From an interior tree-trunk nest of a giant hornbill — into which the female has sealed herself with the help of the male so that only the tip of her bill is visible —to an uncommon example of a four-storied nest built by a yellow warbler, the exhibit calls attention to the myriad adaptations made by birds in constructing their individual "nurseries."

FOR EXAMPLE, there is the nest of the crested flycatcher commonly found in the Chicago area. Usually set in a protective hole, it is almost always adorned with a snakeskin.

The yellow warbler, on the other hand, is sometimes known to build a nest of more than one layer to avoid hatching the alien eggs of a cowbird. The cowbird makes no nest of her own, but lays her eggs in the nests of other birds. Instead of docilely incubating the strange egg, the yellow warbler will occasionally bury it, sometimes along with her own, in the bottom of the nest—and this process may be repeated more than once if the cowbird lays again in the same nest

Mud nests constitute a special category of bird construction utilizing a type of masonry skill. Among those shown in the exhibit is that of the South American cliff swallow. The robin, whose nest is constructed of grass and weeds, has a concealed mud lining.

SWIFTS USE yet another cementing material — saliva. An example is shown of the common chimney swift's nest which is made mostly of sticks that are stuck together with the bird's saliva. This material is used also to cement the nest inside a hollow tree of a chimney.

In the Orient there is a group of cave swiftlets that make their nests entirely of saliva. These are the nests that are used in making "bird's—nest soup."

The exhibit shows not only a cave swiftlet's nest, but also samples of the cave swiftlet's nest material as it is sent to market and sold in packages in Chicago ready to be put in soup.

Eggs displayed in the featured exhibit vary from that of the tiny hummingbird's, less than a quarter of an inch long, to the 6½ inch egg of the ostrich.

EGG SHAPE IS as variable as egg size. One of the many eggs included in the exhibit is that of the murre, which is often laid on a ledge of rock. Sharply tapered at one end, it rolls in a small circle when it is disturbed, and thus it is less easily rolled off the ledge than if it were oval.

The exhibit shows, in addition, some of the color variations to be found in eggs: the uniform white egg of the shearwater, the dark blue of the catbird, the greenish color of the duck, and the gray of the tinamous.

While some eggs are plain, others are heavily marked with specks, spots, splashes, blotches, or lines. In some cases these colors and markings help to camouflage the egg in its background, so that it is less noticeable to a predator.

"Nests and Eggs" is located in Hall 21 on the Museum's first floor. (A-14

Ribicoff Charges Pesticide Laxity

WASHINGTON — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., has accused the Agriculture Department of being "one year and 10 million fish too late" in looking into the effect of pesticides on fish.

Ribicoff — whose government operations subcommittee will resume hearings Tuesday on the mass death of fish in the Mississippi River - said in a statement placed in the Congressional Record that the Agriculture Department has been warned for more than a year of the dangers of toxic pesticides to marine life.

"IT IS A TRAGEDY that it took 10 million dead fish to put some life into the Department of Agriculture," Ribicoff said. Only now, has the department called a hearing on the problem, he said.

Ribicoff, a former Health, Education and Welfare secretary, said "It is a sad reflection on the bureaucratic process that the (Agriculture) Department's priorities put the promotion of new products in high speed but place protection of the public in slow motion."

The subcommittee is particularly concerned about the dangers of such pesticides as Aldrin, Dieldrin and Endrin. (A-14

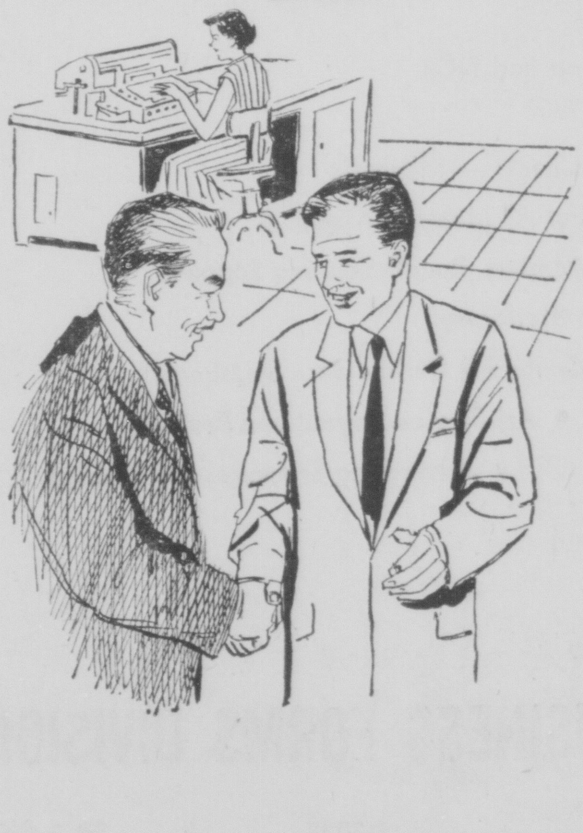
Showing Faith

"The Lord knoweth them that are his."
—Isaiah 26:13



Paul the Apostle, in his second epistle to Timothy, reminded that those who sought and worked for the approval of God so distinguished themselves that "the Lord knoweth them that are his."

The true Christian shows his faith, unmistakably. It is evident in more than regular church attendance; it extends into the conduct of every day living, into business activities and social endeavors.

The true Christian is not ashamed to show his faith on Monday as well as Sunday. And he need not show it through "lip-service." He can show it through the manner in which he conducts himself, in the things that he stands for, in the activities he supports and promotes.

The opportunity is there, every day of the year.

Student's Poll Shows Percy with Advantage

A grassroots poll conducted by a northwest suburban college student indicates that Republican gubernatorial candidate Charles H. Percy will win the primary election in populous Wheeling Township by a 3½ to 1 margin.

David J. Cordes, of 415 W. Miner St., Arlington Heights, this week completed analysis of returns from a 20-part questionnaire he circulated here in completion of a bachelor's degree in political science.

The 22-year-old University of Illinois senior told Paddock Publications he is "very pleased" with the cooperation afforded the project by local residents.

"WE MAILED out 180 questionnaires and received 90 back," Cordes said. "That's a 50 per cent return—far in excess of normal poll returns."

In the final tabulation, Percy received 66 votes and his main GOP opponent, State Treasurer William J. Scott, garnered 18 votes. Six persons were undecided.

Of those favoring Percy, 90 per cent said they were most influenced in their decision by Percy's success in business. He is board chairman of Bell & Howell Co., world-wide manufacturers of photographic equipment.

HALF OF those voting for Scott said they were most affected in their choice by his electoral success. Scott was first elected to office in 1962 as state treasurer.

Cordes, a member of the Wheeling Township Young Republican Club, said most of those returning the questionnaire indicated they feel Scott is more liberal than Percy.

One of the two will be nominated in Tuesday's primary.

In the Republican race for President, Wheeling Township residents voted as follows: former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 23; Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, 17; U.S. Sen Barry Goldwater, 15; Michigan Gov. George Romney, 6; Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, 3; and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, 1. Twenty-five expressed no preference.

ON FOUR questions relating to the federal government, the following results were reported:

Should the federal government develop more agencies to cope with the problems of today? Yes—8. No—80.

Should the federal government give as much of its responsibilities back to the state as the states are willing to take? Yes—80. No—8.

Should the federal government increase its regulation of business? Yes—8. No—80.

Should the federal government institute a program of medical care for the aged? Yes—25. No—63.

IN CONDUCTING the poll, Cordes selected at random names of voters who registered as Republicans in 1962.

He also polled south suburban Thornton Township and downstate Grundy County.

In both Thornton and Grundy, GOP voters favored Percy. Lodge received the Presidential nod in Thornton and Goldwater gained an edge in Grundy.

THE POLL results will be combined with interviews of political leaders and a study of voting trends, and finally incorporated into the documented bachelor's thesis, Cordes explained.

After he receives his political science bachelor's degree in June, Cordes plans to enter the University of Illinois School of Medicine.

"MRS. CHURCH BACKS SCOTT FOR GOVERNOR"

Mrs. Marguerite Stitt Church, former Congresswoman from the 13th District, for the first time in her political career has endorsed a candidate in the Primary.

In her statement to the press on Feb. 27th she stated: "I am proud to join the countless number of good citizens, who because of their belief in sound, unselfish public service, are endorsing the candidacy of William J. Scott for Governor of Illinois. In public office, there is no substitute for Proven capacity, experience, and high integrity.

"I have known Mr. Scott for many years and have watched his progress through every rank, low and high, of Republican service.

"His brilliant record as state treasurer indicates his dedication to public service.

"I do more than admire Mr. Scott's record. I respect him. He is a candidate whom I can recommend without reservation.

"His dramatic victory over a strong Democratic opponent in 1962 was no accident, but a tribute to his demonstrated administrative ability and to the trust that people rightly place in him."

Mrs. Church is considered one of the leading conservatives of the Republican Party. As a noted speaker, her services have been widely used throughout the nation. She is now a candidate for Delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Sperling for Attorney General

Jack I. Sperling, 52, is a Navy combat veteran who has served as alderman of the 50th Ward since 1955. His election. and re-election, attest his drive record as a councilman because his ward is strongly Democratic. He has been one of the most effective members of the "economy bloc" which has served a useful role of standing guard against the Democratic majority. Sperling is the man best suited for the post His independence, his aggressive yet reasoned attacks on waste and corruption in the city administration, and his willingness to work diligently at each assignment strike us as qualities that promise effective campaigning and public service.

Mayor Daley's dominance of the Democratic Party will be a major issue in November. Sperling has proved himself a worthy combatant, capable of bringing this issue forcefully to the public's scrutiny.

For Sperling's Nomination

When the governor of Illinois needs official advice of a legal nature, he consults not with a lawyer of his own choice but with one selected for him by the voters of the state—the attorney general.

The attorney general is the chief law officer and legal adviser to other state executive officers and all boards, commissions and agencies of the state. When requested he also advises the state's attorneys in the 102 counties of Illinois. He has many other duties including the responsibility for the new Bureau of Consumer Fraud. One of his major tasks is administration of the Inheritance Tax Act.

The office now is held by William G. Clark, 43, a Democrat and a former majority leader in the Illinois House. He [illegible] opposition in the primary election [illegible] appear on the Republican ballot in the contest for nomination to the office.

We shall mark our sample primary ballot for this office for Ald. Jack I. Sperling (50th) whom we have long admired for his zeal and courage as an independent Republican. Since he became a member of the Chicago City Council in 1955 he has been a good "watchdog" for the public and has, at times, been mentioned as a potential candidate for mayor. His popularity was shown in 1958 when he was candidate for the Cook County Board of Tax Appeals. Although beaten by the Democratic candidate, he led the Republican county ticket.

A practicing lawyer since 1933, Sperling at one time was rated by the Chicago Bar Assn. to be qualified to be a judge. He is 52 and a Navy combat veteran of World War II. we believe Sperling would be an exceptional attorney general.

It is impossible for me to meet all of you personally and explain my qualifications and ideas to you before the election; therefore, I am using this article to ask and urge you to support my candidacy for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

I am presently full-time Mayor of Monmouth, Illinois. Before becoming Mayor, I was a Staff Engineer assigned to the International Division of Admiral Corporation. I resigned my position to serve the people of Monmouth as their Mayor. My 13 years experience as an Engineer and Business Administrator qualifies me to serve as your Lieutenant Governor.

I am 37 years old, married, have 3 children, am past 14th District Commander of the American Legion and if elected, will serve full-time as Lieutenant Governor.

As Mayor of Monmouth, I led the municipal, county and township officials in challenging the constitutionality of the "Prevailing Wage Law of 1961" through the courts with a victory for the local governments in retaining their "Home Rule."

As full time Mayor of Monmouth, I have traveled from coast to coast in an effort to find means of economic improvement for our city and have been successful in this effort for we are obtaining new industry, new and improved airport facilities, new hospital facilities and better street, water and sewer facilities for our community.

I am campaigning the State on the following platform:

1. Support decentralization of our State and Federal Government, permitting local (county, township and municipal) Governments to handle matters that can best be handled at local levels.
2. Put the interest of all the people above the interest of any individual, group or organization.
3. Represent all social groups.
4. Represent the best interests of all industry and business both small and large.
5. Support good labor legislation.
6. Be a public servant first and Republican second.

Your help and support will be appreciated

Yours truly,
ALLAN A. WALTERS
Candidate for Lieutenant Governor

Percy Talks Saturday At Miner Junior High

A standing room only crowd is expected Saturday, April 11, at the rally for Charles Percy, according to John Woods and David Regner, respective chairmen for the Wheeling and Elk Grove Township Percy for Governor Committees.

The event, scheduled for 3:30 p.m. at Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner, Arlington Heights, is under the joint sponsorship of both groups. Andrew Lofquist of Arlington Heights has been named rally chairman.

"We feel especially honored to have Chuck Percy appear in our townships so clase to election day," said Regner.

"It is one of his last major public appearances in his bid for the Republican gubernatorial nomination."

WOODS URGED the public to attend, to meet Percy and learn his position on key campaign issues.

In addition to a speech by Percy, a group of women from the area, calling themselves the "Percy Perkettes," will sing a medley of campaign songs. The choral group is under the direction of Mrs. Charles Holroyd of Mount Prospect.

A brass band will also be on hand to entertain the audience with a selection of numbers appropriate to the occasion.

Seated on stage with Regner will be Mrs. H. R. Seloover, chairman of women's activities for Elk Grove Township, George R. Busse, president of the Elk Grove Regular Republican Organization and Mrs. Carl Hansen, wife of Elk Grove Township's Republican Committeeman.

WITH WOODS will be Mrs. Leo Hunter, Wheeling Township women's chairman, Roy Stevenson, regional coordinator of Percy for Governor activities and Wheeling Township Committeeman Tom Houser who has taken over as Percy's campaign manager during the hospitalization of Hansen, the Elk Grove committeeman.

Specially invited guests include the village presidents of Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Palatine and Elk Grove Village.

According to Lofquist, special reminders for the rally are being mailed, distributed door to door and given out at Percy coffee and card parties. Notices are being circulated at shopping centers and train depots.

Do not say, "It looks like rain." This is a colloquial contraction for, "It looks AS IF IT WOULD rain."

It is much better to say, "He feels SOMEWHAT discouraged," instead of, "He feels KIND OF discouraged."

Kirby Challenges His Auditor Rivals

John Kirby, Williamsville, Republican candidate for state auditor, opened the week with a challenge to his GOP opponents to let their program for the office of auditor be known.

In a statement, Kirby pointed out that during the entire course of the campaign, which has embraced more than 70,000 miles of travel, he has steadfastly urged that Illinois financial problems — taxation and spending—be screened by the established fiscal board of the state—the governor, the auditor, and the treasurer.

"Obviously this is impossible in this administration," Kirby said, "but it is a distinct possibility in a Republican administration. Right now the governor and the auditor, although both are Democrats, don't see exactly eye to eye on governmental matters ,and make no attempt to come to an agreement.

"AND NEITHER will have anything to do with the treasurer because he is a Republican, and—even greater sin—is for saving money.

"These three should work together to save money, to plan spending, to establish sane tax policy, and under a Republican administration that can be done. My idea of a fiscal board has met with good response by the candidates for governor on the Republican ticket. We know we can do the job, but where is the program of my opponents?"

Kerner Committee Formed in Township

The formation of a Volunteers for Kerner Committee was announced in Wheeling Township by the co-chairmen Nello Benedetti of 4 N. Edwards, Mount Prospect, and Mrs. June Arnold of 194 Glendale, Buffalo Grove.

Other committee members are: Mrs. Kay Schuster, 210 N. Elm, Mount Prospect; Patrick Martin, 236 Brucewood, Buffalo Grove; Mrs. Eleanor Norman, 1840 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights; Jack L. Wood, 1625 N. Chestnut, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Margaret Schuld, 365 Marion Court, Wheeling; Bruno Josephs, 229 E. Norman Lane, Wheeling; Mrs. Patricia Kerwin, 1004 Elmhurst Road, Prospect Heights, and Philip Zigante, 104 N. Coldren, Prospect Heights.

Any resident of Wheeling Township who is interested in helping the volunteer group's work on the behalf of the reelection of Governor Otto Kerner, may call Benedetti at CL 3-2258 or Mrs. Norman at CL 9-3133.

FELLOW REPUBLICANS!
A personal message from
WILLIAM D. STIEHL
Republican Candidate for
ATTORNEY GENERAL

As an Active Republican for almost twenty years and a practicing Attorney in Belleville for fourteen years I sincerely desire to further serve our party and the people of the State of Illinois as Attorney General.

Politically I am now serving my second term as Republican County Chairman of St. Clair County. I am active as a member of the Executive Committee of the Illinois Republican County Chairmens Association, and also serve on the Board of Governors of the Illinois Republican Citizens League. Previously I served as President of St. Clair County, and as Vice President of the Illinois Young Republican Organizations.

Professionally, as a practicing Attorney I was President of our Belleville Bar Association 1956-57, Civil Attorney of St. Clair County 1956-60, President of Belleville Board of Education 1956-57, a member of the board 1949-56. Presently I am a member of the St. Clair County, Illinois State and American Bar Associations.

I served in the U.S. Navy in World War II and was recalled to duty as Chief legal advisor to the Naval delegate at the Korean Armistice conference for which I was later decorated.

As the only downstate Republican Candidate for Attorney General my nomination will add balance and strength to our Republican Ticket in November. My professional experience ably qualifies me to administer this important state office, not on a basis of political favor and expediency, but solely on opinions based on impartial interpretations of State Laws.

On this proven record of party service, professional experience and ability I ask your vote and support of my candidacy Tuesday, April 14th.

Sincerely,
Bill Stiehl

We endorse Charles Percy and his program for a Dynamic Illinois

THE CRISIS IN ILLINOIS To protect the future of every citizen of this state, Illinois' economy must grow. And grow fast. To provide adequate opportunity for all our citizens we must generate new jobs at the rate of nearly 2000 a week, every week, for the next 4 years and beyond.

MY CAMPAIGN PLEDGE I pledge the kind of dynamic leadership the State of Illinois must have to meet the critical challenges of the future.

I will bring 25 years of business experience to bear on the economic problems which hobble our state.

I will work tirelessly to generate the hundreds of thousands of new jobs we must have to satisfy the needs of all our people, the new jobs needed to get our citizens off relief rolls and on to payrolls.

I will mount an all-out assault on waste and inefficiency in state administration to keep taxes down.

And I will work for a great resurgence of Republicanism in Illinois, to return Republicans to public office throughout the state, and to carry Illinois for the Republican Party in 1964.

North Star Boy Scouts Launch Expansion Program

A program to meet the growing demand for new units in the North Star District of Northwest Suburban Boy Scout Council was launched recently at a dinner meeting in Randhurst Town Hall.

Representatives of 22 churches, schools and other community groups met to obtain materials that would help them form new scouting units and hear the story of scouting.

Chairman for the program, "Together We Organize," is Carl Hammerl, executive vice president of the Mount Prospect State Bank. Assisting him is W. Roy Martin, 422 S. Elmhurst, Mount Prospect.

THE ASSEMBLED representatives heard Marlin W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago office of the FBI, state that in 20 years with the FBI, he has never had any problems with boys actively engaged in Scouting.

Cub Scout John Martin, son of W. Roy Martin, welcomed the group, and Steve Carley, 123 S. Lancaster, a member of Boy Scout Troop 55, told the adults of the fun he has had being a scout.

"I hope you folks will make it possible for all my buddies to have the same fun and experiences I am having," he said.

Clergy participating in the program were the Rev. John A. McLoraine, pastor of St. Emily Catholic church in Mount Prospect, and the Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom, pastor of Forest River Evangelical Free Church of Mount Prospect.

CHURCHES, SCHOOLS and organizations participating in the meeting were:

Forest River Evangelical Free Church, Lutheran Church and School of St. John, St. Emily's Catholic Church, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Northwest Covenant Church, Community Presbyterian Church, Gregory School, Lincoln School PTA, Sunset School PTA and William Busse School PTA, all of Mount Prospect.

Grace Evangelical Church, Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd and Walt Whitman School, all of Prospect Heights.

Herzog and Devonshire Schools, Des Plaines.

Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Buffalo Grove.

ST. JOSEPH the Worker, Mark Twain PTA, Carl Sandburg PTA, First Baptist Church, Phil Carpenter AMVETS Post and Wheeling Jaycees, all of Wheeling.

Douglas Gomm, district commissioner, 514 N. Emerson, Mount Prospect, said the North Star District currently has 2,200 boys enrolled in scout programs. There are 6,500 boys in the eligible age group, 8 to 16, he said. By 1970 there will be 14,000. Scouting for 500 of the 6,500 will be made possible through the new expansion program.

High School Candidates Take Stands

Elect 3 at Saturday Vote

by JIM CARNS
Staff Writer

Five candidates are seeking three positions on the Arlington High School District 214 board of education in the April 11 election.

As background for a choice at the polls, the Herald interviewed each of the five candidates, asking a standard set of questions on the local school situation.

The candidates interviewed, in alphabetical order, are H. W. Armstrong, 920 Tower Dr., Mount Prospect; Mrs. Eugenia S. Chapman, 903 N. Kaspar, Arlington Heights; Mrs. Leah D. Cummins, 1009 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village; T. Earl Thompson, 412 N. Pine, Mount Prospect, and Lowell F. Todd Jr., 2606 Cardinal Dr., Rolling Meadows.

QUESTIONS used were the following:

1. How do you feel your profession or professional training will aid you, if at all, in school board matters?

2. Do you feel it is the place of the school board to question teaching methods and materials, or simply to follow the recommendations of the superintendent and watch finances.

3. Do you feel that enough, too much, or not enough money is being spent for education in the district?

4. Are facilities adequate, including the building program now in progress, or are there inadequacies within the established schools?

5. Do you feel that the district should continue its trend toward special education provisions and social services?

6. What inadequacies, if any, do you see in the present school setup?

7. DO YOU FEEL that the board is over-using or under-using its authority in any areas.

8. Have you attended any school board meetings

9. Do you seek to change the board's method of operation?

10. Do you think there should be a closer tie between high schools and grade schools, and if so ,in what nature?

11. Why are you running for the board?

The candidates' answers, which follow under name headings, have been shortened and paraphrased in the interest of space economy and equal presentation.

OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED

Marquee (rooflike canopy projecting above a doorway). Pronounce mar-kee, accent on second syllable.

Onyx. Pronounce awn-icks, accent first syllable.

H. W. ARMSTRONG

H. W. Armstrong, who is employed in a sales executive position sees his background of "dealing with people at all times" as useful on the school board.

An incumbent appointed to fill a board vacancy two months ago, he "feels it is the place of the board to question finances and the superintendent's recommendations on teaching methods and materials."

"Generally the recommendations of the superintendent in these areas should be qualified, but by the same token I don't feel every recommendation should be rubber stamped.

"I WOULD SAY that at the present time our district rates are below average as far as per capita expenditure, but we have been very fortunate in that our children have been receiving above average standards of education. Right at the moment I see no need to increase per capita expenditures.

"Improvements should be made in older facilities to bring them up to par with new buildings now being built," Armstrong said. He noted that the district has profited by experience in construction, and there are needs for additional facilities at Arlington, Prospect and Forest View high schools.

"We will have a lay committee completely analyze the need and costs of a complete swimming program in the district. I heartily agree that this is the right approach to make.

"We are doing a good job in preparing the high schools in the district to offer special educational services. With a district as large as ours now and the trend toward rapid growth, this segment of education will undoubtedly grow."

ARMSTRONG also spoke of the possibility of special provisions for vocational education, possibly to be made in the sixth school now entering the planning stages for the district. He added, "I don't think there are enough students for an entire vocational school."

Armstrong said because of his position on the board he did not feel himself in a position to comment on whether the board is over-using or under-using its authority, but said "The board and superintendent have a very harmonious working relationship.

"The board has taken the advice of professional consultants and made great strides in improving operations as a policy-making body."

On his reasons for running, Armstrong said, "When I was appointed as a replacement, I felt it would be unfair to accept responsibility for a three-year term.

"I feel qualified in the fact that I have been active in the affairs of the district, enjoy working on the board, and realize the great deal of work that has to be done."

MRS. EUGENIA S. CHAPMAN

Mrs. Eugenia Chapman, who was professionally trained and has worked as a school teacher, feels this has given her "an understanding of the staff viewpoint, educational philosophy and theory ,and of the organization of the schools.

"It is the responsibility of the school board to try to understand the educational program of the schools to be well informed—this includes methods and materials. Members of the board should be guided very strongly by the recommendations of the staff, and matters involving methods and materials should be a cooperative undertaking involving the staff, administration and the board.

"I FEEL ENOUGH money is being spent in this district at the present time to provide a quality educational program for our children," Mrs. Chapman continued. "I would be most unhappy to see less money spent per student. On the other hand, a great deal of money could be spent in worthwhile ways that would improve the quality of the education.

"We have an excellent building program which is providing economy, but functional economy. The problem facing us will be to continually bring our established schools up to facilities provided in the newest schools.

"The responsibility of the board is to look at the needs of all the schools in the district and to meet those needs in terms of urgency."

MRS. CHAPMAN found an "unquestionable need" to continue the trend toward special education, adding that "We are in a fortunate position because we can see children in need of special education coming up through the grade schools."

She stressed a re-valuation of the educational program in "the light of meeting the needs of the 40 per cent of our high school graduates who do not go to college."

On use of authority, Mrs. Chapman commented, "The present board is operating harmoniously and constructively, and is living up to its responsibility as a board; but I believe it is staying within the bounds of its authority.

"At the present time the board operates as a whole, except for special committees appointed from time to time to study specific matters. I would not seek to change the operations."

"EXCELLENT articulation exists now between the high schools and underlying grade schools. As far as coordination of programs is concerned, there should be continuous efforts to develop an even closer relationship.

"As an incumbent, I believe that anyone who has served on the board for three years should, i fat all possible, seek a second term. Since school district matters are complicated, a considerable amount of time at the beginning of one's service goes into becoming informed about the school system.

"I believe the strength of our government lies in the quality of education we offer our children."

MRS. LEAH D. CUMMINS

Because of her background as administrator -turned-housewife, Mrs. Leah Cummins feels she has the background to "look at the global view, not the narrow one."

"I would take exception to anyone who thinks of himself or of his community only," she said.. "The greatest strength I think we can have is active interest."

On curriculum: "I think a very prime function of the board is to be concerned about the course of study and curriculum of the child. In some instances I can see where the High School Elects 3 2nd galley board would take the initiative, although I realize the superintendent is specialized and in a position to use the best recommendations from his staff.

"NOT ENOUGH money is being spent, per child, on education, but it is not my feeling that the difference should be made up necessarily by the taxpayers. Illinois contributes one of the smallest percentages of state funds used for education.

"As of now, school facilities are adequate, but because of increasing school population these facilities are going to obsolesce quickly. It doesn't stop with the fact that we have passed a referendum for a new high school.

"I feel the district should continue its trend toward special education," Mrs. Cummins said, "and increase every effort in this direction."

"The inadequacy most apparent in the school district is lack of participation on the part of the parents. With better communication to the parents they can take more part, and this can only be good.

"ANOTHER THING to me that is missing is a swimming pool in each of the five high schools. The fact that it costs money is not enough reason for the students to be deprived of it."

Mrs. Cummins said she feels she is not in a position to discuss the board's use of authority without being on the board, and added that she has "unfortunately not been to a school board meeting."

She also said she would have to get a close look at the operation before she could say there should be changes in methods of operation, "But from the results I have seen I think they are operating very soundly and practically."

She was impressed with the ties existing between grade schools and the high schools, particularly in preparation for the transition.

"I'M RUNNING for the board because I want to take an active role in community affairs," Mrs. Cummins said. "Before this time I was engaged in business, but have served as a Girl Scout leader.

"I feel I have the background education—and business-wise to materially contribute to the action of the board. I have the ability to make decisions independently, and to establish and maintain working relationships."

Q. I realize it is not a "must," but if a girl wishes to give her fiance an engagement gift, what should it be?

A. Usually some piece of jewelry—cuff links, key chain, tie clasp, monogrammed belt buckle, cigarette case, or lighter.

Q. Is it quite proper nowadays to type social letters?

A. Yes, and it's increasingly popular, too. Typed letters should be written on a single sheet, with only one side of the paper used. And be sure that your signature at the end of the letter is written by hand.

T. EARL THOMPSON

T. Earl Thompson points to his background in personnel, administration ,accounting and finance as potential assets on the school board. He added that "A combination of these should also give a good understanding of what youngsters are going to face."

On board responsibility Thompson said, "The board has a good superintendent, and should give him the authority and responsibility to set teaching methods and materials in the district."

He said per capital school expenditures have resulted in "a pretty good extensive program. I don't know whether it's a question of how much rather than how we are spending. This would be one of the things that we would have to learn, but expenditure appears to be adequate."

"It seems to me that the newer schools are more complete, including Wheeling. There are still some inadequacies in Prospect High School where the building program has never been finished." He mentioned the lack of a foyer and additional athletic stations at Prospect, and said similar needs were felt in other schools.

THOMPSON saw "the definite responsibility of modern education to provide special education and social services, including an early and continued need for counselling." He also envisioned establishment of a vocational school.

"Vocational training is a growing inadequacy in the district, but we mustn't concentrate on just those not going to college. We have to see that our program also prepares those going to college."

He commented that, since there appears to be a good relation between the board, the administration, and teachers, the board probably is not over-using its authority. "If it was over-using, I'm sure there would be some problem."

But after attendance at about half a dozen board meetings, Thompson noted, "I understand they're supposed to meet two days a month. I understand they have, over the past months, met almost once a week. I would hope by a study of the agenda to turn over many of the problems to the superintendent for his decision and action, relieving the board from spending many hours on procedure rather than policy."

ON SCHOOL TIES, "I think there is a good tie, from my experience, between present high schools and grade schools. I feel the programs we run in the high schools to acquaint grade school teachers, students and parents with the high school are good, and adequate."

"I've been a working parent on programs my boy and girl have participated in, and have a great understanding of the needs and wants of teens.

"In order for the district to have an impartial board, that makes all decisions to the benefit of the entire district rather than specific localities, the board representation should be spread throughout District 214, and the town of Mount Prospect should be represented by two members."

LOWELL F. TODD JR.

"In my work I am directly involved with major decisions, great expenditures of money, and all types of people in all types of industry," Lowell F. Todd Jr. answered on what his profession would lend to the school board.

He sees the place of the school board "to set general policies, control finances, and generally oversee all major decisions regarding additional schools, etc. The school board, in my estimation is not trained to make decisions regarding curriculum, teaching methods, or anything pertinent to the actual instruction of the student.

"I feel that District 214 has done quite well regarding the academic standards of the school systems to compare this expenditure per child with expenditures of other areas surrounding the district.

"Judging by the rating of District 214, the facilities are generally adequate. It could be said that every high school in District 214 should have a swimming pool. My question would be, how is a swimming pool going to assist in rounding out the education of the students?"

TODD SAID, "Our problem as parents and potential members of a school board is to educate our children, or in other words to give our child the tools with which to survive in this ever increasingly complex world. If some children are not as fortunate as others, they should be equipped with those tools that they are able to control.

"In a district as large as 214, I feel that in regards to the school board there should be representatives from all major areas of the district. Unless we have such representation, we will be unable to provide what is best for each area."

He called for a line of authority in the school system to be much like that in business, and said that from his view that system had been established without giving the board too much or too little authority.

Todd added that, though he had been to no school board meetings, the board's record "speaks well of what they have done."

"IF THERE IS A closer tie between elementary and secondary schools, naturally this would prove to be advantageous," he said. "But this is not of necessity because I feel that all school systems have the same primary objective."

"With the population growth we have, we as parents have a great deal of responsibility placed on our shoulders to provide our children with the best tools to use in their adult lives.

"I feel we owe this to our children, and our children in turn will owe this to their offspring. Perhaps some little decision made now will directly affect the education of my children and of all children in this area."

Dinner Guests to Hear of Microwaves

The importance of microwaves, stand-ins for telephone wires, will be explained by a representative of Illinois Bell Telephone Co. to those attending a father and son banquet Friday, April 17, at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church of Arlington Heights.

J. E. UDELL

The banquet is sponsored by the Men's Club of the church at 1234 N. State Road.

J. E. Udell, public relations representative, will demonstrate with a working model how microwaves can carry telephone calls and television from coast to coast or around the world.

He will tell the story of Project Echo, which allowed man's voice to leap into space and back again for the first time in history. He also will describe Project Telstar and satellite systems of the near future which will allow instantaneous communications between any two points on earth. (A

Campbell Attends Institute

Alan Campbell, administrator of Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, was among some 1,500 members of the legal and medical professions who met recently in Ann Arbor, Mich., for an in-depth look at medical malpractice.

The program, which drew registrants from throughout America and Canada, was presented by the Institute of Continuing Legal Education of The University of Michigan Law School, Wayne State University Law School and the State Bar of Michigan.

Registrants heard discussions become a problem of mounting concern to lawyers, doctors, hospital administrators and the general public. They also viewed realistic demonstrations of malpractice suits, featuring top trial lawyers. (B9

Relax Your Cares Away . . . with

NORDIC SAUNA'S DRY HEAT BATH

- Comforts aching muscles
- Produces soft smooth skin
- Executives — Relax Tension
- Hairdos don't go limp
- Remove skin blemishes

You must try it before you can truly appreciate the wonderful sense of well-being induced by a Nordic (t.m.) Sauna electric dry heat bath.

Nordic Sauna's high heat and low humidity induces complete composure of mind and body, with no discomfort or oppressiveness as in steam baths. Yet temperatures are actually much hotter (175° F or more). The dry heat speeds up circulation and causes free flow of perspiration which cleanses the body of impurities. Thorough rinsing in water and a period of relaxation complete a sauna bath cycle.

Sauna bathing is catching-on all over America. It is proving one of the greatest methods of improving the skin condition and appearance (as well as good health measures) to people of all ages.

Prospect Bands to Play Spring Concert Saturday

The Prospect High School Music Department will present the Symphonic Band and the Concert Band in the annual Spring Concert Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Prospect Fieldhouse.

Faculty members Edward W. Volz and Dean R. DePoy will conduct the bands in selections from orchestral repertoire as well as contemporary band compositions.

For the first time in the history of Prospect, a student composition is being performed. Written by John M. Higgins of Arlington Heights, the march "Six by Eight" will be given its first public performance with the composer conducting. Young Higgins is first tuba player in the Symphonic Band.

Other selections by the Symphonic Band include the award-winning "Concert Suite" by Frederic Ashe; Rimsky-Korsakov's stirring "Procession of the Nobles"; the First Suite in E Flat by Gustav Holst; Charpentier's "Ballet de Plaisir"; and a march by the redoubtable march king, John Philip Sousa—"Sabre and Spurs."

THE CONCERT Band's contribution from the Viennese style of composition is Haydn's "March for the Prince of Wales." Twentieth Century works to be featured by the Concert Band include Charles Carter's Symphonic Overture, Leroy Anderson's "Minstrel Boy," "Coat of Arms" by George Kenny, and "Variation Overture" by Clifton Williams.

Eighth grade band students who will attend Prospect High School next year and their parents will be the guests of the music department at Saturday's concert.

Tickets at 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students may be purchased at the door.

JOHN HIGGINS, student composer, will conduct his own composition at the Prospect High School band's annual spring concert 8 p.m. Saturday in Prospect fieldhouse.

GIRLS SWIM MEET plans are reviewed by State Meet Director Joseph E. Lesniak, Prospect Heights, on right, with Northwest Suburban YMCA Coach Roger Tobin and Girls Activities Director Helen Corell. Lesniak and his staff of assistants drawn from all over the state will run meet at Glenbrook North High this Saturday under sponsorship of Des Plaines YMCA. 500 contestants will represent 29 qualifying "Y's" from those that survived district tournament action.

LessonsInEnglish

Do not say, "The dog runs like he was hurt." Say, "The dog runs AS IF he WERE hurt."

The use of STAND, as, "I can't stand it," and, "I won't stand for his coming home so late," is a colloquialism and should not be used in formal English. It is better to say, "I can't ENDURE it," and, "I won't TOLERATE his coming home so late."

Distinguish between TO ADMIT (to give entrance to, or in a figurative sense, to grant as true), and TO ADMIT OF (to allow or permit). Thus: "This ticket admits one person to the game." "The size of the auditorium will admit OF not more than a hundred persons' hearing the concert."

Promise to Keep Regent Park Pond

The Arlington Heights village board passed another resolution Monday in hopes that it would clear up problems surrounding Regent Park subdivision and Prospect High School.

The resolution, addressed to the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, guarantees that a retention pond located in the center of the Regent Park development will be kept for that use.

The guarantee was requested by the Sanitary District in order to grant sanitary sewer tap-on permits to Regent Park units and an administration building now under construction on the high school property.

THE DRAINAGE pond must house runoff water from the high school property in order to prevent overloading of combined storm and sanitary sewers adjacent to the property, the district claims.

The village board passed one resolution, which was refused by the Sanitary District, and the district in turn proposed the language for an acceptable resolution; but the village Monday refused to accept that wording—using instead an alternate proposed by Village Atty. Jack Siegel.

The resolution proposed by the Sanitary District spelled out the steps by which the permanence of the retention basin would be assured, but the village resolution simply makes the guarantee without spelling out the steps.

OFTEN MISUSED

Do not say, "He was with us throughout the whole week." Since "throughout" means from end to end, or in every part of, omit "whole."

A. As soon as the soup is served, the rolls or bread are passed. Most popular container nowadays is a shallow wicker basket that has a fringed napkin laid in it, and several sorts of bread displayed.

Eastwood Events

Tracing the backgrounds of two famous Americans, Mark Twain and Abraham Lincoln, lent educational aspect to the Easter vacation of the William Edgertons and their son Bob of N. Dryden Avenue. From Hannibal, Mo., where they learned all about Twain, the Edgertons went on to Salem Village to see the Lincon memorabilia. Their leisurely trip ended in Indianapolis where they visited with former Arlington Heighters, the Harding Miller family.

The Dick Kozakiewicz' son, Ricky, was all set to celebrate his April 1st seventh birthday with a party last Saturday afternoon, but illness caused a postponement of plans, and a later affair is tentatively set for this coming Saturday. Nevertheless the whole birthday weekend wasn't a complete loss for Ricky, as his relatives arrived on Sunday for a family celebration.

JUDY OSWEILER, the Vincent Osweilers' daughter of 307 N. Beverly Lane, is receiving congratulations on her initiation into Alpha Xi Delta sorority at Wisconsin State College, La-Crosse, where she is a junior in the school of physical education.

Mr. and Mrs. William Richter of N. Dryden Avenue were hosts at a dinner party Saturday night. A game of cards provided the after-dinner entertainment.

Sunday the Richters were guests in Schaumburg when their grand-nephew, Mike Kramer, was confirmed in St. Hubert's Church. Bernice and Bill attended a get-together at the Kramer home after the church services.

A most hearty welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas White and their four children, who are now at home at 634 N. Dryden Ave. The four little Whites are Tamara, 4, John, 3, Tim, 2, and baby Tracey, 5 months old. Mr. White is an employe of Chicago Latrobe Co.

BOB AND SALLY Lollar and their three daughters, Julie, Cindy and Susie, who were the former occupants of the White residence are now living on Stratford Ave. Before leaving the neighborhood next-door neighbor, Naomi Edgerton, entertained at a coffee for Mrs. Lollar and her mother, Mrs. Alfred Booth, who came from Webster Groves, Mo. to help the Lollars with their moving chores.

Even though the flu bug hit every member of the Cockrell family while vacationing Easter week at Lake Lawn in Delavan, they still managed to have four days of fun, swimming and resting up before returning to business and their respective schools. The Cockrells' eldest daughter, Mary Elizabeth, was vacationing from studies at Ripon College where she is a freshman and president of her Alpha Xi Delta pledge class.

A most propitious business trip took William Stueber of N. Beverly Lane to Washington, D.C. Easter week, so with a week's vacation ahead of them, Mrs. Stueber and Kurt and Karen went along. They left on Good Friday, and while Mr. Stueber, a patent attorney, was busy in the patent office, Mrs. Stueber and the children "sightsaw" along with "everybody and everybody's brother" who seemed to be in Washington last week.

THEY SAW President Kennedy's grave, which the guide said had been visited by 50,000 people the previous day. After a little wait they got into the White House, visited the Bureau of Engraving, saw Ford's Theatre where Lincoln was shot. In the FBI building they visited the target range where Kurt was fortunate enough to be given the practice target, which is an outline of a man. In Georgetown the Stuebers saw the home where Mrs. Kennedy and the children are now living.

After leaving the Capital the Stuebers drove to Williamsburg for a short visit and when they went through Washington again on the way home, the cherry blossoms were just beginning to bloom.

When the Girls' Chorus of Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio, toured the major cities in the East and Midwest recently, Leslie Kellogg was a member of the group on the annual concert tour. Leslie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kellogg of 1007 E. Euclid Ave.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

The experience of fostering a good-will friendship on a direct contact basis was one that a Ridge Park family appreciated recently. Last fall the Jack Le Beaus visited Mr. and Mrs. Theo Muller and daughter in Cologne, Germany During Easter week, Mr. Muller came to Chicago on a business trip, and he was treated to the hospitality of his friends in Arlington Heights. While here, he had an opportunity to do sightseeing in both Chicago and Milwaukee. He also enjoyed American style restaurants, but the Easter dinner he shared with Mr. and Mrs. Le Beau and Susie at 906 N. Yale, was probably the one that pleased him most.

Two memorable occasions took place at Faith Lutheran Church on Palm Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. William Lee, 1012 N. Ridge. Their son, Randy, was confirmed and their daughter, Maureen, was baptized. Relatives who came to the home afterward included the children's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Lee of Chicago, as well as others from Hoffman Estates, Des Plaines and Wheeling.

Joan Oertel was home from Illinois State University at Normal in time to help her parents, John and Liz Oertel, celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary on March 25. The Oertels reside at 708 S. Salem.

EASTER vacation gave Charles and Jean Harrington the chance to return to their home state of Tennessee and visit their parents, the R. E. Givens of Ripley and Mrs. Pauline Hazlewood of Humboldt. For the Givens and Mrs. Hazlewood, it was an opportunity to share a week of pleasure with their grandchildren, Tina and Kelly Harrington.

Lynn Buckley, Sandy Schultheis and Shirley Elsner were among the high school students who flew to Washington, D. C., on March 30. They were in the area until April 3.

At 736 N. Harvard, there is a circle drawn around the date April 2. Perhaps this was Karen Munsen's gentle reminder to her parents, the Martin Munsens, that their daughter's 11th birthday was that day. The reminder was heeded. Karen was treated to dinner Thursday evening, but her happiest moment came on Saturday, when she and 10 friends were taken to an afternoon movie. The girls returned to Karen's home for refreshments. Present for the occasion were Peggy Cunningham, Debbie Danes, Janis Balfour, Tina Harrington, Lynn Gray, Kathy Bobzien, Sheila Shelkop, Kyle McKay, Darlene Strait, all of Arlington Heights, and Karen Wojciuch of Mount Prospect.

THE GEORGE Sampsons 1013 W. Oakton, attended the April 4 wedding ceremony of Mrs. Shirley Eeles and Lloyd B. Flikeid. The new bride is a former resident of Ridge Park and lived on N. Yale for a number of years. They will make their home in Park Ridge.

Diana Rosenblatt was recently officially "pinned" to John McCrudden of Rockford and John came to Arlington Heights to be the Easter weekend guest of Diana's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenblatt of 1007 N. Salem. The Rosenblatts newly-wed son and daughter-in-law, Edward and Nancy, came from Itasca to join the group on Easter.

Bee Danes, 725 N. Harvard, who spent several days in Holy Family Hospital last week, is now recuperating at home.

The party in the Edward Elenz home, 1008 N. Ridge, on Palm Sunday was in honor of their son, Mark. He was confirmed at St. Simon Episcopal Church in Arlington Heights that day, and on April 3 he was 11. Mark's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kauphusman, and his aunt, Miss Gwen Kauphusman, were the guests from Chicago.

IT IS HOPED that Mrs. Edna Lawder of Murphysboro won't meet again with the misfortune that beset her as she came to Arlington Heights this time. She had barely arrived at the home of her daughter and family, the Richard Ethertons of 915 W. Elm, before the garage door slammed shut on her hand. Two fingers were broken in the painful accident. Mrs. Lawder has taken it all in stride, though, and along with her mother, Mrs. Lula Hicks of Murphysboro, is enjoying the remainder of her visit with the Ethertons.

Reports still coming in from Easter confirm that many activities went on, snow or not. Mr. and Mrs. T. Merle Paul, 815 W. Oakton, drove to Harvard to spend the day with her mother, Mrs. Louise Lemker. Also making the trip to Harvard to be with the family were the Pauls' daughter and husband, Ardeth and Jim Yates, who brought their young charmer, Karen.

At 647 N. Kaspar, the home of Arthur and Betty Hughes, more Easter pleasure could be found. They were dinner hosts for Arthur's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harmon from Chicago.

PATTI SHUMATE, 717 N. Salem, began the month of April with the celebration of her 11th birthday. On wednesday, a party was given for Susan Inselberger, Diane Corda, Cyn Dee Kort, LeAnne Niell, Lynn Cornell, Kathy Owens, Ellen Olson, Dawn Dolejs, Donna Miller and Trudi Pods. Margie Phillipp injured her hand and wasn't able to join the group.

Mrs. John Clark, 921 N. Princeton, and her mother, Mrs. P. S. Brubaker of Arlington Heights, went to Pasadena, Calif., on March 18 and returned home April 1. They enjoyed a general sightseeing trip of the Los Angeles area, but the main object of the journey was to visit Mrs. Louise Cushing in Pasadena. The meeting between Mrs. Clark and her aunt, Mrs. Cushing, was quite eventful, because they had not been together for 15 years.

FROM SHERWOOD

Since Rick's college days are not too far in the distant future, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald House, decided to spend the days between March 27 and April 1 taking him on a tour of various campuses. They started with the University of Miami in Ohio and also visited other universitities in Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. When they returned home, their older son, Don, phoned long-distance from the Naval Air Station in Jacksonville. He and his patrol squadron had just returned to Florida from Puerto Rico.

Patty Faust, a freshman at the University of Illinois, is a recent pledge of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. She was home with her parents, the Wayne Fausts of 1314 W. Clarendon, during spring vacation and returned to Champaign April 6.

Bruce Burgess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burgess, 1218 W. Clarendon, is another student who has resumed his studies at the University of Illinois in Urbana.

There was a birthday celebrant at the Norman Herlihy home, 1008 Burgoyne. David was 8 April 3 and had an after-school party for Mark and Ray Carroll, Ricky and Jeff Palmer and John Heinz. David's brothers and sisters were also present.

The Arthur Travers, 1115 N. Yale, were in Wisconsin for the weekend. They stayed at the Milwaukee Athletic Club and attended a dance there Saturday night; the theme of which was "A Night in Paris." The club's decor was so in keeping with the theme that it almost seemed as though the French city was actually transported to Milwaukee for the occasion.

Get well wishes are sent to 1122 N. Patton, where Laurie Sue Olson is recovering from a tonsillectomy.

800 Kids At Easter Egg Hunt

An estimated 800 children turned out for the Third Annual Arlington Heights Park District Easter Egg Hunt.

The event was held at Pioneer, Recreation, and Hasbrook parks for boys and girls in 5th grade and under.

The Arlington Heights Campfire Girls and their leaders assisted the park district in preparations. The younger girls boiled and colored the 200 dozen eggs and the older girls hid the eggs on the day of the hunt, while the children enjoyed a cartoon show inside.

PRIZES, DONATED by Bowen Hardware, were awarded to those finding specially marked eggs.

Bill Appleby, superintendent of recreation for the Park District, extended his gratitude to all those who helped and cooperated to make the event possible.

Break Ground for New Rolling Green Clubhouse

The long-awaited ground breaking ceremony was held Saturday, April 4, at Rolling Green Country Club to officially launch construction of a new half-million dollar clubhouse.

Thomas A. Coward, club president, wielded a golden spade to move the first dirt to make way for the structure, to encompass 43,000 square feet of floor space.

The modern design "Y" shaped building is to include enlarged lounge and dining areas and private meeting rooms, designed to accommodate the present and future needs of the club's membership.

Windows on three sides of the dining areas will overlook the club's fairways, swimming pool and combination water hazard and duck pond. A centrally located kitchen will be equipped to serve up to 350 people.

ARCHITECT for the project, scheduled for completion by 1965, is E. M. Borre of the firm of Cooley and Borre. A. J. Weissmueller is chairman of the building committee, through which the project was born.

"We're embarking on this expansion program in order to continue providing top grade private country club facilities in keeping with the population and income growth in the northwest suburban area," Coward stated at the ground breaking.

The facilities are designed also to provide a larger social membership in the club.

ATTENDING the ground breaking ceremony along with club members were mayors of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Park Ridge; Commissioner William Erickson of the Cook County board, and Chicago District Golf Association officials.

The present clubhouse, with an entrance off of Rand Road north of Euclid, will remain in operation until the new one is built around it.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

Rev. ROBERT H. HARPER

HAIL TO THE CHIEF

"THE KING is dead, long live the King," is an ancient cry that is a seeming contradiction to the man who does not know that two Kings are thought of and "the President is dead, long live the President!" might seem amazing to one who does not know that two Presidents are thought of and that by the orderly process of our democratic government Lyndon B. Johnson has become the President of the United States of America.

We therefore join with millions of our people in shouting the ancient words, "Hail to the Chief!" And let our prayers be mingled that the Mighty One whom George Washington addressed as the Benign Parent of the human race will guide the man who has by chance become the President of the United States.

The Way We See It

Percy Is Best Bet For Illinois GOP

Paddock Publications recommends that Republican voters mark their ballots for Charles H. Percy as the nominee for governor at next Tuesday's primary.

We offer several important reasons why Percy will make a stronger candidate than William J. Scott, his rival.

First is Percy's outstanding record in industry. He became president of Bell & Howell when it was a none too robust company and piloted the firm to a foremost place in its field during the next 15 years. Percy has demonstrated more executive ability than any other candidate for governor in years.

However, that alone is not enough to recommend him. Some businessmen of proved talent have fallen flat on their faces in Washington, in various state capitols, and other political arenas.

But we think Percy has some talent for playing the game of politics. The main evidence is his success as head of the United Republican Fund, which collects money for GOP causes in Illinois, and as chairman of the committee that wrote the 1960 Republican national platform.

Both these efforts required working with different factions in his party and getting agreement. Percy succeeded in doing this.

The third important reason we favor Percy is that he appears better qualified to break with the stale, stifling political habits which hold back the state of Illinois. Percy sounds convincing when he says he will put "first things first." He sounds sincere when he says he will fight patronage excesses. Percy also seems freer than Scott of allies who would stubbornly cling to outdated, narrow political practices.

Percy's biggest failing in this primary campaign has been a striving to be all things to all men. Apparently, he has chosen to steer by the maxim that "the first step in governing is getting elected." Perhaps he has overdone it somewhat. Frankly, we do not see how the chief author of the enlightened platform adopted at the last Republican convention can also say he would "enthusiastically" support Barry M. Goldwater for President.

What of Scott?

He, too, has been successful in business, although on a more modest scale.

Scott does not appear to have as much potential for uniting Republicans as Percy does. When Scott announced his candidacy for the nomination, he denounced "liberals" and "Eastern interests" in the style of the extreme right wing of Republicanism. His intimate association with Hayes Robertson does not enhance his prospects of uniting the party. Scott had to be sharply challenged before he disavowed distribution by some of his supporters of printed material questioning Percy's patriotism.

Scott showed political talent by his successful campaigns in 1962 to be nominated for state treasurer and then elected. But he does not appear to have the same understanding of the broad picture that Percy has.

Scott declined Paddock Publications' invitation to take part in a wide-ranging interview, although offered his choice of dates over a five-week period. We recall that when we interviewed him during his race for state treasurer, he avoided expressing himself except on matters directly connected with the treasurer's office. We do not believe he has the broader grasp of needs and issues that would permit his party to make him chairman of its national platform committee, as Percy was.

Percy has waged a vigorous, high-level campaign in which he demonstrated an informed interest in state problems and a willingness to provide needed leadership.

For Republicans, Charles H. Percy is the best bet for governor.

We Recommend Bickley

The Republican nomination for Cook County State's Attorney carries some extra importance because the nominee has a better chance than most other Republicans of being elected. At least, this is what the record shows.

Apparently, this is because a large segment of voters, noting that the Democrats dominate city and county offices, want some checks and balances and believe that the law enforcement offices are the best place to get them.

Thus, Benjamin Adamowski was elected state's attorney in 1956 and Richard B. Ogilvie was elected sheriff two years ago, although most of their GOP running mates went down to defeat.

There is considerable contrast between the two Republican aspirants for state's attorney this year — Adamowski and John Bickley of Mount Prospect.

Adamowski is a veteran of the political wars, with many years in the state legislature as well as in city and county politics. At one time a Democrat, he switched parties. He probably knows the ins-and-outs of Cook County politics as well as anyone.

Bickley is a relative newcomer and only 34 years old.

The state's attorney will be expected to battle the syndicate, expose and disperse alliances between crime and politics, make significant inroads on the narcotics traffic which provides the impetus for so much other crime, as well as conduct efficiently all the more routine affairs of the office.

Which Republican is better qualified to tackle the job?

We think the office needs a young and vigorous chief, free of old political entanglements, able to start with a clean slate.

A former Assistant United States District Attorney, Bickley has been a trial lawyer since he was 22 years of age. He was appointed as a special prosecutor in Chicago's Summerdale police burglary scandal and appears to carry the credentials needed to serve well as state's attorney of Cook County. He has set forth a program which, in our opinion, he should be given a chance to implement.

His primary opponent, Adamowski, failed to distinguish himself while he held that office. There is no reason to believe he would do better if given another chance.

For these reasons, we recommend Bickley's nomination.

'Such Disarming Ease...'

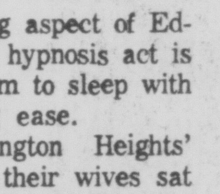
A Hypnotist at Work

by BRUCE LADD
Associate Editor

The intriguing aspect of Edwin L. Baron's hypnosis act is that he puts 'em to sleep with such disarming ease.

Fifteen Arlington Heights' Rotarians and their wives sat in two rows of straight-backed chairs at the Rolling Green Country Club last week.

They stared at the ceiling and heard Baron's soothing voice.



LADD

It said: "Close your eyes and relax. You are feeling very tired. You are going to be deep, deep asleep in a few minutes."

Three of the volunteers-for-hypnosis slept soundly. The others, unable to concentrate themselves into slumber, silently left the stage.

THOSE HYPNOTIZED — a minister, an auto dealer and a salesman — were steered through a humorous series of antics by Baron, who bills himself as "the world's most famous hypnotist."

First it was cold and then it was hot. The subjects laughed heartily at a "suggested" motion picture and then cried real tears when the plot saddened.

Before beginning his demonstration, the middle-aged Baron instructed his audience of 50 local residents to "relax" with him by raising their arms and hands over their heads, interlocking their fingers tightly.

HE APPLIED the sincerity, concentration, and cooperation verbiage and five members of the audience became hypnotized. They were unable to unlock their fingers upon being awakened.

"Hypnotism is one of the most amazing aspects of life," Baron explained at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club of Arlington Heights. "It has solved 'incurable' ills and permitted people to sustain great pain.

"In 2,000 years, no case of a hypnotized person failing to awaken has ever been reported.

"No hypnotized person can be made to do things against his will or character, and no weak-minded person can be hypnotized."

AFTER hypnotizing his three prime subjects, Baron asked them to hold their hands out in front of them. He told them they would feel no pain in their left hands.

And they did not, he proved, by holding a lighted match up to the palm of each left hand.

Next, he advised them that their suitcoats were inside-out. They stood, removed their coats, turned them (in reality) inside-out, and put them back on.

Baron told them they would be greeted by obnoxious odors on either side. They were. One held his handkerchief to his nose, while another scuttled his chair away from his neighbors.

Finally, the three were admonished to awaken, but told they would be unable to arise from their chairs.

Sure enough. They woke up, struggled for a moment to stand, and then sat back in defeat.

"Alright, you may leave the stage now," Baron said.

The three sat passively.

"What's the matter?" Baron asked. "Why don't you return to your tables?"

A LITTLE embarrassed, the minister responded, "I'm striving." He did too, straining at the arms of the chair to stand up.

The salesman, unable to stand, began to slide his chair across the room — all the time seated in it.

And so it was.

Baron, holder of a Ph. B. degree in psychology from Loyola University, has helped thousands of persons reduce their weights by hypnotism.

He is director of the Hypnotism Institute of Chicago, 116 S. Michigan Ave., and is a consultant to the University of Illinois Medical School. He assists in medical research and hypnotic childbirth at the university.

"When I was a student in college, my psychology professor was doing a hypnosis research project," Baron said. "He asked me to assist him. I learned hypnosis, and that's what I've been doing for 25 years."

HE POINTED out that many people require "longer periods of suggestion" in order to be hypnotized, explaining why most of the 15 volunteers did not succumb.

Eye contact is not necessary in hypnosis, he said.

One of Baron's most significant accomplishments was the project in which he hypnotized a Gary, Ind., woman for five days and nights.

He has helped amnesia victims recover memory and has helped heavy smokers cut down or stop smoking completely.

HOWEVER, the stop-smoking hypnosis was fruitless here last week. The three volunteers who wanted to stop smoking could not be hypnotized.

Baron pioneered the use of hypnotism in dentistry and recently gave a convincing demonstration of hypnosis as an effective substitute for anesthetics at the University of Illinois Medical School.

His strangest assignment was for a movie company that wanted him to hypnotize subjects at State and Randolph Streets in Chicago.

He succeeded. Traffic was snarled in the street for hours and police and fire departments were called to handle the crowds.

A Report from the Publisher

Striving to Keep Abreast

The addition of another newspaper to Paddock Publications, Inc. group of suburban newspapers and the further development of a Sunday edition are two recent examples of our recognition of the new position and growing responsibilities of suburban publishing.

They serve to demonstrate how Paddock Publications is continually exploring new approaches to suburban journalism, striving to keep abreast of the changing demands of our suburban readership and advertisers.

This week marks the introduction of the Hanover-Streamwood Herald — the 15th edition in a growing family of Thursday newspapers serving northwest Cook and north DuPage counties. The new Herald will provide concentrated news coverage and advertising service in rapidly-expanding Hanover Township, including the new communities of Hanover Park and Streamwood.

Started in 1962 as a mass circulation medium, The Sunday Suburbanite has undergone extensive remodeling in recent months to further its development as our Sunday edition. News of area-wide interest was introduced to The Suburbanite in December, and classified advertising was added to the edition beginning last Sunday. These improvements are designed to further increase readership, to meet a demand for an area-wide news medium, and to provide advertisers with the additional depth of coverage offered by a Sunday edition.

The birth of the new Herald and expansion of The Suburbanite appropriately serve to remind us of our function and responsibility as community newspapers.

What is the definition of a newspaper? Is it a bulletin board for special groups? Is it a purveyor of spot news? Is it a collection of features and sports coverage? Or is it not a little of all these things, and an interpreter and reporter of social and political issues.

Many changes in style, format, and approach have been effected by Paddock Publications in recent years; others are contemplated for the future as we seek ways and means to make our newspapers more compact and readable.

Under the leadership of a professional staff of writers, reporters, and photographers, we are expanding local news, local features, and local pictures; further development of this local coverage is planned.

Paddock Publications believes that a newspaper has, or should have, a leading role in creating the sort of community in which people thrive and take pride. A newspaper must represent the aspirations of the best elements of the community. We believe that one of our major tasks is to strive for the common good of the community.

That our newspapers work in the best interests of the whole community and not just for a few special interests has been proven time and again in our 92 years of publishing in northwest Chicagoland. In the past 10 years alone, we have been honored with more than 160 state and national press awards for journalistic excellence and disinterested public service.

This is not an occasion, however, for self-praise nearly so much as it is an occasion for self-appraisement. It is time to rededicate ourselves to the trust placed in us by an intelligent, progressive, and enlightened citizenship.

Our efforts to improve editorial content, newspaper readership, and community service are all designed to provide you with better community newspapers. Your comments and suggestions will be most appreciated.

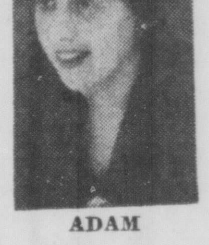
Race Issue Irrational

by PAT ADAM
Staff Editor

There is no doubt in my mind that the major moral issue in this land today is how the white majority is going to react to the attainment of the civil and human rights of the black minority.

I believe the complete attainment of those rights is inevitable, and white citizens have their choice of fighting a losing battle or adjusting willingly to a new set of circumstances.

In the suburbs where many have little direct contact with Negroes and their problems of discrimination, it is easy to turn away from the issue in the belief that it doesn't concern us much anyway.



ADAM

That may be true to the extent that we are confronted with no immediate situation in which we must either act or react, but there are factors at work that may force us to meet a situation before we think we are ready.

LAST YEAR THE Human Relations Commission of Chicago reported that the Negro middle class had grown tremendously in the preceding decade. This trend certainly will increase in the next 10 years both as a natural phenomenon and with impetus from efforts to end or at least ease job and educational discrimination.

There is no reason to think that middle class Negroes are any different from other middle class persons whose power to boost their living standards has increased—they want better homes, better schools and a better community.

Whether all of them will find what they want within the city is debatable, and at least a few are going to see their goals in the suburbs.

THIS MOVE HAS started already with no spectacular success. Most white suburbanites adjust eventually to working with Negroes, learning with Negroes and in other contacts where they have little choice but to conform, but they emphatically shut the door when faced with having Negro neighbors, one area where they still exercise control.

The question of open occupancy seems to arouse more emotion than reason.

Those who oppose open occupancy or forced housing legislation—the term one uses depends upon your side of the fence — are certainly within their rights to challenge such legislation. But they will have to admit, the legislation would never even have been proposed if the Negro had met a welcome reception when he began to seek a home in the suburbs.

THE USUAL argument against Negroes moving into our suburbs is the fear that property values will go down. Any effort to pursue this argument will turn up much evidence to the contrary. Property values depend just as much upon the white resident and his reaction. If he flees, the values may go down.

The Negro seeking a home in the suburbs is not a low income-bracket laborer. He is either in a profession or a skilled worker with the means to buy and maintain a home the same as any white. He is just as eager for a good community as are we who already live in the suburbs. He works just as hard for the money that pays his mortgage.

More than that, he is a human being with hopes, fears, dreams and ideals the same as other American citizens who want more or better for their children than they had themselves. He is also a new breed of Negro, young, confident and proud of his racial heritage and willing to undergo great sacrifices to achieve full realization of what America promises to all its citizens.

COMMUNITY GROUPS and leaders should be working out a positive approach to a situation they may face sooner than they anticipate. Otherwise we will end up with a black city encircled by white suburbs and our own "Berlin wall" of hate and prejudice between.

The issue should be out in the open for discussion, not shoved under the rug like so much unwanted dirt. There are professionals available to give advice on how a community may make the adjustment.

The "pursuit of happiness" has been interpreted to include the right to own property, but that ideal is less than fulfilled if all citizens are not free to choose where they will live. We in the suburbs are the beneficiaries of nearly 200 years of contributions and sacrifices to the cause of freedom, and we dishonor those contributions and sacrifices if we stand in the way of any citizen's achieving his full rights.

Talk of Voter Apathy Called A Smokescreen

There are some facts about the election of members of the Mount Prospect Board of Education that I would like the people of this community to have.

Much has been said by members of the ROSE group about voter apathy in last year's uncontested election. They are using this as a "smoke screen" reason for why they organized. If you examine the records you will find that real apathy existed in Mount Prospect during the years when the former board members who now support this group and attack the caucus were elected. For example, in 1952, when Russell Smith and Leonard Synder were elected, the total vote cast was 43; in 1955 Russell Smith and Robert Schiller were elected with 69 and 68 votes respectively; in 1958 the town cast 155 winning votes for Schiller and 154 for William Cox.

Hard as it is to believe, in 1956 the educational tax rate was increased to $1.25 by a vote of 79 to 23—a total of 102 votes cast in an election which changed every taxpayer's tax rate.

This is apathy, and these are the years when the public must have been unconcerned with school affairs, when there were no spectators at school board meetings, and no one questioned anything so long as the schools were bright and clean.

In the last six years we have seen the town grow, and with these new people came interest, questions and in many cases a basis for comparison. In the past few years we have watched things happen from minor issues such as a relaxing of the "no lunch eaten at school" rule, an avoidance of split shifts at one school (after board members were told there was no alternative), avoidance of double-shift classes; to major accomplishments such as a remedial reading program, the establishment of libraries, an improved science program, to mention but a few. But all of these were accomplished through the impetus of the board itself or the insistence of the parents.

Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, told participants in the 16th annual School Public Relations Conference March 14, "school boards should remember that education is not just brick and mortar and school finance. The main concern should be 'education' and this means curriculum,s the quality of teaching and learning, setting an educational tone or standard."

We have a school board that understands this and we are trying to keep it strong. Our opponents, however, ask you to vote for three men, none of whom have any record of service in school-related activities, and who are supported by people who we suspect would like to return to the "good old days" of passive acceptance.

We of the Caucus ask you to re-elect two incumbents, June Brownell and William Krampert, who can stand proudly on their records, and add to the board a third member, Richard Drews, whose interest was awakened by his active participation on the Sunset Park PTA Educational Goals Committee, and who we know would serve this community well.

Please, Mount Prospect, don't go back to sleep.

Call Critic of Palatine Prom 'Misinformed'

An answer to Mr. Rogers on Palatine after-prom:

What a shame you are so misinformed. Evidently you did not read your school newsletters, for if you did you would have found a flyer informing every parent of meetings and phone numbers of Post-Prom planning committees. All parents were invited to come and voice their opinions.

This was not done overnight. It took a great deal of time phoning approvals, meetings, and many volunteer hours from interested parents. All aspects were considered, mainly safety and the most wholesome fun for the money.

Students who attended the pron. last year were asked to estimate expenditures and ours fell under this by a goodly amount.

The students who attended the meetings, opened to all junior and senior students, selected this type of after prom event. The parents were grateful for the safety it offered.

Another thing, Mr. Rogers, the high school has no part in these plans. This is strictly a parent committee. Your student may attend the prom and go out afterwards just as he wishes. Our only stipulation is that they may not attend the after-prom train without supporting the prom at school. Hope this sets the record straight. Thank you.

Wants Ratings Published for Motion Pictures

Several weeks ago I observed that some readers of your paper requested that you list the rating of the motion pictures that you advertise.

I feel this rating would help us parents in editing motion pictures for our children to see.

Without such ratings, we are helpless when it comes to selecting some of the latest pictures. I sincerely feel this would be a great service to us parents.

Claims Civil Rights Bill Is Discrimination in Reverse

I am writing this letter as an independent citizen without connection with any party or special interest group. I am concerned over the apathy and apparent lack of understanding of the electorate regarding the proposed civil rights bill now under deliberation by the U.S. Senate.

It is a controversial, complicated piece of legislation with far-reaching implications. It seems popular and socially acceptable these days in these parts to hop aboard the civil rights bandwagon. Taking a stand against civil rights is like being against apple pie, motherhood and Old Glory.

There are two sections of the proposed bill—Titles II and VII—which are, in effect, discrimination with a reverse twist. Title II on public accomodations is totally unenforceable in the southern states.

Put yourself in the place of a southern innkeeper. You open your establishment to Negroes—those passing through and a few localites who avail themselves of your service. Your steady clientele boycotts you, socially ostracizes you and your family, and brings economic pressure to bear. So you end up bankrupt—financially and socially.

This shouldn't happen. It isn't right. Well, it would in many cases. So what would you do—accept the local mores and customs — or follow a decree from Washington?

Prohibition proved that laws are totally worthless if the local population doesn't respect them. Secondly, the Constitution does not contain any provisions for regulation of intra-state commerce or services. It rather stretches a point to say that the mattress in the inn was shipped across state lines so therefore the innkeeper is in inter-state commerce which makes him subject to Federal regulation.

How about Title VII which will create virtually thousands of Motorola cases? This section is so broadly written that private businessmen will lose all control of employment practices. As a person who is called upon to interview applicants, from time to time, I resent not being able to make decisions intelligently on who I will or will not hire.

What it boils down to is this—you cannot outlaw prejudice. Only time, education of all races, Christian inter-action and most importantly, the desire of the 10 per cent minority to become contributing citizens to their communities can bring about equal rights for all. Respect, social acceptance and admiration have to be earned. They are not necessarily God-given and they surely cannot be legislated by the Federal Government.

When the electorate realizes the total effect of this legislation as I hope they will in time, their voice will outweigh the highly organized, vocal minority pressure blocs which badgered the House of Representatives into stampeding the bill's passage.

Percy Accused Of Associating With Liberals

After several weeks of wondering about it, I have finally seen a copy of that "scurrilous" piece of anti-Percy literature mentioned in your paper. I am amazed that the following types of information should be classified as unfit for people who must do their best in selecting the man for the top job in the State:

1) Percy's endorsement of liberal, left-wing appointments to the IFEPC by Gov. Kerner.

2) Percy's part in a Conference which recommended that we "cozy up" to the Communists.

3) Quotations from Percy's past comments on various subjects.

4) Quotations from political writers in Chicago's Tribune and Sun-Times, the N.Y. Times, Newsweek and Time Magazine. (All citing the liberal orientation of Percy.)

5) A list of the Liberals Percy has "flocked with."

Land Sakes! I bet your paper wouldn't even want us to know about Percy's connection with the Council on Foreign Relations which is said to make and lobby for our foreign aid programs—nor with the Chase Bank in New York which is a beneficiary of those programs—nor that it has been written that Percy's Governorship is considered a step to the Presidency. All of these items are relevant to voters making a wise choice, but somehow are classified as Verboten!

Percy Praised As Builder of Giant Dimensions

Illinois is facing the most critical period in its 146 year history as a state. The lag in our economic growth is the biggest issue of the 1964 campaign. Illinois, during the period of 1939 to 1962 grew only 55 per cent in the number of persons working in non-agriculture jobs, while the national average was 80.7 per cent.

Our state is a great state industrially and agriculturally. It is among the top states in federal tax collections but last year ranked 41st in defense contract awards.

Chuck Percy is a builder of giant dimensions. He is experienced in originating policy, experienced in methods of stimulating economic growth, and in fiscal responsibility, as well as being thoroughly acquainted with industrial, financial, educational and scientific leadership throughout the nation.

Illinois can't afford a mistake in choosing its next governor. It must have as its chief executive a man with exceptional management abilities; a man with vitality, vision, resourcefulness and courage.

One candidate, Charles H. Percy, offers all of these qualities and more. Chuck feels and has stated many times that, as chief executive, his motto will be: "My job is to build the State of Illinois by creating greater opportunities for its people."

After reviewing all of Chuck's background as a businessman and as a great contributor to the Republican Party over the past years, I feel that I must speak out for the Percy for Governor Committee of Elk Grove Township in stating that it is great to be working for a man who can campaign on his own qualifications and not have to rely upon innuendoes and snide remarks about his opponent.

Defends Plans For Palatine's Post Prom Party

In answer to your article, R. G. Rogers, of last week's Hoffman and Palatine Herald, let me put you straight.

1. School officials and faculty members are not in any way supporting the Post Prom Party.

2. Thought, has been given to all students and this is why a Post Prom Party has been planned. Students who can only afford the expenses of a Prom, which is always the price of a ticket, renting of a tuxedo and the price of a corsage for the girl, can still do so.

The other students, who most of them work to get money for such occasions can have a safe after prom good time. If it was not for this planned Post Prom Party, many of these students would spend much more money doing and going places that might end up in a disaster and bring disgrace to our school.

It is unfortunate that the price must be so high as you put it, but being the first year anything like this was ever done in Palatine, inexperience is costly.

If parents who feel like R. G. Rogers would inquire around a little they would find out that students in past years have spent a great deal more than $27 for an after prom good time. Also if they would attend the meetings which they were invited to, they could voice their opinions and also help in the planning.

If this is such an outrageous plan, why is it then that almost every suburban high school in this area has been doing it for many years?

From an interested mother who feels that Palatine High School officials and Faculty have been wrongly criticized for something they are not supporting or have anything to do with the planning.

Says Founders Seek Only Power

In the March 26 issue of the Palatine Township papers, a news item regarding the reactivity of the YRs appeared on the front page. I read the article . . .and noticed several inaccuracies (I am being polite), which I assume was presented to the Paddock Papers by the sponsors of all this activity.

I would like to correct these "inaccuracies."

Shall we go back to the month of July, the 29th day and the year 1958?

Twenty persons met in the home of Kenneth Gobeyn, president of Palatine Township Regular Republican Club, at 2703 George Court, Rolling Meadows. Among several guests from the Cook County Young Republican Organization was Carl Hansen, Elk Grove Committeeman and campaign manager for Chuck Percy, who was Past President of the Cook County YRs.

The meeting was called to discuss the establishing of a Young Republican Organization in the township.

May I repeat the date — July 29, 1958.

If my information is correct . . .and I know it is. . .Alex MacArthur was not even a resident of the township at that time. In fact, no one in the group had even heard of him.

Also, this activity had the unqualified approval of the township committeeman, State Senator Jackson L. Boughner and the full support of the Regular Republican Club.

Does this new club have this backing?

I have read the by-laws of the new club. Article III, Sec. 1 & 3 make me question the policies and purpose of this organization. Knowing something of the members and the sponsor, I'm wondering if they are building an organization for their own purposes in the year 1966.

These sections speak of no cooperation with the regular organization. From my viewpoint it is just another means of trying to grab political power in the township.

If the president and his fellow officers and members are really interested in "getting their feet wet," I know a number of precincts that need captains. There are others that have not been worked properly for years and need new captains. But precinct work is a 12 months out of the year job. But that isn't what you want, is it?

No where in the by-laws does it state anything about working to forward the principles of the Republican Party. You don't care about the principles, only what you can get out of the party.

May I ask where the 35 charter members have been all these years? If they had previously been interested, the former YR organization would not have gone defunct.

The last regular meeting of the former YRs was held Sept. 18, 1961. A special meeting was called for March 11, 1962, and that was the end. From lack of interest, workers and members, the organization gave up the ghost.

I have carefully examined the entire membership list of the former organization and not one name of the new officers, committee chairmen or sponsors appear.

Why the sudden interest in another political organization? We have two now, who are begging for workers. But you don't want to work. . .you only want power and you are determined to get it one way or another. Something for nothing.

The several appearances of one or two of you at the regular organization meetings do not qualify you for criticism of the regular organization. . . I agree the organization is not perfect. . it is made up of imperfect people. . .but I don't see where you are doing anything to change it.

Some of you are like the guy that doesn't vote. . .all holler.

If the conditions in the regular organization are not what you like, why not work to change them from within. . .not from without?

Margaret E. Chapman
Rolling Meadows.

Palatine Student Explains Background of Prom Party

Speaking as a junior co-ed at Palatine High School and having read the letter concerning the post-prom party, let me give the views of one out of many PTHS students.

The prom of Palatine has always been away from the school and this area, usually at a hotel in Chicago. Beginning now, at the prom of 1964 and probably for a long time hence, its site has been changed to the school proper.

As you can probably understand, there is much disappointment held by the Class of '64 and all the rest of us. "Why couldn't they let us have just one more 'away' prom?" is a question often asked of oneself and of one another. But that "one more" finally came in 1963. The feeling until a few months ago has generally been "Why go, it's just another school event." or "Why get a formal and wear it only to the school."

Then a group of sensitive parents organized. These people felt and understood our dissatisfaction with the situation at hand and decided to do something to make prom night one which will never be forgotten.

Several meetings of parents and representatives of the student body got together to discuss the idea of an after-prom, all-night affair. This had to be satisfying to both parents and students.

After several meetings and ideas, it was decided that a train would be hired, cars decorated, and immediately following the dance all prommers would jump into the cars and be "shipped" up to Zion and Illinois Beach State Park. Having enjoyed swimming, walking, eating, etc. until 4 p.m. Sunday., then all participants and chaperones would be returned to Palatine to pick up their well-protected goods (dance clothes) from the Fremd High School locker rooms.

The entire event has been carefully planned. Parents are volunteering for such jobs as helping girls get out of those lovely gowns and into casual clothes and undecorating those crepe paper laden railroad cars.

As far as expense is concerned—prior to the planning of the post-prom affair, probably twice as much money was necessary for an after-the-prom outing. Traditionally this event lasts into the next day, and usually, if not always, is unsupervised. The cost is well divided. The girl's dress will cost as much as the after-prom party, as well as the rental of a tux. The other expenses on each side total to a very similar figure.

All of the above mentioned are actually quite trivial, but are these as trivial? If your son or daughter is going to a large affair, isn't it comforting to know that concerned parents like yourself are on hand in case anything comes up? And isn't it nice to know that he or she isn't in an over-crowded car going to heaven only knows where for how long?

I am sure many parents are all for this coming event and share the enthusiasm with their son or daughter. I hope that both realize the situation at hand and make this a memorable event for all invooved.

Thanks Paper For Cooperation On Polio Drive

May I extend my sincere appreciation to you and your paper for your fine cooperation in publicizing our first mass polio immunization on March 22.

It was a most gratifying experience to work with so many dedicated volunteers.

The progress made in recent years in the effort to wipe out polio is very exciting to those in my profession and to lay people as well.

Let us hope that this "miracle" can be repeated many more times to eliminate other diseases.

Again, I thank you for your wonderful cooperation.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

Track Prospects Bright If Weatherman Cooperates

EARLY RETURNS HAVE BEEN EXAMINED and filed, and track enthusiasts in Illinois are excited.

But any excitement generated by performances indoors is tempered by the knowledge that the success of an outdoor campaign hinges on the disposition of our weatherman.

The weatherman can be a big nuisance around this time every year. With his help we could be headed for the finest cinder season in Illinois history. Chances are he won't be that cooperative.

The outdoor season in Illinois is scarcely seven weeks in length and unusual is the spring when more than two of those weeks provide favorable weather. One half of the total rainfall in this region is accumulated during the month of May.

Several observers have placed a "best ever" tag on the cast of schoolboy trackmen ready to assault the record book in Illinois, and the hope now is that these prep stickouts will have a chance to perform under acceptable conditions.

You hear a lot about the marks turned in by the California preps, for example, but remember that those youngsters have the benefit of good weather throughout the spring and an outdoor season of interminable length. Send our Illinois kids out there and you'd see something.

Actually, we'd like to see our track season extended, not by late league meets but by pushing the state finals back to the first weekend in June.

Training Methods Change

TRACK COACHES TODAY ENCOURAGE hard work for their runners, but did you know an old theory was that it was dangerous to run too much before a meet? It was felt that the athlete would leave his race on the practice track.

Today, boys like Tom O'Hara of Chicago, probably the top American miler and a good bet to win the 1500 meters at the Olympics, thrive on hard work. He runs many miles a week in preparation.

Several observers feel the change in American running came with the adoption of the Swedish program called "fartlek." That means "running for fun" and consists of running, jogging, running, jogging, and so on.

It changed the concept of how much running could be done in training. The Europeans knew it, and were winning in the Olympics.

Training methods have changed. Today, we know that runners actually are better off for doing a lot of running.

Leo Johnson, track coach at the University of Illinois, has a secret ambition he may never realize. "I believe you can train thoroughbred horses to be much faster than they are presently," he says. "They don't work horses nearly as hard as human runners.

"I believe the same training methods are applicable to thoroughbreds. There are a few trainers who lean toward the idea, but most won't have anything to do with it."

One veteran trainer told Johnson, "I use the same training methods everyone does, and if the horse loses the owner blames the horse. But if I switched to a different program and the horse lost, they'd blame me and it would cost me my job."

Watch Out For Lockport

HERE'S ANOTHER CASE of the rich getting richer. Lockport of the rugged South Suburban league, a basketball power in the state, may be the club to watch next winter.

The Porters have 6-foot-4 Bill Ford, a third team All-Stater, and 6-foot-2 Mike Murawski as key returnees, and now we've received word that they'll also have the services of a 6-foot-6 transfer.

Highly regarded Dave Ramsden of Hoopeston, Ill. is rumored on the move to Lockport. Dave whipped in points at a 20.4 ppg clip as a junior.

Looking At The Lighter Side

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE OF SPORTS:

Texas A & M basketball coach Shelby Metcalf likes to tell about all the country boys on his squad. One received a letter from home reporting there had been a fire in the bathroom. When Metcalf expressed sympathy, the player replied, "Don't worry, coach, they got the fire out before it ever reached the house."

Did you hear about the coach who, just after finishing a poor season, was rushed to the hospital for serious surgery? The chairman of the athletic board sent him a wire which read, "Wish you a speedy recovery — by a vote of four to three."

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

ARLINGTON'S DICK WINTERBAUER set two records at the Decatur Relays . . . He flipped the shot put 56-2 and the discus 148-8¾ . . . Dennis Striegel and Wayne Mueller also placed in the weight events . . . York toppled Arlington's baseball nine, 4-1, but the Cards rebounded with an 11-inning, 3-2 victory over Hinsdale on Rog Thomas' clutch single . . . Ed Linneman was the winning pitcher.

Cards Slated To Open Today

Arlington Hampered by Lack of Work Outdoors

by BOB FRISK

When Bob Baker wards off questions about his varsity baseball team at Arlington with an "I don't know," he means just that.

Bob has been working with his club for two weeks now but realizes he still has a lot to learn about his charges.

It's pretty difficult for a baseball coach to evaluate his entry after two weeks of practice when the practice has been restricted to indoor workouts.

"WE HAVEN'T been outside yet," Baker reported Tuesday morning. "I hope we're able to get in at least one day of actual hitting before our first game."

Arlington opens its 1964 season today (Thursday) with a contest at Niles East. The Cards entertain Prospect Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at Recreation Park.

Forced indoors by the weather, Arlington's varsity candidates have not been inactive. "You can do a lot indoors, but we're to the point now where we need to get outside," Baker said.

ALTHOUGH BAKER hasn't seen his outfit in actual game conditions, he does have some ideas on a starting alignment for today's opener. He plans to "see what develops" insofar as the pitching duties with hopes at splitting the work among his three veterans.

Paul Splittorff, Steve Martin, and Dave Christensen are the experienced mound performers. They combined for 105 innings last spring and earned eight of the squad's nine victories.

"I also may want to use the juniors (John Friedl and Jim Kroll) in these two non-conference games," Baker added. "I want to see as many kids as possible before we open in the West Suburban."

Five juniors, three seniors, and one sophomore will probably get the nod today for Arlington in the road contest at Niles East.

JUNIOR MIKE Frase, who lettered with the varsity as a sophomore, will lead off and play second base. Gordie Keeley, a senior letterman, will bat second and play center field, and southpaw Jerry Fink, a junior, will hit third and work at first base.

Splittorff, a senior left-hander, is expected to get the first call on the mound.

BAKER EMPHASIZES that this is just a tentative lineup subject to change. "We have some other boys who might work into the starting team," he points out, "but that will depend on what develops when we get outside."

Arlington will journey to Glenbard West next Wednesday afternoon, April 15, for the West Suburban Conference opener. The Cards will host Downers Grove in a twin-bill on Saturday, April 18.

Plan Track Honor Roll For Preps

Paddock Publications will presena a weekly honor roll of the top high school track and field marks in Illinois.

Track coaches have been asked to participate in the honor roll, directing their top performances to Paddock's sports department.

Marks should be relayed to either Bob Frisk or Tom Tully of Paddock's sports staff at CLearbrook 3-1520 (day) and CLearbrook 3-1525 (after 5 p.m.)

Paddock Publications will terminate the 1964 outdoor season with announcement of its ninth annual All-State Track Team.

Willowbrook Hosts Knight Nine Today; Warriors Optimistic

by HOWARD HARMENING

Prospect's varsity baseballers journey to Villa Park today (Thursday) to test the tough Willowbrook Warriors, weather permitting.

Strong in batting, coach Dave Schmitz of Willowbrook sees an even better year for Warrior sluggers.

"Our pitchers, who look real good, don't have much experience," he says, "but our hitting should take care of our lack of experience there."

Why the confidence? Schmitz saw his team averave .320 overall in hitting last year. In addition, he has three of his top batsmen back.

INCLUDED IN this trio of veteran sluggers are catcher Dick Busch, right fielder Tom Stengren and first baseman Bob MacKaben, all seniors.

Busch, the co-captain, leads the group of returning lettermen with .427 in 68 at bats and had 59 RBI's last season. Estengren, meanwhile, had .400 in 35 at bats and MacKaben .319 in 72.

Another possible threat in a slugfest may be junior Bob Cannon, a pitcher who was brought up to the varsity in the middle of last season. In 18 at bats with the varsity, Cannon had six hits for .333.

ONE OF THREE possible starters on the mound in the Prospect clash, Cannon hurled a 5-0 record with the varsity last year. If Cannon doesn't start against the Knights, Schmitz said he would go with

Lions' Nine Hits The Road

St. Viator First Area Outfit to See Action

by BOB FRISK

St. Viator's varsity baseball team plays five games in the next eight days, if the weatherman gives his okay, but head coach Frank Mariani isn't worried.

Most coaches fear a crowded schedule which burdens normally thin prep pitching staffs.

Mariani is in the enviable position of having three experienced hurlers ready, and he's anxious to see his flingers toil under actual game conditions.

Sophomore flash Joe Sanchez worked Monday afternoon and checked Immaculate Conception with two hits, 8-3, in the season opener. St. Viator was the first area squad able to launch its schedule.

Righthander Jeff Haiduke, a senior, was slated to work yesterday (Wednesday) against Ridgewood, and junior southpaw Jim Vidt will try to master St. Francis of Wheaton today (Thursday).

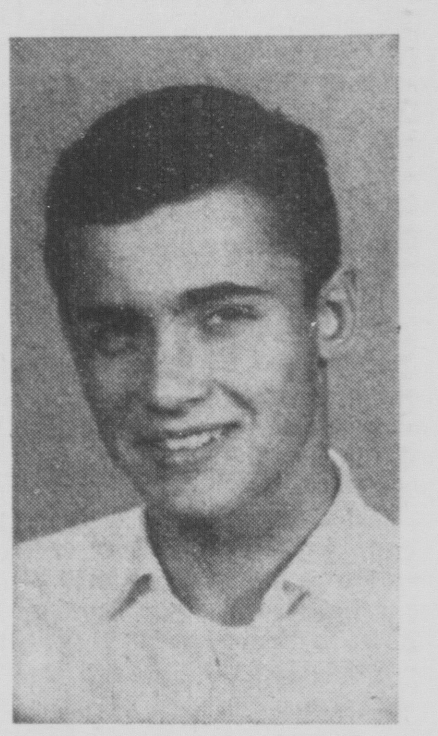
Mariani will counter with Sanchez again Friday against Elmwood Park as the Lions complete a string of four straight road encounters. St. Viator returns home Saturday for a contest at 12:30 p.m. with Tuley.

THE SCHEDULE next week calls for a home game with Holy Cross (Monday), and trip to St. George (Wednesday). Contests also are scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Although Mariani will work primarily with his big three of Sanchez, Haiduke, and Vidt, he can call on Chuck Heinrich or Mike Sheetz if the situation dictates. Heinrich is the regular second baseman but is no stranger to the mound. Sheetz is a promising lefty.

Mariani is celebrating his 100th coaching victory this week thanks to the Lions' conquest of Immaculate Conception Monday. Frank now sports a nifty 100-16 coaching record in varsity baseball.

THE VETERAN coach, who is in his last year at St. Viator, was pleased with his squad's performance in the opener Monday. "The boys were hitting the ball hard," he pointed out, "and I was especially encouraged by the work of the lower part of our order."



JOE SANCHEZ
Wins Opener

Five of the Lions' nine safeties came from the four stickers placed in the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth slots. Center fielder Tom Nitch, hitting eighth, had a double and single with his two-base blow rocketing off the tennis court fence.

But the big blow was a three-run homer in the fourth inning by leadoff man and shortstop Ron Bakalar. With Nitch and Tim Walinski on base Bakalar, a .296 swinger last spring, ram-

Tryouts Slated For Major Loops

Final tryouts for the major leagues in Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League will take place this Saturday at two locations. Boys living north of the railroad are asked to report to Recreation Park and those living south to Pioneer Park.

Boys whose league age is 10 are to come at 12:30 p.m. and 11 and 12-year-olds who have not played in the major leagues previously are to report at 1:30 p.m.

Since all boys are eligible for the major league draft whether or not they try out, they are asked to help the managers in their selections by coming to the tryouts. It is hoped that boys who tried out last Saturday will return this week.

Late signup for those who have decided they would like to play in the Arlington leagues this summer will take place at Pioneer Park fieldhouse from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday. Fees are $8 for the first boy in a family and $5 for each additional boy.

Boys who did not play in Arlington Heights last year must bring a birth certificate (those who will be eight before Aug. 1 and have not reached their 17th birthday by that date are eligible).

All registrants must be accompanied at the signups by a parent.

At Proviso West

Falcon Baseballers Get 1st Test Today

by HOWARD HARMENING

Forced to reschedule its first two slated games, Forest View baseballers will test their talents for the first time this year when they journey to Proviso West today (Thursday).

Posting a 12-4 record last year, Proviso West will start senior Ken Erdmann, owner of a 4-1 mark last season, on the mound. A letterman, Erdmann is one of five returning veterans greeted by coach Ed Gilbert.

Gilbert also has lettermen Bob Coan, Ken Blowsher, Frank Yaccino and Greg Willmer back. Coan, a third baseman, hit .327 last season, while Blowsher, the right fielder who also pitches, also "hits awfully well," said the coach.

Yaccino is slated to start at first base, while Willmer will be Gilbert's shortstop.

Mark Kowack, the catcher, will also be watched closely by Gilbert this season. A junior, Kowack batted .290 last year with the varsity.

THE PANTHERS, winning their first clash in district competition last season, were blanked in the second game 1-0 by Willowbrook.

Other probable starters for Proviso West include Dennis Holub, second base; Jim Adaimek, left field; and Mike Davison, centerfield.

Forest View mentor Hal Sprehe will counter with Tom Wilkes (0-6) on the mound for the first three or four innings; Steve Jacobsen, for the middle two innings; and then finish with Tom Lundgren (2-4).

The Proviso West clash is tentatively scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m., weather permitting. Other upcoming games on the Falcon agenda call for Forest View to host Holy Cross at 11

Controversy Exists

Are Plastic Pins Helpful To Your Game?

Bowlers take note! Those lively new plastic bowling pins rumored to provide "more bounce to the ounce" may not, in reality, be improving your bowling score. In fact, the chances of racking up strikes may be greater with the old, lacquer-coated wooden pins.

Although plastic-coated pins have virtually replaced wooden ones, organizations like the National Committee for Honest Bowling Conditions headed by Wilson Taylor feel that plastic pins only serve to make "bad bowlers look good," and they protest "super - soft conditions" in bowling alleys.

On the other hand, the American Bowling Congress, regulatory body of the sport, feels that plastic pins do not affect the scoring ability of the bowler. There are those who disagree with the ABC, namely some manufacturers of bowling equipment who sell their plastic pins on the grounds that they are "livelier for higher scores."

IN AN EFFORT to shed some light on this controversy, Popular Mechanics has conducted tests to determine the effect of plastic pins on the bowling score of the average league bowler. The magazine's April issue carries the results of these tests in an article entitled "Is There a Rabbit in Your Bowling Pins?" by Stuart James.

For the purpose of the test, three sets of plastic-coated pins and lacquered pins of approximately the same weight were used. The plastic and wood pins were set up in adjacent alleys, and two league bowlers (who had also participated in ABC competition) were asked to roll against both pins alternately. At the end of two games, the wood pins had received 20 strikes and the plastic pins, three.

For six weeks, both sets of pins were subjected to regular league bowling to see if there were marked changes in scoring after normal usage. Then, the two league bowlers bowled three more games, in a repeat of the first test.

ALTHOUGH the wooden pins showed "battle scars" while the plastic pins received little or no damage, the wooden pins scored consistently higher than their plastic counterparts. In the five game totals for both bowlers, the wood pins held a 323 point advantage.

Results of the test weighed heavily in favor of the almost-obsolete wooden pins. "There is definitely a difference," said Francis Dodd, one of the two bowlers participating in the test. "I was surprised, because I believed the claims about the plastic pin. But with slow or fast ball the plastic pins are harder to knock down."

Despite these results, the more durable plastic pins are here to stay.

Prospect Nine Meets Warriors

either pitcher Clyde Motter, a senior, or Bob Carpenter, a sophomore.

Schmitz also will play two other returning lettermen, with Glenn Hankermeyer slated for third base and Ray Sherz in centerfield.

The Warriors posted a 15-7-1 record for the season last year and 10-5 in conference. They won the regional 7-1 over Glenbard East.

Other possible starters against the Knights include Layton Lamb, second base; Jim Carlson, shortstop; and Ed Hinz, left field.

Coach Chuck Aldrich of Prospect will counter with Al Koehler starting on the mound, backed up by Keith Bergen, with Rick Lytle doing the catching chores.

The Knights got outside Saturday for their first intersquad practice. "We played seven full innings and didn't have a score," said Aldrich, adding that the veterans were intermixed with the subs on the two teams.

Friday, the Knights host West Leyden in a rescheduled game from Tuesday and then make a short jaunt to Arlington Saturday.

Also upcoming is a clash against Proviso West Tuesday, April 14, hosted by Prospect.

Game time for all games is 4:15 p.m., with the exception of the Arlington contest, beginning at 11 a.m.

Lion Mound Staff Faces Busy Week

med a fast ball over the fence in left field.

Mariani estimated Bakalar's blast at around 360 feet.

"WE GAVE THEM their three runs," Mariani said. "A misjudged fly ball went for three bases in the first inning, and a balk and error helped them to two runs in the fourth."

The St. Viator coach feels Sanchez is capable of stronger mound efforts, but he still credited the slick soph with an effective stint. Sanchez fanned eight and walked two over six innings, yielding only two hits.

The Lions had two games rained out last week. The contest with Maryville Academy has been canceled, but Mariani was still working on making up a game with Fenton.

Netters Cop 1st Victory

Forest View varsity netters won their first match of the season 3-2 over Elgin Larkin Tuesday.

A day for firsts, it was also the first win in the Falcons' two-year tennis history.

The Falcons took the opening match with John Pardee victorious, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, over Gabe Steinberg. Dave Sund of Larkin tied the team-standings in the following match, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, over Guy Jensen of Forest View.

Jim Buckholz won, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, in the third singles to again give Forest View a 2-1 lead, but a Larkin doubles team of Guy Melby and Steve Vaughan tied it 2-2 when they swept by Lee Timmerman and Bill Sunbald, 7-5, 6-2.

Brian Karp and Tom Kukla took the deciding doubles match, romping 11-9 and 6-0 over John Davis and Denny Lindoerfer of Larkin.

Coach Rog Steingraber of Forest View, saying he felt "pretty good" with the team's first win, added he felt it was "going to take at least two more years for us to hit .500" after upcoming freshmen and sophomores have had time to develop into varsity material.

Forest View's frosh-sophs also won, 4-1, sweeping the singles matches and taking one doubles victory. It was the second win in the frosh-soph's history.

Tank Mystery

Michigan State's 1964 swimming victory over Illinois was its 12th in a row without a loss in the all-time series between the two schools.

Top Pirate Booster? No Doubt About It: It's Hale Hildebrandt

by TOM TULLY

One Thursday afternoon in February when the Palatine basketball team was suffering through a ten-game losing streak, Pirate coach Dick Kolze was moved to crack, "I knew things were going badly, but not this badly. I haven't seen Hale at practice all week."

It was a remark made in jest and one refuted less than ten minutes later when Hale Hildebrandt, all 300 pounds plus of him, made his almost daily appearance at the practice session. Hale didn't realize it was an apology when he said a few minutes later that since the district meet was coming up that weekend, he had been watching the wrestlers all week.

Palatine fans, like all fans, have differences of opinions on matters such as the quality of their teams and players, but one thing they don't argue about is the fact that Hale Hildebrandt is the number one Palatine fan.

THERE JUST isn't any basis for argument. Who could dispute an attendance record like this one? Hale has:

1) The distinction of being the only person to see each of the 32 runnings of the Palatine Relays. Even G. A. McElroy, the Superintendent of Schools, was absent on one occasion.

2) Timed every home basketball game from 1942 to 1960.

3) Timed every home cross country meet the school has participated in since the sport was introduced 20 years ago.

4) Worked every home wrestling meet since the school started the program 13 years ago.

5) Held one job or another at every home football game since the sport was resumed in 1942 after a five year layoff.

THE QUESTIONS that come to mind are: How does a guy get started in something like this? and, How does he find the time to do it all?

Hale, now 40, got his start as a fan while still in grade school. He didn't become a participant until he entered the school as a student in 1937. He became the manager of the basketball and track teams and if that doesn't seem ambitious enough for a guy like Hildebrandt, it must be remembered that these were the only sports offered by the school at the time.

He started timing the basketball games and working in a minor official's capacity at the Relays as a sophomore. Following high school he attended the University of Illinois for a year. That broke his string in basketball, but he managed to make it to the Relays.

Hale, who lives with his mother at 131 E. Slade, is a surveyor and spends most of his free time at the school. In addition to being a spectator at practice sessions, he is regarded in some sports as an unofficial coach. In the spring, track is his first love and he spends a good deal of his time offering tips to the shot putters and discus throwers.

HIS ASSOCIATION with the school, now in its 27th year, has had its share of fringe benefits. Hale has been the head discus judge at the state track meet every year since 1955. He has worked five state wrestling meets as scorer, head timer, advantage timer and announcer, more different jobs, he guesses, than any other man in the state. His name is on the top of the timer's list for the state tournament in basketball and he probably will be named to that tourney next year.

As might be expected Hale has his favorites, both teams and individuals. In basketball he rates the 1962-63 team as Palatine's best, and calls the 1940-41 club the finest of the earlier part of his era.

Ron Kozlicki tops the list of individuals that includes Bucky Harris, Ray Hahnfeldt, Kolze and the first Pirate big man, Don Buenzow.

Hildebrandt can't recall a Palatine football team that he would call "great," but remembers the team that included Len Rhode, Alan Eck, Tom Hillesheim, Doug Hildebrandt (Hale's cousin) and Ray Lorden, as the best eleven. Other top performers he's seen include Andy Merutka, Bill Migley and Duane Brooks.

IN TRACK, he lists Klaus Timmerhaus and Tony Cipri from the early 1940's, and more recent performers like Bob and Ron Frost, Merutka, Dick Welty, Ken Gordon and Don Smith.

Palatine has had so many great wrestlers that Hale had trouble naming just a few, but finally decided on a group that includes the McCreery brothers, Jim, Brad and George; the Gluck brothers, Fred and Mike, Larry Wheeler and Seth Norton.

Every school seems to have one fan who is so interested in the school's sports program that he actually becomes a participant of it, but until somebody finds a guy who sleeps in the locker room, Hale Hildebrandt would have to top the list.

Seniors Show Form in ABC

Men who have lived three fourths of a century took backseats to no one as the 5th ABC National Seniors tournament completed the first of three weekends of competition Sunday at Orchard Twin Bowl in Skokie.

Leading the Class A singles, for men 70 and over, is 79-year-old Ferd Wasicek of Chicago who shot 688 including 130 pins handicap. Trailing him with 668 is Jarvey Brown of Indianapolis, Ind. Brown, 76, who bowls in five leagues and subs in another, posted 590 scratch for high in that department on games of 170-218-192.

The Seniors' tournament, with a record field of 545 men, all 55 or older, also featured the appearance of Fred Holmes of Glencoe on the opening squad Saturday. Holmes, oldest active league bowler in the United States, will celebrate his 100th birthday Oct. 7. The erect, white haired near centenarian rolled games of 65-72-82 for 219. With 243 pins handicap, three less than he got in the 1963 Seniors,

Arlington Whips Evanston Varsity In Tennis Opener

Arlington High School won its long-awaited tennis opener with perennially powerful Evanston Tuesday afternoon.

Ken Schaller's varsity Cardinals, thwarted twice by the weatherman in earlier bids to get the season under way at Evanston ,edged the host Wildkits, 3-2.

Arlington swept singles thanks to Jim Jakubiec (2-6, 6-4, 6-3), Jeff Peek (6-2, 6-2), and Mirrel Kephart (6-1, 6-2) but lost both doubles tests.

EVANSTON WON the frosh-soph meet 3-1. One match was undecided and called because of darkness.

The only Cardinal victor was John Jarecki in third singles. Jarecki posted a 6-2, 7-5 triumph.

Playing second doubles, Bill Sayre and Scott Schneberger won the first set 6-1, fell 5-7, and then were involved in a 13-13 draw when darkness set in.

Arlington's varsity squad will meet host Ottawa this Saturday and will journey to New Trier Saturday for a quad involving the defending state champion Indians.

Hamm's Opens Gap With 4-0 Victory

Leaders Meet RM Bowl For Second Half Title

Hamm's Beer opened a one-and-a-half point lead in the Men's Division of the Paddock Classic Traveling League last Saturday when it blanked Morton Pontiac 4-0 while second place Rolling Meadows Bowl was held to a 3-1 verdict over Jeffery Lanes.

Despite the slight opening of the gap between the two leaders, the second half championship will still not be decided until the final night of the season, Saturday. The final matches are for position, thus the leaders will meet head on at Casares. Hamm's can win it with a tie. Rolling Meadows needs at least a 3-1 decision to win the crown.

The winner will meet Morton Pontiac, champion of the first round, in a four-of-seven game playoff, April 18. The first session will be held at Beverly Lanes, home of the Pontiacs. The second segment will be held at either Country Lanes (Hamms) or Rolling Meadows.

OTHER ACTION last week found the Brass Rail Restaurant routing Gunnell's 4-0, and Casares Pro Bowl whipping Pioneer Lanes, 3-1.

Herm Simonis paced the shutout of the Pontiacs. The Hamm's star, tenth in the individual standings, fashioned the night's top game, a 253, on the way to a 645 series. Ron Garr led the Pontiacs with a 603.

Rolling Meadows copped the first two games, but fell victim to Jeffery's top game of the year, a 999, in the final. RM Bowl featured a balanced attack topped by Al Jordan's 595, while Jeffery sent two men soaring over 600. John Glass turned in his top effort of the season, a 224-191-252 — 667 to top all PCTL bowlers for the evening. Teammate Ed Melton chipped in with a 623.

Ted Zimmerman fired a 635 and Earl Nichols a 600 as the Brass Rail blanked Gunnell's. Bob Rogers led the losers with a 611. The match wasn't as lopsided as the score indicates. The Railers won the first game by a single pin and the third one by 24.

Norm Schoemann and Lobby Lobinsky set the pace for Casares in the Pro Bowlers victory. Schoemann hit for 617, Lobinsky for 602. Individual champion Mike Dinschel and Ralph Krakow each had 622 for Pioneer. Dinschel, owner of a 197 edge, has a three pin per game average on Jordan, the runner-up, with just one night remaining.

Handball Tourneys Under Way

Over 150 men and boys are now competing in five different classes in the annual singles and doubles handball tournaments of the Northwest Suburban YMCA.

Most matches are scheduled for play on Sunday afternoons and the finals of the singles event will be held on April 19 with the doubles final event scheduled for one week later.

Outstanding in the best AA singles class are last year's winner, Richard Craig, and the runner-up, Don Schmidt. Strong challengers in this bracket appear to be Stan Sitarz and Walt Hadley. Dark horse competitor Frank Epstein is also given an outside chance for victory.

In the doubles field the competition appears to be wide open with Bob Rumpsa and Bob Baker, Arlington High School baseball coach, given the pre-tournament nod as the strongest pair. First round matches begin Sunday, April 19.

Top Performances

Michigan State - Ohio State swim meets always bring out top performances and the 1964 dual meet was no exception. Seven dual, five MSU pool and four MSU varsity records were shattered as the Spartans won 61-44.

SPRING APPEARS TO HAVE finally come, and the thought is exciting—but not as exciting as it would have been the last week in March.

Remember the week? Cold, rain, wind, and finally a little less than a foot of snow. Well, that was the week, beginning March 26, for a fishing trip to the Arkansas Ozarks.

It was the first spring moon, and Jim Duncan at the Panther Boy dock on Lake Norfork said things would be right if the weather held. Wednesday, March 25, it was 75 degrees on the lake. It was cold in Chicago as I left Wednesday night, but I was driving south.

I was meeting two old friends and stout fishermen at the lake, and could depend on the weather because a fisherman's optimism on the first spring trip is never unfounded in Arkansas.

Well, almost never . . . When I arrived after a night's driving it was only 10 degrees colder than it had been when I left Chicago. But the moon was still right, and the stout fishermen were waiting as promised—almost immobile.

That morning we sat in Smoky's restaurant on Panther Pay until the sun had wormed the air to a comfortable 28 degrees. It was time to fish.

The day before, in sun and 75 degrees, good Kentucky bass had been taking Bombers, cast directly into shallow, rocky shores, and dragged outo to imitate the action of a crayfish. We tried that.

But the wind was raw ,and ice had to be bitten from the rod guides after every three or four casts. A lure dragged too close to the rod tip would freeze there, immobile.

It was real fishing—a challenge until the sun warmed the air to a degree above freezing. The first fish came while it was still cold enough for ice to form on the dip net after it was thrown back into the bottom of the boat.

Suerly there would be better days. The stout fisherman's thoughts should always run in this vein, even though the result may be fruitless deception.

On this long weekend, that was not the result. On the following day, spent floating the White River for trout, the thermometer rose to a dazzling 45 degrees. Obviously it was warm enough to go back after Kentucky and largemouth bass the following day.

Now the moon was right and the weather was right. But who—even the fishedman—could foretell that the lake would rise and fall two feet that night, March 27, as a giant quake hit Alaska and swelled the earth for thousands of miles?

It was a little hard to explain that night as we slept on a covered boat dock to keep out of intermittent thundershowers. The floating dock creaked and rose as if the showers had caused an amazing flood somewhere in the lake's drainage area.

The following morning we looked at the murky water as we listened to the radio explanation of the local phenomenon. The weather had turned cold again anyway, and now the water was not right. The fish would be confused.

Some of the guided parties did better than we did that day, but none did well. "You'll kill them with crayfish," one guide had said that morning. The same guide met the evening with a frown and began speaking of the next moon.

The next full coon comes forth the last weekend in April. It is only an educated and optimistic guess that the weather will be better then, and the time will pass without a major quake.

In Arkansas the living is slow, and the guides, dock owners and resort owners take almost everything in stride. The fishing trade has not been at its best so far, but they just reason that when it comes, it will be better than ever.

Somehow, the wait 'til tomorrow philosophy has never failed on Norfork Lake.

Pancake Day Plans Set

Plans for the annual Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League Pancake Jamboree are shifting into high gear this week.

Food is ordered, entertainment planned, prizes obtained, and ticket sales well under way for the event to be held April 18 from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Arlington High School.

General chairman Jack Sullivan has announced that close to 300 workers will be on hand to serve the expected 6,000 guests.

REUBEN CORDOVA and Dick Down will be masters of ceremonies for the continuous entertainment which will feature appearances by James "Rip" Collins, former baseball great and now a coach of the Chicago Cubs, and Aunt Jemima, in person, through the courtesy of the Quaker Oats Co.

Aunt Jemima will arrive in Arlington Heights on April 7 to make serveral local appearances.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN for Pancake Jamboree are Mrs. Donald Armstrong, recruitment; James Brice, program book; Maurice Cooney, tickets; Reuben Cordova, entertainment; Jack Coulter and Walter Kellin, food preparation; Paul Harbough, food serving; Dennis Malcolmson, publicity; John O'Berry, procurement; and Lucky Somers, prizes.

More than a thousand local boys have tickets on sale for this, Boys Baseball League's primary money-making project. Each boy who sells 20 tickets will be a guest at a Chicago Cubs baseball game, and may take a friend for each 20 additional tickets he sells. Tickets will also be available at the door on the day of the Jamboree.

Tickets entitle holders to all the pancakes they can eat, plus sausage, coffee, or milk.

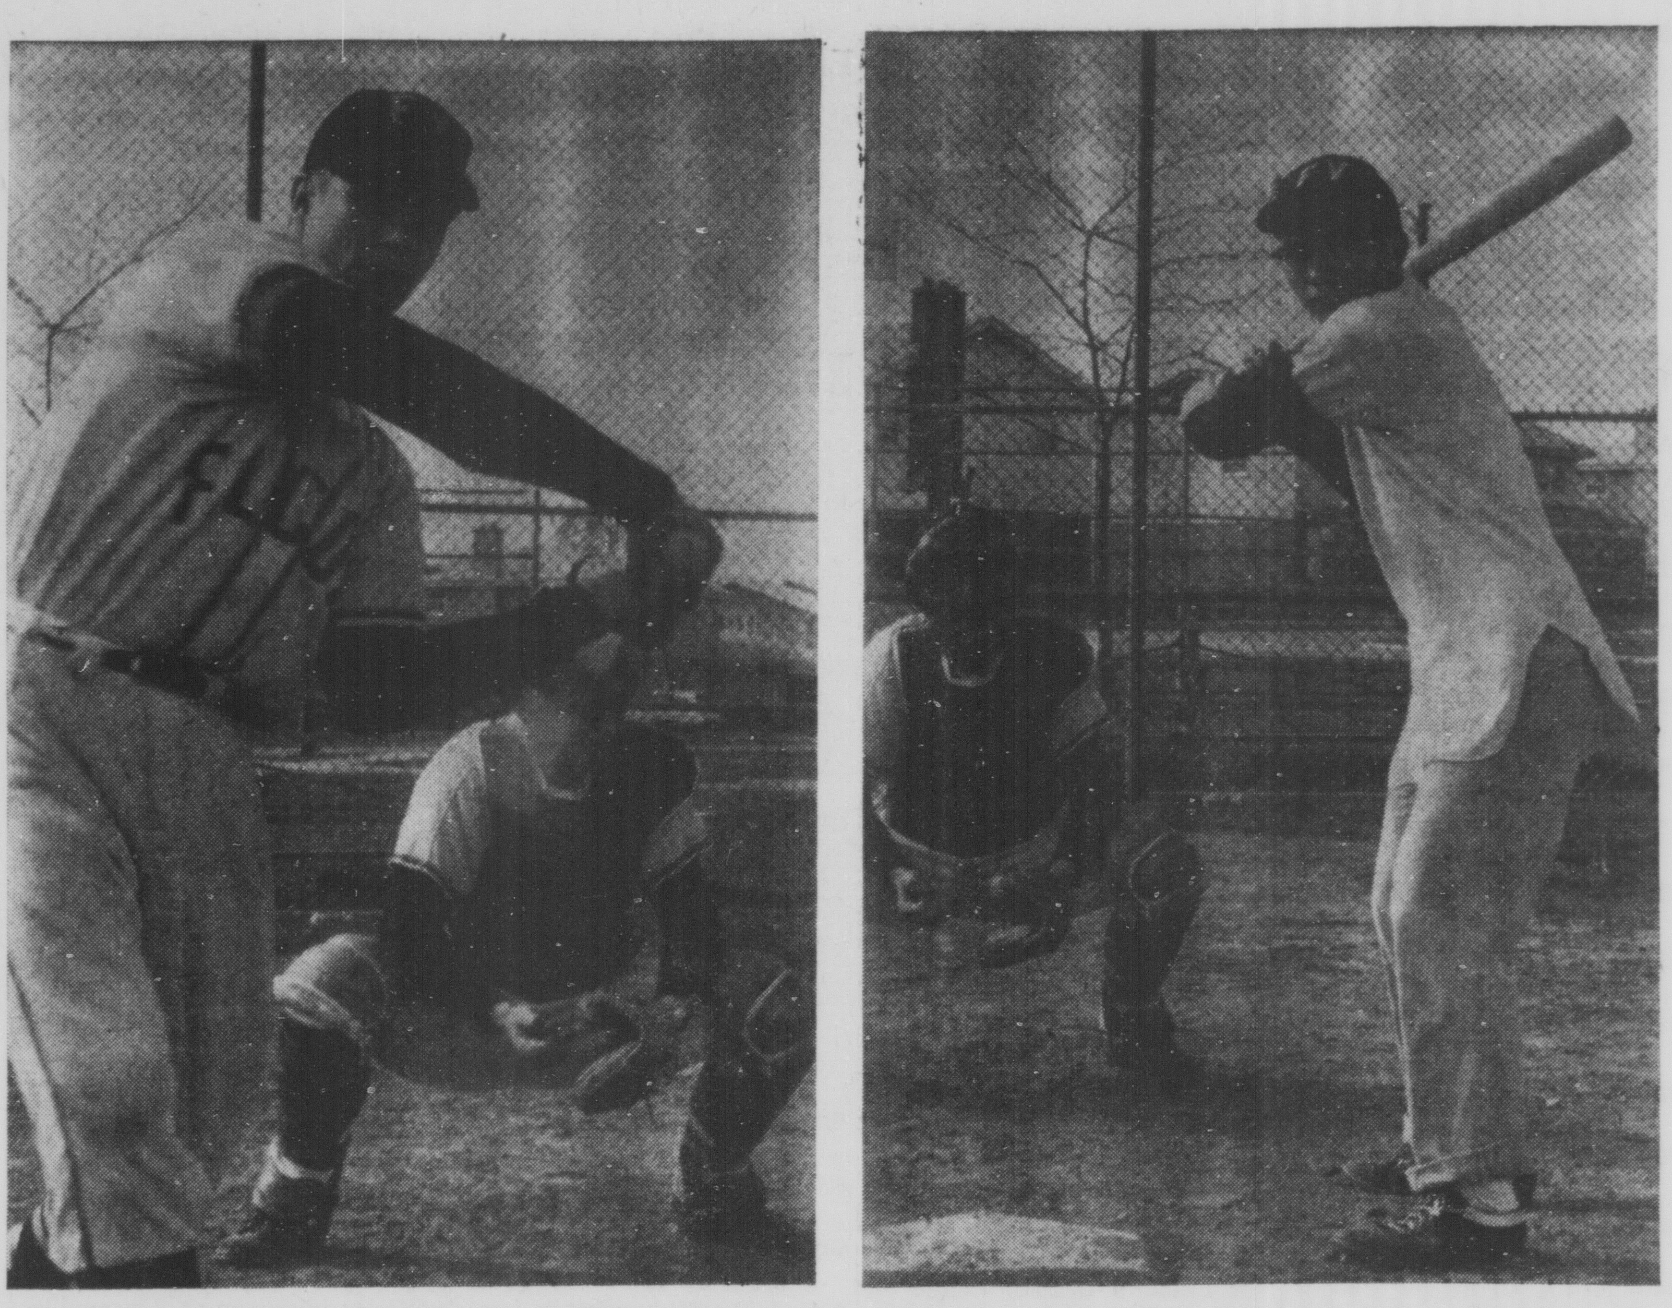
Anderson's Claim Men's Cage Title

The Wheeling Park District's adult basketball league came to an end last Monday evening, when Anderson's defeated Illinois Lock for the tournament championship, 56-43.

The Air Force Radar team placed third when they won by forfeit from McDonald's Drive-In.

This completes the second year of play for adult men in the Wheeling Park District. Plans are being made for a bigger league for next year.(



RALPH KASPARI (left) and Ken Peters (right) were one-two respectively in Forest View baseball last season and will hold many of the hopes for the Falcons this year as the squad trys to overcome its hitting weakness. Kaspari, the catcher, hit .286 in 56 at bats with 10 RBI's last year, while Peters, the second baseman, had .283 in 60 bats with five RBI's. Forest View finished with four wins in 18 outings last year. (Staff Photos).

Motor Sports Top Baseball As Spectator Sport; Races Top 5,000 in United States

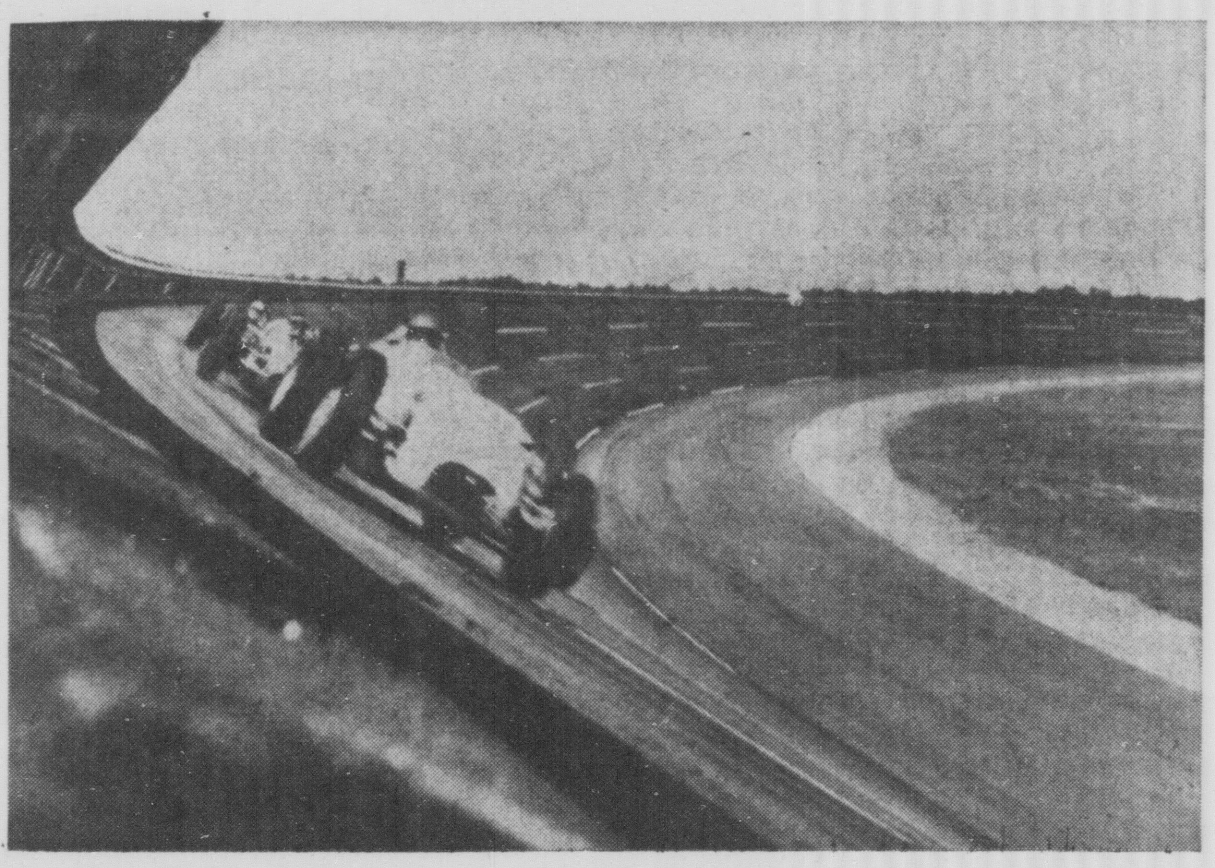
Did you know that motor sports have become America's number one spectator sport? Latest attendance figures show that motor sports outdraw major league baseball. And motor sports are number two in participation sports — second only to bowling.

More than 5,000 sports car races were held in the U.S. last year, with total racing miles exceeding three million. According to information supplied by the "Jaguar Journal," the guiding forces behind America's big boom in auto racing include the nation's three largest organizations of active motor sports participants: the Sports Car Club of America, the U.S. Auto Club's road racing division, and the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Stock car racing accounts for more than 50 per cent of the total number of auto races held annually in the U.S., according to Bill France, Sr., President of NASCAR. This 12,000-member association supervised over 1,200 stock car races last year, which were attended by nearly ten million fans! France says the typical audience for any of the big weekend events runs from 40 to 70 thousand thrill-seekers. The number of stock car tracks across the country currently exceeds 500.

SPORTS CAR racing and formula car racing are the two other most popular contests for speed buffs. Jim Kaser, Competition Director for the Sports Car Club of America, reports that 221 sports car races were sanctioned by the SCCA last year, comprising 90 per cent of the important sports car races in this country. These contests thrilled more than a million spectators.

Formula car racing involves single seat, open wheel (no fenders) racing cars that are custom made. The name "formula" derives from the design restrictions imposed on these cars by the FIA (Federation International de l'Automobile). These construction restrictions and specifications are so exact that, if you wanted to buy one of last year's formula race cars, you'd have to pay about $30,000. Competition Director Kaser says that at the present time the U.S. does not have a regular formula racing program of professional races for the highest formula cars—but such a program will probably be instituted within the next five years.



U.S. AUTO CLUB SPEEDWAY cars move through the 31 degree banked west turn of the world famous Daytona International Speedway at Daytona Beach, Fla. Formula car racing — so-called because of the cars' design restrictions — is limited to single seat, open wheel racing cars that are custom made.

Do you have to be a speedway racer to enjoy behind-the-wheel competition in motor sports? Not at all! By far the greatest number of motor sport participants are involved with "non-speed" events such as a rally, tour, gymkhana or "concours d'elegance"—all trials or tests of auto and driver.

SPORTS CAR clubs like the Jaguar Clubs of North America organize and execute these non-speed events—and sometimes come up with highly-unusual programs like rallies which inspire blind children to master braille, or contests in which every inch of a car's finish is subjected to the unbiased scrutiny of judges' spotless white gloves!

A rally is a motor event in which driver precision and control are tested on a cross-country course. In a typical rally, the driver's navigator—the person in the passenger seat who does the "figuring" and gives the driver instructions and directions—is handed at the moment of take-off a set of sealed instructions. Check posts along the way (some hidden, some not) clock the car's time, and any variation from the speed specified for that stretch costs points.

With turns, hills, the passing of other cars and the million other incidents that affect average speeds, it is tremendously difficult to keep exactly to the required averages; some teams show up with complicated devices to help them achieve the enormous accuracy rallies exact. Secrecy surrounding these devices accounts for much of the atmosphere of intrigue and excitement that rallies generate among enthusiasts. One driver and his navigator turned up at a rally with an electronic computer as the back seat passenger!

MANY RALLIES offer unusual rules—such as directions hidden in a cryptogram for the driver and his navigator to figure out. But perhaps the most unusual rally is the annual event of the Tonawanda Touring Club in Western New York, which invites students from the New York State School for the Blind at Batavia to act as navigators—by reading braille maps! The president of the club, Richard Dargusch, says the rally is used as an incentive for the youngsters to learn to read braille—and qualifying for the event is used as an aid to such scholarship. Since the Tonawanda group started the idea seven years ago, other groups around the country have followed suit.

A "concours d'elegance" is perhaps one of the stateliest of motor sports. To enter one you must rebuild—or build a replica of—an antique vehicle, complate to the design of nuts and bolts. Almost all of the parts will have to be turned out on special order—and a bill for $11,000 is not uncommon.

During the "concours d'elegance" drivers take their vehicles in a stately procession to a local showroom where they immediately don overalls and start cleaning and polishing. Judges wearing white gloves will then judge each car—and too bad for the contestant who has a spot of dust under his fender!

Tracy, 1016 Cypress, Elk Grove, covered the 12-gate slalom course in the required 75 seconds or faster for a bronze medal. Skiers have to cover the course in 50 seconds or less to win a gold medal, 60 seconds or better for a silver and 75 seconds or faster for a bronze. The course is about a half mile in length with a vertical descent of 450 feet.

In Bat Boy Contest

Mike Hogan Places 5th

Mike Hogan, 16, of Arlington Heights finished fifth from among 5,000 entrants in the annual Chicago Daily News-Chicago White Sox bat boy contest.

Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hogan, 614 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, will serve as a salaried ball boy for the White Sox during the 1964 season.

The Arlington winner is a junior at St. Viator High School. He comes from a family of 10 children.

Each entrant in the contest wrote a 50-word essay on "Why I Would Like To Be White Sox Bat Boy." From an original group of 5,000 entries 15 finalists were selected by a group of nine judges.

Those finalists were individually interviewed at Comiskey Park, and the winners were announced Monday.

Robert Bramlette of Flossmoor and Malcolm Robinson of Chicago were the two winners. Bramlette will serve as White Sox bat boy for 1964 and will earn a $1,000 scholarship when he enrolls in college.

ROBINSON will be the visiting team batboy at Comiskey Park. Robinson, as well as Bramlette, won an expense-paid road trip with the White Sox to Detroit and to Washington.

Each judge rated each of the 15 finalists from five points to one in five categories: personality, attitude, sportsmanship, character, and baseball interest.

Hogan impressed the judges with his "sincerity, good humor and dedication."

Prospect Sees Ease In Opener

Prospect goes into its first outdoor track meet of the season April 14 at Glenbrook North with confidence but expects more trouble from Maine West the Tuesday following the opener.

Coach Dick Calisch, rating Glenbrook North as "not very tough," said he expects a lot more competition at Maine West April 21.

"Maine West is strong where we're weak," said Calisch. "Their pole vaulters, though, are about equal with ours."

Seeing the meet as "pretty well matched," the coach stated he expected special trouble from Bruce Congalton in the hurdles. However, Calisch added, "(Larry) Bogart looks very good."

The Knights open against Glenbrook North at 4:30 p.m.

Kelly Gains Second Half Gals' Crown

Clinches Title With Victory Over Steve's

Martin J. Kelly Olds clinched the second half championship in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League with a tight 2½ to 1½ victory over Steve's Restaurant Saturday evening.

Pace-setting Kelly now holds a four and one-half point lead with only one night of play remaining before the roll-off.

The leaders could take a night off and still claim the coveted title with only four markers at stake in each match.

THE STAGE IS set now for the roll-off between Kelly and first half champ Charlotte's Pizza on Saturday and Sunday, April 18-19. Sites and times will be announced next week.

Edith Wayne, a consistent performer all season for Kelly, flipped a 584 series in pacing the second half champs to their one point victory over Steve's Restaurant.

Only one pin separated the two teams (2572-2571) but that single pin gave Kelly an extra point and the second half title. Kelly took the second game and team series and split a point with an 807 opener.

Sparks Champs

Rosemary Babich (525) and Agnes Saula (516) followed Edith Wayne for the victors.

LAVERNE ROSSET and Delores Harris shared honors for Steve's with identical 535 counts. Laverne had a 200 game but that was four pins shy of the evening's top effort, a 204 by Kelly's Wayne.

River Rand Bowl, still struggling to escape the basement, gained one point on fifth place Morton Pontiac with a 3-1 conquest of Charlotte's Pizza.

Ethel Juenger fashioned a 556 for the winners. Winnie Lohse was high for Charlotte's with a 519.

In other action Saturday Irv's Fire Extinguisher Co. and Morton Pontiac battled to a 2-2 deadlock.

Bonnie Kuhn had a 554 for Irv's, and Judy Reed posted a 521 for Morton Pontiac.

The standings:

Kelly Olds	40
Irv's	35½
Steve's	32½
Charlotte's	28

Mahoney Missing

St. Viator Eyes Opening Net Meet

St. Viator's tennis picture, clouded by the loss of No. 1 man Kevin Mahoney, should start clearing up next Tuesday afternoon, April 14, when the Lions host Holy Cross in the season opener.

"It's still early and we haven't had much chance to work outside," head coach Paul Anderson reports. "Several boys have shown promise, but we did lose a good boy in Mahoney."

Mahoney, who was a stickout for the Lions last spring in the rugged No. 1 position, transferred to Arlington High School.

ANDERSON, a newcomer to the St. Viator coaching ranks, listed one senior, four juniors, and two sophomores among his leading candidates.

Paul Weirich is the lone senior. He's joined by juniors John Schinka, Dave Herr, Paul Demmert, and Mike Massey and sophs Dave Harris and Tom Weirich.

"We'll just have to wait and see how the boys fare in actual competition," Anderson added.

St. Viator's home opener is with Holy Cross next Tuesday. St. George hosts the Lions on Thursday, April 16. The two meets with DeLaSalle have been cancelled.

St. Viator Launches 1964 Track Campaign Friday at Winnemac

St. Viator, St. George, and St. Joseph will battle on a varsity and frosh-soph level tomorrow (Friday) in a triangular track test at Winnemac Park.

Competition will get under way at 4 p.m. The meet will serve as the season opener for the St. Viator Lions under the direction of Tom Hansen and Charley Mondi.

Hansen reported at the outset of the week that they were working with 94 boys at all levels. "We have a field laid out across from the school," Tom said, "although we'll only have one home meet this year. The freshmen will meet St. Joseph a week from Thursday."

THE WEATHERMAN hasn't given Hansen and Mondi much help in preparing a squad for the outdoor season although there are several promising candidates.

Hansen feels his strongest events will be the discus and high jump.

"We have Gary Forston and Pete Rickerson in the discus," Tom reports. "Forston has been around 135 feet. Senior Bill Roche and junior Dennis O'Donnell, a transfer, give us some strength in the high jump."

ROCHE, ALSO a football quarterback, cleared 6-1 last year in a CYO meet. O'Donnell, who came to St. Viator from St. Ignatius in Cincinnati, Ohio has done 5-8.

D'Donnell, John Kidd, and Forston give the Lions three capable entries in the shot put, and Pat Kennedy and Dan Mulcahy look like the best bets in the broad jump.

BILL ROCHE
Lion Standout

"The pole vault is wide-open," Hansen reports. "We''ll just have to wait and see."

STEVE McNAMARA and Roche are leading candidates in both dashes — 100 and 220 — with Dick Helmer also a possibility in the furlong.

Bob Keifer and Bob Saigh will handle the 440 yard dash with Saigh and junior Mike Jones in the 880. Jones and Paul Larson are leading milers.

Mulcahy and Terry Madigan should get the nod over the low hurdles with Mulcahy, Larson, and Helmer handling the high sticks.

"IT'S STILL EARLY but we may bring up some freshmen or sophomores," Hansen pointed out. "It looks like we've got some talent available at the lower levels."

Following Friday's triangular at Winnemac Park, the Lions will be idle until Tuesday, April 14, when they journey to DeLaSalle Field to meet the Meteors. On Thursday, April 16, the Lion frosh will host St. Joseph.

'Fire Engine' Hitch to Appear At Benefit Show

Six matched Shetland ponies pulling a miniature antique fire engine will be one of the feature attractions at the first annual Horse Show May 30 and 31 at the Lake County Fairgrounds.

General Chairman John Romer of Lake Villa reported that the nationally known Victor Comptometer Corp. six-pony "fire engine" hitch of Barrington will appear at both matinee and evening performances.

Besides the Victor pony attraction and other individual acts, the show will offer competition in such classes as fine harness, three gaited, five gaited, equation and horse events, English pleasure, walking horses, Morgans, hunters and jumpers, roadsters and three gaited ponies.

ALL PROCEEDS will go to build a 55 bed hospital on Grand Avenue, west of Lake Villa to serve a four township area in west Lake County.

Romer said tickets are on sale from members of the hospital association or they may be obtained by writing Countryside Hospital, Lake Villa, Ill.

Romer said premium lists were mailed last week to 1,500 horse fanciers throughout Illinois. Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana.

The show is sanctioned by both the Northern Illinois Horse Show Assn. and the Wisconsin Horse Show Assn. Earl E. Bruss of Milwaukee, well known midwest horseman, is manager of the two-day event.

BRUSS HAS assured the hospital association that the show will match the horse shows conducted regularly to benefit large hospitals in Chicago and Milwaukee and other notable charities.

Romer reported that a special committee is arranging accommodations for the some 400 persons from riders to stable boys who are connected directly with the show.

Competition will be offered for professional riders, amateurs, adults and children.

Bakalar Belts 3-Run Homer As Lions Win; Mariani Has No. 100

Junior shortstop Ron Bakalar supplied the power and sophomore right hander Joe Sanchez the pitching Monday afternoon as St. Viator's varsity baseball team shelled visiting Immaculate Conception 8-3 in the season opener.

Bakalar delivered a three-run homer in the fourth inning that snapped a 3-3 deadlock, and Sanchez toiled six innings on a yield of only two hits.

With the decision St. Viator coach Frank Mariani achieved the 100th victory of his coaching career in baseball. Mariani now has seen his varsity entries record 100 wins in only 116 outings.

Immaculate Conception drew first blood Monday with a single tally in the first inning, but St. Viator rebounded with a trio in the second. I.C. pulled into a 3-3 tie in the top half of the fourth, and that set the stage for Bakalar's heroics.

TOM NITCH started things off with a double to left, and Tim Walinski moved Nitch along one base with a single. Bakalar then rammed a fast ball over the tennis court fence in deep left field, a poke estimated at 360 feet.

St. Viator added a single run in the fifth inning on a walk to Mike Graczyk, hit batsman, walk to Walinski, fielder's choice, and error. Nitch came around on the error off Vidt's grounder.

ST. VIATOR enjoyed its first offensive explosion of the 1964 campaign in the second inning when three runs counted.

Tom Ostermann walked and moved to third on Graczyk's double to left-center. Nitch dropped a hit over first base to send Ostermann home and a fielder's choice brought in Graczyk. Heinrich rapped a single to send Walinski across.

Immaculate Conception reached Sanchez for a single run in the first inning on a misjudged fly ball that went for a three-base error and infield out. Two singles, a balk, and error brought in two more runs in the fourth.

Sanchez fanned eight and walked two in his six innings of work. The highly regarded right hander yielded only two safeties, both in the fourth frame.

Coach Considers FV Realignment If Loses Hurdler

Forest View faces the possible loss of one of its hurdlers before the April 14th opener in its 1964 outdoor track season.

Coach Dick Ohl said Gary Busse, the hurdler, "has had trouble with his back. We're not sure yet if he'll be out for the rest of the year or not."

If Busse is lost to the Falcons, Ohl added he'd work with sophomore Pat Dunnigan, Forest View's dash man, on the low hurdles, with another sophomore possibly trying to fill in on the highs.

HOSTING Deerfield at 4:30 p.m. in the opener, the Falcons had "a lot of promise in Jim O'Keefe in the broad jump" this season, said Ohl.

Ohl added he sees O'Keefe reaching 22 feet this year and a possible trip downstate.

The coach is also counting on three other Falcons this season. Scott Armstrong is expected to make good showings in the hurdle events, while Darrell Fenton is rated strong in the discus throw and shot put, with throws of 150 feet and 30 feet, respectively, in practice.

THE THIRD threat, George Sladek, is expected to bring his best mile time of 4:42 down to 4:39.

As for weaknesses, Ohl says he sees a need to improve in the quarter-mile and half-mile running events, along with the pole vault.

Ohl is assisted by Rusty Dowell, hurdles coach; Bill Beckman, middle distance coach (also athletic director); and Jerry Greer, assisting in the high jump and field events.

Falcons Present Varsity Awards

Forest View recently presented a total of 52 varsity awards to athletes and managers who participated in winter sports.

In addition, the listings included six athletes for special distinctions: Joe Mueller was selected captain of the basketball team; Pat Dunnigan, most improved cager; Darrell Fenton, most valuable cager; John Buczek and Don Campbell, swimming co-captains; and tanker Cliff Hadick, VFW award winner.

VARSITY basketball award winners were Rich Anderson, Russ Barger, Dunnigan, Brian Karp, Garron Kokai, John McRae, Mueller (all letters), along with Greg Garlisch, Mike Griesman, Steve Humfleet, Bruce Knol and Tom Meyers (certificates).

Managers receiving varsity basketball letters included Doug Freiburger, Rich Koepke and Tony Salazar.

Wrestling letters went to Larry Andrews, George Derby and Chuck Lemke, with Omar Aviles, Howie Hinze, Gary Hodson, Bob Jennings and managers Tom Wilkes and Tom Young all winning certificates.

GYMNASTIC letters went to Rich Antti, Fred De Falco, Garth Freeman, Tom Hempel, Dave Hippensteel, Randy Jeskey, Ralph Kaspari, Steve Kretschmer, John Medley, Marty Sidor, Ken Vomacka, Craig Wagner, Jeff Weaver and manager Mark Stogsdill.

Swimming letters were awarded to Tom Blair, Buszek, Campbell, Hadick, Jim Larson, Dave Leuck, Mike Mortenson, Scott Peterson, Bill Reising, Tom Tyrell and managers Rog Baron and Jim Bretner.

Swimming certificates were presented to Ed Boddy and Chuck Mensching.

Keeps Busy

Michigan State basketball forward Bill Berry also competes in track for the Spartans and placed third in the high jump in the 1963 Big Ten outdoor championship meet.

Juniors Hold Key To Links

Things have to get better because they can't get worse.

That sums up the prospects for the varsity golfers from Forest View this season, opening at St. Viator Monday, April 20, at 4 p.m.

Posting an 0-11 record last season, Forest View placed most of its emphasis on the frosh-soph level, said coach Al Kintzle.

There, the young Falcons took eight wins in 11 outings and this is where Kintzle intends to draw most of his strength from this season.

"Four boys are presently vying for the number one spot," said Kintzle. Included in that group are juniors Jim Junkunc and Bob O'Keefe, senior Don Campbell and sophomore Al Piehl.

Campbell, along with seniors Russ Barger and Chip Julian, are the only three returning varsity lettermen.

"Barger could very well help us out a lot, too," added Kintzle.

With Piel described as "pretty good" but only a possible varsity candidate, Kintzle will also rely heavily on juniors Paul Byrne and Bob Glass this season.

'Moving Color' Hit Of MOS's 'Kismet'

by JOAN REDDY
Drama Critic

"Kismet," latest production of Music-on-Stage, Inc., offers pleasure to the eye as the stage of Prospect High School becomes a college of color and movement.

Unfortunately, "Kismet" is a musical, and it does not offer the same pleasure to the ear.

The music, based on the classical themes of Alexander Borodin, appears to be too much for some of the members of the orchestra.

To give him due credit, music director Gordon Palmer has his group playing together as an ensemble but the orchestra has a few clinkers among it that are impossible to ignore.

A gossamer Arabian fairy tale, "Kismet" spins the fable of a beggar-poet who, through his nimble wit and the blessings of Kismet, achieves fortune and happiness for himself and his beautiful daughter.

KISMET MUST depend on the allure of its Baghdad setting to keep the audience's interest. Here MOS has done an excellent job. The stage is alive with moving color as director Tom Ventriss shifts his large cast about the rather small stage.

Set designer Kathy Halvorsen has executed a sequence of sets that truly seem to come from the Arabian Nights. It is unusual to see such opulence in suburban theater.

And to match its set design, costumer Lila Ryan has arrayed the cast in brocades, silks, and velvets of myriad hues. Everyone dresses well in Baghdad.

BUT AFTER a while even the color and movement palls, and the audience must turn to the play itself. And unfortunately "Kismet," in itself, is not a very good play. It is neither farce nor fantasy, and the two refuse to blend together.

Borodin's lyrical music is perfect for the fantasy, but it seems out of place and over-blown in the farce.

Among the cast, A. Robert Topel, as the poet, can be forgiven singing that tends to fall flat because of the acting performance in which he blends charm and oiliness in a portrayal of a Middle East con man. In another role with a less demanding score, he could successfully talk his way through the high notes.

AS THE poet's daughter, Carol Rogers can be forgiven a flat acting performance because of her clear, lyric soprano. Her "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads" is a particular delight.

Ronnald Farland, in the role of her lover, makes a handsome Caliph. His voice is good, but his wooden acting runs over into his singing performance. He just stands there. Certainly a number such as "Night of My Nights" demands an expansive gesture or two.

The two best all-round performances of the evening are delivered by Hank Vandenboom as the wicked Wazir of Police and Jacqui Cassel as his licentious wife. Of course, theirs are the comedy roles, and a good job in comedy is always endearing to an audience.

PROBABLY the best musical number of the evening is Vandenboom's "Was I Wazir?" It has a vitality that the renditions of much of the more familiar music lack.

Miss Cassel has the blues voice and sensuous movements just right for her role as the wayward wife. In fact, some of the dancing girls could take lessons from her in how to undulate. Their attempts at being sexy were just too reserved to be successful.

But dancer and choreographer Beth Vandenboom needs no lessons. In her solo Arabian dance, she has all the right movements.

MOS'S real asset is its chorus. It contains some really excellent voices, and in ensemble singing Borodin's music never sounded lovlier. (Bill

Adult Students to Exhibit Art Work

Adult students in classes sponsored by the Countryside Art Center will present an exhibit of their work opening this Sunday from 2 - 4 p.m. at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

Paintings in oil, watercolor, and collage; drawings and wood carvings will be featured — as well as a special display of original prints. Most of the work will be for sale in the modest price range.

"OUR STUDENTS have homework in addition to their class problems," states Mrs. J. Shillington, education chairman.

"The classes usually have a lecture period — sometimes with slides — discussions, critique; and occasionally field trips.

"The students then choose the best of their work to mat, frame, and exhibit to the public."

Mrs. Shillington adds, "The instructors, Barbara Housekeeper, Vincent O'Connor, James Torrel, and Bill Wimmer have full backgrounds in teaching and have received many awards for their work in the fine art field."

COUNTRYSIDE Art Center classes are presently in the third ten session term. However, new registrations will be accepted in all classes.

Those interested are asked to contact Mrs. Shillington, CL 3-9521. (Bill

Area Artist Shows Paintings at Bank

A trip to the Pacific Northwest furnished the inspiration for many of the pictures now on exhibit at The Bank of Arlington Heights, Arlington Market Shopping Center.

Artist Shirley Hogberg traveled to the Seattle World's Fair two years ago with the family and stopped along the way to record many scenes in water colors. These she later translated into the oil paintings she is showing at the bank.

Mrs. Hogberg began her career in art by winning a scholarship to the Chicago Art Institute in her first year of high school. Later she completed two years at the American Academy of Fine Arts and two years at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, specializing in interior decorating.

BEFORE HER marriage Mrs. Hogberg was associated with a Chicago advertising agency. Now a resident of Des Plaines, she combines taking care of her family of three children with her work as layout artist for Paddock Publications.

She began doing custom wall murals 12 years ago, and now many homes in the area have a room distinguished by her scenes. (Bill

Seek to Combat Glamor

Teenagers Succumb To 'Smoker' Image

"If you could get glamorous young ladies objecting to the stale tobacco smell of their boy friends, you would change the habits of a nation more quickly than all the cancer statistics in the world."

That suggestion is one cited in a discussion article titled "Combating Teenage Smoking" and featured in the April issue of the official magazine of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Author Emil Corwin of the American Cancer Society reports on the progress of a nation - wide educational program, initiated by the Society in 1960, to teach young people the facts about smoking and its now demonstrated dangers as "the chief cause of lung cancer and an important cause of other diseases."

STILL, HE points out, experts "do not always agree on the best ways to approach children." Sir Robert Platt, chairman of the Committee on Smoking and Lung Cancer of the London Royal College of Physicians, is an authority who believes "the key to success is to revise social attitudes toward smoking."

Besides "giving youngsters the facts about the long - term effects of smoking" and sponsoring smoking - withdrawal clinics to "help Mother and Dad to break their habit," the Society is now taking up the British suggestion.

"Because young people in the United States have come to look upon smokers as great successes, whether in athletics or in social affairs," Corwin notes, "the American Cancer Society last year decided to change this image . . .(through) promotional material that would present the nonsmoker as sophisticated, mature, and socially acceptable." In Athletes Against Cancer, one part of this program, prominent sports figures testify to the "health hazards of cigarette smoking."

ADDITIONALLY, Corwin reports, "some of the most effective campaigning against smoking is being done by the teenagers themselves" in TAC (Teens Against Cancer) clubs devoted "to spreading the word among pre - teenagers . . .that smoking isn't very bright."

Young people have also held conferences on smoking and health, like the one in Delaware a year ago, at which they made recommendations for further action to influence children, teenagers, and parents.

Though the success of these programs is hard to gauge, Corwin compared a 1958 poll of teenage smokers with a 1963 study showing a reduction in the percentage of youngsters who smoke. Most of the nonsmokers in 1963 explained, "It's bad for my health."

IF THESE teenagers "are getting the message," Corwin urges, "the message must go on. Every year a new crop of youngsters reaches the age when the question arises, To start or not to start?"

He suggests community organizations might well undertake organized efforts "to keep the smoke cleared away" and warn "our teenagers away from Tobacco Road."

RARE 19TH CENTURY glassware to be displayed next week at Randhurst is admired by Mrs. Herbert A. Cornelius and Mrs. John K. Auld of Arlington Heights. The Antique Art Glass Exhibit is being sponsored by the Service League of Lake Bluff Children's Home. Mrs. Cornelius and Mrs. Auld are co-chairmen of the exhibit, which will officially open Saturday night with an evening of dining and dancing in the Tree Top Restaurant at Randhurst.

Feature Of Gala Benefit

Northwest suburban members of the Lake Bluff Children's Home Service League will relax from their busy weeks of benefit planning Saturday night and dress in their prettiest formal wear for an evening of dining and dancing in the Tree Top restaurant at Randhurst.

The gala occasion will be the Sponsors' dinner dance which will officially open the Antique Art Glass exhibit to be featured all next week at Randhurst shopping center, Mount Prospect, as the annual benefit of the Lake Bluff Service League.

Preceding the dinner, which will be served at 7:30 p.m., Northwest Chapter Service League members and their husbands will be guests of the William L. Brockobs at a cocktail party in their home in Park Ridge.

At 9:30 p.m. during the dance Saturday, CBS personality, Mal Bellairs will officiate in the ribbon-cutting ceremonies to open the Antique Art Glass show, featuring more than 800 pieces of priceless 19th century art glass.

THIS WILL BE the midwest premiere of the glas scollection which has been acquired in more than 30 years of antique-hunting by Robert F. Caswell of Lunenburg, Mass.

Caswell's collection, the only traveling "museum on wheels" in the country, has been aiding churches, art clubs and service groups in fund raising throughout New England, California and Florida.

The collector, who sold his motel business seven years ago in order to devote more time to his hobby, worked six months to outfit a specially built truck so that he could take his glass collection cross country.

"I believe that antique art glass is such a part of our American heritage that I wanted to travel from coast to coast to make it possible for antique lovers all over the nation to enjoy the beauty of these rare pieces of art glass," comments Caswell.

CASWELL'S ARRAY of antique glass is displayed against a backdrop of black satin. The truck holds ten cases, each six feet long, opening up to a total of 900 square feet of display space. The cases are easily removed from the truck and can be quickly set up without touching the glassware.

Viewing schedule for the exhibit includes Sunday, April 12, noon to 5; Monday through Friday, noon to 9; Saturday, April 18, noon to 5. Tea will be served to those who attend Monday afternoon.

Admission donation to the glass exhibit is payable at the door. All proceeds go to the Lake Bluff Children's Home, which is currently observing its 70th year as a child care center in suburban Lake Bluff.

THE HOME'S program includes group care for grade schoolers and high school boys and girls, an adoption program for infants, a home for unwed mothers and foster home placement for pre-schoolers and teens.

Since its opening in 1894, more than 7500 youngsters have been aided by the Lake Bluff home.

Suburban Mom Asks:

Is It Music or Noise?

by BETTY AINSLIE

What's your favorite brand of music these days? Seems like the nursery rhyme "rings on her fingers and bells on her toes, she shall have music wherever she goes," never was so true.

With hi-fi and stereo records to fill our homes with sound and AM and FM music to keep us awake while driving, we live our daily hours constantly bombarded with our own particular brand of music.

Super markets pipe in "music to wheel our shopping carts by," restaurants offer electric organ selections or jukebox tunes for our eating and listening pleasure— even the dentist wisks soft strains through a PA system.

PERSONALLY, I kinda like that dead sound of absolutely nothing hitting my eardrums. After a weekend of a radio swinging rock and roll from a bedroom — stereo flinging out booming sound in the living room and TV bursting forth with a symphony, a sing along or variety show — and the small phonograph owned by son no. 2 hitting the twist favorites—my station in the kitchen becomes a sounding board of snatches from each room, blending all the noise into a fine cacophony of sound.

So the absolute silence of a Monday morning, say around 9 o'clock, is deafening.

There are several moods of music which are popular in this family.

SON NO. 1 likes things like "Victory at Sea," talking records, hootenanny, group singers and rock and roll.

Daughter, if and when she's around, likes symphonies or full scores of motion pictures.

Son no. 2 enjoys Civil War songs, World War battle sounds, "1812 Overture" and parade and military marches.

Pop specializes in dixieland and the big pipe organ music.

Now I'm partial to "nostalgia" songs danced to and remembered fondly from proms or long dead romances. The soft ballads that sound sweeter to my ears than present day twist music.

IT PROBABLY would be rather nice if families agreed on this subject of music and all enjoyed one variety. For instance, any trip in our car calls for five voices trying to command one radio. The choices are sport events from football, hockey, basketball, track and naturally baseball which vie with disk jockeys, rock and roll and twist. Who wins? Why, naturally, Pop as he's usually driving and has full control of the radio push buttons.

But music is supposed to be an art which applies to organized sound. In other words some of the way out yelling and hollering which is standard accompaniment for these short lived twist pieces wouldn't, no matter how you slice it, be considered music.

ALL TEENAGERS go through a period of record collecting and listening, with volume turned up, to jump and jive records. Isn't it nice though that it doesn't last too long, and they gradually settle into an enjoyment of the more standard types of music. At least the kind that is passable and possible as background noise even though not necessarily your favorite selections.

Since the record player replaced the old time Victor talkmashine, our homes are constantly bombarded with sounds. Remember when you were allowed to try out your selected records at the store? When record departments had little rooms equipped with phonographs? Many an inexpensive evening of fun, when we were budgeted newlyweds, was spent listening to new records in the store. We could spend an entire evening with our favorite music by just the purchase of a record or two for our collection of 78's.

ACCORDING to Mozart, "Music even in situations of the greatest horror should never be painful to the ear but should flatter and charm it, and thereby always remain music."

I've a feeling that what is one fellow's music might be another's discord. A good friend of mine dislikes most all but the very classical. Another hates anything with stringed instruments and another listens to only operas.

The volume control probably is a big factor in musical enjoyment. Soft background music is soothing and relaxing and many enjoy reading, eating and doing housework with the accompaniment of soft strains. Ever notice the Stereo fan must be slightly deaf or always figures his audience is.

"I know whether my record fan friend is a stereo fiend by just noticing how loudly he plays his phonograph," declares a friend.

As Confucius say — "Music produces a kind of pleasure which human nature cannot do without." — To which I agree. That is if it's my kind of music.

Workpower Wooing Area Women to Work

Ex-career housewives in the west and northwest suburban area are very soon going to find that they are being pursued.

The pursuer, hardly a stranger to the area, will be Workpower, Inc., the work-contracting service that on occasion turns itself into a rolling grabbag of opportunity for suburban wives and mothers who have almost forgotten the fun of working for pay.

BETWEEN the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Workpower's mobile office unit, the "Workmobile" will travel to the Arlington Motel, 948 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights, where applications for temporary office work will be accepted in Conference Room "A" by veteran Workpower interviewer, Marge McCormick.

As ever, the object of the visit will be to woo women back to work.

And while Workpower's appeal will be directed chiefly to the frantic hausfrau bushed from battling the budget, it will also welcome the response of the lass recently out of school and in quest of kopeks (provided she has passed her 18th birthday).

To these ladies, Workpower offers temporary work, the nature and duration being left to the discretion of the applicant herself.

"Our only requirement," says Stanford Meigs, Workpower's president, "is that the applicant be able to work at least one, full eight-hour day.

"Workpower is not an employment agency. We are work contractors. Our clients need people to work with and to assist their permanent personnel for specified lengths of time—chiefly during vacation and peak operational periods.

"WHEN AN applicant finishes a job, she may request further assignment if and when she wishes. Similarly, if we ourselves contact her with regard to a particular job, the decision to accept or not is entirely up to her."

What kind of work? You name it — Workpower apparently has it. However, according to Mr. Meigs, most client requirements cover office work: clerical, steno, typists, executive secretary, IBM etc. He added however, that one Workpower client is a north shore society matron who uses Workpower girls to assist her in making beaded dog dollars which she sells at fantastic prices to her fashionable friends.

For the benefit of newcomers as well as experienced workers, a brief lecture was presented on the origin and purposes of the Democratic party by Mrs. Herman Koenaman, secretary to Committeeman James Stavras. The importance of politics was explained from the national down to the grass roots level.

'Recipe File' Shower Thoughtful for Brides

by DOLORES HAUGH

April showers bring May flowers and June Brides, so this month we will be thinking of what a young man's fancy turns to and what those lucky "engaged" gals hope for, pre-wedding showers. This one will prove to be different, fun and a boon to the new housewife, cook and even to hubby.

INVITATIONS

From white construction paper cut a file box and decorate it with red hearts and a Pennsylvania Dutch motif. Make it so that the top is hinged, that is, fold it ¼ of the way from the top so that you must lift it to see the slit which you have cut in the box. Into this on standard file cards which have been cut into thirds, write on one:

Recipe for a SHOWER for

TIME: PLACE:
GIVEN BY: RSVP
Wear your prettiest apron.

On the next one write:

Recipe for the EVENING (or afternoon or morning)
Bring a Kitchen Gift:
—a favorite recipe of yours
—with your wish and signature

On the third write:

Recipe for Memories
Wrap your gift box in a new kitchen towel
Tie on a small but needed kitchen item and your recipe card. Enclose blank card for them to use.

PREPARATIONS

This is a fun-type of shower for the hostess, too, as it is easy and she will need only a few items on hand for her guests besides the food.

She will, of course, have a beautiful new file box for the guest of honor. This may be hand-painted by her, purchased or made of wood and monogrammed with the new initials of bride and groom or just the bride's motto "Made in the kitchen of ——————".

Have an index ready so the guests may file their recipes in the box after they read them, and this is your gift to the bride. Make sure you add your own favorite recipes.

IF YOU have a large kitchen or adjoining family room by all means use it for the shower. Use your kitchen colors for the table and make a centerpiece of fresh flowers in your plastic casserole or prettiest pottery salad bowl.

Use bright terry cloth towels as napkins picking up the colors of your room or using contrasting ones.

Be sure you have tables or lap trays for your guests and chairs for all with a special chair for the guest of honor. Crown her with a chef's hat and present her with a lovely cover-all apron which her mother may wish to make for her... .. ...

HAVE A table set up with a bright breakfast cloth on it and let the guests stack their towel-wrapped gifts on it. Have a matching one empty and place cartons under a larger sized tablecloth so that the gifts may be displayed as she opens them for viewing by the guests later.

Have the new file box ready, and as each gift is opened have the memory wish read and note the gift on it for the guest of honor to acknowledge later. You may, as the hostess or the mother of the bride-to-be, present her with kitchen note paper for her acknowledgments which should be sent not more than one week after the gifts are received. The groom may help write them or at least address the envelopes, as he will enjoy these shower recipes too.

MENU

Honeymoon salad — "lettuce alone" will be the center of the menu, and then let each guest place tuna, chicken or ham salad or a little of each on the honeymoon salad. Hot sweetheart rolls, made heart shaped, relishes, dessert, coffee, nuts and mints will complete the menu.

The dessert may be a box made from a loaf cake and decorated to match the invitation and recipe box itself. This is done by making your favorite cake in a bread pan — you may need to make two, but a small intimate shower is always more fun than huge impersonal ones.

You may wish to keep this one at approximately 12 to 15 guests but your entertaining facilities will dictate the number you can best accommodate.

ENTERTAINMENT

The reading of the wishes, recipes and gifts plus the food will take up a lot of time, but you may wish to unscramble names of a few menus or kitchen items, and even have the guests give the bride-to-be their favorite menu so that she may have a few to start off with after the honeymoon. A thoughtful bride-to-be, when entertaining friends for the first time in her own home, may even select one recipe from each menu when she makes up her own party menu.

So be a happy planner and get your recipe file out to stir up this April shower. (S

DELTA ZETA

Alumnae of Delta Zeta will meet in the Prospect Heights home of Miss Annabelle Smith, 100 N. Elm St., on Tuesday, April 14, at 8 p.m.

White elephant gifts will be auctioned off followed by an evening of cards; Mrs. John Corday, LE 7-1292, is taking reservations.

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

Plentywood Farm Restaurant, Bensenville, will be the setting April 18 of the annual Founders Day Luncheon planned by the Chicago Suburban West Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Sigma Sigma Sigma, a social sorority for college women, was founded at Longwood College, Farmville, Va., on April 20, 1898. The Sorority has grown to encompass 63 collegiate chapters and more than 130 alumnae chapters throughout the nation. High Christian ideals and service to others, always the purpose of Tri Sigma women, inspire collegiates now, as they have over 26,000 members in a 65-year-span.

THE SORORITY has recently purchased property in Woodstock, Va., for the location of its national memorial headquarters. This location, in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley, will mean much to all Tri Sigmas, as the area of its founding and much of its early history.

Mrs. Robert Wilson, 520 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights, is current president of the local alumnae chapter. Mrs. Wade Harris of Hoffman Estates, Roselle, will be installed as the 1964-65 president in May.

ALPHA PHI

A program on interior decorating is slated for area Alpha Phis at a meeting Thursday, April 16, in the home of Mrs. Robert Nesbit, 305 S. Redfield, Park Ridge.

After the business meeting, Robert Mook, owner of Hilltop Studio in Arlington Heights, will present current trends in decorating and room arrangement.

Mr. Mook was graduated from the University of Alabama. He opened the studio in 1949 and for the past 10 years has been teaching at Arlington High School.

All Alpha Phis in the area are urged to call Mrs. Nesbit at 825-3678 for reservations and information.

Authoress and honorary member of Alpha Psi Chapter, Mrs. John Fleming, will speak at a joint meeting of the Eta, Beta Tau and Alpha Psi Chapters of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society on April 11.

Members will meet to hear Mrs. Fleming's topic, "Literature Reflects Changing Culture," at The Pantry in Park Ridge.

An important meeting is to be held prior to the luncheon at The Pantry. Edith Ford, Alpha Psi president, will host a 9:30 coffee in her home, at which time final reports, installation of new officers and balloting for new members is planned.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Northwest area Tri Deltas have slated a tour of the Chandelier Shop in Arlington Heights at 8 p.m., April 15.

Following the tour and dessert, Mrs. Dana Harmon, decorator for the shop and a member of the group, will speak on home decor, accenting accessories.

Co-hostesses are Mrs. Richard Sutton, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. L. Pinotti, Prospect Heights. Mrs. Sutton, 259-2179, is accepting reservations.

BETA SIGMA PHI

Members of Mu Pi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi packed Easter baskets for a needy family at their last meeting, March 26, hosted by Mrs. Russell Henry of Streamwood.

After the project was completed, Mrs. Carl Carlson and Mrs. Henry led a debate entitled, "Television's Influence on Our Children." Members also learned their recent bake sale was a "huge success."

RESULTS OF THE election of 1964-65 officers are as follows: Mrs. Jay Sinnes, Bartlett, president; Mrs. Henry, vice president; Mrs. Sam Nowling, Hoffman Estates, treasurer; and Mrs. T. Tolentino, also of Hoffman, corresponding secretary.

Two Bartlett women, Mrs. Melvin Van Buren, and Mrs. Mathew Bernert were named to the posts of recording secretary and extension officer.

CHI OMEGA

Local alumnae, Mrs. Donald F. House and Mrs. Verne Whittnell of Arlington Heights, coordinating committee members, have announced plans for Chi Omega Illinois State Day, to be held Saturday, April 11.

The purpose of this third annual event is to promote greater alumnae interest in Chi Omega and to let the actives and alumnae share ideas. This year a workshop, scheduled at Northwestern Chi Omega House at 11 a.m., will hear ideas on rushing, scholarship and current fraternity issues.

AT THE 12:30 luncheon in the Orrington Hotel, Evanston, James C. McLeod, dean of students at Northwestern, plans to address the membership on "The Changing Fraternity Image." Honored guest for State Day is Mrs. John Howard of Little Rock, author of Chi Omega Symphony, which was written while she was a pledge at Northwestern.

The month of April is a meaningful time to all Chi Omegas, who will also honor the founders of the fraternity at this time with a candlelighting service. Chi Omega was founded on April 5, 1895, at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, Ark.

Following the luncheon, tours of the Alice Millar Chapel and the lake fill project will begin at the chapter house at 10 a.m. All members are invited to meet here for an informal open house after the Eleusinian luncheon. The address is 1870 Orrington Ave.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Kappa Alpha Theta's spring luncheon is being held Thursday, April 17, at Pioneer Park Fieldhouse. A salad bar luncheon, the affair will begin at noon, and will be followed by an afternoon of bridge.

Tickets are available from Mrs. Norval Stephens, CL 5-2242. (S

Air Travel Boon

Data System Streamlines Reservations

By JEANNE WELCH
Travel Editor

About six years ago one of the major airlines flew Chicago area travel writers to Denver to see its new data processing equipment which speeded up the complicated business of reservation-making in what seem a miraculous manner. Last week American Airlines, in a press conference in Chicago, vividly demonstrated that six years have brought data-processing to new heights of super-human achievement.

WELCH

American's new system, called SABRE, has taken some 10 years to develop, during which time International Business Machines Corporation and airline executives have worked in close collaboration. When completely activated by the end of 1964 SABRE will be the most extensive data processing system in the business world, according to H. D. Sillman, the airline's Chicago regional vice president.

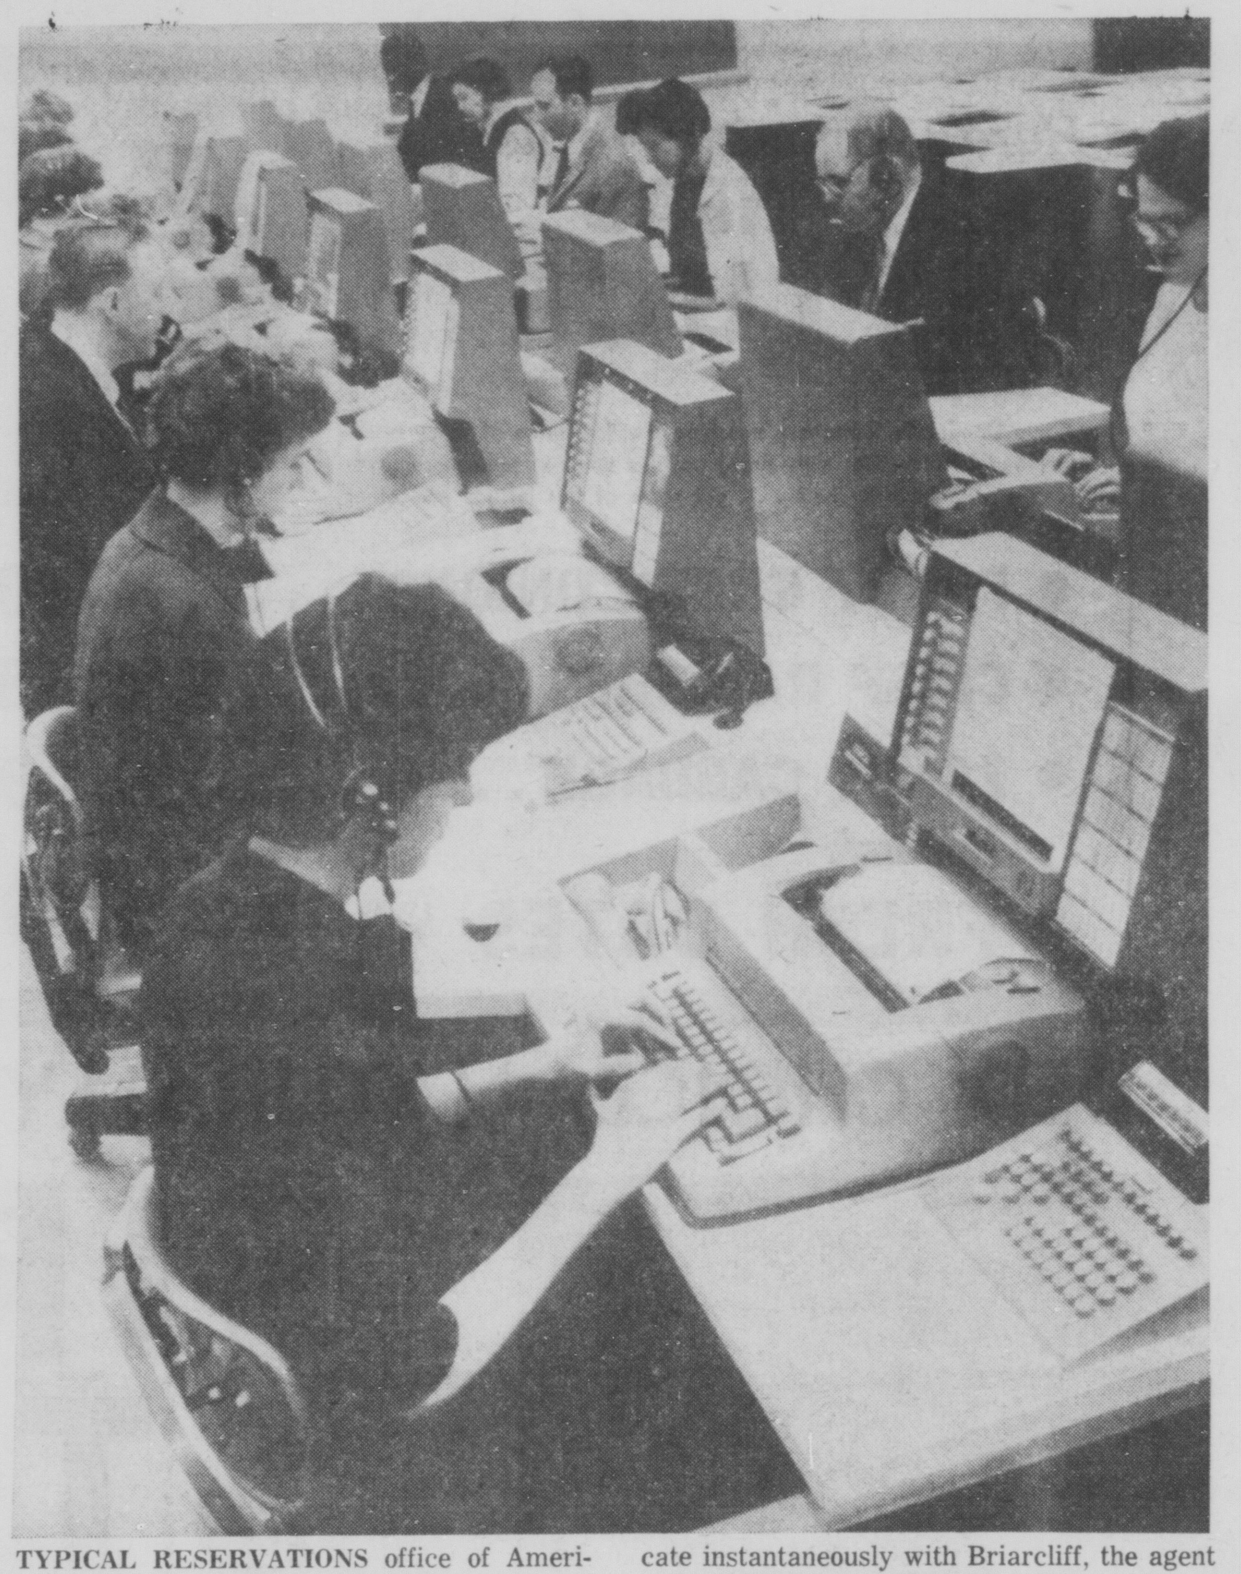
By the use of this electronic system American's reservation desks serving northern Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and northern Indiana can know in seconds what space is available on any of the airline's 900 daily flights. This almost instantaneous information comes from the system's computing center at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., near New York City. The Briarcliff center is capable of processing over 7,500 complete airline reservations in an hour.

Handling reservations, however, is only one string of the bow of a system which is versatile as well as speedy. SABRE can also automatically: notify sales agents when special action is needed, such as calling a passenger to inform him of changes; process waiting lists and make reservations as seats become available; and advise agents to follow up on reservations which have not been picked up.

An important by-product of the record-keeping abilities of the new system is that it can provide data to aid American's management to plan for future needs. Such data include daily running totals of seats sold and the percentage of business deriving from various sources. It can even help in planning menus for the airline since it can indicate passenger preferences for certain types of meals.

It is estimated that SABRE will save the airline about $1,000,000 yearly while improving its passenger service. One very nice and reassuring fact about this savings, however, is that it will not be affected by the release of employees whose duties the system has usurped.

Seems as though American deserves a special pat on the back for the care and concern it has shown in working out a program whereby those employees whose jobs have been made obsolete have been re-trained for other positions and their continuing employment guaranteed.



TYPICAL RESERVATIONS office of American Airlines shows the SABRE equipment which enables each agent, no matter where located, to "talk" directly with an electronic reservations center at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. SABRE is the largest data processing system in business use. Able to communicate instantaneously with Briarcliff, the agent in seconds time may reserve flight space or complete any particular action requested by the customer. The multi-million dollar system represents a major advancement over any present reservations setup in accuracy, efficiency, speed and capacity.

Leisurely Driving

Scenic Scandinavia Rewards Motorists

Motoring in Scandinavia is not so much a matter of speed as scenery. It's not that roads in Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden don't permit high speeds, but what's the point of racing along with eyes glued to the highway when there are fjords, fairy-tale towns, sparkling lakes and folklore provinces to see?

In Denmark, for example, where rolling terrain and modern highways certainly make for fast driving, the Danes nevertheless urge motoring tourists to get off the main roads and onto the secondary "green roads" which go past white-washed half-timbered houses with thatched roofs and lush farms where some of the world's finest dairy products originate.

En route, there's always a "kro"—the quaint inn serving real Danish pastries, open-faced sandwiches and other gourmet specialities. Good excursion centers for motorists are Copenhagen, the gay capital; Odense and Svendborg, on Hans Christian Andersen's fairy-tale isle of Funen, and Aarhus, in Jutland.

IN FINLAND, too, a country of lakes and forests, modern architecture and medieval castles, leisurely driving in light traffic offers many scenic rewards, particularly in the Eastern Lake District. All major roads are paved, and sharp curves have been eliminated in an extensive road-building program.

Helsinki-bound motorists can drive all the way from the Continent on Highway E4, which starts in Lisbon, Portugal, and has its longest stretch in Sweden, from Helsingborg, in the south, to Haparanda, at the Swedish-Finnish border, above the Arctic Circle. Excellent ferries across the Gulf of Bothnia between Sweeden and Finland offer several short cuts.

Norway's motor routes are themselves among that country's leading scenic attractions. Zigzagging roads with hairpin bends in the mountains offer extra thrills. Well-kept and safe, they introduce new breath-taking sights at every turn — fjords, glaciers, waterfalls, tiny farms perched high on the mountainside and bustling towns sheltered in the valleys.

THE MOTORIST trying to estimate his travel time in Norway from a map is easily deceived because of the terrain and the frequent fjord crossings by ferry. From Bergen to Oslo, for example, the most interesting and direct auto route is 310 miles, a day's drive in America, but you'll need three days for it in Norway, where 100 to 150 miles a day is considered a comfortable maximum.

In Sweden, one of the most picturesque drives is the road along the eastern shore of Lake Vattern, on the popular route between Stockholm and Gothenburg which takes in the high spots of the Gota Canal district. This drive usually includes a brief detour via medieval Vadstena to see its castle and historic cloisters.

Sweden, which now has left-hand driving, will change to right-hand driving in the summer of 1967.

THE "MOTORING season" in Scandinavia extends from early May through September, even on routes to the North Cape, above the Arctic circle, and—believe it or not—some roads in northern Sweden are open all year around. A popular motor route in the north is from Kiruna, mining center in Swedish Lapland, to Karesuando, which connects with roads via Finland and Norway to the Cape, for Midnight Sun driving.

Drive-yourself and chauffeur-driven cars are available everywhere in Scandinavia and can be reserved in advance through travel agents. Both American and European makes of cars are rented but the smaller European car is more common because of its economy, since gasoline costs from 53 to 62 cents a gallon. Small cars rent for $3.25 to $4 a day plus 4 cents to 5.5 cents a kilometer.

Literature on motoring in Scandinavia is available from the Scandinavian Travel Commission, Box 260, New York, N. Y. 10017.

Jamaica Rum Taster Is an Artist at Work

by JAMES WINCHESTER

KINGSTON, JAMAICA — "Great rum, this," you say, smacking your lips over your favorite brand of Jamaica rum. And possibly, as you drink, it may occur to you once in a great while that it has the same lovely taste it had when you first tried it, years ago.

Most likely, though, it has never occurred to you to wonder just how it happens that it tastes the same year in and year out. It does because of the subtle and exacting work of the rum taster, or, as he is also known, the blender.

The materials he works with are rums that may come from the manufacturer's own distilleries, or from various independent distillers. They may be of many "crops" of many ages, of varying types as to color, body and aroma. All of these characteristics must be tasted, smelled, evaluated and given their proper weight, ultimately to be blended into the final, finished rum that you drink. It is a task that cannot be relegated to even the most complex machine, or to a group of skilled employees. It is the job of a specialist — a dedicated person with a nose and palate extraordinarily perceptive and acute.

WATCH HIM as he works. All Jamaica's larger rum plants, most of them in or near Kingston, welcome visitors, according to British Overseas Airways Corporation, which jets to this Caribbean island in 3½ hours from New York City.

Around the taster on the table are samples of rums that have been aged from five to 25 years. The blender picks up a sample, pours some into his balloon-shaped snifter — his "London Dock glass"—and cups his hand around it to warm the liquor and release its bouquet. He puts his nose well into the glass. A sniff alone can tell him quite a lot about that sample.

Then he will let a drop or two onto his tongue. That is all he needs—he does not swallow, but spits it out when it has told him what he needs to know about it.

THEN ON to another sample. Again he swirls the glass to help the liquid release its aroma. Again he puts his nose into the glass and sniffs. Again he takes a drop, rolls it around, spits it out. Again he has learned all he wants to know about that aspirant for your favor.

But he is not only testing and testing. As he works he is calculating which of the samples will go into the particular blend he is working toward, and how much of each sample. It is on his skill and judgment that rests the uniformity found so desirable in any Jamaica rum.

The testing of individual samples over, the blending begins. Each mixture is closely examined for color. It is smelled and tested. Eventually the blend is achieved that satisfies the taster. This is the blend that comes as close as is humanly possible —and that is as close as no matter, as the British say — to the rum that represents the firm in markets all over the world.

NOW THE RUM is ready to be bottled. At this point the only change allowed by law is the addition of coloring, in the form of a little sugar caramel, and the adding of distilled water to reduce the proof of the rum to the predetermined strength.

The taster-blender, as you might expect, is one of the highest-paid men in the Jamaica rum industry. If his firm's reputation—and fortunes — can be said to rest in the hands of any one person, he is it.

The blender's formulas for achieving a particular rum of a very particular nature are not written down. They are passed along by him to his assistants, who in turn will convey them to their assistants. A taster often has a 20-year apprenticeship.

THESE MEN represent the culmination, the perfecting, of a process that begins with the harvesting of the sugar cane, the fermenting of the molasses by-product, the distilling of the spirit, and the aging process that itself may take up to 25 years.

Yes, the taster-blender is the man to whom you might well doff your hat as you savor the most delectable of drinks—Jamaica rum.

Aluminum Windows Have AAMA Label

If you're planning to buy a new home this spring, or are starting a remodeling or room addition on your present one, be sure the aluminum windows and sliding glass doors you buy bear the "Quality Certified" label of the Architectural Aluminum Manufacturers Association (AAMA), which is headquartered in Chicago.

This seal is your guide to a quality product that won't swell, warp or stick.

All houses and remodeling projects with aluminum windows and sliding glass doors that are insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) must carry this label. Too, many savings and loan officers view with favor houses and remodeling projects that carry the AAMA, Inc., label.

THE SEAL says that the unit bearing it has been designed and manufactured in compliance with a rigid set of industry standards. It protects you against inferior products.

"What the Underwriters' Laboratory Seal is to safety, the AAMA, Inc., label is to quality," according to George O. Radford, president of the 111-member organization.

Heads Committee For Secretaries

Mrs. Alice Platt, CPS, 1703 E. Olive Street, Arlington Heights, has been named chairman of the Secretaries Week committee of Chicago's Lake Shore Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International).

Gallery Wall Of Paintings

Do you have a number of important and valuable paintings which need display on a gallery wall in your home? Then, here is an idea which a western art fancier developed in his home.

He decided his paintings needed a good foil, a neutral background which would enhance their beauty and color and not rob them.

SO, IN designing his home, he had his living room created in a two-story height with the entrance from the top level. One two-story tall wall has become his gallery, and is a constant source of pleasure to the owner and his guests. It flanks an open stair system which leads to the living floor level.

The wall was built of four-inch wide west coast hemlock flooring, tongue-and-groove pattern, and it was finished in clear plastic which brings out the warm, soft champagne color of the wood.

The effect is startling, a beautiful, warm wall and yet one of such soft colors that it builds up the paintings. The wall has no pattern.

It can be applied directly to a stud wall, if it is a new home under construction, or it can be affixed to an old wall by merely leveling the wall with one-by-two inch furring strips which also make a good nailing surface.

Cook 'Salutes' Spring with Elegant Angel Food

HIGH, LIGHT AND HANDSOME is the elegant Angel Food Ice Box Cake which Mrs. William J. Ryan of Mount Prospect is serving her son, Tom, 10 years old. This good cook especially recommends serving this refreshing dessert during the spring and summer months. (SH

ANGEL FOOD ICE BOX CAKE

1 angel food cake
½ cup butter
½ cup granulated sugar
4 egg yolks
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
4 stiffly-beaten egg whites

Cut angel food cake in three layers. Cream butter and sugar together thoroughly. Beat egg yolks and add to creamed mixture; slowly add lemon rind and juice. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites.

Spread filling between layers and on top of cake. Refrigerate overnight.

If served at the table, cover sides and top of cake with whipped cream. If served from the kitchen, slice cake and place spoonful of whipped cream on each serving. Serves 12.

FILLETS OF SOLE

2 pounds fillets of sole
⅓ cup butter
3 tablespoons finely-chopped green onion
1 cup dry white wine
1 bay leaf
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup water or soup stock

Melt butter; add onion, bay leaf, wine and water and heat. When hot, add fillets and salt and pepper them. Cover and cook for 10 minutes.

Remove fillets to heat-proof platter and boil sauce down for five minutes. Add ½ cup cream or rich milk. Heat thoroughly and pour over fillets. Place under broiler for a few minutes, until bubbly. Serves 4 to 6.

SHISH KABOBS

3 or 4 pounds well-marbled beef or lamb
Salt and pepper
1 onion, sliced
½ cup dry wine, red or white
4 large green peppers
About 10 small onions
4 tomatoes cut in quarters or 10 or 12 cherry tomatoes
2 cans small potatoes

Cut meat in 1½-inch cubes; place in a large bowl and season with salt and pepper. Add the sliced onion and the wine. Marinate for at least six hours or overnight, stirring occasionally to keep meat coated. Put meat on skewers, interspersed with small onions.

On separate skewers put the sections of green peppers, small tomatoes and potatoes. Brush the vegetables with butter, salt and pepper them, and place on the sides of the grill where the heat is less intense. Place skewers with meat on them in center of the grill and brush with marinade which has had water added to it. Brown nicely on all sides. Serves 5.

Sea Jewel Salad

Appetizing soup and salad mates provide interesting and taste-tempting fare for lunch or supper. For instance, this shimmering salad of tuna, green peas, and crisp diced apples molded in orange-pineapple flavor gelatin is a satisfying entree, preceded by mugs of steaming hot Cheddar cheese soup and crusty toasted bread.

MOLDED SEA JEWEL SALAD

1 package (3 ounces) orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 cup boiling water
¾ cup cold water
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 can (7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
½ cup drained cooked peas
½ cup chopped red apple

Dissolve gelatin, salt, and pepper in boiling water. Add cold water and vinegar. Stir in mayonnaise and blend well. Chill until very thick. Fold in remaining ingredients and pour into a 1-quart mold. Makes 4 to 6 servings. (SH

The parsnip is strictly a winter and early spring vegetable, for it takes about two weeks exposure to near-freezing temperature to change its starch to sugar.

Cake Is Layered With Whip Cream

by LOIS SEILER

An elegant dessert designed to draw raves from the most discriminating guests is the luscious angel food ice box cake being featured today as a salute to spring.

It is one of Mrs. William J. Ryan's favorites, which she especially recommends serving during the summer months because it is so "cool, light and refreshing."

The dessert is made by cutting an angel food cake into three layers and filling and frosting it with a rich and creamy lemon-flavored filling.

There is no cooking involved in preparing this filling; it simply consists of butter, sugar, egg yolks, lemon rind and juice creamed together with egg whites folded in. Refrigerated overnight, Mrs. Ryan frosts the cake with whipped cream just before serving.

This is a perfect dessert to serve with either fillets of sole or shish kabobs, two of this good cook's dinner specialties.

Sole prepared by her method is guaranteed to have no fishy taste. Cooked in wine, butter and water seasoned with chopped green onion and bay leaf, the sauce is later cooked down and cream is added. This rich sauce is then poured over the fish and popped under the broiler until bubbly.

"I like to serve baked or boiled potatoes and a green vegetable, such as broccoli, with this dinner," Mrs. Ryan commented. "Crisp rolls and a salad are also good accompaniments."

Either beef or lamb can be used to make this capable homemaker's shish kabobs, which are barbecued on an outdoor grill. She marinates the meat in wine at least six hours, preferably overnight. It is then put on skewers interspersed with small onions.

ON SEPARATE skewers Mrs. Ryan threads sections of green peppers, cherry tomatoes and small canned potatoes. The vegetables are placed on the sides of the grill where the heat is not too intense, as they require a shorter cooking time, while the meat is placed in the center of the grill and browned nicely on all sides.

Crispy hard rolls and a tossed salad is all that is needed for this appealing and flavorful outdoor meal.

Cooking is only one of many interests of this busy mother of three who also enjoys sewing, knitting and gardening and who is very active in several organizations.

A member of the Mount Prospect Unit of Home Demonstrators, she is 4-H chairman for this group as well as 4-H chairman for North Cook County. She is also a member of the youth committee and a director on the Home Demonstrators Council for Cook County. Mrs. Ryan belongs to St. Emily's Guild, too.

The Ryan family lives at 512 N. Maple in Mount Prospect. Their children are: Patricia, 18, a freshman at Illinois State University at Normal; John, 15, a sophomore at Prospect High, and Tom, 10, a fifth grade student.

Oranges Flavor Canadian Bacon

You'll turn a colorless winter day into a bright occasion when mealtime reveals a brilliant orange sauce on Canadian style bacon.

The sauce is prepared with sweetened orange juice thickened with cornstarch. It's served warm with orange sections and flecks of lemon rind.

AS TO THE meat, that's an innovation, too. For each serving an orange slice and a thin onion slice are tucked between two Canadian style bacon slices. The stacks are baked and the orange sauce poured over for serving.

This dish is delicious at dinner or lunch. It's also a wonderful idea for a brunch. (Omit the onion at this meal, if desired.)

CANADIAN STYLE BACON AND ORANGE SAUCE

12 slices Canadian style bacon, cut ¼ inch thick
6 thin onion slices
6 orange slices, rind removed
2 teaspoons sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup orange juice
1 orange, peeled and cut in sections
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Arrange 6 slices Canadian style bacon in a greased shallow 1½-quart baking dish. Top each slice with an onion slice, an orange slice and another slice of Canadian style bacon. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes.

Mix together sugar and cornstarch. Add orange juice and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Stir in orange sections and lemon rind.

Serve sauce over meat. Six servings. (SH

Extra Day in '64 Chosen For King-Hicks Nuptials

(Bak Studios

The extra day provided in 1964 was chosen by Betsy King, daughter of the C. H. Kings, 350 S. Burton Place, Arlington Heights, and David F. Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hicks of Braddock, Pa. for their wedding. Their Leap Year Day wedding on Feb. 29 took place at 4:30 p.m. in First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights with Dr. Paul L. Stumpf officiating.

Organist for the candlelight ceremony was Mrs. Isaac Strain with Mr. Strain as soloist. His selections were "The Lord's Prayer" and "The 13th Chapter of 1st Corinthians." Candelabra, white stock and snap dragons decorated the altar, and candelabra also marked the aisle down which Mr. King escorted his daughter.

For her marriage the bride wore an ivory peau de soie gown with panels of antique Irish lace decorated with lace medallions and seed pearls. The bodice was fashioned with scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves, and a split court train was a feature of the skirt. Her ivory illusion veil was held in place with a pearl crown and she carried a cascade of white baby orchids and stephanotis with a large center orchid.

MISS GAY Capouch of Libertyville, an Alpha Delta Pi sorority sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the Misses Jane Solon of Glencoe, the groom's sister, Nancy Hicks of North Braddock, and Miss Linda Jungbluth of Arlington Heights.

All wore identical gowns of gypsy beauty satin fashioned with floor-length skirts, scooped necklines and elbow-length sleeves. They carried cascades of pink carnations and American Beauty roses.

The bride's 10-year-old brother, Tommy of Arlington Heights was acolyte. The groom's best man was Rick Rothenberger of Chicago and ushers were Henry Chapman and Don DeFord of Chicago and Charles King, brother of the bride, of Arlington Heights.

THE SERVICE was followed by a reception in the church's Fellowship Hall and a buffet in the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. King greeted the 175 guests in a gold silk dress with matching jacket and a corsage of green cymbidiums. Mrs. Hicks chose a navy crepe dress with jacket and a corsage of white camellias.

Mr. Hicks took his bride on a 2-week wedding trip to Acapulco and since March 13, the newlyweds have been residing at 6310 N. Kenmore, Chicago.

The new Mrs. Hicks was graduated from Arlington High School and Northwestern University, and the groom was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh. Both young people are employed by IBM. (S

World-Wide 'Tour' Planned For Faith Ladies April 15

All ladies of Faith Church, Arlington Heights, are invited to "come along" on a world-wide tour of mission fields at Faith Ladies' Society's mission meeting Wednesday, April 15. Mrs. Paul Brna, mission chairman, has arranged to have Mrs. Albert Warnke of Des Plaines show the colored slides which she and her husband took on a Lutheran World Mission Tour last summer.

The tour included visits to Lutheran missions, LWML projects, foreign Lutheran Hour offices, Lutheran World Relief spots, and Wheat Ridge Seals hospital projects around the world, as well as the Holy Land. Particularly interesting to the ladies will be the LWML projects, for these are sponsored in part by their own mite-box offerings which are taken up at each mission meeting, according to the chairman. Besides the Holy Land, the countries visited include Hawaii, Japan, Formosa, Hong Kong, India, Thailand, Greece and Nigeria. Tour leader was Pastor Waldo J. Werning who currently is topic editor of the Lutheran Woman's Quarterly.

"MRS. WARNKE is a dedicated Christian woman who has done considerable work for and with the blind children. She has served on the Braille Transcription Committee of the Board of Missions for the Blind and is also a former editor of the Lutheran Woman's Quarterly," commented Mrs. Brna.

The Spring Rally of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League will be held Friday, April 24, at Good Shepherd Church, Des Plaines. Speaker for the afternoon will be Rev. Dean Scheussler who is on leave from Japan.

The Wednesday Morning Bible Study Group will meet April 22 in the Church Lounge, beginning with coffee and fellowship at 9 a.m., followed by discussion from 9:30 to 11. Mrs. Robert MacDonald will be the discussion leader.

Faith Ladies' Society will hold its annual spring luncheon and book review Wednesday, April 29. Mrs. Harriet Smith of Arlington Heights will review "Joy in the Morning," written by Betty Smith. The luncheon menu will be planned by the April Group of Faith Ladies' Society, headed by Mrs. Paul Michaels. Tickets for the luncheon and book review are now on sale and may be procured through Mrs. James Yates, CL 3-1964. (S

State Judging Honors Arlington Juniors

Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club has been informed by Mrs. Charles M. Whitworth, IFWC Community Improvement Project Chairman, that it has received an honorable mention in state judging of entries in the GFWC Community Improvement Program. The nation-wide competition among member clubs of the General Federation of Women's Clubs is sponsored by the GFWC in cooperation with Sears Roebuck Foundation under the direction of the General Federation Public Affairs Department, whose chairman is Mrs. George Malmgren of Chicago.

National prizes totaling $26,000 are offered as incentive to federated women's clubs to take an active part in the improvement of their own communities. Improvement projects submitted by more than 600 Illinois Federation clubs competed at the state level. Cash prizes and certificates of honorable mention will be awarded at the Illinois Federation Convention in May.

ARLINGTON Juniors received an honorable mention for their efforts to improve the recreational program offered teens of the community. The club was instrumental in establishing Arlington Heights' "Bo-Gi" Youth Center program which is now conducted by an elected student board with advisory assistance from an adult board, whose members are appointed by several participating civic and administrative groups. The club's efforts towards the establishment of a formal youth center organization, built upon a broad base of community support, was described in publicity and other material which went into its CIP scrap book for state judging. Mrs. James Summers prepared and submitted the book for Arlington Juniors.

Mrs. Howard Schick, president of Arlington Juniors, has expressed her pleasure at news of the recognition accorded her club, adding "We want to take this opportunity of stating our conviction that any credit given should be shared by the Park District, High School Administration, Arlington Heights Woman's Club, Chamber of Commerce and Jay-cees, whose representatives joined us in working on this community project."

First place winner in each state competes in the national Community Improvement Contest, with national awards being presented June 10 at the General Federation of Women's Club's convention in Atlantic City. (S

Touch of Yesteryear Graces Wedding of Inverness Pair

Satin cushions used at the wedding of her maternal grandparents and a long lace bridal veil purchased in Belgium in 1910 for her paternal grandmother, added a touch of yesteryear to the wedding of Miss Barbara Jean Melum and James Edward Carnal. The double ring service took place at 4:30 p.m. March 21 in Presbyterian Church of Palatine with Rev. John Talbot officiating.

Both of Inverness Countryside families, the bride is the daughter of the H. William Melums, 143 Firth Road, and the groom is the son of the J. Edward Carnals, 1163 N. Blackburn Drive.

Six attendants preceded Miss Melum down the aisle during the candlelight ceremony, and all wore empire gowns of delph blue peau de soi and carried bouquets of white iris. The bride was also in an empire gown, fashioned of ivory silk satin, and her flowers were white roses and stephanotis.

MAID OF honor was Miss Marilyn Mead of La Grange and bridesmaids were the Misses Jennifer Payne of Inverness, Diane Nielsen of Buenos Aires, Argentina, Carol Koehler of River Forest, cousin of the bride, Sally Walker of Chicago and Suzanne Sola of River Forest.

Jeffrey Carnal of Inverness served as his brother's best man and ushers were the bride's brother, Robert Melum, his cousin, Steven Billick of Milwaukee and Robert Frasier, John Hicks and David Hodgson, all of Inverness.

A RECEPTION for 250 guests was held in Inverness Golf Club where Mrs. Melum received in a French blue sheath dress with lace trim, matching coat and pale pink cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Carnal chose a beige, pure silk, sheath with matching jacket and a corsage of beige-green cymbidiums.

The newlyweds are now residing in Carbondale where the groom is enrolled at Southern Illinois University. He previously attended the University of Colorado, where he became affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, and has just recently completed his active duty with the Navy. The new Mrs. Carnal is a June '63 graduate of De Pauw University, and a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority. (S

From Breakfast to Supper—

Citrus Fruits Important In Spring Menu Planning

Warm soup and a refreshing salad make the best kind of luncheon or Sunday night supper on a brisk spring day. Florida's good crop of plump juicy oranges and tart-sweet grapefruit are at their peak of goodness now, enabling you to enjoy them from breakfast through supper. The fruit is larger at this period than it was last year due to early maturing, and the season will be a shorter one.

The flavor of canned condensed tomato soup is delicious when you dilute it with fresh Florida orange juice instead of water and garnish it with thin orange slices.

ONE-TWO-THREE Salad, so-called because it takes no time at all to mix up, makes a nourishing, appetizing salad accompaniment for the sweet soup. Zesty diced Florida grapefruit sections combine with celery and canned crab meat, crisp salad greens and French dressing for a light refresher.

Consider the healthful vitamin C content of the grapefruit and the protein and minerals in the crab, and you're assured you're serving a nutritious, delicious salad.

ORANGE TOMATO SOUP

1 can condensed tomato soup
1½ cups orange juice
Florida orange slices

Combine tomato soup and orange juice in saucepan and heat to serving temperature. Garnish with thin slice of orange. Yield: three servings.

ONE-TWO-THREE SALAD

1 can (7½ ounces) crab, flaked
1 cup diced celery
1½ cups diced grapefruit
¼ cup French dressing
Salad greens

Combine crab, celery and diced grapefruit with French dressing; toss gently. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours. Drain and arrange on salad greens, topping with additional grapefruit sections, if desired. Yield: three servings. (SH

Tuna Chowder, Bisque Favored for Economy

Tuna bisques and chowders in savory variety can be prepared pretty much on the spur of the moment with kitchen shelf staples. Tuna can be combined with canned tomato and cream of mushroom soup to make a delicious and hearty bisque which would be the mainstay of a luncheon or supper.

Or the tuna can be combined with canned corn, diced potatoes and milk for an excellent chowder.

The delicate flavor of canned tuna is sealed in vegetable oil, and generally you will find this fish sold in 6½ or 7 ounce cans. It is comforting to know that tuna is an excellent source of complete and well-balanced protein, which is easily digested and assimilated by both very young children, senior citizens and even by convalescents.

A bisque or chowder because of the protein of tuna is hearty and substantial as the main course. Children will like these soups, too, because all the ingredients are familiar.

TUNA CORN CHOWDER

1 can (6½ or 7 ounces) tuna in-vegetable oil
1 large onion, sliced
1 can (1 pound) whole kernel or cream style corn
2 cups diced potatoes
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon Tabasco

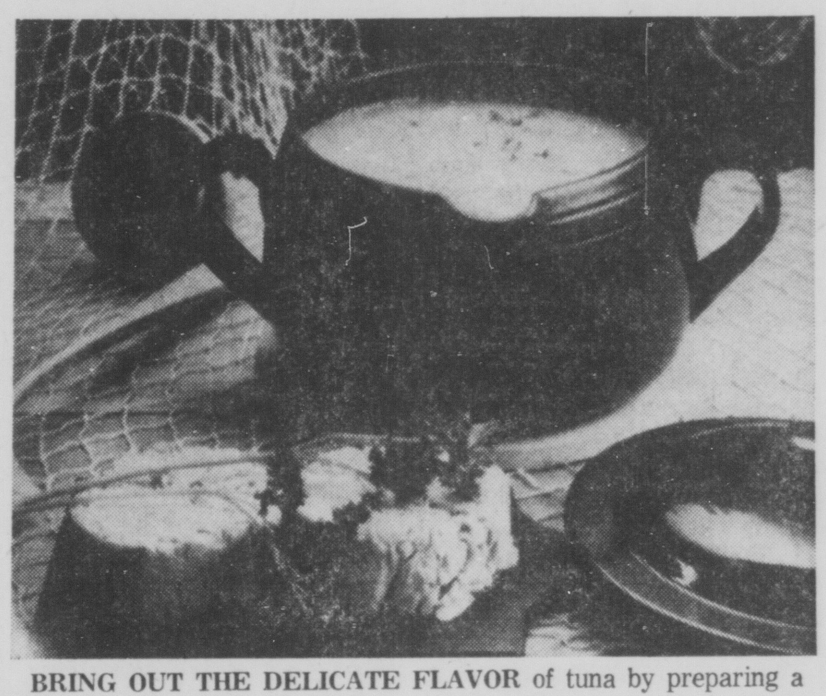
Drain tuna; add onion to tuna oil in large saucepan and cook until tender, but not brown. If whole kernel corn is used; drain corn and add corn liquid to saucepan. If cream style corn is used; add ½ cup water to saucepan.

Bring to a boil and add potatoes; cover and cook 10 minutes. Add corn, milk and tuna. Add salt. Heat thoroughly. Add parsley and Tabasco. Yield: Six servings.

TUNA BISQUE

1 can (10 ounces) tomato soup
1 can (10 ounces) cream of mushroom soup
1 soup can milk
1 soup can water
½ teaspoon Tabasco
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna-in-vegetable oil
Finely chopped parsley

Combine undiluted soups in deep saucepan. Gradually stir in milk, water and Tabasco. Add tuna, heat slowly to serving temperature. To serve, spinkle with parsley. Yield: Six to 8 servings. (SH



BRING OUT THE DELICATE FLAVOR of tuna by preparing a chowder or bisque for luncheon or dinner. Two excellent recipes given here use popular canned soups and corn. (SH

A NEW SOUP COMBINATION blends canned tomato soup with fresh Florida orange juice. Garnished with orange slices, this savory entree is served with crab meat and grapefruit salad.

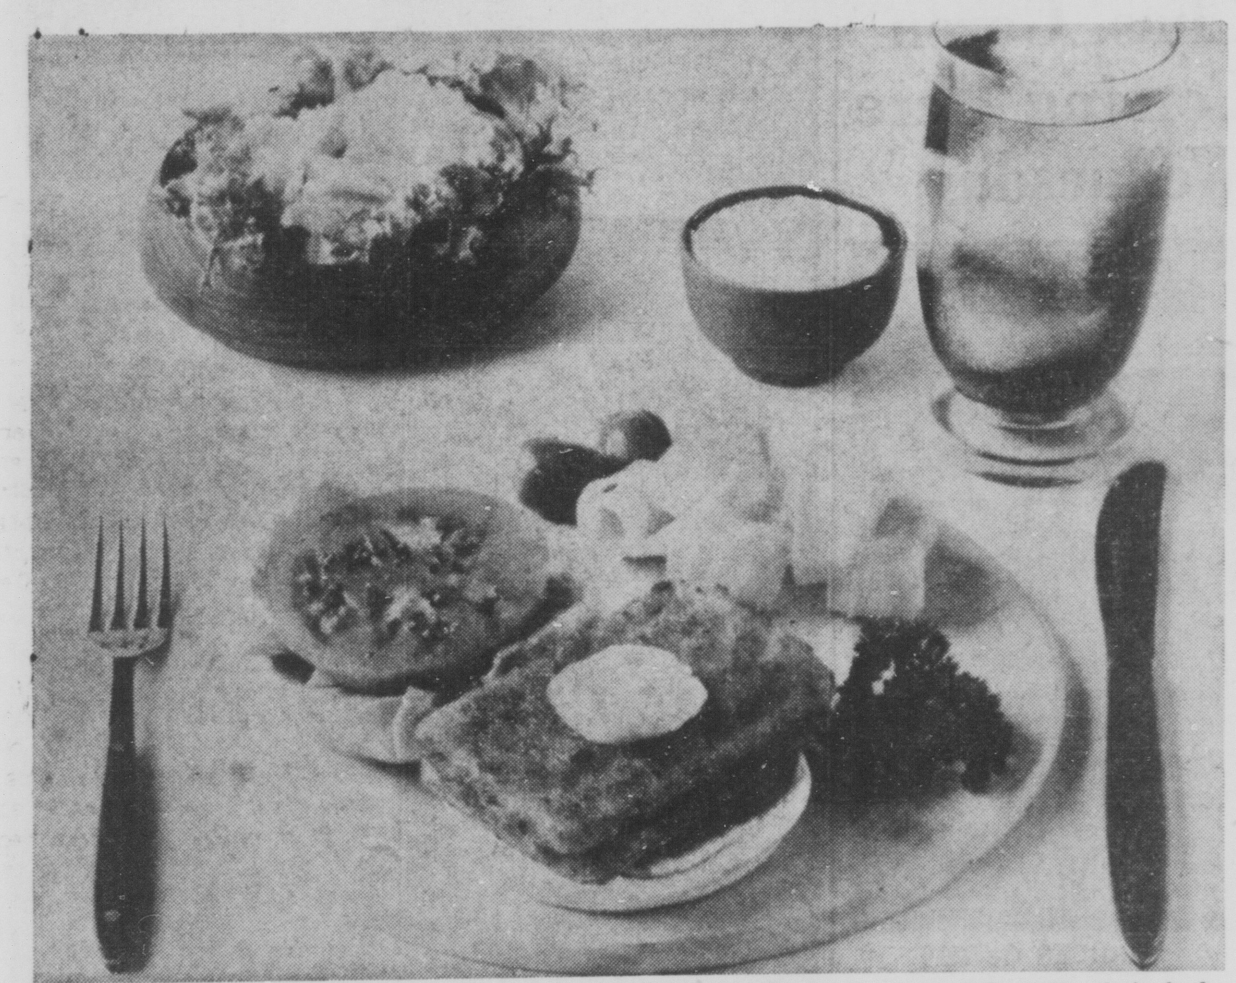
Breaded Fish Squares Boost Luncheon Ideas



HOT 'N HEARTY LUNCHES are the order of day for perking-up lagging appetites. Seafood sandwiches receive star billing for their body-building proteins, vitamins and minerals. (SH

The fishing industry's latest brain child—frozen breaded fish squares and rectangles—are among the easiest foods to prepare for quick hot lunches. By virtue of their shape, these frozen breaded portions of fish are uniquely suited to sandwiches.

They fit on a hamburger bun or onion roll and need only brief oven heating before serving. Look for frozen breaded fish squares and rectangles in the frozen food cabinet of your local supermarket labeled as "fillets," "cutlets," "burgers" or "steaks."

FISH SANDWICH PLATE

Prepare breaded fish squares or rectangles according to package directions. Use bottled tartar sauce or make Cucumber Sauce following directions below. Spread toasted bun halves with sauce before topping them with fried fish. Serve additional sauce on the side.

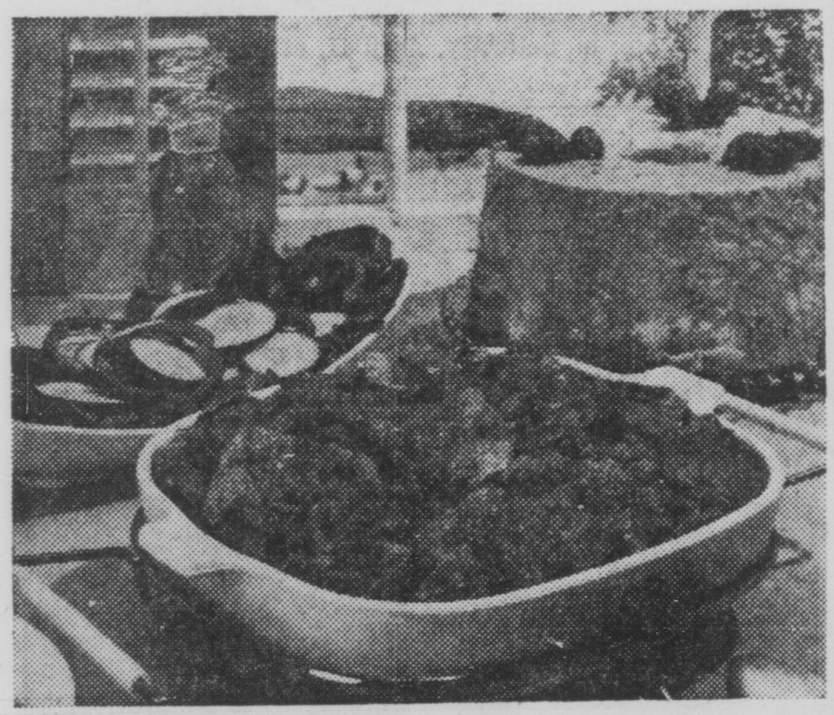
Arrange the fish on a sandwich plate with carrot curls or sticks, olives and a slice of tomato topped by a grind of peppercorns.

CUCUMBER SAUCE

1 cup sour cream
½ cucumber, chopped and very well drained
3 tablespoons finely chopped dill pickles
1 teaspoon chopped chives or minced onion
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine ingredients. Refrigerate sauce and let stand several hours or overnight before serving so that flavors will be well blended. Makes enough sauce for three or four servings.

Perk Spring Veal With Spicy Sauce



"Rain, rain, go away." When April showers begin to get you down, brighten the day with a dinner that's bursting with spring.

Have the neighbors over, arrange some spring flowers, and call on canned onion dry soup mix to help you plan dinner that will not only bring raves, but is so easy to do.

A GOOD CHOICE is tender veal cutlets which have simmered to delectable doneness in a spicy sauce made from the onion dry soup mix and tomato juice. It's so quick to prepare and practically seasons itself.

For even greater convenience, canned onion dry soup mix now comes with a new easy-open-pull-tab can. A marvelous creation—and each can may be used as a measure for the required liquid.

Now that your spring dinner is well on its way to success, marinate cucumber slices and green pepper rings in French dressing for a refreshing salad. Strawberry glazed angel food cake stars for dessert.

SPRING VEAL SAVORY

1½ pounds thinly sliced veal cutlet
2 tablespoons shortening
1 can (1-5/8 ounces) onion dry soup mix
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
¾ cup tomato juice
1 tablespoon Marsala wine
1 large clove garlic, minced
2 pounds fresh asparagus, cut in 2-inch pieces

Cut veal into serving-size pieces. Pound with meat hammer or edge of heavy saucer. In skillet, brown veal in shortening; pour off fat. Add soup mix and flour; gradually stir in water, tomato juice, and wine.

Add garlic and asparagus. Cover; cook over low heat 30 minutes or until tender, stirring now and then. Makes 6 servings. (SH

Modern Etiquette

Q. My friends tell me I am supposed to give my fiancee a cedar chest or "hope chest." Is this correct?

A. Although often done, it is not required. The cedar chest, as well as its contents of household and personal items, are properly the expense of the bride and her family.

Ticket proceeds will be used to purchase trees and shrubbery for the grounds around the Inverness Village Field House. "The Garden Club sponsors a continuing program of activities devoted to the beautification of the village," commented Mrs. Joseph Dodson, chairman of the Party Committee. (S

The early birds will have the best choice at the Wheeling - Buffalo Grove Nurses Club Patio Rummage Sale according to members who are sponsoring the sale from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, April 18 at the home of Mrs. Eugene Kuffel, 119 Glendale Road, Buffalo Grove.

Main purpose of the 3-year-old club is to stimulate and further the professional interests of area nurses and to help with community health problems. First community effort of the club was helping in the Sabin oral polio vaccine distribution. Its present community service is the lending closet, which hospital equipment for use at home is loaned to individuals without cost.

THE CLUB began its lending closet two years ago when Lillian Olson and Clara Sharp visited area hospitals and were given donations of equipment. Further donations were received from Buffalo Grove Woman's Club, patients and interested residents. Equipment in the lending closet now includes a modern collapsible wheel chair, a walk-o'matic walker, crutches, child's walker, commode, two hospital beds and smaller items.

Chairman of the lending closet is Mrs. Alison Clark, of Buffalo Grove, who may be contacted by anyone interested in obtaining supplies.

The club is now initiating a scholarship fund for a student nurse. Any high school girl with proper qualifications will be eligible to apply for the scholarship. Further investigation is in progress and data regarding the scholarship is being compiled by club members.

Anyone wishing to donate to the rummage sale may call Mrs. Kuffell at LE 7-1627. (S

SPRING WILL BE IN BLOOM Sunday afternoon as the Palatine Legion Auxiliary hosts a ham dinner and bazaar in the local post home, 122 W. Chicago Ave. Serving will be continuous from 1 to 5 p. m., while booths of fancy goods, baked goods and candy lure diners to look over their wares. Helping create the fancy goods are Mrs. Richard Sheer, Mrs. Walter Barrington and Mrs. Henry Miller, seated. One of the booths will feature crafts made by veterans, which provide the hospitalized men with spending money. A fish pond and sponge game will be attractions for the children.

NEW WHEEL CHAIR purchased by Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Nurses Club for their lending closet is tried out by Mrs. Frank Clark as Mrs. Eugene Kuffel, Mrs. Earl Schabel, Mrs. Richard Stanowski and Mrs. Harry Hengish look on. To swell the club treasury and add supplies to the lending closet, the group is holding a patio rummage sale Saturday, April 18.

Mrs. D. McCabe to Represent Northwest at Fashion Show

REVIEW OF GENE SMITH'S "When the Cheering Stopped," the last years of Woodrow Wilson, was enjoyed by Mrs. R. Lidge, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. D. C. Jensen, Mount Prospect when the Women's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital held its spring luncheon meeting in Old Orchard Country Club. Mrs. Lidge was luncheon chairman. (S

Mrs. Ralph Clabaugh, president of the Women's Auxiliary of Northwest Community Hospital announced at the luncheon meeting March 31 in Old Orchard Country Club that the representative model at the Grant Hospital annual fashion show to be held in May will be Mrs. Desmond McCabe of Arlington Heights. Mrs. McCabe is a former model, an auxiliary member and a volunteer at the Northwest Community Hospital.

Six members were nominated and elected to serve on the nominating committee: Mrs. Charles Swingley, Palatine; Mrs. E. F. Larson, Barrington; Mrs. Neil Rowe, Mount Prospect; Mrs. M. Edward Smith, Arlington Heights, Mrs. Thomas E. Lindsey, Arlington Heights, Mrs. David Kenyon, Arlington Heights.

AT A PREVIOUS board meeting the following three members were nominated and elected by the board: Mrs. Kenneth Retzke, Rolling Meadows; Mrs. Ralph Lidge, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Leslie Janett, Mount Prospect.

Mrs. Clabaugh asked that members and friends reserve Friday, May 1, for the antique auction sale, lunch from the Stable Kitchen and Bake Sale to be held at Arlington Park Race Track. Chairman is Mrs. C. S. Hanson of Arlington Heights, who will be assisted by Mrs. William Peterson of Palatine and Mrs. Paul Glick of Mount Prospect. (S

Piggy Bank Funds Buy Water Pumps

Foreign Relations Chairman Mrs. James Radlein of the Ninth District, American Legion Auxiliary, reports that piggy banks made of plastic bottles, brightly decorated, are gathering up a heavy load of pennies and other coins these days at meetings at the American Legion Auxiliary Units throughout the District. Contents of the banks are going into a national fund to buy pumps for waterless villages in the Republic of Ecuador, the country which the American Legion Auxiliary members are studying this year in their Foreign Relations program.

Purchase of the pumps and fittings, and their delivery to selected villages are being conducted through the CARE organization, while the Peace Corps is guiding installation.

STUDY OF Ecuador showed that there are many such villages where much of the energies of the women are consumed by carrying water from a distant source, or where available water is badly polluted. Auxiliary members also learned that pure water can be produced by wells sunk in the vilages at a cost of $125.

The first of the pumps have been ordered and the first of the wells were being dug at last report. Meanwhile, last year's auxiliary project of building rural schools in the Dominican Republic is also going forward. Members reported they collected enough pennies to build 13 schools for towns where there were no schools. With the cooperation of CARE and the Peace Corps, and free local labor they reported that only $1500 per school was required. (S

Q. If a dinner party is in progress and a guest arrives late, must all the men rise for introductions or in greeting?

A. No. In the case of a woman guest, she slips into the seat indicated by the hostess after a brief greeting, and the man to her right alone rises to seat her. The hostess does not rise, because then all the men would be compelled to rise with her.

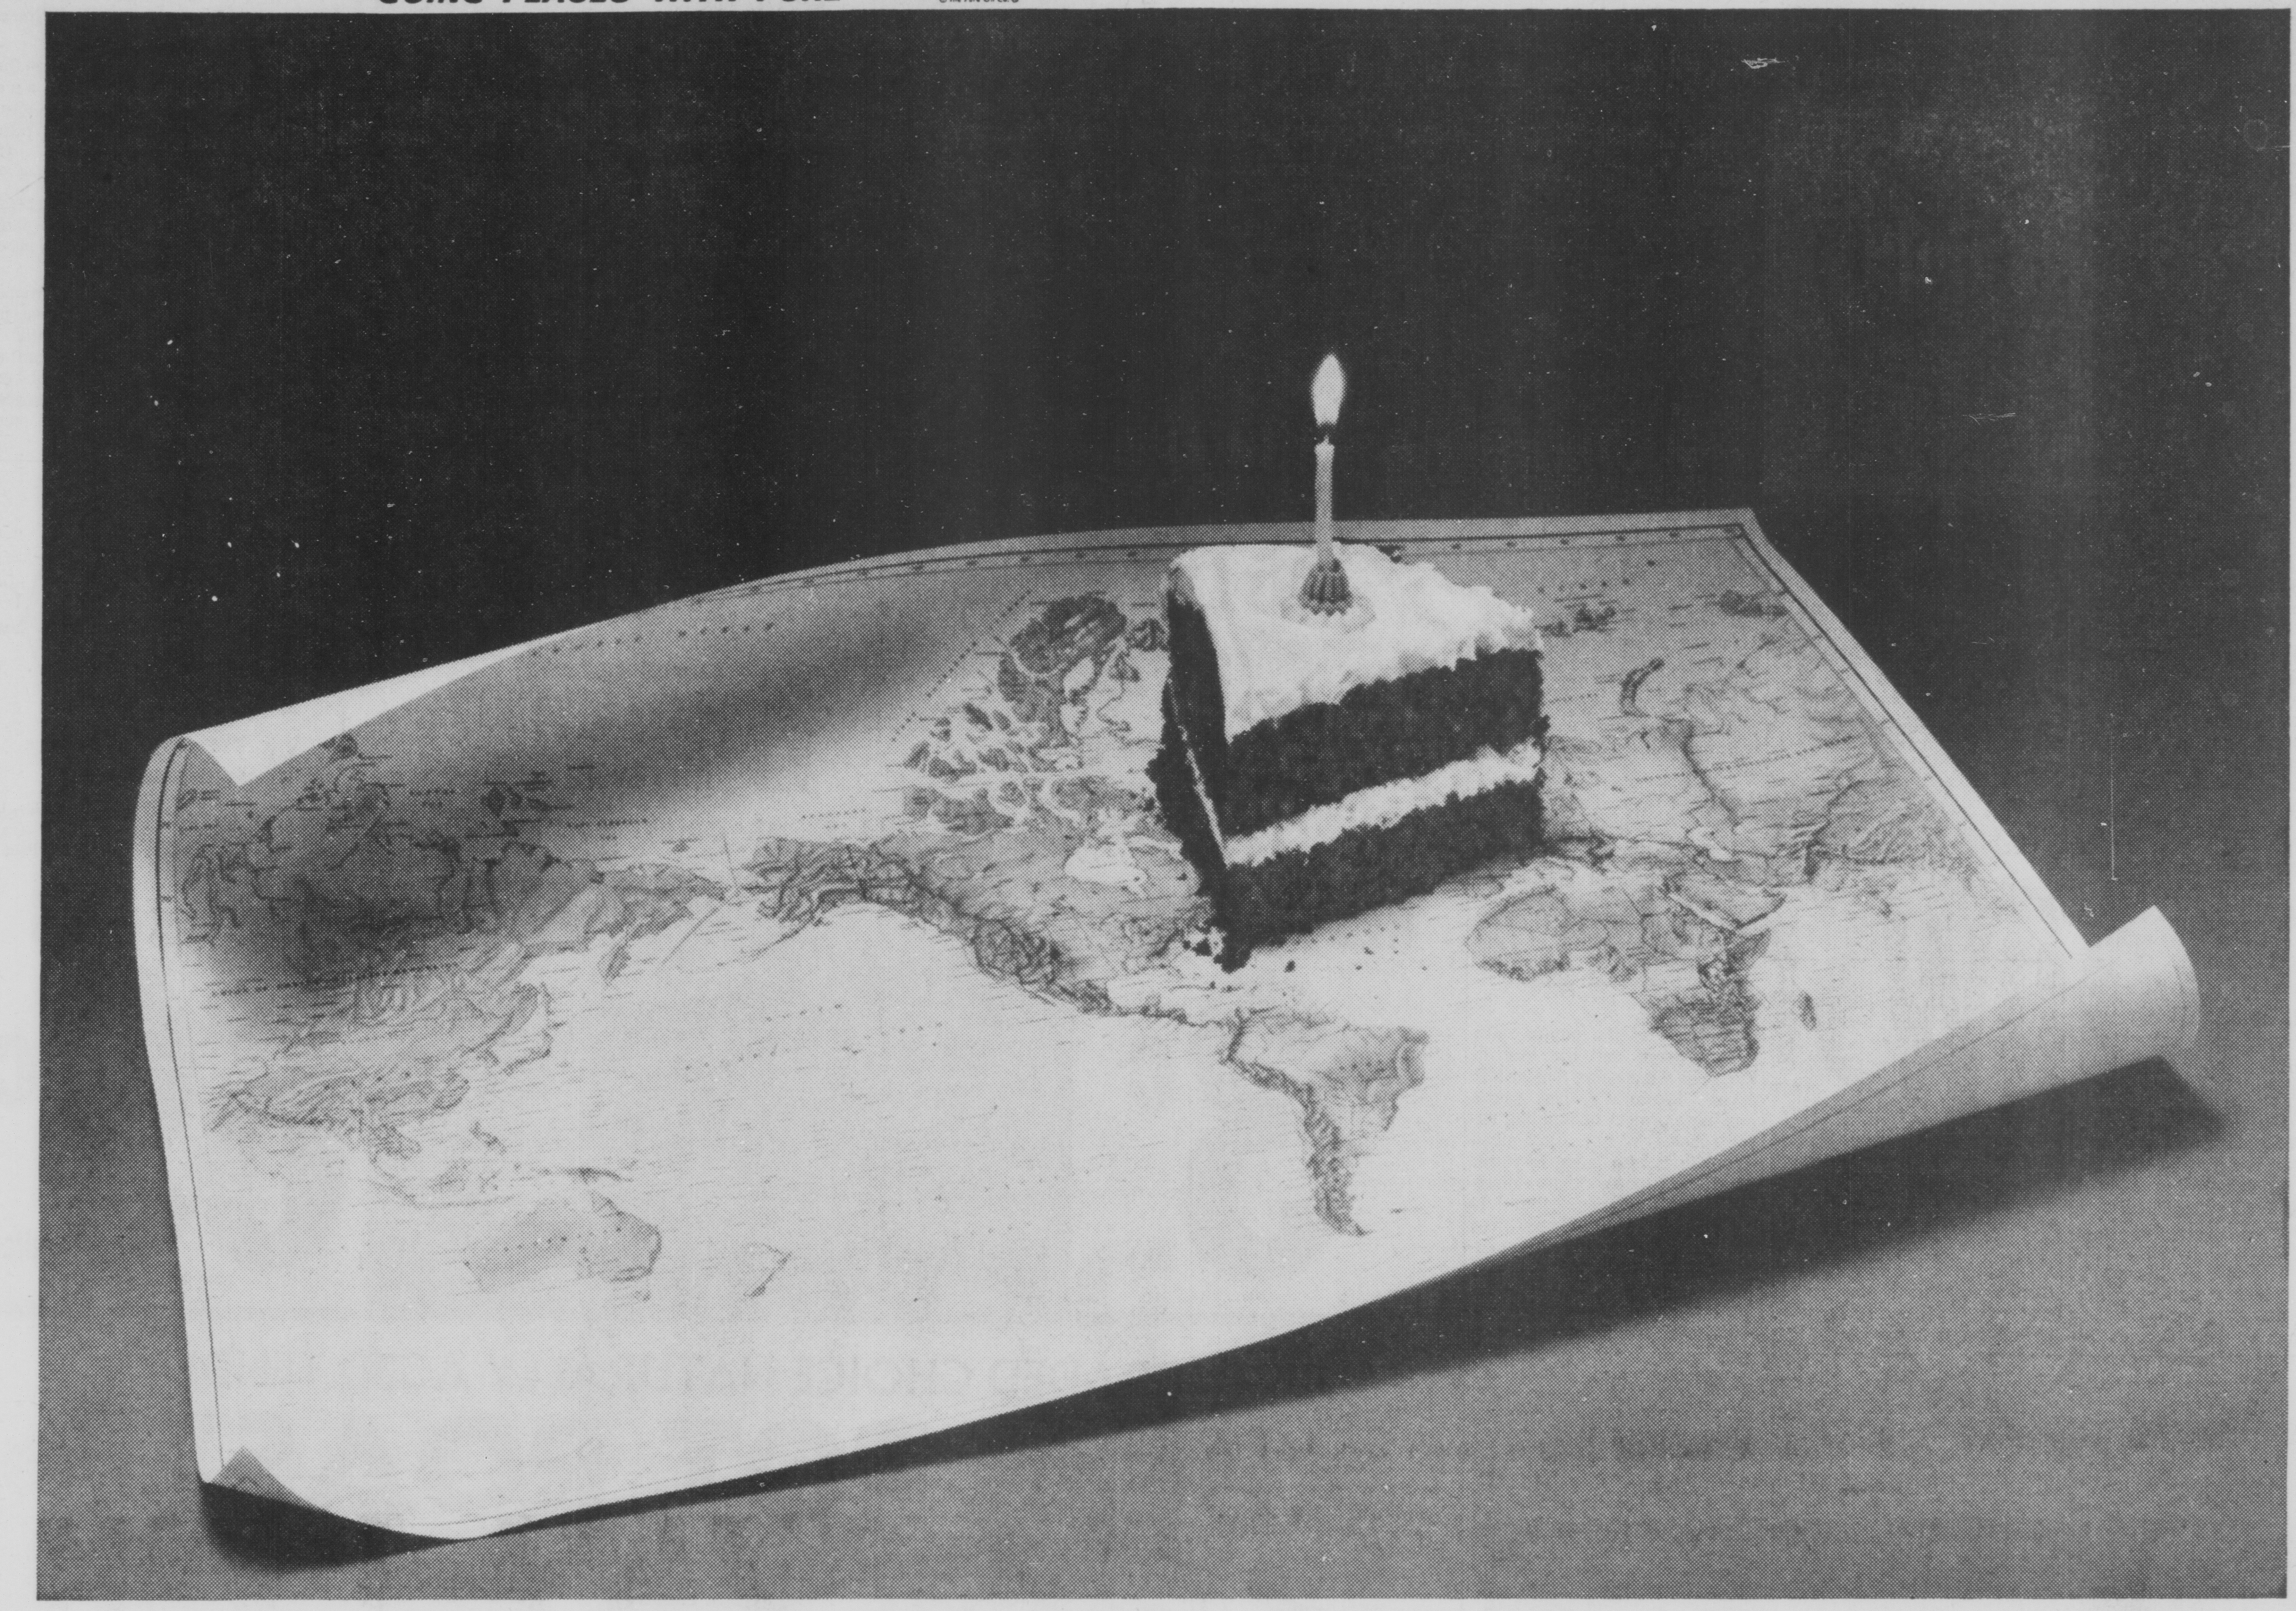
GOING PLACES WITH PURE

© The Pure Oil Co.



From Chicago to the Arabian Peninsula, we're celebrating our 50th birthday today

Where we're working, what we're doing—a short report to our neighbors about the people at Pure Oil

On this April 9, some 50,000 Pure Oil people—employees, dealers, jobbers, and distributors—are at work in 34 states and on 4 continents. Quite a change from the day in 1914 when we first found oil at Cabin Creek, West Virginia. Today, Pure Oil is among the top 100 U.S. industrial corporations. And our success is reflected here and in other communities where we live and work.

Chicago is our home town. Working in the area are over 2,300 employees—in our General Offices, in the Research Center at Crystal Lake, and at the refinery in Lemont. It is also the center of our Midwest Marketing Division, serving six states and more than 3,600 dealers and attendants who invite you to "fire up" with Firebird® Gasolines.

As we look into the next 50 years, we see the probability of great changes. Some are beginning to take shape already. But one thing will remain the same: people... accountants, scientists, roustabouts, refinery operators, pipeliners, craftsmen, stenographers, seamen, salesmen—the thousands of people who make The Pure Oil Company. Where we've been is their doing. Where we're going will be their doing, too.

We have never been more confident —or more grateful—as we say: "Be sure with PURE."

Jewelers Announce Expansion Program

Persin and Robbin Jewelers announces it is expanding its quarters at 24 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, to twice the present size.

"Our faith in the growth of the community has prompted us to expand," said Irving Robbin, who with Ben Persin has been in business in Arlington Heights since 1959.

"We also will have our shop where we design and create our own special order jewelry right on the premises where the public may see our work," he said.

THE PARTNERS plan all new fixtures and new lighting as well as complete remodeling for their store. While carrying the same lines of china, sterling silver, stemware, diamonds and watches, they will have a wider selection of these items than before, Robbin explained.

In chinaware, Persin and Robbin features Lennox, Oxford, Rosenthal, Royal Doulton and Haviland among others. The firm's line of sterling includes Towel, Gorham, Reed and Barton, International, Waliace, Stieff, Kirk, Heirloom, Lunt and Dansk. In stemware the firm carries Fostoria and Waterford.

Watches available include Omega, Movado, Rolex and Baume, Mercier.

Persin and Robbin is a member of the Arlington ,Heights Chamber of Commerce, and Robin just completed a term as its president.

The company extends an invitation to the public to come in and see the progression of the expansion.

At that time Dr. Knodt was professor of dairy husbandry and chairman of the nutrition section in the school's College of Agriculture.

Big Firms In Chicago, New York

Although 16 million Californians may disagree, statistics show that the young man looking for a job should not be too quick to take Horace Greeley's famed "go west" advice.

That's because most of the companies with a capitalization of a million dollars or more still are based closer to the nation's eastern shores.

New York is tops, being headquarters for more than 2,500 of the million-dollar companies, and second-place Chicago is home for more than 1,000. California's booming Los Angeles shares honors with Philadelphia and Dallas in rounding out the five most popular headquarters cities for the big concerns.

Business Bureau

Explains When Price Cut Is True Discount

To some people the term "discount" has a magic appeal, according to inquiries received by the Chicago Better Business Bureau.

There's no magic, but there may be some mystery in the word as used by some advertisers. Actually, it means a price cut, and bona fide price cuts are offered by retailers every day.

On the other hand, the term "discount" could be a gimmick, or a deception. The important point is—"a discount from what?"

A definition is in order. According to Webster's, discount means "to reckon off or deduct." So there must be a starting point from which to figure the so-called "discount price."

OBVIOUSLY, if the starting point is based on a false or exaggerated comparative price, the savings figure, that is the discount, can not be truthful.

Under our American competitive system a retailer may have as low prices as he wishes. He may make as little profit as he wants or as much as the traffic will bear. He may price himself out of business, or out of the market.

The seller is free to set the price and, the buyer is free to take it or leave it, and trade where he feels he gets the most value for his money.

So when is a discount a true discount? It is a discount if it represents bona fide savings from the prevailing price of an article in the seller's or competitor's store in his immediate trade area, in the recent, regular and normal course of business.

THE ADVERTISER has the burden of clearly and unambiguously stating just what he means in his copy. He should be able to prove his claim.

Another point to be considered, says the Better Business Bureau, is whether the merchandise is actually new and of good quality, or is it just stock of unknown age, purchased by the dealer through bankruptcies, close-outs or other distressed sources, but not disclosed as such in connection with advertising.

Is the seller cutting out some of the normal services and privileges you expect and want from business, such as delivery and hook-up services, warranties, return and exchange privileges, credit availability, etc?

Does the seller have a reasonable stock of sizes, models or styles in the name brands featured? Or, are the well known brand names used merely as "bait," with a minimum on hand and mixed with unknown brand items?

NO FIRM or organization has a monopoly on the know-how of merchandising to the extent that all its merchandise or services are always going to be sold at prices lower than those of all competitors.

Discounts in one form or another are a legitimate part of merchandising, but customers are entitled to know that the "discount" is from a normal selling price.

If you are in doubt—find out! Do your shopping and comparing before you buy—not after.

Year's Ford Sales Go Up 9 Per Cent

New car sales of Chicagoland Ford dealers during the 12-month period ended March 31 were nine per cent over the corresponding period a year earlier, it was announced today.

D. O. Wiggins, sales manager for the Chicago district of Ford division, Ford Motor Co., attributed the sales boost to "the noteworthy success of the Big Change advertising and sales promotion program which was begun April 1 of last year."

During the 12-month period, Ford division's Chicago district dealers sold a total of 63,436 new cars, compared with 58,227 in the preceding like period.

IN THE first three months of 1964, Chicagoland dealers accounted for 14,852 new car sales, up 17.2 per cent over the first quarter of 1963. March, 1964, sales totaled 5,545, an increase of 670 or 13.7 per cent over the corresponding month a year ago.

"The Big Change program, which originally had been planned for a five-month period, was so successful we decided to continue it," said Wiggins. "Our success for the 12-month period shows every indication that the program has been extremely beneficial. We plan to continue it."

The Ford division executive added, "The basic attempt was to have people test-drive our products—not just around the block for a five-minute ride, but overnight. This old-fashioned sales technique worked 60 years ago when the founder of our company successfully 'took the hands of the public off the reins and put them on the steering wheel'."

Another factor influencing the increase in sales, he said, is a series of speech presentations made before service and civic clubs throughout Chicagoland. Many of those attending were invited to test drive a Ford for a week. (14BB

Motorists Should Watch for Holes

The Chicago Motor Club cautions motorists that this is the season to be on the lookout for chuckholes.

Chuckholes in the pavement of streets and highways result when water, frozen in the road surface, thaws, causing the pavement to break up. The holes can be extremely dangerous and can cause extensive damage to a car.

A car's tires can receive damage from striking a chuckhole which, if undetected, could eventually cause a blowout. Hitting a chuckhole also could put wheels out of alignment, which in time would result in severe and uneven wear on the tire, motor club safety experts say.

IT IS possible that if a driver runs into a deep chuckhole at high speeds, he might even break an axle or overturn his car.

The motor club cautions that motorists should not be lulled into a false sense of security because roads and highways are free of ice and snow. Motorists should be alert for chuckholes so that they have time to avoid them. However, if a driver finds he is approaching a chuckhole rapidly, he should not stop or swerve suddenly. This could result in a collision with following or oncoming vehicles.

The motor club also urges drivers to be alert for road crews which at this time of the year are likely to be out repairing highway surfaces.

Business Building Improving

Franchiser Helps Make Economy Tick

One of the key forces that makes the American economy tick is the partnership between big business and small, local firms that sell the products or services of large, national companies under franchise agreements.

A familiar example of the franchisee is the man who owns the corner gas station.

Thousands of other small firms are set up the same way. They operate motels and restaurants, sell groceries, bottle soft drinks, rent and sell cars, tour your neighborhood with ice cream wagons, run your corner drugstore and sell almost every type of retail product.

ALTOGETHER, according to recent figures, these neighborhood partners of big business account for about one-fourth of all the retail trade in the United States, or about $60 billion a year.

Auto and truck dealers top the list, with about $35 billion in annual volume; gas stations come next with $14 billion. The largest other categories of franchisees are the grocery stores, accounting for $4.5 billion, and the soft drink bottlers whose sales add up to a respectable $2 billion.

As a segment of the economy, franchised local firms are becoming even more important. About 338,000 of these firms are already operating, and in 1964 another 30,000 are expected to open their doors, each providing jobs for at least five Americans. (14BB

In 1955 he was selected for a National Tea Co.-sponsored scholarship to Michigan State University where he specialized in the curriculum of food distribution for nine months.

JOHN H. KRAGIE, left, supervisor of police unit courses at Northwestern University's Traffic Institute, and Gordon Lindquist, right, director of safety and traffic engineering for the Chicago Motor Club, discuss the institute's traffic law enforcement course with Sgt. John Flood of the Milwaukee Avenue Station of Cook County Sheriff's Police. Flood, 306 Renee Terr., Wheeling, just completed the course on a Chicago Motor Club presidential grant. He served on the Wheeling police force before joining the sheriff's police. (9BB

Car owners in the Barrington area now have an added convenient auto wash and wax at their disposal.

A new Violet Spray Wash n' Wax is located at 330 W. Northwest Hwy., across from the Ten Pin Bowling Alley.

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by James Fizzell, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

If you have let your lawn go, chances are it's out of condition, just as you'd be if you lost the battle of the calories. Lawns, like people, need conditioning.

Proper springtime care can make your lawn the pride of the neighborhood. We suggest these seven steps for prize lawns:

1. Roll. Freezing and thawing during the winter causes the sod to heave, leaving lumpy, uneven areas in the lawn.

You'll probably need to roll your lawn in early spring. But don't do it when the soil is wet. Rolling wet soil or heavy clay soils causes compaction that hinders root development and moisture penetration. Use about 100 pounds of weight for each foot of roller width.

2. RAKE. About a week before the first mowing, rake up the dead grass, leaves, twigs and other debris that's been collecting since last fall. If grass is unusually high, you may have to rake up clippings after mowing. If so, let them dry for a day before raking.

3. Mow. Mow when the grass is about three inches high. Cut it to a height of about one and one-half inches, then cut it each time it gets over two and one-half inches tall.

4. Fertilize. Use a nitrogen-carrying fertilizer on lawns at least twice a year. Apply it in March or April and again in late August or early September.

Use 20 pounds of 10-8-6, or a similar analysis, per 1,000 square feet for Merion bluegrass. Kentucky bluegrass needs only 12 to 15 pounds. The vigor of the lawn indicates the amount of fertilizer you'll need to use; vigorous lawns may not need as much as is recommended here.

5. WATER. Lawns usually do not need extra water in the spring. But if they do, soak the soil to a depth of 6 inches. Then wait for about a week before watering again.

6. Control weeds. If correct management doesn't crowd out crabgrass, a host of pre-emergence chemicals are now available. Limit them to established lawns, and follow the label directions closely. A rule of thumb —apply them before the lilacs start to bloom.

Dacthal, Zytron, calcium arsenate and diphenatrile give good results on grassy weeds when used as pre-emergence sprays, that is, before the seeds germinate. For post-emergence control of crabgrass, use disodium methyl arsonate (DSMA) or amine methyl arsonate (AMA).

To control broadleaf weeds, 2, 4-D is still a good bet. But follow directions closely when applying. To reduce the danger of killing ornamentals, use the 2, 4-D amine form. It's less volatile.

7. CONTROL insects and diseases. Sod webworms and grubs are two of the biggest lawn problems from the insect world. DDT or chlordane will control webworms. Aldrin or chlordane will control grubs.

Apply DDT as a spray. Use either spray or granular form of aldrin or chlordane on established sods. In all cases follow label directions.

To help you with problems which arise in caring for your lawn, write us for the following publications: "How to Have an Attractive Lawn," "A Dozen Weeds Iin Your Lawn," and "Lawn Diseases in the Midwest." Cooperative Extension Service, 201 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights. (14BB

Tells What to Do In Case of Tornado

Though April showers may bring May flowers, changing spring weather seems to bring on more attacks by tornadoes.

Tornadoes have already hit in Illinois this year. They will cause more destruction and loss of life during April, May and June than during all the rest of the year.

Knowing what to do if you hear a tornado warning or see a tornado coming may save your life. O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois safety specialist, offers these tornado life-saving precautions:

1. TAKE shelter in the southwest corner of your basement, or go into a storm cellar or fallout shelter. If your home doesn't have a basement, take cover under heavy furniture against inside walls on the lowest floor, away from doors and windows.
2. If you have time, open windows on the north and east to reduce damage. This will help equalize the pressure inside the house with the atmospheric pressure outside. Shut off electricity and fuel lines coming into the house.
3. Stay away from windows.
4. If you are in open country when a tornado comes, travel at right angles away from the path of the storm. Since most tornadoes move from the southwest toward the northeast, you should travel toward the northwest or the southeast. If you don't have time to escape, lie flat in a depression in the ground or in a ditch or ravine. (14BB

Explains Special Home Finance Plan

First Federal Savings and Loan of Des Plaines, 749 Lee St., calls attention to its special interim financing plan for families living in their own home who want to purchase a new one.

Major feature of the plan, said J. A. Eagleson, firm president, is to provide necessary funds to buy a new home before selling the present home. The plan also provides a waiver of taxes and insurance on the present home for one year, he said.

It enables a home owner to sell his old home after moving into the new one.

"INTERIM financing is one of many home loan services we have tailored to the needs of Northwest suburban families," Eagleson said.

Since the plan was initiated in 1961, Eaglesor said, more than $7 million in interim loans have been given new home buyers. (9BB

Make Major Changes In University ROTC

Two major changes in Army ROTC program at the University of Illinois were announced last week by Col. Harold L. Dorsett, professor of military science.

A general military science curriculum will replace instruction in specific branches of the service next September for all except 1964-65 seniors who will complete work they started in branch instruction.

Military credit will be given for selected regular university academic courses. Many are courses which students take as part of their major field of study or as electives.

THEY INCLUDE anthropology, communications, economics, geography, history, modern foreign languages, political science and psychology.

Army cadets previously spent 480 class hours in military courses during four years. Under the new program they will attend 360 class hours of military subjects and receive military credit for 120 hours of related academic subjects.

All Army cadets will attend a leadership laboratory meeting one hour a week.

This will include instruction, planning, organization, and war games in classroom and in the field. Cadets in their senior year will attend a professional seminar at which outstanding professors from the university will discuss military relations and aspects of many areas.

Program changes follow university action making ROTC optional next fall after 96 years during which two years of training were required of male students at Urbana-Champaign.

Just look at Whitney Darrow's powerboat owner blissfully imagining he's riding the waves. Could Walter Mitty in his wildest dreams have had such a good time? But if our daydreamer is enjoying himself, Mom and the kids are not. They'd like a little more reality, like getting in out of the rain and back home for dinner.

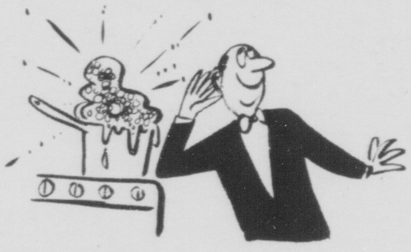
GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

OUR APOLOGIES to Mr. Robert A. Howcroft and his fellow workers at the General Motors Technical Center in Warren, Michigan. It seems that some time ago Mr. Howcroft taught his colleagues how to make a dish called "Bubble and Squeak" as his mother had made it for him when he was a boy in Coventry, England: "Any old bits of greens . . . sausages or bacon . . . eggs . . . sliced or mashed potatoes all fried together for a top-rate breakfast." Top rate, his friends agreed, and here for once, to their wives' great pleasure, was an approved way of using up leftovers.



But early this year SUBURBIA TODAY came along with Food Editor Melanie De Proft's de luxe version of B and S: corned beef simmered four hours, a variety of root-cellar vegetables prepared from scratch, and on the side an English mustard sauce (delicious)—and ever since, says Mr. Howcroft, he has been faced with doubting looks.

Well, Sir, we think you are right, too. Who can fight a long family history of a dish? But please accept our glamour version, too. After all, as you yourself have said, "If both are true, you can Bubble and Squeak from breakfast to dinner."

Getting a repairman on a Saturday afternoon is a major campaign, as most of us know from experience. But one reader in Scottsdale, Arizona, reports that he solved the problem recently. All of a sudden, one Saturday, the kitchen range began to shoot sparks. And since company was expected for dinner, his wife's circuit was about to blow at any minute, too. So, rushing to the phone, our smooth operator called the serviceman and said, "I know it's Saturday afternoon, but I have an hysterical wife. Can you help me?" "Sure," replied the electrician, "I'll be right there." And he never did ask what the electrical problem was.

For two weeks in June, 30 high-school students from Wayland, Massachusetts, will learn their Latin language and Roman history right where it all began—in Pompeii, Herculaneum, Ostia Antica, and above all, in Rome itself.

Their Latin instructor, Francis Smith, who had the idea for the trip, was a student himself at the University of Rome last year, and under his guidance these students will see a Rome that tourists rarely do.

"We plan to give lectures in the morning and then go right to the places we've discussed," said Mr. Smith. "I want them to see Rome as it grew from the beginning to the present day." And believing in the old "when in Rome—" he is beginning after-school Italian lessons for his students this month.

The total cost for 30 students and four chaperons will be $15,000. Each student will pay half his fare and the remaining amount is being earned through student projects.

A brisk money-making activity at this point is the student-run gift department which a sympathetic supermarket has allowed them to install in the store. They've named it, of all things, "Caveat Emptor" ("Let the Buyer Beware," in case your Latin is rusty), and they feature quite a line of homemade goods. Car washes and a hootenanny have also helped to fill the till. Caveat Roma!

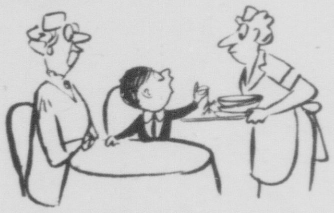
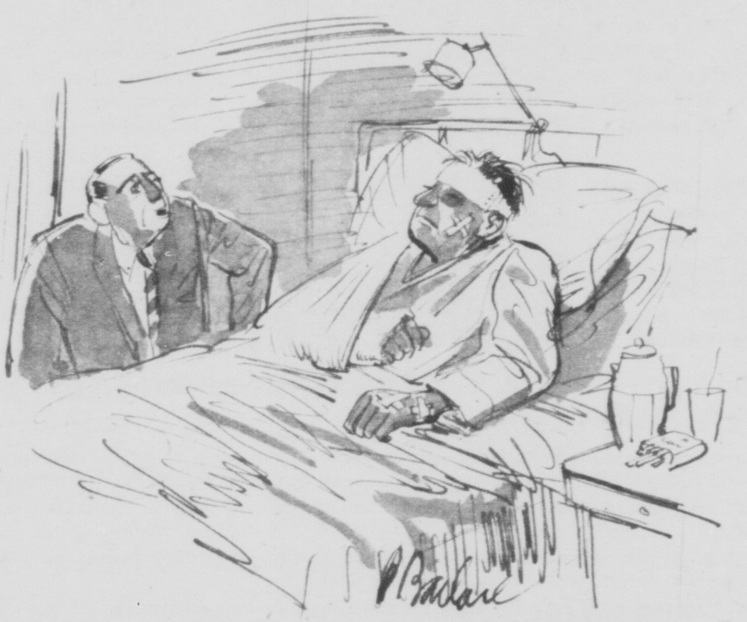
Mrs. Mildred Geer of Peabody, Massachusetts, has a four-year-old grandson, Bobby, who takes a man's view of parsley. At a local restaurant where he was treated to lunch, his order arrived with the usual garnish of parsley, which he quickly tucked under the plate. When the waitress came to clear the table there was Bobby's parsley on the cloth. Scrambling up to his knees on the chair, he held it out to the girl. "Here's your weed," he told her.





"Well, how about it? Do you still prefer the town meeting form of government with its free give and take?"

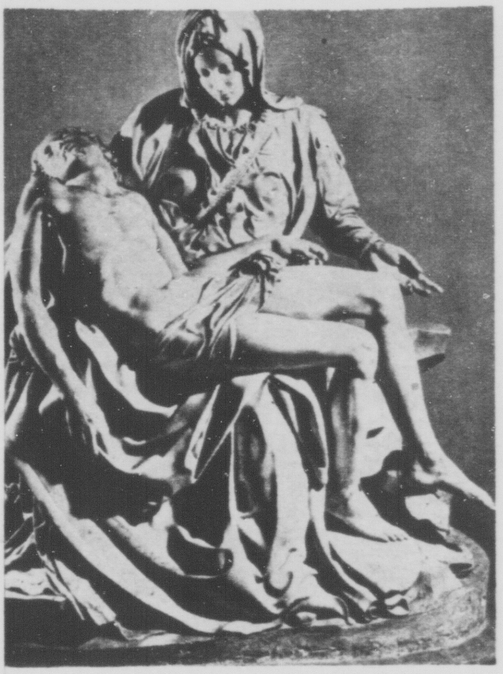
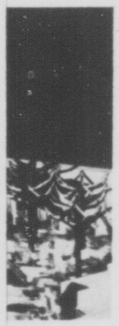
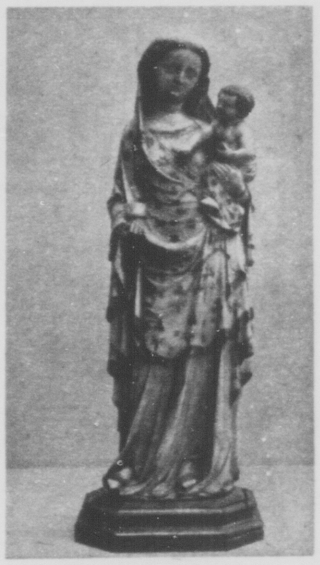
Michelangelo's biographer previews the magnificent offering —"a leaping-off place into new visions"



Michelangelo, Pieta





Virgin and Child, French, 14th Century, Metropolitan Museum of Art

There will be other magnificent displays of world art. One collection comes from the Imperial Treasure, Peking, and will be shown by the Republic of China. Here the visitor will see bronzes of 4000 B.C., reputed to be the oldest artifacts extant, as well as rare jade carvings, paintings, tapestries, ivory, cloissonné and ceramics going back hundreds of years, bringing to life for us an old and legendary civilization.

The fact that there can be no such thing as a static culture is demonstrated by the impressive Spanish Pavilion. Here one will encounter great Goyas, not only the Portrait of Charles III, but the even more famous Majas, nude as well as clothed. Spain's other great masters, El Greco, Velásquez, Zurbarán, will be represented, frequently by their best canvases. And at the same time many of her most daring modern experimenters will be shown: Picasso, Miro, Dali. There will be a giant abstract sculpture by Chellida and works by the younger painters and sculptors. The visitor will be able to see how each nation's genius changes with the passing of the centuries and with the birth of new ideas.

America is not neglecting the artist or skilled artisan. The New York City Pavilion will be an inexhaustible mine, with exhibitions by the Metropolitan, the Museum of Modern Art, the Museum of Primitive Art, the Guggenheim, the Pierpont Morgan Museum, the Jewish Museum, the Asia and Hispanic Societies, the Brooklyn Museum.

The New York State Pavilion will have a show of the Hudson River painters, and there will also be Pollack and Calder as well as spectacular examples of avant-garde art, abstract and expressionist.

JUST WHAT will be the reaction to the "pop art" remains an explosive mystery. Will the viewers be outraged? That would be good. One of the purposes of art is to inspire; another is to shock. From strong emotion in the cultural world comes strong argument. Along with heat, these discussions also shed light. People grow on art.

Nor is that all. The Federal Pavilion will show, out of doors, some of the finest sculptures from private collections in the 50 states. Within the Pavilion there will be painting and sculpture, American in origin, from all over the country.

A visit to this Pavilion will demonstrate something we are inclined to forget. Americans have always painted, and for the most part, painted well. Along with strained arches, a lot of our people are going to take home a new vision and respect for American culture.

What of the other arts? Music, Drama, the Dance? The Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts is opening its World's Fair Festival on April 23 with the New York City Ballet, which was such a magnificent success in the U.S.S.R. in 1962. This will be followed by the Chilean Ballet. Enthusiasts of folk dancing will enjoy the Fiesta Mexicana and the Bayenihan Philippine dance company. Music lovers will hear the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Orchestra featuring such solists as Serkin and Van Cliburn. Japan is sending its Toho String Orchestra.

The Spanish Pavilion will seat 850 people for concerts by Segovia and Victoria de LosAngeles. Classic drama will be represented by the Royal Shakespeare Company of Stratford-on-Avon, doing King Lear and The Comedy of Errors.

Andrés Segovia, classical guitarist

If you consider eating a fine art (I do, between books, which is the only time I can handle more than the simplest of foods), here you become participant, rather than spectator. Many of the 50 nations exhibiting at the Fair are bringing their best chefs to prepare their most popular native dishes. Food is not only energy, it, too, is a way of life, a way to display the character, temperament, and culture of a people. See for yourself what each country does with rice, for example, and you will perceive how resourceful is the mind of man in relation to food. The Fair will offer an opportunity to be a gourmet for a few days.

WHAT IS CULTURE? It is man's attempt to express himself, to create worlds beyond the creature comforts. Culture is the sum total of our wisdom, of our penetration into the eternal truths of the universe. It is the pushing back of limited horizons, the deepening of sensitivity to life and the human condition.

I dedicated my little book, "The Story of Michelangelo's Pietà," to:

"All creative artists who, stretching hand-in-hand in a continuous line across the ages, form one of our indissoluble chains of brotherhood."

This is true. See all the art you can possibly absorb at the Fair, and you will emerge with a greater warmth and understanding of all peoples everywhere. If this happens, the World's Fair, 1964-65, will have been a fabulous success.

A WORLD'S FAIR should be germinal, a leaping off place into new visions for mankind.

The New York World's Fair, which opens on April 22 and runs until October 18, with a rerun scheduled for 1965, will do a tremendous amount to spread our knowledge about science and industry. But its profoundest effect may be the impact of its arts on the culture of our age, as I can testify from my own experience all the way from the Panama Pacific International Exposition in 1915 to the Brussels Fair in 1958.

The Queen of this World's Fair will certainly be Michelangelo's Pietà. The most intensely spiritual carving created by Michelangelo in his 75 years of work, it transcends all religions to become the universal figure of mother love. But more of this story later.

First we must speak of another, more functional art because its impact will be the one first to be felt by the visitor to the Fair. If the past history of World's Fairs continues, it will change not only the sky line of our great cities, but of our home towns as well.

I am referring, of course, to architecture, to the design, structure, beauty, new use of line, color, curve, mass, of the hundreds of daring buildings among which we will walk, revolutionary forms that will open our minds to new concepts of a way of life.

The exciting part of the architecture of the New York World's Fair is that it is international as well as experimental. The finest architects have designed for their countries—the solid, rising levels of the Spanish; the open-air pagoda of Korea; the advanced geometric forms of Sweden; the domes, cones, rotundas, spires, mosaic, and glass of Malaya, the Caribbean, India, Ireland, and the Philippines.

Our giant American industries are spending multimillions; witness Welton Becket's General Electric prismatic power and Buckminster Fuller's geodesic dome which will serve as a sky roof for the Assembly Hall. Steel and concrete are being shaped into a variety of free forms, such as the "space frames" for I.B.M. by the late Eero Saarinen, and Eastman Kodak's "moon landscape," designed by Kahn and Jacobs. Ford will feature pylons, Johnson's Wax arches will light the night.

A walk among the avenues, gardens, fountains, pools, 4,000 major trees and 65,000 shrubs of the Fair will be a journey around the world. It would be a surprise if, when you are designing a new home, redecorating your living room or relandscaping your garden, the New York World's Fair does not turn up in very palpable form.

My own home in Beverly Hills, a wood, glass, and steel structure overlooking Southern California, is a direct result of the week Mrs. Stone and I spent studying the architectural ideas of the Brussels Fair, just two years before we built.

Back to the Pietà, to be housed in an exquisite chapel in the Vatican Pavilion: my friend, Frederick Voss, with his firm Kiff, Colean, Voss, and Souder, designed the Pavilion, and another friend, the talented set designer Jo Mielziner, conceived the staging and lighting for the sculpture. It was my good fortune to watch this beautiful building and superb setting evolve from the minds of these creative people.

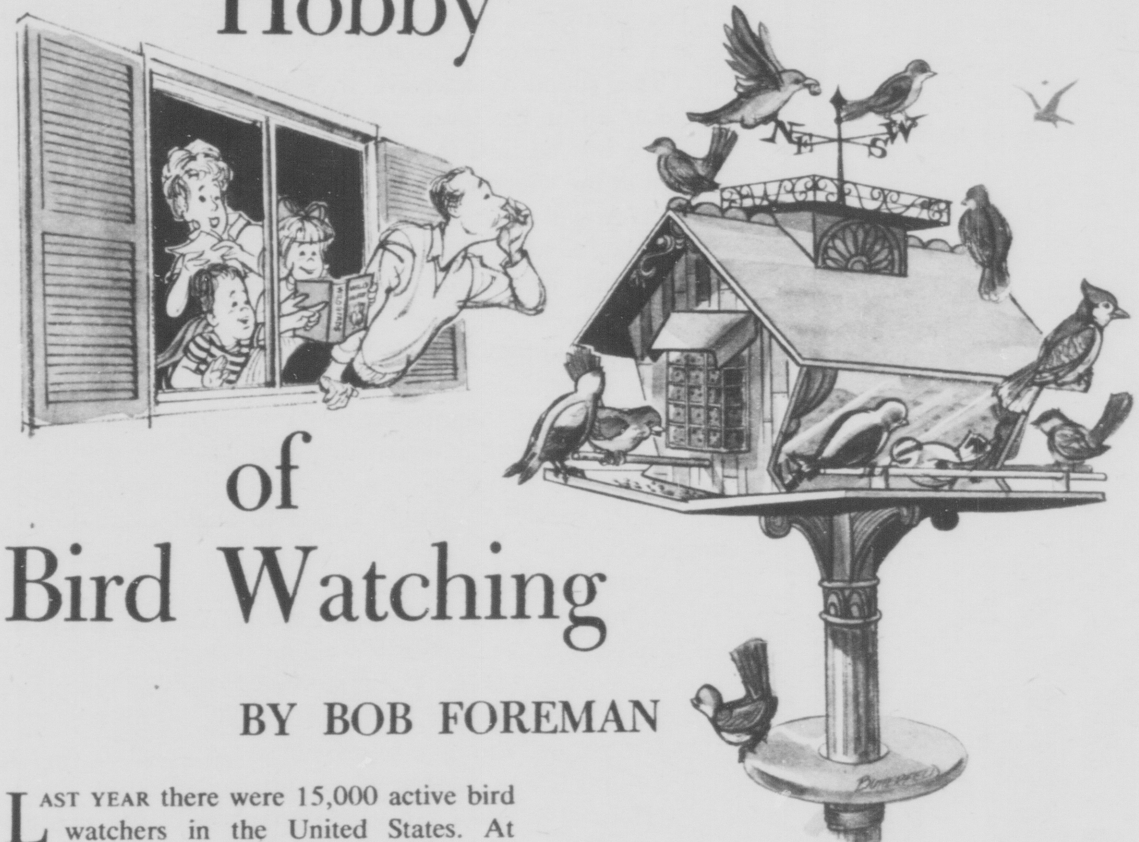
The Pietà has never been out of St. Peter's since Michelangelo placed it there himself in 1500, when he was 25 years old. It is particularly interesting that it comes to America for its first journey because in the very year Michelangelo began his design, 1497, one of his future neighbors in Florence, Amerigo Vespucci, claimed to have set foot on the North American continent, not too many miles from where the Pietà lands in its journey to Flushing Meadow aboard the Cristoforo Columbo.

The Pietà was created because the French Cardinal Groslaye secured permission from the Pope to leave behind him something of beauty in Rome. But the aged Benedictine died before Michelangelo could complete his carving of the pure white Carrara block. Michelangelo literally had to smuggle the Pietà into the old basilica of St. Peter's, begun by Constantine in 324, for he and his friends in Rome were afraid the Pope might not approve. Abandoning all tradition, he had carved a life-sized Christ, lying across the lap of his young mother.

WE IN AMERICA will have a chance to see the Pietà because Cardinal Spellman secured permission from the late Pope John XXIII to have the precious marble brought here. Its showing may help create a renaissance of religious art and a rebirth of the now almost vanished craft of the marble carver.

It takes effort and brains and 50 pounds of sunflower seeds to get results in

The Hectic Hobby of Bird Watching



BY BOB FOREMAN

LAST YEAR there were 15,000 active bird watchers in the United States. At least eight more joined the ranks this year: the four members of our family plus a family of four which lives next door to us.

It all began innocently enough one evening when my wife said to me, "Guess what Marge Jones and I decided?"

I couldn't, and I said so.

"We're going to study birds," she replied.

"That's nice," I said and went back to the sports page.

"By 'we' I mean the whole family," she went on, "including you."

"Wowie!" said the kids.

"If it takes effort, money, or brains, include me out," I said.

"It takes all three," she continued, "and you're definitely in. Ralph's helping Marge, and it'll be simply wonderful for the children."

Could I refuse to go along with a next-door neighbor? Could I deny my children something wonderful? Of course not.

I folded my paper and said, "What do I do? Learn to whistle?"

"The first thing you do," she said, "is to come home tomorrow with the best bird feeder you can find."

"I have a terribly busy day tomorrow," I said.

"You'll find time."

"How does one determine the quality of a bird feeder? Should I try eating out of it?"

Her look signified this was not the way.

"Just don't get the cheapest," she said.

"What did Ralph spend?" I asked. I wanted to keep up with the Joneses.

"Eighteen-fifty, and it's a beauty."

"It must be. Does it have push-button transmission?" I said.

Next day I did what I was told. I took an hour off after lunch and went out to purchase a bird feeder. In order to show Ralph Jones up, I bought the super-de luxe model. It was the Giant Size! It was Rust-proofed by a Secret Process! And it had a Patented Squirrel Guard!

"I don't think our squirrels need guarding," I said to the salesman.

"THE GUARD is mounted on a spring," he explained. "That prevents squirrels from climbing up into the feeder. Do you need sunflower seeds?"

"I haven't up till now," I said. I bought a 10-pound sack.

That night I struggled home with the feeder and the seed.

"Marge and I have made it even more interesting!" said my wife as I unwrapped everything.

"How's that possible?" I said.

"We decided to have a contest between our families."

"I already won it. I outspent Ralph," I said.

She ignored the remark. "We're going

Handsome as a car

Useful as a truck

The broad appeal of Chevrolet El Camino

Not many automotive products these days are in a class by themselves.

This Chevrolet El Camino is one of the rare exceptions.

The good idea was that a lot of people must need a vehicle as good looking as a car and as useful as a pickup truck.

El Camino, as you can see, is not almost as handsome as a car; it's so handsome you can drive it any place at all without an ounce of misgiving. It's not quite as tough as a regular Chevrolet pickup, but it's tough enough to handle up to 1,200 lbs. of payload.

This is its broad appeal. Not everybody will buy it, but almost everybody can imagine a legitimate place for it in their scheme of things.

What about you? Can you see an El Camino serving your business, or family, or both—in the city, country, any place? If you'd like to look one over and drive it, call your Chevrolet dealer and he will be glad to arrange it.

You can order an El Camino as plain or as fancy as you wish. Bucket seats, air conditioning, 4-speed transmission, power windows, transistorized radio and a snappy 250-hp V8 engine are among its extra-cost options. . . . Chevrolet Division of General Motors, Detroit, Michigan.

down. Off the grosbeak flew. I'd have written him down anyway, but as luck would have it, my wife was watching.

A pair of phoebes (sayornis) built their house under the eave of our garage. Since they feed on insects rather than seeds, I tried to entice them over to the feeder with a few dead flies and mosquitoes and some homemade phoebe chirping. These phoebes, however, wouldn't budge from the garage except when I drove in, which scared the mother to death. At least my wife said it did.

"She'll desert her eggs if you continue to drive in," she said in front of the children one evening.

The children sniffled and looked at me as if I were a potential murderer. So I left my car out of the garage for the next two weeks, rain or shine.

Well, 30 days to the minute our families tallied up the results. I'm proud to say we ended the month with seven more birds than the Joneses had. As a result, we're going to the bird sanctuary next week, all expenses paid. And, by the way, when I'm up there, I intend to eat like a vulture (coragyps atratus).

"And what's more, the new diet works! I've gained only five pounds this week."

to see which family can identify the most birds in a month. The family that loses will treat the winners to a weekend at a bird sanctuary upstate."

This sounded expensive so I rushed out and set the feeder up on the lawn and filled it with sunflower seeds. There was no time to waste. Then the family took up its vigil at the window where a dire thought occurred to me.

"How will we know the Joneses aren't cheating?" I said.

"They're honorable people," said my wife in a tone of voice that meant don't say such things in front of the c-h-i-l-d-r-e-n.

"How will they know we aren't?" I said.

No answer.

"Look, here comes something," shouted our youngest.

Sure enough a feathered item was hovering above the feeder.

"Shhh," said my wife. "It has to alight or it doesn't count."

"Who said so?" I asked.

"Those are the rules Marge and I agreed on," she said. "Quick. Open the book. It's eating now."

I opened the book. The first thing I saw was the price. $12.75. "This book must be first quality," I said.

We rushed through pages of hawks, eagles, egrets, geese and finally came to some little biddy birds.

"Here it is," said my wife triumphantly. She pointed to a black-capped bird. "It's a chickadee! Mark it down!"

"If it was yellow it would be a goldfinch," said the second child.

"Stop arguing," I said to her.

"Is it saying chick-a-dee-dee-dee?" my wife asked.

"I can't hear anything from in here," I said.

"The chickadee is found from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico," the older child said.

"Isn't this exciting?" said my wife.

"I think so," I said.

"That reminds me," she continued, "I ordered a 50-pound sack of sunflower seeds."

EVERY EVENING we took up our position at the window, my wife, the kids, and I. Time flew by in a whir of wings and sunflower seed.

After the first week we checked our list against that of the Joneses and found they were six ahead!

Two weeks later we were running neck and neck. By now both families had listed most of the ordinary birds, and it was obvious that the rarer species would make the difference. Competition was at a fever pitch.

Some birds like the mourning dove (zenaidura macroura carolinensis) waddled on the ground beneath the feeder, picking up what the jays and chickadees spilled. But they couldn't be enticed to set foot on the feeder. Same thing held for the towhees.

Other frustrating things happened, too. For example, one night I was at my post watching when a very rare item hovered over the feeder, about to come in. It was a rose breasted grosbeak (pheuticus ludovicianus)! You can bet a 50-pound sack of sunflower seed the Joneses didn't have one of them!

Unfortunately, just as the grosbeak was about to alight, an old blue jay (cyanocitta cristata) came screeching

VACATION DOWN ON THE FARM

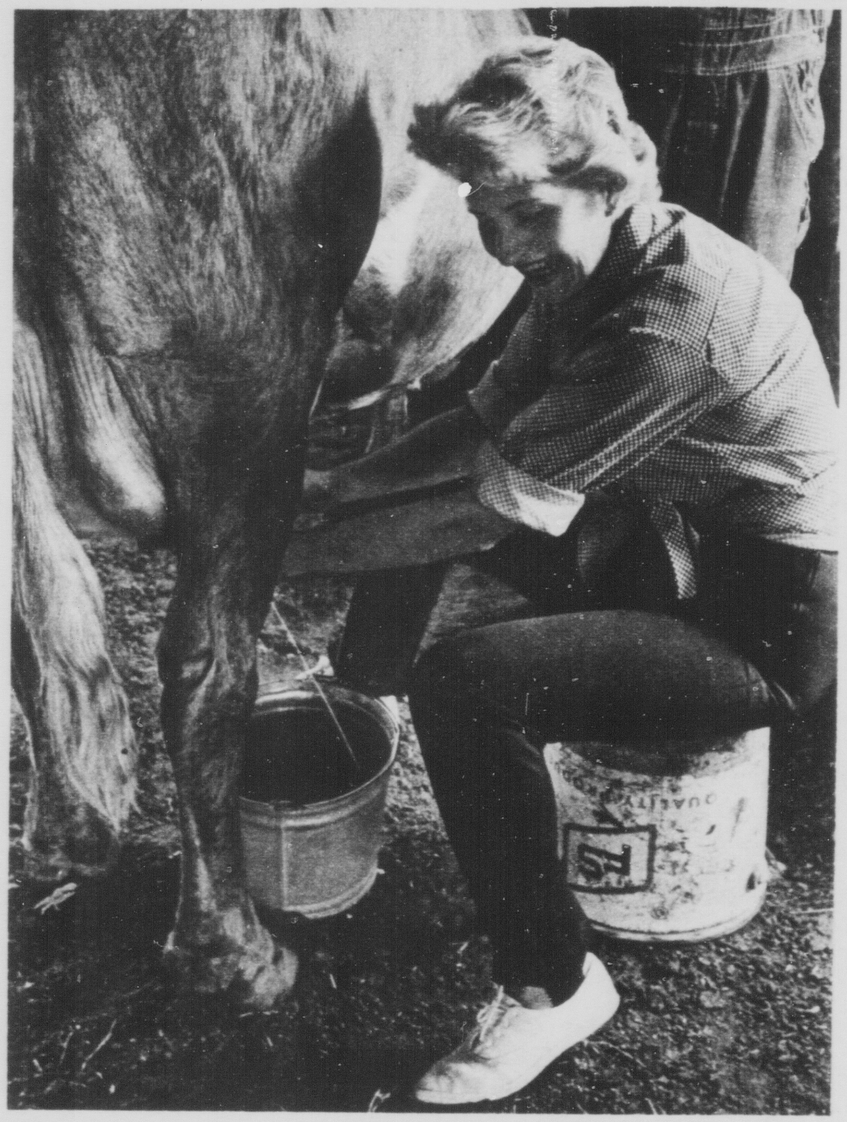
■ "DAD, WHEN can we come back?"

Eleven-year-old Tim Graff popped the question the same moment he reluctantly climbed into the car as his family started the drive home from their vacation. The query wasn't too unusual, coming from a boy who had just had the time of his life, but the vacation was, at least for Tim, his nine-year-old sister Laurie, and their parents, Herbert and Marge Graff of Webster Groves, Missouri, a suburb of St. Louis.

It was the Graffs' first trip to a working farm. And from start to finish, it was a time of delight—driving a tractor, feeding livestock, cuddling kittens, eating tremendous home-cooked meals, fishing in a pond, and exploring Indian burial mounds.

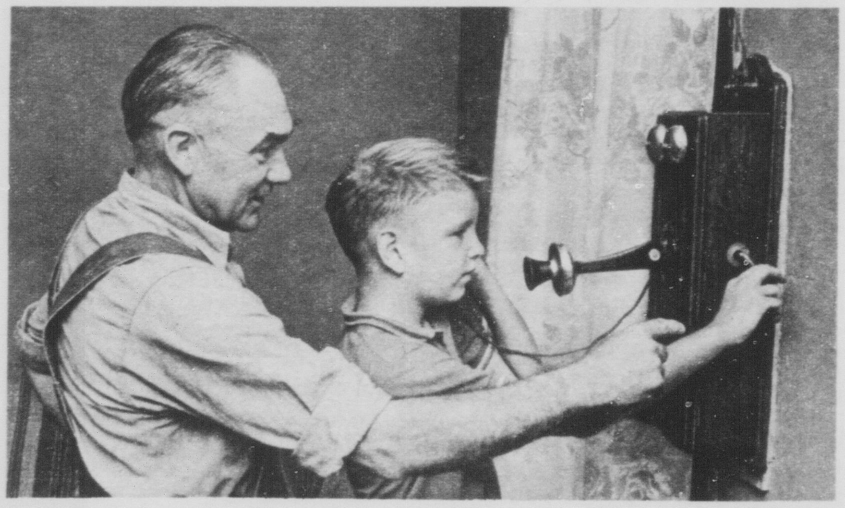
Herb Graff was born on a farm and lived there until he was five, but his wife and children had never been to an actual working farm. They found their hosts—Fern and Chester Thacker of Sumner, Illinois—in a national directory of farms taking paying guests.* They paid $50 each a week for the adults, and $25 for children. The experience, they agreed, was priceless.—SHIRLEY ALTHOFF AND DICK WEDDLE

*"Farm Vacations and Holidays," 36 East 57 St., New York 22, N.Y., which lists some 300 farms in 50 states. $1.



"I'm afraid I'll hurt her," Marge Graff says in trying to milk a cow for the first time, as her family vacations on an 830-acre farm.

Above: Tim Graff, 11, gets a chance to drive a tractor in an open pasture—and learns a little about tilling the land. Below: Chester Thacker explains to him the mysteries of an old-fashioned telephone that you crank by hand to hear the voice of a real, live operator.



Tim loves to feed the sheep at seven o'clock in the morning—while his parents are still asleep.

¾ cup warm water (110°F to 115°F)
3 cups biscuit mix
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons butter, softened
4 oz. (about ½ cup) almond paste

1. Dissolve yeast in warm water in a large bowl. Add biscuit mix, sugar, and egg; beat vigorously until well mixed. Turn onto a lightly floured surface. Knead dough until smooth, about 20 times.

2. Roll dough into a 10-in. square and spread softened butter over one-half of dough. Fold unbuttered half over buttered portion; press edges to seal. Roll dough into a 12-in. circle and crumble almond paste evenly over surface. Cut dough into 16 wedge-shaped pieces. Roll up each wedge beginning at wide end.

PANCAKES A LA BAHAMAS

Orange Butter
3 egg yolks
1 cup milk
Few grains salt
7 tablespoons flour
3 egg whites
Butter

1. Prepare Orange Butter (see recipe) and chill thoroughly.

2. Beat egg yolks. Add milk and salt; beat until blended. Mix in flour until well blended.

3. Using a clean beater, beat egg whites until rounded peaks are formed. Fold egg whites into egg yolk mixture.

4. Heat butter (allowing about 2 tablespoons of butter for preparing each pancake) in an 8-in. skillet over low heat. When butter begins to foam, pour it into a small cup.

5. Stir batter (stirring each time before pouring into skillet); using about ½ cup for each pancake, pour batter into heated skillet; tilt to evenly coat bottom of skillet. Cook until the batter is set.

6. Spoon a portion of the melted butter around the edges of the pancake and underneath until it seems to "float." Allow the pancake to cook slowly in the butter until the underside is golden, about 4 min. Turn and cook until the other side is golden. Add more butter, if necessary, to keep the pancake free from the skillet at all times.

7. Transfer pancake to a hot platter and top with a spoonful of the Orange Butter; roll. Set platter in warm oven while preparing remaining pancakes. Top with any remaining Orange Butter and pour Cointreau over the warm pancakes. Serve immediately.

Can you name the 6 reasons Martini devotees prefer the glorious Gordon's Martini?

1 To this day, the ancient pot still method is used in distilling Gordon's Gin. 2 Only gin from the heart of the run is bottled for Gordon's. 3 Gordon's uses only juniper berries and other choice botanicals aged to the peak of maturity. 4 Gordon's is extraordinarily dry. 5 Gordon's has a distinctively delicate flavour. 6 Gordon's maintains its exceptional quality because it still harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula created in England in 1769. Reasons enough for enjoying a Glorious Gordon's Martini soon, wouldn't you say?

Cut Your Roses Back—Now

BY JOHN BRIMER, Garden Editor

A PLAIN-SPOKEN gardener was once asked how she produced such magnificent roses.

"Feed 'em like hogs and water 'em like elephants," she said, and that, along with a place in the sun, about tells the story. But early in the year, she also got out her shears and pruned, to channel her roses' energies into building strong young canes for the magnificent flowers to grow on.

In most of the country, right now in April is the time to prune. (In warm regions, pruning is best done in winter, but considerable benefits can be gained from now on, too. Cutting flowers for the house is, in a sense, pruning.) The sketches below will guide you to the proper pruning of various types of roses, except for the climbers, which vary so in their needs it is best to consult a nursery on your particular varieties. Don't be afraid of cutting back too much—roses will produce more from the new wood that develops. Feed well after pruning, again in June and lightly in midsummer.

Make Your Cuts Correctly: Use only clean, sharp tools. Select an outward-facing bud; cut about ½-inch above it. Treat large cuts with tree-wound paint or dressing. CUTS: 1. Too far above bud; will cause die-back. 2. Too close to bud. 3. Wrong angle, too horizontal. 4. Wrong angle, too slanting. 5. The Proper slant, ½-inch above bud.

Spring Pruning: Cut off all dead or diseased canes to healthy, live wood. Remove any canes that rub others, also twiggy branchlets, weak canes. Three to five or six good strong canes are sufficient, and these must be shortened according to your climate. Your rose may look stubby and skinny now, but it won't for very long. For best results, cut boldly!

Summer Pruning: Cutting roses for the house helps to produce more bloom. Cut with a short stem at (A) to force new growth, at (B) and (C) for later bloom. If the bush was not pruned in spring, cut your rose near the base of its shoot (D) about ½-inch above a leaf. This will force new flower growth with long stems and fewer but larger flowers, helping to shape the bush. If you want really big flowers, cut off the little side buds (E), (F), leaving the main one to develop into a superb specimen.

Keep 'em Coming: As blossoms begin to fade, remove them. On hybrid tea roses, cut ½-inch above the top 5-leaved leaf. Floribundas, having multiple blossoms, fade intermittently; individual blossoms may be removed or wait till cluster fades, cutting it off ½-inch above top 5-leaved leaf. With grandifloras, bearing both individual and cluster blossoms, follow both procedures. If you have no blossoms, force bloom by cutting just above a strong 5-leaved leaf.

What Do Teen-agers Get Out of Volunteer Jobs?

BY STANLEY SCHULER

NEXT TIME the conversation turns to the sorry state of American teen-agers, take a good look at what they are really doing in your community. You'll find that the delinquents are far outnumbered by youngsters who have quietly volunteered for projects which directly or indirectly benefit us all.

In contrast to the run-of-the-mill paid jobs—so much desired, so hard to get—volunteer work offers a ready market for teen-age enterprise and energy and plenty of the experience that comes with doing.

To hear the volunteers tell it: "I've learned to get along with people in all walks of life," said a California girl who helped in her town's Easter Seal rehabilitation center.

"Almost all the girls in the upper school belong to the Social Service Club," a young New Englander reported. "Friday afternoons we work at volunteer jobs wherever we're needed. Some of us run errands and wait on tables in the hospital, and other girls put on games at the Day Nursery or do filing at the Red Cross or secretarial chores at the Tuberculosis Center.

"It's so much better than kidding around town all the time because we know we're needed, and the work makes us feel as if we were doing something really worthwhile."

In Lyndhurst, Ohio, top students from the comfortably endowed Hawken School have taken on a civic chore with an unusual and exciting potential: twice a week in the

Perhaps you feel you've heard or read everything Tampax has to say. But girls just like you have this to add:

"(Tampax) has given me more freedom in the past two years because it is comfortable, easy to dispose of, and has solved the odor problem of the century."

"Today I became a 'modern woman.' Now that I've discovered how absolutely easy (Tampax) is, I will never use anything else."

"I can't express the feeling of relief (Tampax) afforded me. I no longer dread those certain days of the month. (Other girls) don't know what enjoyment they're missing being completely guarded against irritation."

"To a female who is as active as I, it's a blessing. I'm only fifteen, a sophomore in high school, but I've found there's nothing that will beat it. I just had to tell you that your selling records will shoot up, as I'm having a few little 'Girl-Talk' sessions with my friends, even my mother."

Obviously, your pool sanitizer should protect the kids against bacteria and algae. But that's not all it should do.

It should also leave an effective chlorine residual you can measure quickly with a simple test kit.

And, it should be cheap and simple to handle.

And, if the pH level is O.K., it should let you jump in a few minutes after you chlorinate, without irritating your eyes, your nose or your skin.

But, it shouldn't add any unpleasant taste, color or odor of its own. Or change the effect of other chemicals in the water. Or eat away at the pool finish, equipment or accessories.

There are pool sanitizers that come up to some of these standards.

But HTH,® Olin's sanitizer, makes the grade on all counts.

HTH is chlorine in dry form. It's delivered to your door in a 100-lb. steel drum.

(It can't break, spill, leak or stain.)

evening they bus into Cleveland, to the Karamu Settlement House, to tutor certain of their contemporaries in the "frayed neighborhoods" who need help with school work.

From 7:30 to 10 on these evenings the Hawken boys help the city pupils with discouraging mathematics or make suggestions for English themes or offer strategy for the study of the Civil War or discuss chemistry experiments. Toward the end of the evening the talk gets general—on cars, for instance, and the Cleveland Browns and close harmony and other subjects of peculiar interest to tutors and pupils alike.

"Our courses at Hawken are entirely academic," one of the volunteers remarked, "and some of the Cleveland students are taking vocational subjects, but when we shoot the breeze, we find we're all pretty much alike."

COMMUNITY Service Societies, the Scouts, Y's Boys' Clubs, Red Cross, and other national organizations have all sorts of jobs to offer volunteers. Much that they do is commonplace (and the same can be said of young workers in paid jobs, too). They work on clothing drives and city clean-up campaigns; entertain shut-ins at Christmas; raise money for charitable projects. But there are also many unusual programs.

Since 1959, for example, almost 100 senior Girl Scouts in DuPage County, Illinois, have worked as therapy home assistants for the disabled. After intensive training in the skills needed to care for crippled children, they baby-sit without fee for at least an hour a week for the families concerned. "This is like a big breath of fresh air," sighed one grateful mother who, after five years, was finally free to leave her handicapped child.

At Washington, D.C.'s, International Center, Girl Scouts from Arlington, Virginia, are hostesses to foreigners who come to learn more about the United States.

"THEY'RE wonderful," says Mrs. Margaret O'Donoghue, the Center's coordinator of volunteer services. "The foreigners who meet these girls are delighted and impressed, after arriving with a very distorted image of American youth."

If the only thing teenagers got out of volunteer service was the feeling of being useful, their work would be worthwhile. But they gain much more. They develop a sense of responsibility, become more dependable, punctual, self-confident, poised, patient, and neat—qualities that will help in getting a paid job later.

Volunteer work often leads to a career, too. Many discover that what they are doing for free they would like ultimately to do for pay. And on the other hand, some who think they know where they are headed find out as result of volunteer experience that they have been on the wrong track.

A good record in volunteering can also help in getting into college because it carries weight with admissions officers. And well it might — the teenager who has done a good volunteer job has already begun to take his place in the world.

SEA CHANGES

Pants and tops . . . and a dress . . . to swab a deck in . . . heave an anchor . . . fry a bass . . . and look sensational while you're doing it!

BY DONNA LAWSON

■ WHEN THE MAN of the house falls for his boat, as is often the case (see cover), take heart. This spring, sportswear designers have gone all out to equip you with the most practical, chic, and feminine boating gear that ever competed with a 90-horsepower engine. There's the dainty pink dotted-swiss parka with pants and peaked scarf to match (right), the "I'll show you, rain," foul-weather gear of duckbill yellow (left), or the sea shift (big news) in fearless stripes. These, along with the tomato-red knit, the trusty blue denim, and lighthearted "whites" and parkas will fill any foot locker with the best-looking clothes afloat.

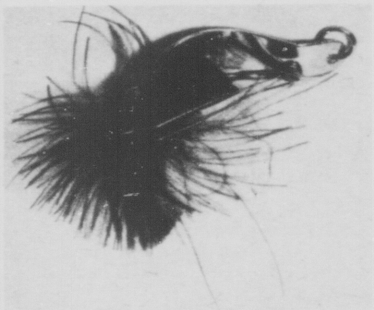
STAINLESS STEEL

"SPOON BUG"



No more long, disappointing waits for big fish to get hungry. The unique design of the SPOON-BUG gives it a lively, life-like "panic" action that makes fish fighting, biting mad. Even lunker fish eat very little; it's amazing how many smaller fish (like the SPOON-BUG!) they attack in anger. That's why the SPOON-BUG is 100% guaranteed . . . not just that it is expertly made of finest Stainless Steel, with easily replaceable hook and expensive Marabou feathers; not just that it's an outstanding comparative value; BUT THAT IT WILL CATCH FISH wherever there are fish swimming. Step up the enticing action of the SPOON-BUG by hooking on a wiggling strip of pork rind, with or without leaving the Marabou feathers. Because it is so perfectly weedless, you can troll or cast your SPOON-BUG into the heaviest under-growth, even fish the man-made lakes where the trees were left standing. It casts like a bullet, has the weight and streamlined shape to give extra distance, extra accuracy. 18SB—1/8 oz., 75¢ each. 16SB—1/6 oz., 85¢. WHICH FENCE?

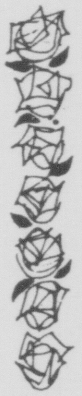
The most beautiful fence now costs the least!



Some fences enhance the beauty, value and privacy of your home more than others. Most beautiful of all is a "living fence" of roses. The only rose created especially for fence use, "Red Glory," quickly forms an impenetrable wall of beauty. Strong, tightly-knit bushes weave into one another from the ground up, grow compactly upright without sprawling. Keep your children and pets in, those of others out. Gives you, month after month, a bonus of radiant red roses to enjoy seeing and picking. And should any bush fail to grow, it will be replaced free. Yet this fence costs under 25¢ per foot, less than any other kind of fence. 90% less than brick, 80% less than board, 85% less than wire. Before ordering fencing, get the story of Red Glory.
